TAKE THEM OFF THE ROAD

Mentally Ill Auto Drivers a Menace to All

By JAMES McCAULEY

A wave of traffic accidents involving mentally and physically ill persons spurred safety officials here Saturday to call for new laws to take unfit drivers off the road.

Commenting on a recent example in which a psychiatric patient attempted suicide by triggering a four-car accident on California Avenue, managing director Leonard W. Herrington of Long Beach Chapter, National Safety Council said:

"We've got some emotionally disturbed persons with valid licenses."

Herrington said he favors some legislation to force psychiatrists and doctors to submit information to Department of Motor Vehicles when a patient might be a dangerous driver.

Noting that the medical profession is reluctant to give confidential information, Herrington said: "With so many traffic accidents, a dangerous driver falls in the same category as a man with a gunshot wound."

Herrington said the California Federation of Safety Councils long has advocated stricter licensing laws.

Suicide on the road isn't new, Herrington said—there were two tries in Southern California in one recent week.

A hint of how the problem of traffic suicide is universal: a San Francisco newspaper last autumn speculated on why the Golden Gate Bridge, site of numerous suicide leaps, was being snubbed by persons who were killing themselves elsewhere on California highways.

The newspaper editorialized: "What Is Happening to the Golden Gate Bridge?"

Accidents linked to sick persons aren't confined to mental problems.

Herrington said Safety Council records here show that four pedestrians on Pine Avenue sidewalks have been clobbered by electric vehicles since the first of the year.

Under state law, an electric vehicle operator pays no license or registration fee if a physician signs a letter stating he is unable to get about. And in Long Beach, the electric vehicles—driven by persons in poor health—are permitted to drive on congested sidewalks.

One traffic official, who declined to let his name be used, proposed the laws for all autoists could be patterned after the tight legislation on school bus drivers.

School bus drivers must submit to a physical exam-

JFK Path Perilous, K Thunders

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev charged Saturday night that President Kennedy has embarked on a dangerous road, that could lead to nuclear suicide and told cheering Bulgarians "We must keep our powder dry and be in a state of constant combat readiness."

The Soviet premier said at an outdoor rally winding up a one-week visit here that the Soviet Union was at first greatly satisfied with what he called an appraisal by President Kennedy that the Western and socialist forces were now equal.

"Unfortunately, President Kennedy could not later avoid the temptation and embarked on the dangerous road of his predecessors, resorting to threats against the Soviet Union," Khrushchev said.

Red China warns that it "cannot tolerate" any new U.S. bridgeheads in Asia. Story, Page A-6.

* * * *

"HE DID not even stop at declaring that in certain conditions the United States might take the initiative in a nuclear conflict with the Soviet Union."

This was a reference to a White House statement on March 27 in which Kennedy made it clear the United States would strike first with nuclear weapons if they were needed to prevent a massive, conventional Soviet attack from overrunning Europe.

"We cannot but take into account the statement made by Mr. Kennedy," Khrushchev said, "because it introduces a new element into relations between our countries.

* * * *

"DOES THIS statement mean that the President of the United States wants to prompt me, as the head of the Soviet government, to compete with him in who will be the first to press the button?" he asked.

"We are against such competitions. It must be clear to every sensible person how dangerous this would be, how inhuman and unreasonable. Knowing the aggressive nature of imperialism we must keep our powder dry and be in a state of constant combat readiness."

Nowhere in his speech did Khrushchev mention the dispatch of U.S. Marines to Thailand in Southeast Asia resulting from Communist advances in neighboring Laos. He termed the move an unwise decision in a speech Friday and later told newsmen it could lead to another Korea.

* * * *

KHRUSHCHEV said starting a war with the Soviet Union would be like committing suicide.

"He who would dare unleash such a militray conflict would receive a devastating retaliatory blow with the use of all modern means of warfare," Khrushchev said. "The socialist camp and the Soviet Union are in possession of these means and in sufficient quantity at that."

President's Fete Raises $1 Million

Kennedy Urges Drive for More Congress Seats

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy packed Madison Square Garden Saturday night to knock $1 million off the Democrats' national debt and urge strong campaigning for more seats for the party in Congress this year.

The Garden was a sellout for the huge "birthday salute" to Kennedy, and a great array of theatrical talent provided a two-and-a-half-hour show for the celebration.

It came on the hottest May day in New York City history, when the temperature had risen to 99. Heat waves still rose in the Garden when, after a sultry rendition of "Happy Birthday" by Marilyn Monroe, the President remarked:

"I can now retire from politics."

* * * *

DISCARDING most of his prepared speech on his program of "action" and Republican opposition, the President joined in the birthday-party spirit.

Thanking the entertainers whose presence helped sell more than $1 million worth of seats at from $10 to $1,000, Kennedy referred to his father's onetime acid comment on some businessmen.

He added: "When my father was giving his views on business, he always exempted show business."

Kennedy told the crowd that he and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who also was present, had run up a $4-million debt in the 1960 campaign.

"That is now gone forever," he said. "Now, all that's left is the national debt."

* * * *

KENNEDY SAID some of his legislation had been defeated in the House or Senate by one or two votes, and urged a big push this year to gain additional Democratic seats in Congress.

JFK ASSAILS 'SWEATSHOP'

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday had a complaint when he spoke to the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union on a paved parking lot of a housing project in blazing 95-degree heat.

He began his address: "I want to register an official protest with the ILGWU about the sweatshop conditions under which you're working."

College Courtin' Rooms

GUESS WHO OPPOSES THIS IDEA

Should college dormitories feature semi-private "courting rooms", which would permit an occasional kiss?

This query was greeted with mixed emotions by occupants of Long Beach State College's two dorms, with the girls generally in favor and the men generally opposed.

The question was raised earlier in the week when the Oberlin College (Ohio) Student - Faculty Board created a nationwide furor by recommending the installation of such facilities.

At Long Beach State, the suggestion was greeted as a serious problem requiring thoughtful answers.

Thenell Mann, a blonde junior from Hermosa Beach, was flatly in favor: "Boys and girls are going to find a place to get together and it would be better than out in the tules somewhere."

Thenell was echoed by freshman Lorrie Hallenbeck of Torrance. "Persons who live on campus need companionship."

Helen Sieber, Manhattan Beach junior, and Marge Finnelly, freshman from Trona, Calif., pointed out that Oberlin College permits no cars.

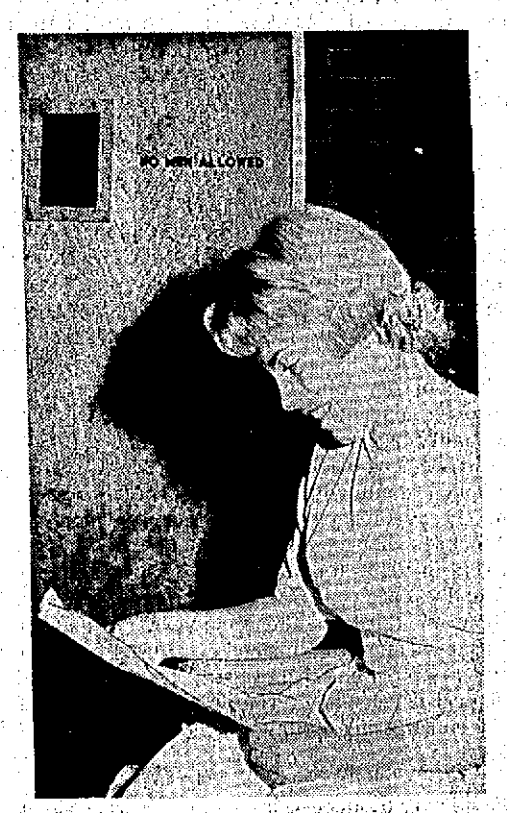

"We don't have that problem here," said Helen. "But I like to study with my boy friend, and there's no place here that's private."

Marge has the same woe: "The only place we can really study together is in the library."

A vigorously dissenting view came from Cami Rigsbee, Inglewood freshman. "I think it would be definitely inviting trouble, giving more room for opportunity. I also think that it would be too much of an open deal, like 'All you kiddies go in there.' What we really need is a student union."

Mrs. Clara Smith, head resident or "house mother," who was not asked to take a stand, said the

Coalition Rips JFK Tax Bill

By WILLIAM BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Opposition from liberal and conservative members of the Senate Finance Committee Saturday left the future uncertain for the administration's tax bill.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., often identified with the committee's liberal side, said he's opposed to the controversial request for dividend and interest withholding taxes. He also expressed doubts about investment tax credit.

Committee Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., a leader of the senate's conservative coalition, announced he will oppose both withholding and tax credits. Byrd assailed withholding as "impracticable and unworkable" and said it would produce "hardship and confusion." Tax credit, he said, "is discriminatory, wrong in principle and would do great harm to our tax structure."

* * * *

"OUR VIEWS are not far apart on the major provisions of this bill," said Sen. McCarthy.

In view of the opposition by the two leading spokesmen of differing points of view, the outlook for withholding in the Senate appeared exceedingly dim. Major modifications appeared in

Red Art Denied by Actor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Actor Tab Hunter Saturday sharply denied he had imported illegal Red Chinese art objects into this country.

He expressed strong desires to talk with E. E. Minskoff, a federal official who said in Los Angeles that Hunter could "be in very serious trouble" if he imported some $25,000 worth of rare and costly art objects seized by treasury agents there Friday.

"If it isn't one thing, it's another. I've been in for so many charges lately, everything including having my dog push someone into a swimming pool," the actor said.

* * * *

HUNTER, in Sacramento to enter his horses in competition at the California Spring Fair, declared that he would be "more than happy" to have Minskoff go over all invoices and "anything else he would like to see."

He said the only Chinese articles he knew about had been given to him on consignment by local parties. "Every antique shop has something Chinese," he added.

The actor said he planned to return Monday to Los Angeles as originally scheduled.

Auto of Bishop Hits 20 Persons

NEW YORK (AP)—A bishop's car went out of control during a children's religious parade in Queens Saturday and plowed into a crowd, injuring some 20 persons, mostly children.

At least two of the children were reported in critical condition at one of two Queens hospitals where the injured were taken by ambulance.

Police said Auxiliary Bishop Joseph P. Denning of the Brooklyn Diocese, who was to perform the Sacrament of Confirmation to which the children were marching, was the driver of the car.

* * * *

BISHOP Denning had just alighted from his car, police said, when it started to drift. He jumped back inside and put his foot on what he thought was the brake. Instead his foot struck the accelerator.

The car sped into the crowd watching the parade and witnesses said two children were dragged half a block before the auto could be stopped.

After going to the police station for brief questioning, Bishop Denning returned to St. Rita's and performed the Sacrament of Confirmation.

During the services, he asked parishoners to say an extra prayer for the injured children. He said that he was deeply concerned and would look in on them at the hospital.

He returned to the police station after the confirmation services and made a complete statement concerning the accident. Police said there would be no charges.

Orbit Shot Postponed to Thursday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The second U. S. man-in-orbit was postponed Saturday for at least another two days when scientists spotted new technical bugs, this time in the Atlas launching rocket.

The delay was the second in three days.

It came as scientists finished clearing up other troubles in the Aurora 7 space capsule's parachute system.

The news broke as astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, a Navy lieutenant commander, was running through final preparations for a launch he had expected for next Tuesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the next target date is Thursday, May 24, at the earliest.

FLY OLD GLORY

5 Patriotic Days Are on Calendar

An old sage recently remarked, ". . . the American people have to be in or near a war and scared to death before they're patriotic."

We don't agree; the American people are basically patriotic, only they don't make a show of it in their daily lives as they do during war times.

However, we do feel that there has been too little showing of our colors . . . and that is why The Independent, Press-Telegram is now putting on a drive to urge everyone in Long Beach and surrounding communities to "show our colors" Memorial Day, May 30; Flag Day, June 14; Independence Day, July 4; and Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

To make this possible, these newspapers have bought thousands of high quality 50-star flag sets from one of the largest and oldest flag companies in America. These sets are sold for $3.85 (plus tax) a fraction over their wholesale cost. The set consists of a 3x5 ft. flag of high quality bunting with bright, true colors that are rain and sun fast; a 6-foot flag pole and bracket and screws to secure it to your home or building.

This flag set may be obtained at these addresses: Long Beach, 604 Pine Ave.; Garden Grove, 9624 Garden Grove Blvd.; Harbor City, 1428 W. Pacific Coast Highway, and Lakewood, 5056 Faculty Ave.

Many merchants in the Long Beach area also have excellent flags for sale.

SISTERS OF CHARITY TO CELEBRATE SATURDAY

Dignitaries to Help Dedicate Hospital Wing

By GEORGE ERES

The year was 1959 and Sister Mary David made this entry in the Annals of St. Mary's Hospital, a black-bound book, she kept by hand:

"Plans for the long-awaited expansion of St. Mary's were given added impetus by the appointment of a lay advisory board to assist the sisters in long-range planning for improving St. Mary's and the community it serves."

Next Saturday afternoon, Sister Mary Laura, hospital administrator, who one year ago took over the post from Sister Mary David, will be able to make this entry in the hospital's log book:

"Today the new wing of the hospital, bringing the patient bed capacity to 350 and 12 surgeries and 74 bassinets was dedicated."

When six sisters of the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word came to Long Beach in 1923 to take over management of the recently purchased Long Beach Hospital, the structure had a bed-capacity of 70.

* * * *

IT WASN'T long before it became apparent a larger and better-equipped hospital was needed and plans were begun in 1929 for a bigger hospital. Various factors slowed the program and the program was not completed, but on March 10, 1933, the earthquake here took the matter out of the sisters' hands.

The hospital's summary of the events that day told the story:

". . . In the midst of fallen portions of ceiling and walls and of dust and mortar, the patients were removed by the nurses, sisters and lay volunteers to the lawn in front of the hospital. Miraculously, not a patient was hurt. With

L.A.C. Says:

Our Answer

A reader called us to complain—"Why do you worry so much about the steel companies, the stock market and profits—why not worry more about people?" Our answer is that you cannot objectively worry about people without taking into consideration the economic health of our corporations and the valuations of stocks on the stock market. These factors reach directly or indirectly into virtually every family in the nation.

There are over 15 million individuals who own shares in corporations in this country. Over 18 per cent of all the stocks listed are owned by insurance companies, mutual investment companies, colleges, churches and other nonprofit institutions and pension funds. Thus, everyone who has an interest in any of these institutions is affected by the success or failure of the corporations where stocks represent the savings of all the people.

The insurance company investments represent surplus funds which are to be used to pay off death benefits or annuities, or to return cash values to life insurance policyholders. Casualty companies hold large reserves to pay losses from fire, theft, earthquake and other major disasters—or for repairing your car after an accident. More and more of these reserves are being invested in common stocks from which they receive interest—which in turn hold down costs that otherwise would have to be charged in annual premiums.

Pension funds to pay workers on retirements are largely invested in common stocks—so interest will be earned and values added if stock prices increase. Colleges have endowment funds invested in stocks to provide income to hold down tuition charges to students. It would be hard to find a family that is not in some way involved in the safety of stocks and their ability to pay 3 to 5 per cent interest on the money invested in them. This is why one who worries about the welfare of the American people and its system must also be concerned about what happens to the earning ability of corporations and their stocks.

When we look back over 20, or even 10 years, we see much about which we should be concerned. We find the average yield of all stocks on the New York Stock Exchange dividend-paying stocks was 6.1 per cent in 1940—6.7 per cent in 1950, 4.2 per cent in 1960 and 3.3 per cent in 1961. The actual earnings were about one-third more for each year. The amount above what was paid in dividends was used for plant expansions — providing better and more jobs and technological development. The decreasing margin of profit is endangering both expansion and dividend returns.

These lower profit margins—which average about 4 cents on each dollar of sales—are caused by higher labor costs without equal price increases. Competition has held down prices while wage and fringe benefits have continued to rise. Now we find the President of the United States attempting to tell private enterprise what it can charge for its products—but he has failed to be equally outspoken as concerns what they must pay to produce their products.

These are factors that should interest every family in the nation—because these trends affect their investments, their church or college, their insurance or pension funds, and they also affect job security. In doing a little worrying about these fundamental principles, the people will be overcoming many reasons for worrying about themselves.—L.A.C.

DEEP DISCUSSION

Scientists Tape Porpoise Parley

By LOU JOBST

Southern California scientists have recorded an underwater "conference" between a group of porpoises confronted by a submerged manmade barrier.

This was revealed by ocean researchers of the Lockheed-California Co. of Burbank.

The remarkable incident occurred recently during tests off the Baja California coast aboard the Los Angeles Harbor-based research vessel "Sea Quest."

SCIENTIST William Evans said a group of five porpoises stopped about one-quarter of a mile from a fence of aluminum poles and sent out a scout to investigate.

The scout returned to the group to report his findings with an exchange of shrill penetrating whistles which Evans said is comparable to sonar pulsations.

After about 30 minutes of porpoise palaver and several more scouting patrols the porpoises apparently decided the fence was harmless and swam through.

DURING the conversations the Sea Quest recorded 66 separate whistles of which eight identical patterns had already been recorded and identified from bottle-nosed porpoises kept at Marineland.

A technical paper on the incident and other research information on underwater sounds and the "talkative" porpoises was presented to the annual meeting of the Southern California Academy of Sciences last week in Norwalk, Lockheed reported.

Baby Found Along With Corpse

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A sobbing, hungry, 2-year-old boy was found Saturday locked in a room with the body of a woman who had been dead about two days.

Mrs. Margaret Ortega, 55, had been stabbed in the head and throat, police said.

The youngster, Albert Juarez Hansen, was reported in good condition. He is the son of friends of the dead woman. She had been taking care of him.

Mrs. Ortega's body was discovered by her stepson, Daniel Ortega, 37, of Colton, in the bedroom of a boarded-up apartment at the rear of a market at 4003 City Terrace Dr., East Los Angeles.

Crowd Angered by 'Circus' Fiasco

By BOB GEIVET

A benefit billed as a gay circus in Anaheim turned into a vaudeville show, and an increasingly uneasy crowd all but disrupted the entertainers with catcalls and cries.

From the beginning, the widely heralded "circus" in La Palma Park, sponsored by Anaheim Lions Club as prelude to the city's "Hi Neighbor Day" Saturday, seemed to be jinxed.

Long lines formed before the only two ticket windows Friday night. Children, clutching free tickets and with their parents in tow to buy adult tickets for admission, became edgy and tired before they got inside the park stadium.

The entertainment was 40 minutes late in starting, and then it began under handicap of hundreds of youngsters on the field in front of the capacity crowd of 8,000 in the stands.

When Gentry Bros. showed no animal acts and no traditional circus features, the crowd began chanting, hurling insults and "boos" and otherwise interrupting the performers. Eyeing the hostile crowd, one team of entertainers refused to go on. Then the loudspeaker went out, and crowd-control was lost.

Dozens of angry spectators crowded around Lions Club officials and voiced complaints, some demanding refunds.

Police described them as "angry and hostile" but said there were no major disorders.

Dozens of refunds were made, some by individual Lions Club members.

Attorney Warren Schutz, former club president and one of a host of volunteers on the job, termed the whole affair "most unfortunate." He said the club advertised the show under the belief it would be a circus, with "traditional acts," and was "as surprised as anyone else to find that none were billed."

The club, sponsoring the entertainment as a fund-raising effort for its help-the-blind projects, was to get 10 per cent of the gross, Schutz said the club probably made about $1,400 "but wishes it could have profited under happier circumstances."

The "misunderstanding" as to what kind of entertainment would be presented "made us look like a bunch of country bumpkins being led to the slaughter by city slickers," Schutz moaned.

Billie Estes Ordered to Stay in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department disclosed Saturday that indicted Texas magnate Billie Sol Estes has been served with a "departure control order" that warns him not to leave the United States.

This was announced as Sen. John L. McClellan's Senate investigations subcommittee made tentative plans to open its inquiry Monday into the politically explosive Estes case.

A Justice Department spokesman said the Immigration Service gave Estes the control order Friday night at his home in Pecos, Tex. The order notified Estes, who has been indicted for alleged fraud, that any plans he may have to leave "were not in the best interests" of the United States.

* * * *

UNDER THIS order, the spokesman said, all international traffic carriers and immigration officers would be alerted to the ban against Estes' foreign travel.

At the Capitol meantime, Senate investigators were speeding up the tempo of their inquiry into Estes' affairs, which have led to four government officials losing their jobs.

McClellan called a meeting of his subcommittee for Monday to start taking closed doortestimony. His group will make the main congressional probe into the wide-ranging financial operations of the 37-year-old Texan.

The Arkansas Democrat said he and subcommittee aides have scheduled interviews in connection with the Estes case for Monday morning. He said he is pretty sure that the subcommittee can begin taking testimony at the afternoon session.

The subcommittee last Thursday approved a full investigation of Estes' cotton acreage allocation and grain storage operations. In doing so it specifically authorized closed-door hearings in preparations for public sessions later.

The public hearings are expected to begin next month.

Planes Miss Collision in AF Event

HANSCOM FIELD, Mass. (UPI)—Two Air Force C119 "Flying Boxcars" narrowly missed colliding Saturday during a mass takeoff at an Armed Forces Day exhibition at Hanscom Field witnessed by 120,000 spectators.

The two propeller-driven craft were part of a flight of five taking off from the field. The planes carried three-man Air Force crews. No one was injured in the near-collision.

The Air Force said the first plane of the group attached to the 94th Troop Carrier Wing took off safely. The second plane rolled down the runway without incident, but just as it left the ground the pilot found that its wheel-retracting mechanism had failed to function and immediately brought the craft down again.

The No. 3 plane in line, which had already begun its takeoff run, nearly collided with the No. 2 plane just as it prepared to lift off, but managed to swerve out of the way in time. The No. 4 and No. 5 planes took off without incident, the Air Force said.

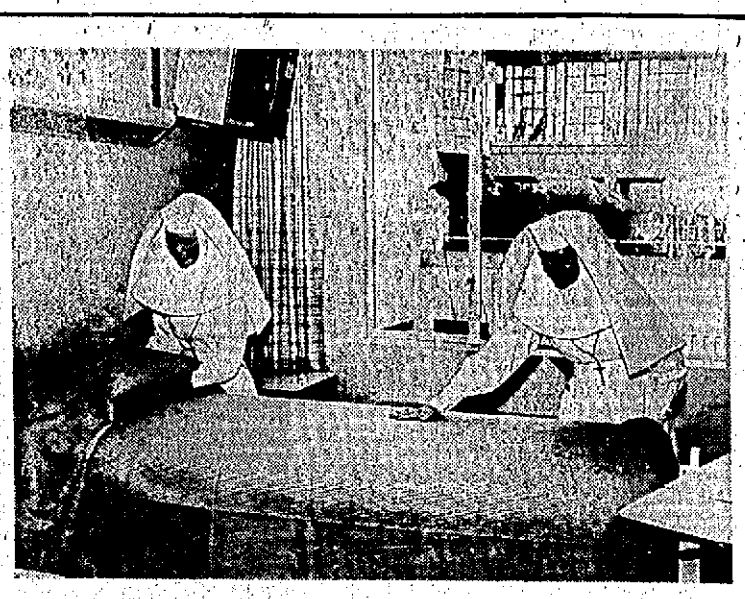

The show featured an exhibition of aerobatics by the "Golden Hawks" of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

It opened with a fly-over by the 103rd Tactical Fighter Group of the Connecticut Air National Guard.

Welfare Workers Set Biennial Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Health, Education and Welfare Department announced that research and statistics personnel from state public welfare agencies would meet here this week to consider trends affecting public assistance.

The Children's Bureau and the Bureau of Family Services will sponsor the fourth biennial conference. About 100 persons were expected to attend.

Prepare Bed in New St. Mary's Wing

lighter quakes continuing every few minutes and the entire structure in danger of crumbling, first aid was hurriedly given to emergency victims who continued to gather on the lawn by the hospital. . . ."

The Sisters found that the hospital, chapel and convent were gone in the quake. All that remained was a small cottage which was used for living quarters.

They began rebuilding.

* * * *

A SMALL one-story building made do as a hospital while the new hospital, the present South wing went up on the site of the earthquake-demolished hospital. The new wing, a four-story structure served until 1947 when St. Mary's found the need again outstripping facilities and the North wing was added in 1949.

Sister Mary Timothy was on the staff then. She is still on the staff.

"About seven years ago," she recalled, "it became clear that we needed more room again. Every day, for many days we felt the crowded conditions."

There were emergency cases when waiting rooms and corridors and alcoves were used for bed space. Refusing patients beds came hard, but the space just wasn't available to handle the patient load.

Sister Mary Timothy read a further entry from Sister Mary David's "diary" of the period:

"The Sisters are justifiably proud of the 14-member board whose broad experience will be so helpful in the years to come. . . ."

* * * *

THE SISTERS had decided to engage in their first campaign for funds since coming to Long Beach in 1923. On the board were these members:

S. C. Cameron, Friend Combs, Dr. John C. Cottrell, John F. Craig, II, Mrs. Donald V. Davis, John Davis, Elmer Decker, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Bernard J. Dolan, J. W. Hancock, Joseph E. Madden, Mrs. Joseph W. Mullarky, Robinson A. Reid and Abe Tennenbaum.

The fund drive that followed was not just the usual drive for funds.

One of the heartening aspects of it was that the hospital's employes, not a highly paid group of workers, voluntarily donated $70,000 over a three-year period.

The Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word financed the biggest portion of the cost with $4,500,000, the community's contribution came to $1,500,000.

The new $6 million addition to St. Mary's is a five-story, 156,000-square-foot structure, so built that a sixth floor can be added to the modern new wing.

* * * *

IT WILL provide a spacious cafeteria (employes brought lunches or "ate out" previously), doctors' dining room, medical records department and medical library in addition to surgical, obstetrical and emergency room.

There are ten major surgical suites, two cystoscopic rooms, four major delivery rooms and nine separate nurseries.

The Sisters operate the hospital as a non-profit community hospital. It is non-sectarian and provides free and part-pay care to those in need through its clinic.

The medical staff is composed of 425 medical doctors, representing all specialties in modern medicine.

THE DEDICATION ceremonies next Saturday will mark the culmination of long hard work by the Sisters and the numerous volunteers who helped to realize the dream.

Associate Justice Thomas P. White of the California Supreme Court will be the guest speaker at the ceremony at which Dr. Carl W. MacIntosh, president of Long Beach State College will be master of ceremonies. His Eminence, James Francis Cardinal-McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, will bless the addition.

* * * *

SCHEDULED to speak on the program also will be:

Mayor Edwin W. Wade, James E. Brennan, M.D., chief of the Medical Staff; Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer, director, Health and Hospitals, Daniel H. Ridder, president of the Hospital Advisory Board and Cardinal McIntyre.

There will be another distinguished guest present at the dedication ceremonies. Sister Mary David, who a year ago returned to Houston, Texas, will be present to see the completion of the work undertaken while she was administrator.

Portugal Police End Rioting

COIMBRA, Portugal (UPI)—Shock police broke into a university building Saturday and forcibly removed 149 students who had barricaded themselves inside in an anti-government protest.

The students, many of them girls, were herded out of the university's academic association building and into 10 police wagons. It was believed they were being taken to Lisbon 140 miles away.

Steel-helmeted riot police continued to guard the university grounds and the municipal stadium where a soccer game was scheduled for today.

* * * *

EARLIER reports had put the number of students behind the barricade at some 300 but as police hustled them into the paddy-wagons a head-count showed 149.

The students locked themselves inside the building late last night as part of the current protests against government interference with their student union.

Several townspeople joined the students inside the building while police used rifle butts to break up a sit-down demonstration by other students in the street outside.

* * * *

IN LISBON, the education ministry—which claims that the student protests are communist-inspired—warned that "collective insubordination" in the universities would not be tolerated.

The ministry said it would suspend any "unruly" students for up to 90 days. In addition, it said, government authorities would assume responsibility for keeping order in the universities—until now a carefully guarded prerogative of university officials.

University undergraduates in Lisbon, Coimbra and Oporto have been staging anti-government demonstrations since mid-March.

Farm Officials' Death Quiz Calls Dozens, Asks U.S. Aid

FRANKLIN, Tex. (AP)—Authorities issued subpoenas by the dozen Saturday and prepared to serve still more for Monday's grand jury hearing into the mystery death of Henry Marshall, 52, a farm official mentioned in the Billie Sol Estes scandals.

HENRY MARSHALL
Five-Bullet 'Suicide'

Among those called to the session were two doctors and a hospital authority. They were instructed to bring x-ray photographs of the body.

State Dist. Judge John M. Barron and Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ called the grand jury.

Judge Barron said Saturday, after 54 subpoenaes were issued, "We are working very closely with the FBI in Bryan and Houston to get their records, and we want to invoke the aid of the U.S. government to get their records made available to this jury."

BARRON REPORTED that investigators are determining who in Pecos, Tex., Estes' headquarters, should be summoned.

Marshall was found dead June 3, 1961, shot five times with a bolt-action, .22-caliber rifle. Justice of the Peace Lee Farmer issued an official ruling of suicide.

Barron and Russ said they will ask Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman "to come down if he has any pertinent information to offer."

Freeman made a statement May 7 that much of the Estes case remains cloudy because many of the facts died with Marshall.

Judge Barron said Saturday that subpoenas have been issued for Dr. James I. Lindsey, Marshall's personal physician; Sister Gregory of St. Joseph's Hospital and Dr. Dwight M. Andres, a Bryan doctor.

COLLEGE COURTIN' ROOM

It's Amazing Who Furnishes Opposition to This Idea

dorm's two semi-private reception rooms are now being used for other purposes.

Mrs. Smith said she was instrumental in getting the weekend male exclusion time at the dorm extended an hour to 1 a.m. "I thought it would be better to have the boys in here rather than have the couples out someplace else."

Three residents of the men's dormitory—a parking lot's distance away—voted 2-1 against the proposal.

Chuck Fierce, 20, a Los Angeles sophomore, thought it would create extra expense. "It also the rooms would be used enough because people would be too embarrassed to go in. The kids would still go out in cars because it's a little more private."

Universally decried was the lack of privacy in both dorms. Boothroyd set the tenor: "Try to study and the whole world comes in could turn more or less into a big orgy. What we really need is more privacy for study."

A dissenting voice was raised by Dave McGourty, a junior from Capistrano Beach. "I favor the idea. The situation now just creates tension. It would be nice to kiss a girl good night at the dorm without a bunch of people milling around. After all, it's nobody else's business."

The deciding "thumbs down" ballot was cast by Pete Boothroyd, 20, of Westchester. "I don't think your room."

Crooks Embezzle Russian Factory

MOSCOW (UPI)—The newspaper Red Star said Saturday a military accessories factory in Leningrad was converted by crooks into a private plant producing pens, folders and shaving goods.

The newspaper, the ministry of defense organ, said the racketeers "embezzled over 2 million old rubles ($220,000) while operating the Leningrad military accessories factory and actually turned his state plant into a private plant."

The newspaper said the ringleader was G. I. Provarinets who had been production chief of the factory. Red Star said police were currently investigating and the gang would be brought to trial.

* * * *

ACCORDING to the newspaper, members of the gang infiltrated into various position in the factory "and honest people were driven out from the workshops on different pretexts."

The ring also "closely collaborated with dealers, in trade circles" and groomed "salesmen" to facilitate distribution of their goods.

The newspaper said the factory, which originally produced military insignia, and emblems, turned out 52,000 fountain pens in three years whose total value was 1.2 million old rubles ($132,000).

The pens sold for 25 rubles a piece ($2.75). The price paid was divided, 15 rubles ($1.65) going to the manufacturers and 10 rubles ($1.10) going to salesmen.

* * * *

THE MEMBERS of the gang bribed the director of the factory, A. A. Sokolov, to obtain permission to manufacture pens, folders, and shaving goods, the newspaper said.

Heads of workshops were reported to have given the director regular bribes which were jokingly called "Abyssinian tax."

The illicit merchandise was never entered in the books of the factory.

The newspaper also said the gang infiltrated its members into the local party organization.

Kaye Better, Still Feels 'Pretty Punk'

Burglar Robs Home of $3,000

A bold burglar took more than $3,000 in jewelry, cash and clothing from the home of Long Beach attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey, 260 Granada Ave., police said Saturday.

The burglar broke into the home through a patio screen early Saturday morning while Ramsey and his wife, Helen, were asleep.

He entered their bedroom and took three jewel boxes, police said. From an adjoining dressing room, he stole $100 in bills and Ramsey's wallet as well as other jewel boxes, then took Ramsey's electric shaver from a bathroom.

Among items the former Long Beach city prosecutor reported missing was a briefcase containing several transcripts of court trials.

AMA Head Says Treasury Looted

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the American Medical Association charged Saturday the "the U.S. Treasury is being looted" to promote the health care for the aged plan endorsed by the Kennedy administration.

Dr. Leonard W. Larson said the American people have a right to know "how much it is costing them" and who is organizing rallies around the country to promote adoption of the program.

He said in a statement:

"Tax money is being scooped out of the Treasury and government officials and employes are being turned loose in numbers we cannot count in a massive propaganda blitz designed to pressure Congress into enacting the King-Anderson Bill for health care for the aged, a bill that millions of Americans do not want.

* * * *

"THE FACTS should be revealed about the rallies that are being held around the country to promote this bill and about the National Council of Senior Citizens, the ostensible sponsor of these rallies.

"How were these rallies organized, who is masterminding and coordinating them, who is really behind the National Council of Senior Citizens, where is this organization is getting its money and why it isn't registered as a lobbyist?"

President Kennedy is slated to address a Madison Square Garden rally tonight in New York sponsored by the Golden Ring Council of Senior Citizens, but Larson made no specific reference to the President.

Larson, a doctor from Bismarck, N. D., said:

"Hordes of government employes and officials from numerous executive departments are roaming the country at taxpayers' expense as itinerant salesmen for the King-Anderson Bill, misrepresenting the product and promising things they cannot deliver.

* * * *

"THIS GIGANTIC campaign amounts to taxation for misrepresentation.

"The cabinet has been transformed into a part-time political lobbying organization, and government employes in a four-room White House office suite and in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are working full time to flood the country with news releases, articles, radio and television spots, cartoons, booklets and advertisements plugging this proposal for government-controlled health care. The flood has reached such proportions that some newsmen say they don't even have time to open the envelopes."

GOP Looks to Ike for Party Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., expressed confidence Saturday that Republicans will find in a meeting with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Monday a key to party campaign unity.

A committee of six senators and six house members will sit down at breakfast with the former president to go over the draft of a party statement of principles to guide GOP candidates in the fall elections.

"I am confident," Laird said in a statement, 'that we will bring in a statement that will set forth the basic Republican principles on which all Republican candidates can and will run this fall.

* * * *

"THIS AGAIN will demonstrate that we Republicans are the only national party. It will evidence anew that we are not simply a coalition of divergent groups, as are the Democrats. All Democrats cannot possibly run on a single statement of principles."

Laird and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, serve as co-chairmen of the drafting group.

The group, formed in March, expects to have its final statement ready for presentation to the Senate and House GOP caucuses June 7. The GOP National Committee, meeting in Seattle, Wash., a few days later, then will be asked to pass upon it.

On June 23 Eisenhower will be the principal speaker at the Republican congressional dinner in Washington, a $100-a-plate fund-raising affair. Some 3,000 Republican leaders are expected to attend.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Two Men Perish in Mexico Quake

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The second earthquake in eight days rocked Mexico City and areas along the Pacific Saturday. Two men were killed—one toppling to his death from a swaying building.

As the quake struck at 8:58 a.m.—and lasted one minute and 10 seconds—a frightened driver lost control of his truck and ran over a man in the street. The pedestrian was killed. Roy A. Blay, 50, a Canadian businessman from Goderich, Ont., was believed to have suffered a fatal heart attack due to the earthquake but a death certificate showed later he died eight minutes before the quake began.

Damage was slight in Mexico City but extensive in Acapulco, the Pacific Coast resort town, and surrounding areas. Tourists in Acapulco rushed from their hotels in panic but none was reported injured. However, 17 residents of the city were rushed to hospitals.

2 A-Bombs Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Saturday set off its 12th nuclear explosion in less than a month in the Pacific and also detonated an underground blast at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site.

The underground shot was the 33rd in a series that began last September. The Pacific tests began April 25 and all explosions including Saturday's—with one exception—occurred in the atmosphere.

Jackie Wins 3rd

LEESBURG, Va. (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy was a surprise participant in the Loudoun Hunt Horse Show Saturday.

Mrs. Kennedy, accompanied by her young daughter, Caroline, came here from the Kennedy leased estate Glen Ora. President Kennedy was in New York over the weekend. Clad in riding habit, Mrs. Kennedy rode Minbreno in three classes and took third place in the Maj. Larry Lawrence Memorial Trophy event for owner-riders.

Grenade Injures 3 Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Three American servicemen and eight Vietnamese were injured Saturday night by a grenade explosion on a street before a U.S. military billet in downtown Saigon.

The bombing followed a similar incident Thursday when a grenade explosion at a sidewalk cafe frequented by U.S. servicemen injured two Germans. None of Saturday's victims was believed seriously injured.

Ikeda Faces Laos Criticism

TOKYO (Sunday) (AP)—Deployment of Japan-based U.S. planes to Thailand threatened trouble today for staunchly pro-American Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda.

With Upper House elections scheduled July 1, opposition Socialists are expected to deplore the shifting of an unannounced number of U.S. reconnaissance, transport and air rescue craft to the Laotian crisis area from Japanese bases. Sentiment throughout Japan is strong against being involved in war measures.

Admits Hurling Tots to Death

BOSTON (AP)—Police obtained two murder warrants Saturday against a 27-year-old mother who has admitted hurling her two small children to their death from a ninth floor hotel window.

However, police said they will not be served unless Mrs. Ann Peters of Worcester, an attractive brunette, is judged sane. She was sent to Boston state (mental) hospital for observation.

M'Carthy, Byrd Blast Tax Plans

prospect for the tax-credit provision.

Nevertheless, Senate Democratic whip Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., predicted Congress will approve the principal features of the tax-revision bill.

Appearing on a weekend news program with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., Sen. Humphrey saix tax credit for new plant and equipment investment "will be adopted." On withholding, the senator was more cautious. He predicted Congress will approve the provision "even if the Senate does not vote for it in the Senate bill."

* * * *

HUMPHREY argued that the House passed withholding on a roll-call vote and therefore "it's not about ready to compromise it away" in conference with the Senate.

Sen. McCarthy said he shares Sen. Byrd's view that the withholding proposal is "impracticable."

Sen. Byrd said withholding would be "terribly complex," would "overtax people for extended periods and impose hardship and inconvenience on citizens as well as banks and business" and erode public confidence in the tax system.

Burglars Peel Safe, Get $900

Burglars peeled the door from a six-foot-high safe at the C. B. Lind Tire Service, 3000 Cherry Ave. to get more than $900 in cash, police said Saturday.

Officers said the thieves forced open a side door to the company office then tipped the safe onto its back, knocked off the combination lock and pried the door open with a pry bar from a tool cabinet.

'Awesome Power' Answers Red Threat

By United Press International

Communist China warned the United States Saturday of a "worse defeat than Korea" if the American build-up in Southeast Asia continued. The United States warned it would use "awesome combat power" in Southeast Asia if necessary.

In Thailand, 500 more U.S Army and Marine combat troops landed on a flight from Hawaii. Another 500 were reported en route soon to push U.S. combat strength toward the 5,000 mark along a broad arc facing the Communist-threatened border of Laos.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, the top U. S. commander in Asia, toured the Marine encampment near the Laotian border Saturday and planned to visit the U.S. Army encampment Sunday before flying back to Saigon to take up the struggle against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

The Chinese Communist warning was broadcast both by Peiping Radio and by the Communist New China news agency. It said Red China absolutely "cannot tolerate" any new American bridgeheads in Southeast Asia bordering the China mainland.

Earlier in the week Peiping said "the Chinese people cannot remain indifferent" to American military moves in Southeast Asia. The broadcasts were strangely similar to those of Sept. 30, 1950, preceding Chinese intervention in Korea—that Red China "will not stand idly by."

The American statement of "awesome combat power" came from Gen. George H. Decker, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, in an Armed Forces Day ceremony in West Berlin. But he said he did not believe American troops in Thailand would enter Laos.

Decker said it was not clear whether the Communists in Laos had started a limited offensive or planned to try to take over the whole country.

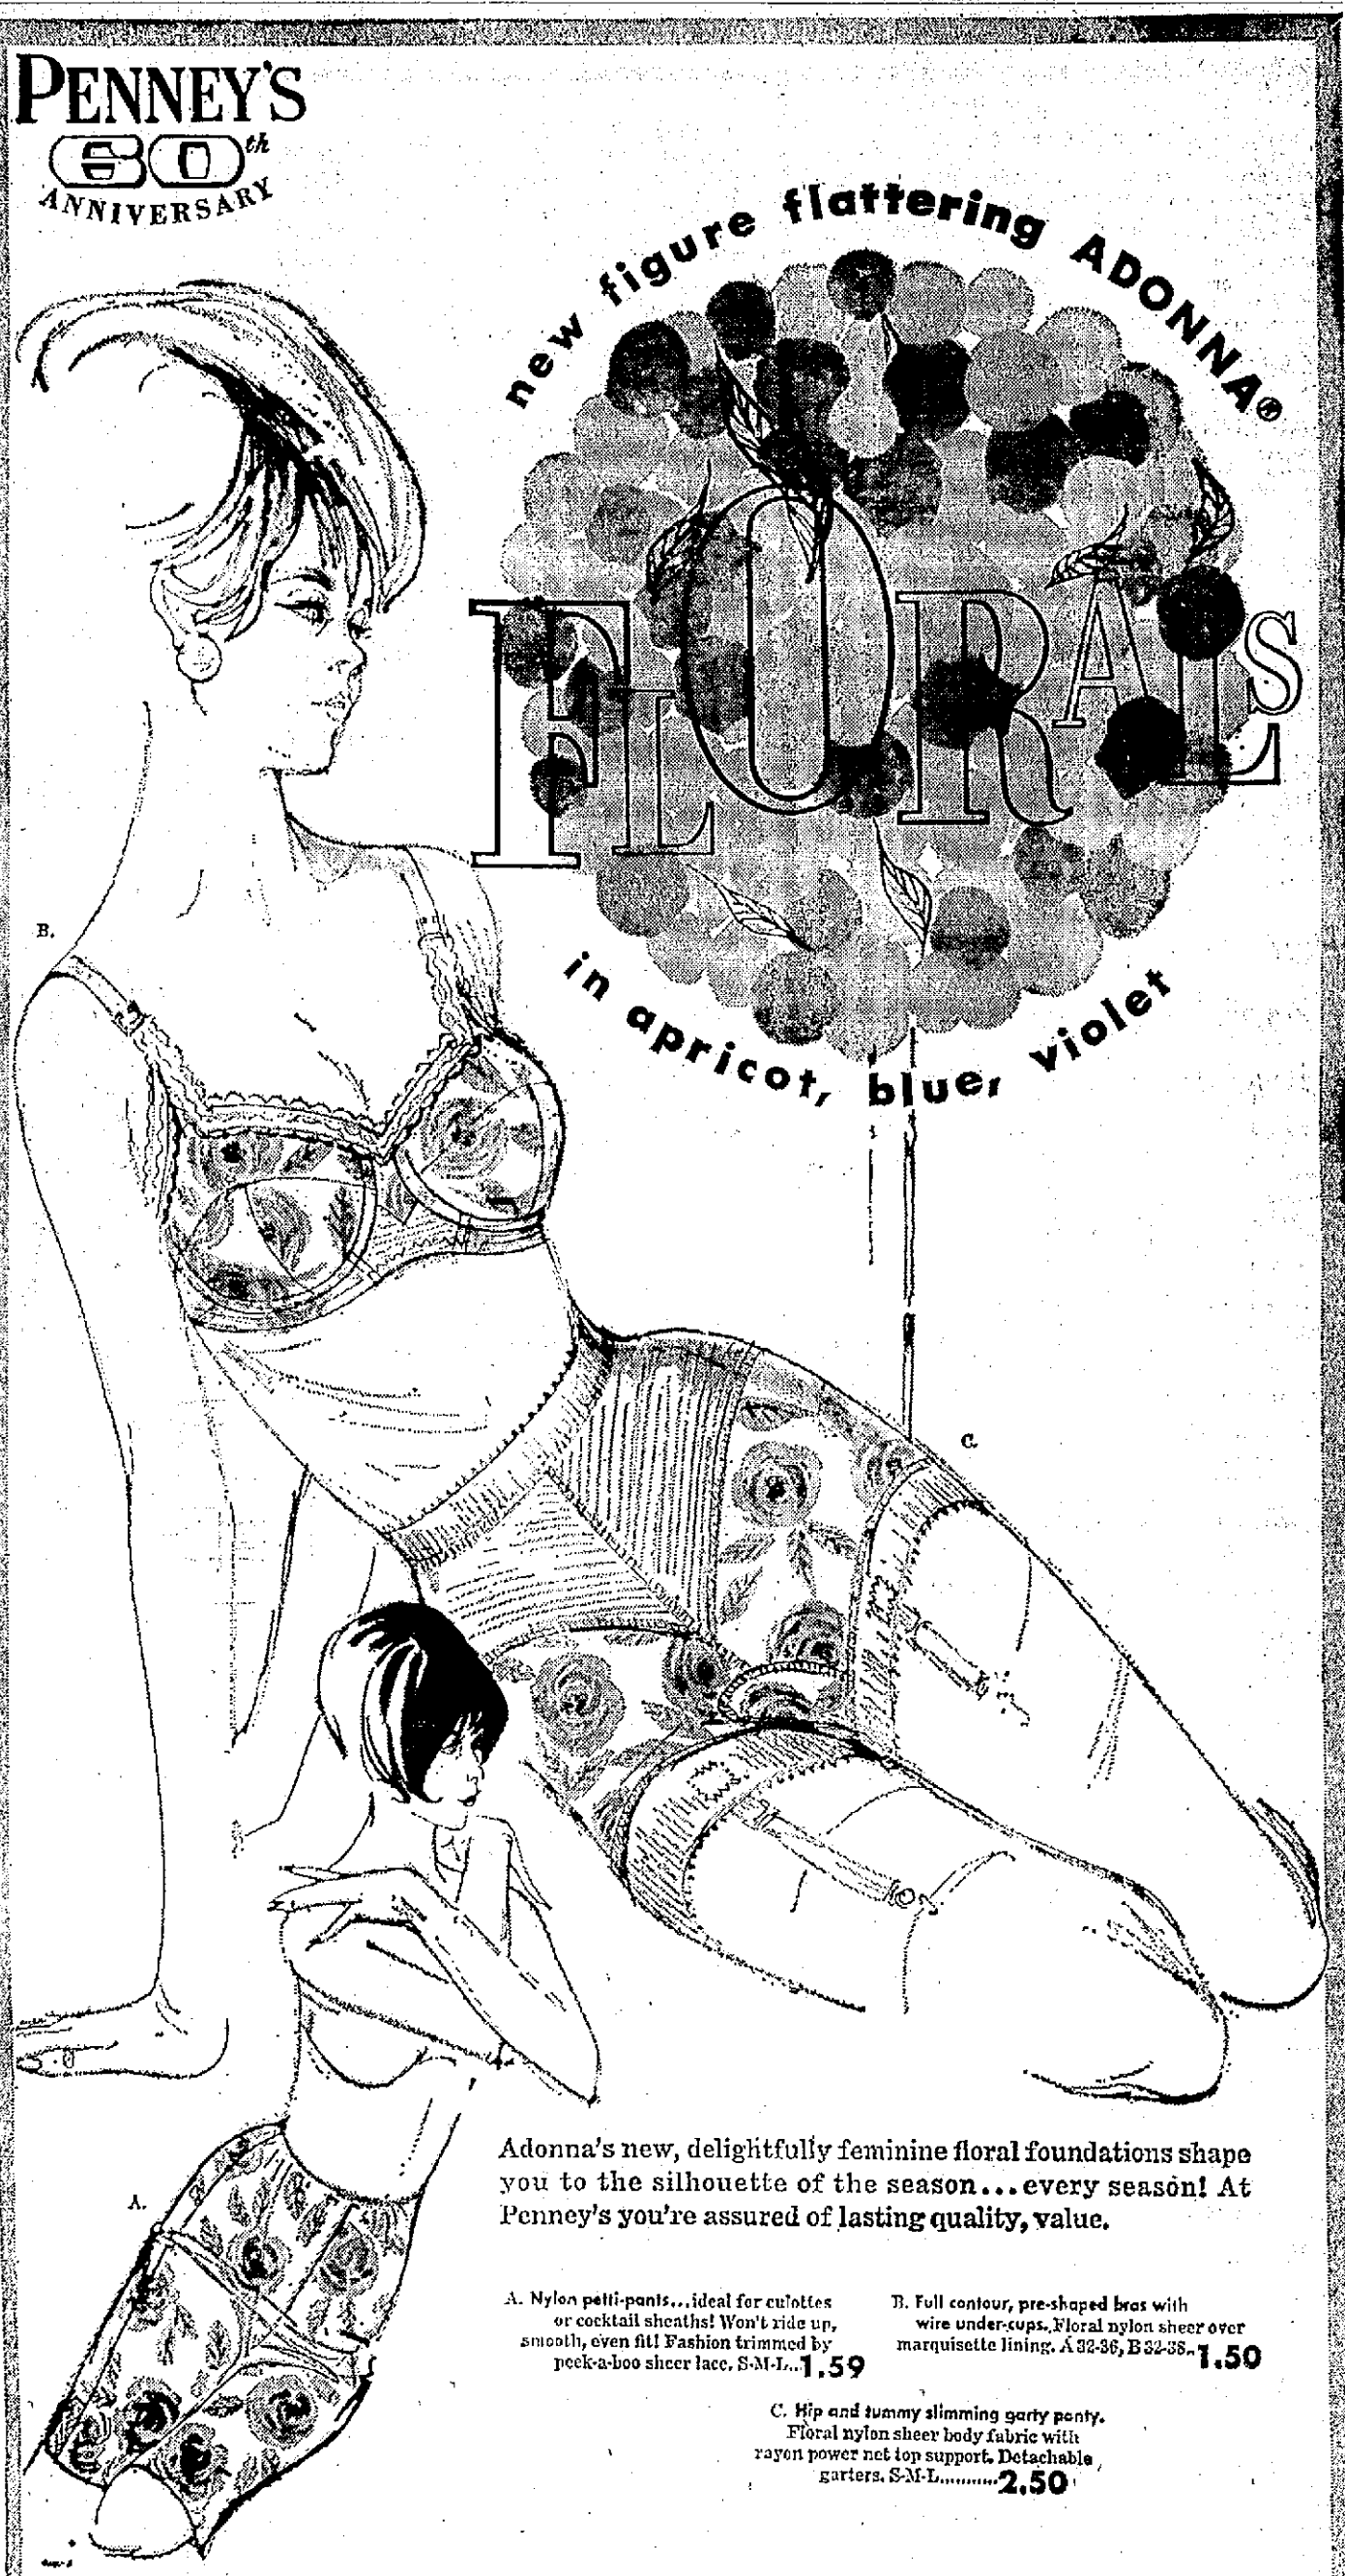

Referring to the recent Berlin crisis, he said that the "awesome power" would be used in Europe as well as Southeast Asia if necessary.

No new fighting was reported from Laos where government troops have been reported sending patrols north toward captured Nam Tha in the northwestern sector toward the borders of Red China, Thailand and Burma.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, leader of the neutralist faction in Laos, left London Saturday by plane for his headquarters on the Plain of Jars and possible meetings with the right-wing and left-wing rival princes on formation of a coalition government.

Souvanna conferred in London with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and a spokesman said afterwards that "Lord Home fully endorsed Souvanna Phouma's efforts to work for a coalition government in a unified, independent and neutral Laos."

ination each year to keep their bus permit.

California Department of Motor Vehicles does have the power to force a driver to take a medical examination before his license is evaluated—but it is used sparingly on only the most extreme cases. Reason: lawmakers never appropriated enough money for a medical evaluation of all drivers.

The authority is used to check out license applicants who look ill and those with bad driving records. But the potential traffic killer with emotional problems isn't necessarily spotted in advance.

DMV does check petitions filed in psychiatric court and acts on information from law enforcement agencies when drivers become alcoholics or narcotics addicts.

Also, doctors are compelled by the health codes to notify the state if a patient has epilepsy or some other similar chronic disorder that may cause him to black out. One barrier to reports: a doctor could lose a patient if the patient is angered by losing his driver's license.

BUT THERE IS NO WAY THAT DMV learns about more temporary ailments. And if a psychiatrist hospital discharges a patient and declares him sane, it is likely the patient will get back his driving privilege.

Meantime, DMV is trying to weed out potentially dangerous drivers.

Jim Conn, supervisor of DMV's district driver improvement section in Los Angeles, said hundreds of licenses are revoked or suspended each month in California. In a recent 30-day period, licenses were chopped off for 2,123 drivers—23 per cent of them because of physical and mental factors.

One indication of dangerous drivers with valid licenses: sometimes the situation gets so bad that a relative, neighbor or friend tips off the DMV that a driver's license should be revoked for his own protection.

IN SOME CASES, A SON TURNS in his own mother—or a wife her own husband. DMV investigates and may ask the driver to submit his medical record. If the record looks as if it may someday trigger an accident, his license is likely to be revoked.

Why aren't the medical records of all California drivers checked? One DMV official estimated the DMV budget would have to be doubled and its manpower tripled for a proper evaluation of medical records of all eight million California drivers.

Asked how many Long Beach relatives turned in their own family members in 1961 to DMV for license re-examination, DMV manager Howard R. Link acknowledged there were several.

He declined to discuss any of the specific cases for fear of causing family troubles. But the number of medical records called for by DMV still is just a trickle. One estimate for Long Beach: about 100 to 200.

Civil Rights Gains Cited by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)— Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson hailed the administration's record in civil rights Saturday but jabbed at the Senate leadership for failing to get a literacy test bill.

Addressing community leaders from across the nation at a conference on equal job opportunity, Johnson told of a long struggle when he was Senate majority leader to produce the 1960 civil rights bill.

Then, in a pointed reference to the recent action of the Senate in dropping a bill aimed at banning discriminatory literacy tests because it couldn't shut off debate, he added:

"And we didn't quit at 5 o'clock and we didn't lay off on Saturdays. We stayed right at it and we got a bill."

Johnson's successor as majority leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., kept the Senate to fairly regular hours despite a southern filibuster against the literacy bill. Mansfield said he didn't want to turn the discussion into a contest of endurance. He tried twice later to obtain a two-thirds vote to shut off debate, failed and shelved the measure for this session.

Johnson headed a list of top administration officials who pledged the full support of the government in efforts to broaden job opportunities for Negroes. Others who spoke were Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff.

JFK IRED BY LAOS STRONGMAN

U.S. Policy Is Failure in Asia Crisis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sudden crisis which swept U.S. troops into southeast Asia last week appears to have resulted in part from a failure of U.S. policy in Laos.

This has caused searching but so far informal discussion among high officials of the Kennedy administration about what went wrong and whether similar error can be avoided in future.

So far President Kennedy's angry dissatisfaction has centered on Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman in the pro-Western Royal Lao government of Premier Boun Oum.

* * * *

THE WHITE House and State Department are understood to have told American representatives in the field that Phoumi's power must be curtailed—preferably by getting him to yield his various cabinet positions and confine himself to purely military matters.

Administration informants said all U.S. government agencies involved in Laos have given assurances that they have loyally supported Kennedy's policy of trying to settle the dispute through formation of a three-way coalition government. There have been suspicions, particularly in high quarters of the State Department, that some elements of the U.S. government might have been pulling against other elements and encouraging Phoumi to disregard the U.S. advice he was receiving officially.

This speculation arose because there are divisions within official Washington over whether a neutral Laos with a government of neutralists, Communists and pro-Western elements has any chance of withstanding an eventual Communist takeover.

* * * *

THE GROUPS principally involved in the Laos struggle, apart from the White House, have been the State and Defense Departments and the Central Intelligence Agency. The basic problem with which they have been trying to work since 1954 arises from the fact that when Laos was created out of the wreckage of French Indo-China certain pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebel forces were left unreconciled within the country.

With the long-distance support of Russia, the more immediate encouragement of Red China and the direct help of the neighboring Communist state of North Viet Nam, the Pathet Lao developed into a spearhead of a Red campaign to take over the country.

Several years ago, during the Eisenhower Administration, the United States rejected a neutralist solution for Laos and the Boun Oum government took over as a strongly pro-Western regime. Gen. Phoumi became the central figure in the administration, reportedly with powerful backing from the CIA. As deputy premier, minister of defense and minister of the interior he has wide powers.

A YEAR AGO, President Kennedy moved U.S. sea and air forces into the Southeast Asian area, but in the face of opposition from allies like Britain and France, and non-intervention advice from some of his own officials, he decided against landing combat troops.

Kennedy decided also to support a program to make Laos neutral under a government of national union headed by neutralist Prince Souvannah Phoumi. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev subscribed to this program, including a cease-fire, when Kennedy and he met at Vienna a year ago.

The cease-fire has been violated from time to time, but a little more than two weeks ago it was shattered by a Communist assault on the Royal Lao garrison town of Nan Tha, provincial capital in northwest Laos.

The Red move produced an extraordinary reaction in Washington. Instead of raising a massive outcry against the Communists, U.S. officials told newsmen that Phoumi carried at least a large part of the responsibility.

Biggest Day Is Saddest; Fiance Dies

ROUSES POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — For Patricia Anthony of Rouses Point, Saturday was to be her big day—her wedding day.

When the prospective bridegroom and his best man hadn't arrived at the church shortly before 9 a.m., a call was put in to local police in an effort to find them.

Local authorities asked state troopers for help and were told that two bodies had been found at 8:30 a.m. by a farmer in Champlain, N. Y., about three miles away.

The dead were Arthur Mott, 31, who was to have been married to Patricia this morning and his friend, Richard Frenyea, 24, who was to have been best man.

State police said it appeared that the motorcycle the two men were riding failed to negotiate a curve, left the highway and struck a tree. A coroner estimated the men died about 11 p.m. Friday night.

Pair Die From Dope Overdose

MEXICALI, Mexico (UPI) —A San Francisco man and woman died of an apparent overdose of narcotics and their bodies were placed in a Mexicali motel, police reported Saturday.

Two other San Francisco men were being held for questioning in the Yuma, Ariz., county jail.

Authorities identified the dead as Richard Colombo, 25, and Lorraine Weber, 21.

Held were Robert Rosales, 25, and Roger Lira, 26.

* * * *

POLICE SAID they were informed that Rosales and Lira told customs officials below Yuma that the four had driven to Tijuana from San Francisco Wednesday and rented a motel room. Rosales said Colombo purchased some heroin and that all took a shot except Lira.

Rosales said he became ill and went into the bathroom. When he came out he said Colombo and Miss Weber were rolling on the floor and turning blue. He said Miss Weber died in the room.

Police said Rosales and Lira took the woman's body and Colombo in their car and drove to a spot in the desert 100 miles east of Yuma. They then discovered Colombo had died and they returned to Mexicali.

There, they rented a motel room and placed the bodies on a bed. They then again drove east and crossed the border at San Luis, below Yuma.

Food Poisoning Outbreak Noted Over 18 States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A mysterious outbreak of food poisoning which caused serious illnesses in 18 states has apparently "about run its course," a U. S. Public Health Service spokesman said.

The food poisoning was caused by a rare type of bacteria known as Salmonella Hartford. Prior to this year, no more than 20 cases of food poisoning by this particular germ had been identified in the whole history of the United States.

Since early this year, however, there have been 25 laboratory confirmed cases of salmonella Hartford poisoning, and 42 suspected cases which were not definitely confirmed by laboratory tests.

Brown in L.B. Again Tuesday

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown will make his second campaign appearance within five days in Long Beach when he is honored by the newly formed Long Beach Democratic Community Club at an 8 to 10 p.m. reception Tuesday at the California Avenue Recreation Center, 1550 California Ave.

Gov. Brown will present achievement awards to nine out-standing students selected by the club's education committee, chaired by Dr. E. B. Bush. Awards will go to: Barbara Daggs, Evelyn Daggs, Ann V. Herrington, Deborah Hill, Brenda K. Nelson and Alice Simpson, all for scholarship; Marsha D. Mosley and Gene Washington for leadership; Romie Hargrove for citizenship.

The governor's address will follow presentation of awards.

Officers of the new club are: Everett E. Ricks Jr., president; James Bell, first vice president; Levi Howard, second vice president; Percy Anderson, treasurer; Henrietta Dixon, secretary, and Virginia Towns, recording secretary.

On the advisory board are attorneys William L. White, Edwin J. Wilson, Huey P. Shepard, doctors E. B. Bush, Charles T. Terry, Horace Rains and Elliott Robertson and William H. Harris.

The public is invited to the reception. Refreshments will be served. Brown will spend the night here at the Doric Capri Hotel, 530 E. Ocean Blvd.

RICHARDS NAMES LYMAN

State Sen. Richard Richards has appointed Long Beach attorney Willis T. Lyman to head the Richards for United States Senate Committee in this area. Richards said he became acquainted with Lyman in the South Pacific during World War II.

Lyman, a retired National Guard general, who was area chairman for Kennedy here in 1960, said the first of several local Richards headquarters has been opened at 1400 E. Wardlow Road. Lyman issued a call for "all interested citizens to join me in sending to Washington a great, dynamic voice to aid the Kennedy New Frontier program." He noted that, percentagewise, this congressional district gave Richards the best vote of any area in Los Angeles County at his last election.

GARRISON LAUDED

Capt. Charles M. Garrison, Republican candidate for Assembly in the East Long Beach 39th District, received a couple of plaudits and got in some licks of his own.

Commodore Schuyler F. Heim, USN retired, told a coffee hour group that "Garrison is a man with a program for the fundamental good of us all . . . and has demonstrated his ability to convert his program into action by legislation."

Lorne D. Middough, former assemblyman, said a Garrison vote "is a solid vote against communism"; he is a man "with no selfish purpose . . . California needs big men, men of stature, not partisan rope jumpers."

Garrison charged the state is being destroyed by excessive concentration of power and wastefulness, noting Brown's administration accounted for a 17 per cent hike in taxes while salaries were up only 8 per cent . . . "It is my avowed intention to help stop this incompetence . . ."

35 YEARS AFTER GREAT FEAT, 'LONE EAGLE' STILL BIG FACTOR IN AVIATION

Lindbergh Likes Quiet Life Out of Public Eye

EDITOR'S NOTE—Thirty-five years ago Charles A. Lindbergh made history by flying alone from New York to Paris. The feat brought him fame, followed by searing personal tragedy. At the dawn of the space age, America now has a new hero. But yesterday's is making a far bigger contribution to modern aviation than most people suspect.

By JULES LOH
AP Newsfeature Writer

A team of experts on science and defense, known on the record as the Strategic Missile Evaluation Committee, met in a room at the Pentagon in 1954 and made a critical decision.

The committee's function was to help the government decide what direction Americas' missile program should take, and the advice it gave that day was to go ahead with development of the Atlas—the rocket John Glenn was destined to ride into space.

One of the members of that committee was Charles A. Lindbergh.

The coincidence is intriguing, in view of the inordinate parallels that have been drawn between the two aviation pioneers on every level from courage displayed to confetti thrown.

* * * *

BUT FAR MORE interesting to many is that Charles Lindbergh was in 1954 and is today—on the 35th anniversary of his storied flight from New York to Paris—actively involved in aviation. His counsel is sought at the highest levels, his schedule crowded with appointment, conferences, trips, his interest in current affairs never livelier, his circle of friends never broader.

This may surprise some who were asking, amid the tumult raised for Glenn, whatever became of Lindbergh?

The vague, general impression is that Lindbergh long ago withdrew to some secluded island, cutting himself off from a society which once had lionized him but which also had refused him a moment's peace even after the 1932 kidnaping of his son.

* * * *

SHORTLY BEFORE the kidnaper, Bruno Hauptmann, was executed in 1936 Lindbergh moved to England. He returned four years later but didn't re-emerge as a public figure his impassioned 1941 campaign to keep the United States out of World War II.

After the war Lindbergh did buy an island, two of them in fact, but he doesn't live on either. He lives solidly on the mainland in Darien, Conn., and he lives as normally as anyone else—except in one respect. He simply avoids the public eye.

He attends very few public functions. A rare exception was his recent appearance with his wife at a White House dinner in honor of Andre Malraux, French minister of culture. His telephone is unlisted. His mailbox is nameless. His business associates refuse to divulge his whereabouts to the merely curious, and his friends likewise are voluntarily protective of him.

* * * *

LINDBERGH IS in no sense secluded.

He goes about freely. He stands on the platform with the commuters from Darien, Conn., and takes the train with them to New York. He walks through Grand Central Station and window shops on Fifth Avenue and rides in taxicabs and airplanes and elevators. He stays in hotels when he's out of town, and when he's home he putters around the lawn and goes to the post office and fishes in the sound and chats with the neighbors and welcomes the friends who come to visit his children.

CHARLES A. LINDBERGH
The Lone Eagle

He doesn't wear dark glasses or false whiskers or make any contrived effort to hide his identity. He doesn't have to.

Only a handful of photographs of Lindbergh have appeared in the last 20 years. He studiously avoids photographers and, as one of his close friends explained, "Slim has developed the knack of being inconspicuous into a fine art; he's better at it than any detective."

* * * *

AND SO THE MAN once known on sight by thousands today, at 60, can stroll the streets a stranger.

Lindbergh's cultivated anonymity gives him deliverance, at last, from that unrelenting army of transom peepers he once had to flee the country to escape. But more than that, it enables him to keep his professional life free from the clutter of banquets, speeches, award presentations and such that are the inevitable inheritance of prominence.

"If I accepted all the invitations I would like to, from the people I like," Lindbergh once told Lauren D. Lyman, whose friendship dates back before the 1927 flight, "I would be busy every night for two years."

Lindbergh's schedule wouldn't permit that; it's already full.

* * * *

HE STILL IS A consultant for the Defense Department, helped select the site of the Air Academy, and according to a Pentagon spokesman "has made major contributions to the ballistic missile program." He also is aviation consultant for the Library of Congress and has been the go-between in acquiring a number of historical documents. "I would say Charles Lindbergh is one of the most active men in the country," said Marvin W. McFarland, chief of the library's Aeronautics Division.

Lindbergh's work for Pan American World Airways has, in a sense, gone full circle.

He explored the first air routes from North America to Europe for the company in 1933, some of them still in use today. Later he helped Pan-Am develop its first transoceanic clippers, and not long ago earned part of the credit for the company's pioneering switch to jet airliners.

* * * *

HE LIKES TO visit his boys on the West Coast, Jon, 29 now, in California; Land, 24, in Washington, the father of a brand new baby girl. The other three children live at home: Anne, 21; Scott, 19; Reeve, 16.

Home, for the past 16 years, has been a gracious Tudor-style house.

It is far from the most pretentious house in the posh neighborhood, but few have as much charm.

* * * *

SURELY SOMEWHERE within the paneled walls of that house are mementoes of Lindbergh's bold victory 35 years ago — the Medal of Honor, the Royal Air Cross, the Legion of Honor, the Order of Leopold, awards and decorations from 31 countries in all; the Wright Memorial Trophy, the Guggenheim Medal.

And likely he will reflect on the flight this anniversary day.

The dream was born one moon-bright night when he was flying the St. Louis to Chicago mail run. St. Louis to Chicago. Why not New York to Paris?

Others were trying it, mostly two-man teams with costly twin-engine jobs. Lindbergh was convinced the only way it could be done was by one man—a lone eagle, so to say—in a single-engine plane. Few would listen. Finally, nine St. Louis men agreed to loan him the money for a plane which Lindbergh himself helped design. "The Spirit of St. Louis," he called it.

* * * *

IT WAS DRIZZLING over Long Island at 7:52 a.m. May 20, 1927, but the weather ahead looked favorable enough. Lindbergh slid casually into the narrow cockpit and listened to the throb of the 220-horsepower engine.

"She sounds good to me," said the mechanic.

"Well, then, I might as well go."

The monoplane, heavy with fuel, lumbered down Roosevelt Field's soggy runway, lifted slightly into the air, down again with a muddy splash, then up laboriously into the haze and out of sight.

Each step along the 3,640-mile route was carefully measured at 100-mile intervals against clock and compass; each drop of the 462-gallon fuel supply carefully calculated against each of the 5,000 pounds of gross weight.

* * * *

HE TOOK NO parachute (20 minutes extra fuel was a better safety precaution), wore lightweight boots of his own design, scissored unneeded areas from his charts. "No detail is too small to be considered," he said. So precise were his calculations that a bit of Roosevelt Field mud clinging to the wing irritated him throughout the 33½ hours. He had five sandwiches, five quarts of water. "If I get to Paris I won't need any more, and if I don't get to Paris I won't need any more either."

In his pocket he carried probably the most useless excess baggage in aviation history—letters of introduction.

At the Place de l'Opera in Paris flickering lights which had traced the flight's progress for anxious thousands suddenly spelled out, first in French, then in English:

"Lindbergh arrived Le Bourget 10:19. Landed 10:22. Official. We confirm it. We confirm it. We confirm it."

* * * *

EXCITEMENT leapt the seas.

In Paris they danced and in London they cheered and in Rome they sang and in America they danced and cheered and sang and wept.

The flight enabled Lindbergh to fulfill what he later called the first cause of his life: to preach the wonders of flying to all who would listen. "I love th sky and flying more than anything else on earth."

* * * *

HIS SECOND CAUSE was less popular but he devoted himself to it just as vigorously. He had flown the Messerschmidt and knew Germany's air strength and reported his information to the War Department. He also had surveyed the U. S. air arm for Gen. Hap Arnold, and was convinced we were weak and they were strong. He aimed to do what he could to keep his country "out of Europe's suicidal internal wars."

His speeches during the nine months preceding Pearl Harbor produced a harvest of invective and nothing more. The President called him a copperhead and the Logan, W. Va., public school tonk his picture off the wall and the Texas Legislature voted that he better damned sight stay away from there.

Once at war, however, Lindbergh urged his countrymen to "meet as united Americans regardless of our attitudes in the past."

* * * *

HE PARTICIPATED in Henry Ford's first tests of the B24 at Willow Run then joined United Aircraft Corp. as an engineering consultant. He was nearly killed testing for symptoms of anoxia—high altitude blackout. He went to the Pacific to test aircraft under combat conditions, increased the bomb load of the Navy Corsair, added 500 miles to the range of the P38, flew 50 missions himself as a civilian and shot down a Jap Sonia.

Then he came home to embark on the third cause of his life: renewal of emphasis on moral values in a materialistic world.

He spelled it out more precisely in a 1954 speech when he accepted the Guggenheim Medal a year after publication of his Pulitzer Prize winning autobiography. It was his most recent public appearance and his first since 1949.

"I THINK WE are in danger of confusing problems of long-term and of short-term survival," he said.

"Short-term survival may depend on the knowledge of nuclear physicists and the performance of supersonic aircraft, but long-term survival depends alone on the character of man.

Interchange Model to Be Exhibited

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Southland motorists are invited this week to view a traveling exhibit including a $20,000 model of the East Los Angeles interchange, sponsored by the State Division of Highways in observance of National Highway Week.

The exhibit will be shown Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Santa Ana maintenance office, 1709 E. First St., Santa Ana.

On Monday and Tuesday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., it will be at the Torrance maintenance station, 4122 W. 180th St.

* * * *

STARTING Friday, it will have a three-week stand at the California Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park, Los Angeles, daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In addition to the interchange model, the exhibit will display pictures and charts of the state freeway system as it will look in 1980, and enlarged sepia photographs of freeway construction projects in the area.

Another highlight of National Highway Week will be a luncheon Tuesday for more than 200 business and civic leaders from 11 Southland counties. It will be given on the San Diego Freeway route in the Santa Monica Mountains.

Rex M. Whitten, federal highway administrator and head of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, will speak. Robert B. Bradford, head of the California Department of Public Works, will attend.

* * * *

THE STATE Division of Highways noted that California now has 9 million motor vehicles. During 1961, these vehicles covered more than 70 billion miles.

The California freeway-expressway system, which calls for $10.5 billion in construction over a 20-year period, will by 1980 connect every city of the state whose population is more than 5,000, a spokesman said.

In District VII, which includes Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties, the Division of Highways will spend an estimated $4.3 billion on 1,342 miles of freeways by 1980.

As of today, $1.2 billion already has been spent on 338 miles of freeway in the three counties, the district office announced.

Ontario Air Show Opens Monday

One of the largest air shows in Pacific Coast history will be held Monday through June 3 at Ontario International Airport.

The show, called the International Cavalcade of Flight, is sponsored by the city of Ontario and will include eight separate shows with little duplication.

Several acres of the airport will be devoted to static displays of modern aircraft, missiles, rockets and their accessories.

Other features will include the famous Navy "Blue Angels" precision aerobatic team, the "Chuting Stars" parachute specialists, a Mercury capsule complete with a reclining astronaut in a silver space suit and 24 hours of actual flight demonstrations during the week.

State Justice M. T. Dooling Retires June 30

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Supreme Court Associate Justice Maurice T. Dooling Jr., 72, a California jurist since 1928, announced he would retire effective June 30.

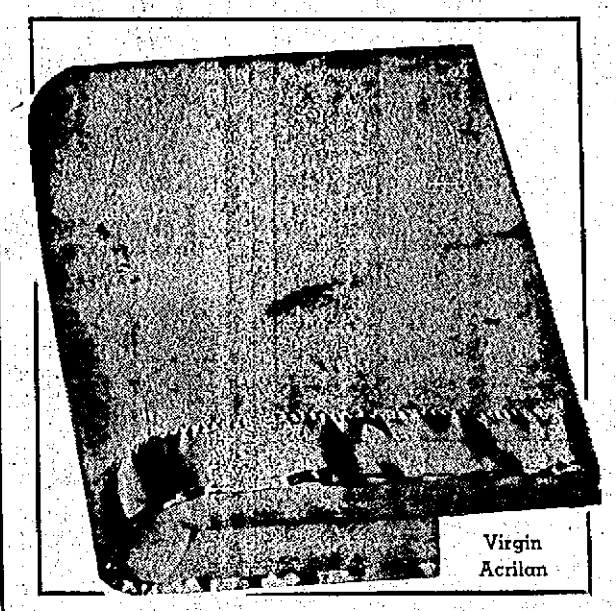

Dooling, who was appointed to the supreme court by Gov. Edmund G. Brown June 1, 1960, notified Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan of his pending retirement.

Dooling served as a San Benito County Superior Court judge from 1928 until 1945, when he became justice of the First District Court of Appeal in San Francisco.

If Brown fills Dooling's vacancy prior to Aug. 15, the new appointee will have to stand for election to a 12-year term in November.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Woman Shot by Husband Dies

Mrs. Dorothy Burke, 45, died Saturday in Memorial Hospital of gunshot wounds inflicted by her husband, Donald, 44, who shot himself in the head. He remained in critical condition at the hospital.

DOROTHY BURKE
Slaying Victim

Police said Burke shot his wife in the leg and head with a .22 caliber rifle when she fled from their apartment at 6303 Cherry Ave. Thursday. She told officers she had told her husband she was leaving him.

After Mrs. Burke fell beside the apartment swimming pool, Burke stood next to her and fired one shot into his temple.

Mrs. Burke's body was removed to the Los Angeles County morgue for an autopsy.

Gambler Sues Poker Clubs

Francis Danesi, 46, of 21834 Nicolle Ave., Torrance, a self-styled professional gambler, is suing two Gardena poker clubs for barring him from their tables.

Danesi claims he won $130,000 playing low ball in the Monterey Club and the Rainbow Club in three years.

He wants damages based on $18,000 a year, which he says was his average annual winning before he was barred from the clubs.

Danesi claims he was barred from the clubs because he testified before a Riverside County grand jury in 1959 about bookmaking activities in a Cabazon poker club.

New Type Amusement Ride

Final tests will be made this week on a 97-foot-high "Velare Wheel," first big change in amusement ride design since the Ferris wheel.

The wheel is at the Velare Brothers Amusement Co., 3330 Lime Ave. Its inventors and operators, Curtis Velare, 81, and his brother, Elmer, 76, plan to take the wheel to the Seattle World's Fair at the end of this week.

Forgery Charge

FBI agents arrested an optometrist in Anaheim Saturday on charges he foregd a check drawn on a North Dakota bank.

Edward Malcolm Bekken, 41, was arrested at the Disneyland Hotel on a warrant charging him with forging the name of his brother, Ralph, to a $791 check drawn on the Scandia-American Bank in Stanley, N.D.

3 Traffic Deaths

Two persons were killed in harbor area traffic accidents and a third died in Orange county Friday night.

Dead are:

Linda Dasko, 16, of 789 W. 15th St., San Pedro. The car in which she was riding veered off Palos Verdes Drive East near Miraleste Plaza in Rolling Hills and slammed into a tree.

Ernie M. Bernard, 57, of 3703 Easy Ave., Long Beach was dead on arrival at Harbor General Hospital after his car hit the rear of a tank truck on Figueroa Boulevard near 108th Street.

Mrs. Mildred Shaffer, 57, of Morgantown, W. Va., was killed in a collision on the Riverside Freeway at the Grove Street off-ramp.

Writers Meet Ends

The Fourth Long Beach Writers Conference ended late Saturday with a panel discussion on television and motion pictures.

Frank B. George, supervisor of the audio-visual department of Long Beach Unified School District was moderator. Panelists were Gerry Day, writer for "Wagon Train," Robert Shaw, writer of "77 Sunset Strip," and Rod Amateur, producer of "The Love of Dobie Gillis," and Ben Benjamin, head of Famous Artists Associates.

Profits High but Not Enough Says Industry

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The business community is wrestling with a confusing profits paradox.

Businessmen concede that profits are up almost 30 per cent so far this year and may well hit record highs.

But businessmen complain earnings still are not high enough to get the country going full blast.

"Utterly fantastic," says an AFL-CIO economist who quarrels with both the facts and conclusions of this argument.

"Exactly how often," asks another labor official, "have you heard a businessman complain profits are TOO HIGH?"

* * * * *

THIS IS not merely a theoretical how-high-is-up debate, insists the many businessmen joining in a "profit-squeeze" chorus.

What has happened, they say, is that competition, both here and abroad, has thwarted price increases at the same time labor costs, taxes and other costs have been climbing.

This is how, said Chairman Albert L. Nickerson of Socony Mobil Oil Co. by the way corporate profits have shrunk from 9.2 per cent of national income in 1947 to 5.4 per cent last year.

* * * * *

DESPITE dollar-figure records this year, writes the First National City Bank of New York in its monthly letter, current profits average only about 6 per cent. This is dangerously low for a recession-recovery period, it says, and does little to spark boom hopes.

Nor will the current trend bring about the $56.5 billion in pre-tax earnings estimated as needed to balance the federal budget in fiscal 1963, the bank says.

Profit-erosion, businessmen contend, has eaten into money available for capital expansion.

* * * * *

THIS MEANS, Chairman Roger Blough of U.S. Steel says, American plants aren't modernizing as fast as foreign competitors, thereby endangering America's past success at using production efficiency to counteract cheaper foreign labor.

It also means, says Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, that jobs at home are not being generated.

An attempt to spell out these effects in specific terms comes from William Butler, vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank and president of the National Association of Business Economists.

"You'll notice unemployment is worse in the heavy goods areas — Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis. These are the plants that would be turning out new machinery if companies were buying it."

* * * * *

THERE'S another thing, he says—a paucity of the kind of new products and new industries that could give the economy a shot in the arm.

"Say someone has an automatic martini mixer ready to go," Butler says. "If he can't afford to make it, or can't count on a fair profit, he won't produce it."

An AFL-CIO economist in Washington says this whole complaint is based on faulty comparisons. Profits as a percentage of sales may be down, he says, but the flow of spendable cash is very much higher than before.

AND PROFITS, he said, are understated because of tax depreciation and other accounting changes that have taken place in the last decade.

Further, he argued, "internal funds are so extraordinarily high that report after report shows companies don't expect to have to borrow outside money."

C OF C PETTICOAT BRIGADE CAMPAIGNS

Spring Housecleaning for L.B.

By MARY ELLIS

Women have no peers when it comes to housecleaning.

And they know quite a bit about beauty and face lifting, too.

With these basic ideas in mind, a 60-woman team of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce is currently sweeping the city in an all-out campaign to give Long Beach a face lifting.

* * * *

THE PETTICOAT Brigade's committee, headed by Mrs. George P. Taubman, is recruiting men, women, civic groups, business organizations and the municipal government in an effort to make their drive an all-city, all-citizens project.

As an opening, the determined gals formed 11 survey teams armed with cameras and notebook to record the city's eyesores and beauty spots.

Then they had this week proclaimed "Paint-up, Clean-up, Fix-up Week," by Mayor Edwin W. Wade.

* * * *

THE GOALS of the drive, according to Mrs. Taubman, are a cleaner, more attractive city; more tree planting in commercial and residential areas; effective landscaping of approaches to the city, of hillslopes and parkways; and a more "litter-conscious" citizenry and general improvement of properties, both commercial and residential.

A tree planting promotion sponsored by the Downtown Long Beach Associates has already been responsible for some 280 trees being planted in the downtown area and 42 more trees are now being planted, it was pointed out.

A "Build Long Beach Better" contest is being sponsored by the Board of Realtors to stimulate interest in the rejuvenation of homes, inside and out.

* * * *

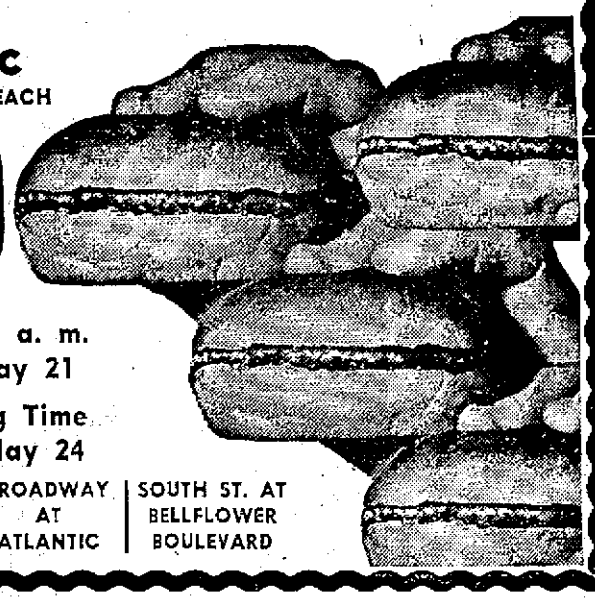

MRS. TAUBMAN pointed out that the Board of Education and Superintendent of School Douglas Newcomb have authorized and encouraged full school participation in the program.

Long Beach State College has joined in the program. Parochial and private schools will also cooperate in the drive.

Boy Scouts are distributing "Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up" posters, and the YMCA Boys Club are dressing up the YMCA Servicemen's Club Rooms and building exteriors.

THERE'S more bliss in wedded bliss than some of the cynics would have us believe. Single blessedness isn't so blessed.

That's indicated in the rather widespread complaint one hears from single adults. People of their category, they say, have a problem.

This is particularly true of single people above the early twenties, who find it difficult to make wholesome social contacts with people of the opposite sex of their age bracket and unmarried state.

And so we get to the story of a Long Beach man who decided to do something about it.

HE'S W. F. McPheeters, a fiftyish Long Beach Blvd. automobile dealer, who tackled the problem of the single adult as a class when he had been one, himself, for less than a year.

McPheeter's wife passed away about 10 months ago, ending some 34 years of married life.

He soon discovered a gnawing lonesomeness and a yearning for companionship of men and women of his own age. Married people of that age had their own plans and activities and he didn't seem to fit in. And he found it wasn't easy, unless one wanted to fool around bars and places like that, to find other single people of similar interests.

AFTER a discussion with recreation dept. people, who didn't offer much advice, he decided to try something through the churches.

So it happens that it was McPheeters who provided much of the drive and imagination behind a Long Beach movement known as "Christian Single Adults."

This is an interdenominational or undenominational fellowship which has just started holding programs and "socials" every Saturday night, 7:30 p.m., at the big First Baptist Church at 1000 Pine Ave. It is open to any single person, 21 or over, who is interested in social contacts and wholesome surroundings.

McPheeters insists that much credit be given to 35 representatives of various churches who have formed a steering committee for the movement.

But it was he who started it and the initial response has been good. He thinks it will be better when the word gets out here.

THE religious emphasis is not strong despite the church backing. The evening programs start with devotionals but from there on the emphasis is on pleasing entertainment and sociability.

What financing is needed will be voluntarily supplied by those interested. At present, there are no dues. Invitational tickets are being distributed around the area but even a ticket is not required for admission.

McPheeters hopes that there will be a strong response among men. At the first meeting, women far outnumbered the men, and of course, single women far outnumber single men in the community.

THE auto man points out that this is not a "lonely hearts club" sort of thing with the connotations of the matrimonial agency.

He adds, however, that establishment of a home is a worthy objective for every single person, and to the extent that the "Christian Single Adults" program brings people together to marry and establish a home, so much to the good.

The affable auto man is really in earnest about this. And indeed he may have something that will brighten the pathway for a lot of people.

PRIOR TO BEAUTY CONGRESS

L. B. Arena Will Have 5-Week Trial Run

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach's $8 million Arena, newest attraction along the shoreline, will have the advantage of a five-week trial run before opening for its first capacity-challenging event, the International Beauty Congress Aug. 15-18.

Win F. Hanssen, managing director, has announced that the construction is already well enough along to assure that the main floor section will be ready July 4 for the initial booking—a custom car Motorama continuing until July 8.

There will be other exhibits and meetings during July and early August, including a convocation of California dry cleaners and another of international china painters.

* * * *

"IF THERE ARE ANY bugs in the operation, we expect to get them out before IBC moves in," said Hanssen.

Originally scheduled for completion March 28, work on the big building was halted for several critical weeks because of a high-priority order for steel for Vandenberg Air Force Base. As a result, two tentatively-scheduled graduation ceremonies and a dog show had to be moved elsewhere.

But the construction is now in the final stages. Among activities at the building last week were:

Installation of bases and standards for the 8,768 permanent seats at loge and balcony levels was in progress and about one-fourth completed.

* * * *

A CONTRACT was awarded for the furnishing and delivery of the first installment of 2,500 movable chairs for the main floor.

Under the main floor, coils for the ice rink were being installed while negotiations were in progress to establish Long Beach as the base of a professional hockey league team.

Three elevators were undergoing tests—one in the lobby to serve the adjoining Concert Hall of the Auditorium and two in the Arena—as well as two escalators.

Glasswork for six of the 10 exterior stairwells was completed.

Plastering was three-fourths completed, air conditioning was being installed and the heating plant was made ready for use.

* * * *

A SOUND AMPLIFYING system was also under installation. Its operation will be made easier by accoustical ceiling.

Landscaping was in progress, and specifications were approved for construction of two parking lots which will increase the capacity of city-owned facilities in the immediate area to 1,500, along with 2,200 car space private parking.

The late touching-up details as well as parking-lot construction will continue during the trial period.

* * * *

"BUT THE WHOLE building will be ready for the beauty pageant," Hanssen asserted on the strength of assurance from the general contractor, Gust K. Newberg Co. Construction began in October, 1960.

The new building adds 50,000 square feet of main floor exhibit space to the 35,000 already available in the old Auditorium. Its interior length is 411 feet, width 360 feet and floor-to-roof height 75 feet.

And unless all the calculations are awry, it will pay back to the Tideland Oil Fund the costs of operating and maintaining it, Hanssen said.

Except for harbor facilities, the Arena is the top improvement financed from the city's tideland money.

CITY COLLEGE FRESHMAN

She Stars on Football Field With Ramettes

RITA LYNCH . . . Heads Ramettes

By ROBERT WILCOX

So you're curvy, chic and dexterous.

There's a talent scout on your trail who meets all her own specifications.

She's 18-year-old, auburn-tressed Rita Lynch, director of the 42-member Ramettes, L. A. professional football entertainment troupe.

Besides directing, Rita picks the talent, performs, handles the money and dreams up numbers for the flashy all-girl aggregation.

* * * *

IN HER SPARE time, the 5-foot-1 strutter conducts private twirling lessons (25 students) and tends to her studies (10 units) at Long Beach City College where she is a freshman dental assistant major.

Rita gravitated to the Ramettes naturally at 14—the minimum age. She had just retired after six years of baton-twirling competition and her trophy case bulged with 200 awards.

The petite high school student spun her way to assistant director in a year. This year she was appointed to the top job. She bosses the regular Saturday practice sessions at Cerritos College.

* * * *

RITA REPORTS that the Ramettes are bigger and better than ever. With 26 new twirlers, the troupe is up a round dozen from last year.

As usual about half were replaced due to age, marriage and other casually factors. Rita sent out invitations to 50 carefully chosen prospects, settled on 26 on the basis of ability, looks and personality.

"One of my toughest jobs is telling girls they've failed to make it," she says.

* * * *

BIGGEST EVENT of the year for the troupe, who buy their own costumes and pay their own expenses, is their lone trip—to San Francisco for the 49er game.

Although Rita "wouldn't know a first down if I saw one," she cheers lustily for her stalwarts. The Ram fortunes have a definite effect on the Ramettes' performance. "Most of us 'live' the game. If we're down in the dumps we don't do as well."

The girls are a close-knit group and especially so when romance blossoms. They take pride in the fact that two of their number have married from the ranks of Ram opponents.

* * * *

ODDLY, HER twirlers are nearly impervious to a crowd of 100,000 in the Coliseum, but they're apt to be nervous in the 17,000 seat Sports Arena. "The people are so close," explains Rita.

A Poly High graduate and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynch of 4463 Goldfield Ave., Rita works for a Hollywood modeling agency and has done bit parts on television.

But her heart's with heading the Ramettes despite the perils of broken zippers and feminine temperament. Rita wants to keep her position front and center in the intricate formations until her forced retirement at 21. "Then I'd like to keep on directing," she says.

Panel to Study Needs of Elderly in L.B. Hearing

Interests and needs of Long Beach senior citizens will be investigated this week by an advisory committee created by the Legislature.

Mrs. A. M. G. Russell, chairman of the citizens advisory committee on aging, has announced a public hearing for 10 a.m. Friday in the City Council Chamber at City Hall.

This will be the second in a series of hearings scheduled for various California cities prior to the drafting of recommendations to Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Mrs. Russell said.

Also attending will be Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick of Long Beach's 44th District and State Sen. Samuel Geddes of Napa. Both are legislative members of the committee.

* * * *

EXPECTED to be heard are local officials, representatives of private organizations with programs for older people and other groups and individuals.

Major assignment of the committee is to encourage services by communities to elder citizens.

According to Mrs. Russell, testimony will be directed to three main topics:

1. What efforts are being made on a community-wide basis in Long Beach to develop needed programs and services for older persons? Are senior citizens involved or represented in these efforts?

2. Are current programs—local, state or federal—adequate to meet such known needs as income and housing, recreation and leisure interests, and health care? What additional steps need to be taken by community groups; by local, state and federal agencies and by organizations representing the aging?

* * * *

3. WHAT ARE some of the ways by which additional numbers of senior citizens can engage in community service projects? What can be done through community support to create more opportunity for part-time employment and voluntary services by retired persons?

The 12-member advisory group was created by legislative actions in 1955 and 1956. Eight are appointed by the governor and four are legislators. Most recent appointee to the committee is David Feuer, Long Beach businessman.

Sr. Citizen Programs Scheduled

Long Beach will observe Senior Citizens Week today through next Sunday with tours, open houses and special programs.

First event is an open house at Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave., today. There will be a 1:30 p.m. tour and a 2 p.m. program.

Monday will feature dedication ceremonies for a new roque court at Bixby Park, Second Street and Cherry Avenue. There also will be a picnic and 2 p.m. band concert there.

* * * *

A PARTY of 270 senior citizens will take a bus tour and harbor cruise Tuesday. On Wednesday, several downtown churches are planning special programs.

Senior citizens are being urged to visit libraries and theaters on Thursday—Education and Entertainment Day. Special services are planned to pay tribute to senior citizens at some churches Sunday.

Secretary of YMCA Quits Job

Joseph C. Bransby, general secretary of the Long Beach YMCA since 1953, has accepted a similar post with the Atlanta, Ga., YMCA, it was announced Saturday by Norbert. W. Dean, president of the Y here.

Bransby's resignation takes effect on June 16. He came to Long Beach from Davenport, Iowa, where he was general Y secretary. He is a YMCA career secretary with 24 years of service.

In announcing Bransby's resignation, Dean noted that during Bransby's administration here the YMCA has grown from three to six branches with a membership increase from 3384 to the present total, 13,679.

"In 1961 alone," Dean said, "the Long Beach YMCA directed and supervised over 1300 youth clubs and organized groups involving 21,650 different persons."

* * * *

TOTAL attendance during the past year for Long Beach YMCA activities was 535,366, Dean noted.

In addition to his YMCA work, Bransby has served as vice president of the Rotary Club and has been active in civic and church affairs. He has campaigned during the past nine Community Chest drives and is assisting in the YMCA's "Buildings for Youth" fund drive.

Dean said a special selection committee, headed by Eugene Tincher, will announce Bransby's successor.

Cole, Cloyd 'Y' Program Tonight

Mrs. Florence Cole and Marvin Cloyd, both of whom have been active in Long Beach stage presentations, will present a program at 8 tonight in the Armed Services YMCA for active duty servicemen.

The program is billed as a group of satirical observations and humorous situations.

Five Programs Designed for Volunteer Workers

The first of a series of five programs designed to acquaint volunteer workers with opportunities available to them in Long Beach is scheduled for Wednesday.

Sponsored by the Community Volunteer Office, the series will be attended by more than 100 new members of the various organizations that provide volunteer workers.

Mrs. Clara Andrews, executive director of the Volunteer Office, said the public may make reservations to attend one or all of the programs by phoning her office.

The first program of the series will deal with the harbor and the history of the city. Harbor Commissioner John Davis will speak on the "History of Long Beach" and the harbor public relations director, Robert Metzger, will describe the operation of the harbor. A boat tour of the harbor will be included in the program.

* * * *

Other programs in the series are:

May 29 the subject will be city government and will include tours of the City Hall and Public Safety Building and talks on city government, civil defense and the fire department and a visit to a City Council meeting.

June 6 the subject will be youth and education and will include tours of Tucker Orthopedic School, the Children's Dental Health Center and the West Long Beach Girls Club.

Sept. 12 the subject will be Health and Welfare and will include tours of the Long Beach Day Nursery, the Health Department and Memorial Hospital.

Sept. 19, the subject will be culture and recreation and there will be tours of the Museum of Art and the Los Cerritos Ranch House.

Honor ROTC Cadets to Receive 34 Awards

More than 270 members of Long Beach high schools' Reserve Officers Training Corps will assemble on the Jordan High School athletic field Saturday at 1:30 p.m. for the first annual Long Beach ROTC awards day.

A total of 34 awards, most of them presented for the first time this year, will be given to cadets for outstanding performances during the 1961-62 school year.

Among those on hand to watch the ceremony will be a representative of Mayor Edwin W. Wade, other civic officials, officers from Long Beach area military installations and cadets' parents.

* * * *

TOP AWARDS will be superior cadet medals to be given to three students from Poly and Jordan high schools each and a principal's award to the outstanding senior cadet at each school.

Award donors include the Department of the Army, the schools' student bodies, Uptown and Downtown Kiwanis Clubs, a Poly Alumni group, Uptown and Downtown Lions Clubs, Gaviota and Western Shores chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the city's Armed Services Commission, Dr. and Mrs. Walter H. Boyd, Chamber of Commerce, Harbor-Long Beach Chapter of National Sojourners, and Arthur L. Peterson Post 27, American Legion.

The awards ceremony will be followed by a cadet review and demonstrations illustrating ROTC training and activities. Refreshments will be served.

IBC Event Benefits City of Hope

First 1962 Miss International pageant competition here will be a City of Hope benefit.

Profits from 7,000 tickets for the Aug. 15 opener go to the City of Hope Medical Center at Duarte, according to Long Beach Sponsors Club Auxiliary, City of Hope.

Opening event will feature a cast of 200 with stars of stage, screen, television, dancing revues, singers, bands and flag bearers.

* * * *

CITY OF Hope also bought out opening pageant ceremonies last year, but then first competition was not begun till a later show. This year, 52 global glamour girls face first-show competition.

Mooris Singer, sponsors auxiliary president, praised International Beauty Congress for their cooperation.

Realtors Plan Varied Activities

Realtor Week, the annual affair staged by members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, begins today and will be celebrated throughout the Southland.

Members of the Long Beach Board of Realtors have scheduled many events during the week and boards in nearby cities are staging similar observations.

It is a double celebration this week for this is the 100th anniversary of the passing of the Homestead Act, whereby home ownership became possible for any American.

Stories on Realtor Week will be found in the business and realty section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram and in the 22 pages of classified advertisement you will find the listings of many of the realtors offering special Realtor Week attractive home sales.

They Called Him the Lone Eagle

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO this day, a boyish U. S. air mail pilot named Charles A. Lindbergh took off in a small monoplane from Roosevelt Field in New York.

Thirty-three hours, 29 minutes, and 30 seconds later, he landed at Le Bourget air field in Paris as the most celebrated American hero of the 20th century.

The nation has had many another hero since Lindbergh, but none of them has captured the imagination so completely, touched the heart so effectively, or remained in the public memory so vividly.

Why?

IT WAS MORE THAN THE personality or the courage of the man.

The magical effect of Lindbergh stems from the individual nature of his feat.

Although it would be untrue to say that he had absolutely no help, the fact remains that "Lindy" was largely responsible for the planning of his flight and entirely responsible for its execution.

With crude flight instruments, without an adequate weather report, and in a plane that weighed less than one engine of a modern jetliner, he took off for a 3,610-mile non-stop flight across an ocean.

But the main thing is this: He was alone and depended entirely on his own resources; there was no radio, no assurance from a ground session, no stylus tracing the progress of his flight.

That a lone man should undertake such a hazardous and difficult project, and succeed, made men proud of the individual human spirit.

Proud and wistful.

THIS EMOTION HAS GROWN, if anything, more poignant with the passage of years.

Society today tends to organize men into herds and to achieve goals by mass movements, "teamwork," and group assault.

Thus, no single man discovers a vaccine today; he directs a medical team that discovers it.

No single man discovers a lost city; he is chairman of a board of explorers.

Even though John Glenn, the astronaut, performed an act of great personal heroism, one cannot quite forget the thousands of other men who worked with him to make his flight a success.

MANY PERSONS GO THROUGH life without any real personal distinction at all. Everything they do is done with somebody else. Every achievement is shared. They are lost in the crowd.

More and more the pressures of numbers, social attitude, and political theory squeeze individuals into anonymity. Except in a few of the arts, even the most talented cannot point to an accomplishment and say, without qualification:

"I did that myself."

Lindy can. His day is gone, never to return. But the tribute his deed paid to individual man, distinguished from the faceless man of "the organization," lingers in our memory like a bright light seen long after it has flickered out.

House-Senate Tilt Upsets Schedule

By the I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—A fascinating game of musical non-chairs is being played at the Capitol and is raising hob with the congressional schedule. Major appropriations bills are stalled while members of the House and Senate appropriations committees haggle over where they are to meet in conference on differences in bills that have been passed. The House members are in revolt. They refuse to continue any longer the 100-year-old custom of meeting in a Senate conference room. The Senators adamantly refuse to cross over to the House. On the surface, it appears to be a battle of pride and prestige, but much more is involved in the deadlock. Whoever is chairman of the conference exercises a vast control over the settlement of controversial items. In the past, the chairman has always been a senator, because the meetings were on the Senate side of the Capitol. House members jealously maintain the two bodies are co-equal. They want alternating chairmen. Thus the battle is over which house will have the upper hand in the deliberations through its chairman, rather than the prestige of sitting on one side of the Capitol or the other. Unless the deadlock is broken by June 30, some government departments won't have any operating funds!

THE PRICE OF POLITICAL friendship sometimes involves personal risks as Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-F-L., Minn.) discovered when he went to Florida to help former Sen. Claude Pepper campaign for a seat in the House of Representatives. Shortly before Humphrey and Pepper were to address a rally from the bed of a truck, Miami police were tipped that a bomb had been planted beneath it. Humphrey went on as scheduled after a search was conducted which failed to turn up any explosives. Pepper won handily, avoiding a runoff against his primary opponent, by garnering 47 votes more than half those cast in the four-candidate contest. He later credited Humphrey's campaigning and the medical care to the aged issue as the chief ingredients in his triumph.

We Send Troops 8000 Miles to Thailand but Ignore Cuba

WASHINGTON—It's a little hard to understand why the United States is sending 5,000 troops into Thailand—nearly eight thousand miles away—to help keep the Communists from extending into that country the hold they already have next door in Laos, while nothing is being done about rescuing Cuba, only 90 miles away from our shores.

President Kennedy says the American troops were sent into Thailand "to put us in a position to fulfill our obligations" under the treaty of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization," often referred to as "SEATO," and that other member countries will send troops, too. But if a regional association like this can take action so far away from the United States, it may be asked:

LAWRENCE

"Why isn't the Organization of American States being persuaded to send troops into Cuba to rid the island of the Communist rule there?

Surely, eliminating the menace of communism in Cuba would seem to be all-important to the security of the United States and of the nations to the south of us. It appears to be generally agreed that Fidel Castro really doesn't control Cuba but that alongside of him are a set of aides and advisers trained in Moscow who continually carry on hostile activities toward other Latin-American countries.

In the last meeting of the Organization of American States, the plan was for economic sanctions against the Communist regime in Cuba. Little has been heard since as to what the Washington government is doing to mobilize Latin-American governments behind a plan to drive the Communists out of Cuba.

This country has a very extensive aid program, known as the "Alliance for Progress," which is to cost the taxpayers of the United States many billions of dollars in the next few years. It doesn't seem sensible to be giving money to any Latin-American government which is so short-sighted as to fail to see the danger involved in letting the Communists operate from Cuba as a base.

Unquestionably the Kennedy administration can, if it likes, put pressure on the Latin-American governments to get some kind of sanction from the Organization of American States for military steps in Cuba.

As a matter of fact, the United States need not wait for the consent of the other states any more than it did in Thailand. The Southeast Asia Treaty, for instance, unlike the NATO pact, provides that, when there is danger of aggression in the area, each member shall be governed by its own "constitutional processes." This is but another way of saying that each country shall make its own decision.

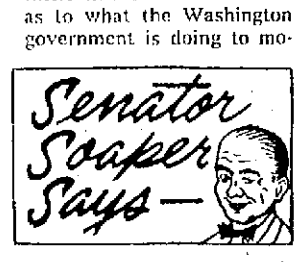

The United States is in a similar positions as a member of the Organization of American States. It may ask for the co-operation of the other members, but it can make its own decision to protect any Latin-American country that has been invaded by a foreign power or where there has been evidence of subversive activities which threaten the political independence of the people.

There is abundant evidence in connection with the Communist operations in Latin America that the Moscow government has infiltrated many parts of the hemisphere and exercises direct control of the government and the national economy of Cuba. Hence, the right under an existing international agreement to take action in Cuba is clear.

* * * *

SO THERE no longer is any doubt but that the United States is using military force to check Communist-inspired operation in Southeast Asia and that other members of SEATO have formally recognized America's action and may send their own troops as well.

The SEATO precedent gives support now to a similar movement of American troops into Cuba or surrounding areas. The purpose would be to cut off all operations by Communist-led forces based in Cuba and aimed at any other country of this hemisphere. Sending American troops to Thailand certainly opens up the question of why the same kind of action in respect to Cuba isn't also justified.

DREW PEARSON

Rocky Running for President?

WASHINGTON — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York has been touring the Rocky Mountain States with all the vigor of a man who is running for President.

PEARSON

He says, officially, that he is only a candidate for governor of New York, that he wants to talk about 1962, not 1964. But his actions belie his words.

The governor is shaking hands and making speeches with the charm and enthusiasm of a man who wants to push John F. Kennedy out of the White House, not as one worried about being re-elected governor of New York.

Furthermore, Rockefeller is advocating a policy that out-Kennedys Kennedy. What he has to say about medical aid for the aged makes cold shivers run up and down the backs of Goldwater members of the GOP. He says that the Kennedy plan for medical care does not go far enough, that many who won't be qualified for medical care under Kennedy should be able to get it.

Rockefeller made it clear that he would even accept support from Jimmy Hoffa. Asked specifically about Hoffa, who has become a major issue in the debate between Gov. Pat Brown and Richard Nixon in California, Rockefeller replied: "I am not going to refuse the support of anyone who believes in my policies."

Rockefeller criticized the steel companies for hiking the price of steel, endorsed Kennedy's plan for tax-withholding on dividends, and OK'd American entrance into the common market. He even said that in the new atomic age no nation could exist without giving up some of its sovereignty.

Some Republicans recalled the day in 1960 when Rocky went on tour to roll up votes for the GOP nomination and when Len Hall, then chairman of the Republican National Committee planted pro-Nixon hecklers in his crowd. Today Len Hall is in no position to organize against Rockefeller, but some Rocky Mountain Republicans who listened in amazement wished he was.

One Republican who came to the GOP Rockefeller banquet in Cheyenne hoping to get some ammunition to defeat Democratic Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming, departed grumbling.

"We might just as well have had McGee as our guest speaker," he said. "He would have cost us less."

OREGON'S bristle-browed Sen. Wayne Morse is bucking up against the quiet opposition of Senate leaders in his campaign to ban cocktail parties from Capitol Hill.

Lobbyists often pick up the tabs for these parties, offering free food and drink to lure members of Congress to drop by for a friendly chat about some favorite legislation.

Most lobbyists throw their little soirees in the hotels around Capitol Hill, which do a booming business entertaining congressmen. But a few lobbyists with good connections have learned that they can get rooms right in the capitol building by arranging for them through a senator or congressman.

These public rooms not only are more convenient but can be charged to the taxpayers. Thus the taxpayers help subsidize the lobbying which, more often than not, is against their best interests.

Morse is now looked upon by many colleagues as a social pariah for trying to put an end to this handy source of free booze. They now refer to all alcoholic beverages consumed under the capitol dome as "Morse water."

OUR JUNE 5 PRIMARY

Three Unopposed in Ballot for 44th Party Nominations

(First in a series on candidates and ballot measures to be voted on in the California primary election June 5. Today: State Assembly, 44th District. Term, two years. Salary, $6,000).

THREE UNOPPOSED candidates of California's three qualified parties comprise the field in the June 5 primary nominations for assemblyman in the West Long Beach-Lakewood 44th Assembly District.

Joseph M. Kennick, Democrat, incumbent, seeks his third two-year term in the 80-member state lawmaking body. Wilbur R. (Bill) Richardson is the lone Republican candidate, and William Jay Scalf is the Prohibition party candidate. Lack of party opposition means the same three men will be on November's general election ballot and that the June 5 primary will be merely a popularity vote prelude to that showdown.

The 44th A. D. has new shape and numbers as a result of the 1961 state reapportionment. It took the City of Lakewood away from the other Long Beach A.-D.—the 39th (formerly 70th)—and added a western segment bordered by Avalon Blvd. The reapportionment corrected a population inequity which was more than two-to-one out of balance. Party registration gives a 62 per cent to 38 per cent Democratic margin over Republicans. There are only 102 registered Prohibitionists in the 44th.

KENNICK'S BILLS raised old age grants from $95 to $100 a month and grants to the blind, both with cost of living escalators; rewrote with State Sen. Arnold juvenile court laws, the first revision in 47 years; provided an additional municipal court judge for Long Beach. He coauthored bills for increased narcotics penalties, to remove sales tax from prescription drugs, to label hazardous substances. In his second term he was named chairman of the Manufacturing, Oil and Mining Industries Committee. He received a Metropolitan Water District citation for "distinguished and courageous service." Before election he served 24 years as superintendent of the Long Beach Juvenile Department.

RICHARDSON, a Republican, lives at 3711 Poppy St., has been a public school teacher, (now in the Los Alamitos District), for nine years. He, as the other two candidates, has campaigned very little due to the fact of no primary opposition. He has degrees from Long Beach City College, Brigham Young University and his Master's from Long Beach State. He is a member of the Military Order of the Purple Heart. He has scored the Democrats for "unnecessary expense of the taxpayers' monies in the field of education" . . . and textbook selection and printing at the state level, "choice dictated from Sacramento." He would abolish the State Printing Office, making savings available to local boards to select books best suited to their district's needs.

SCALF, PROHIBITIONIST, 4354 Conquista Ave., Lakewood, is an elementary school teacher who expects to receive his B. A. in Education in June from Long Beach State. His response to the League of Women Voters questionnaire, from which this series will quote on numerous candidates, notes he is active in the Church of the Nazarene and has had little time for civic activities while earning his degree and working full time to support his family. He is for stronger narcotics laws, more freedom in this fight for law enforcers. His special interests include education, anti-communism, mass transit, old age aid and water.

PUBLIC FORUM

Defeatist Thinking Results in Defeat

EDITOR:

My letter in the Forum supporting the position taken by the editorial, "Dear Dr. Spock Should Stick to Child Care," drew fire from a Mr. Robert Greengard. Mr. Greengard gives us a lesson in biology in an attempt to prove there are no (or very few) absolute final truths.

Greengard succeeds in displaying an unfortunate philosophy of negativism, an attitude which says, in effect, "Nothing good can come of anything." This aura of defeatism permeates his writing, as though his world with its many, many problems, was just too complex for him to face.

* * * *

MOST OF US are fully aware there are indeed truths, but I'm sure Mr. Greengard would not be satisfied with such things simply stated. He would much prefer to flounder off into that grey morass of confusion and despair where everything is relative. For instance, if I said the earth was round, he could prove to me that it was covered with humps and depressions.

There certainly must be a place in our free society for this brand of thinking, but I resubmit that the minds of those men charged with our national security are not the proper repositories for a negative viewpoint.

Defeatist thinking results in defeat; I would remind Mr. Greengard that because of positive thinking and positive action on the part of the United States, Nazi Germany did not conquer the world.

Loyalty Oath Critics Illogical

EDITOR:

Let's look at those that oppose, as insulting, loyalty oaths for students who want money from their government to further their education. Why would anyone oppose loyalty oaths in this specific instance when they so readily sanction every public official from dog-catcher to president taking an oath to support and defend the Constitution of the United States? The anti-loyalty oath crowd does not consider it insulting to compel a boy who is drafted into the armed services to swear allegiance to the United States and to swear to defend it against all enemies, foreign and domestic, with his life if need be.

Somehow we hear no complaint from these so-called liberals when a person joining the church of his choice is required to most solemnly swear adherence to the tenets of that particular faith. They still feel it is perfectly proper when two persons are united in wedlock, in a most sacred ceremony to take vows of dedication and loyalty to each other.

Does it not seem passing strange that this great furore has arisen over the swearing of loyalty to this great country of ours and disclaiming Communist party membership when a student is asking for something from his government and not inquiring as to what he can do for it?

We Should Help Chinese Refugees

EDITOR:

Many thousands of Chinese people are seeking refuge outside Red China but are being refused.

Now would seem to be the time for America to share her surpluses of wheat and to offer land and money to these deserving, downtrodden people.

Here is our chance to show these people how sweet freedom is.

JFK Builds Red Roadblock in Asia

By Harry Wilson Sharpe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy threw a formidable military roadblock across the Communist gateway to Southeast Asia last week.

It was a calculated risk, depending on how Red China and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev reacted. But congressional leaders and U. S. Allies recognized it as imperative.

* * * *

ON THE President's orders, U.S. combat Marines and war planes landed in pro-Western Thailand — with Thailand's ready consent — to augment U.S. troops already guarding the strategic kingdom from Communist rebels overrunning neighboring Laos.

An eventual 5,000-man buildup armed with deadly equipment was envisioned. Britain, New Zealand, Australia and Pakistan, which have vital interests at stake, planned to send in token forces.

Kennedy hoped the maneuver would lead to another cease fire and political stability in strife-torn Laos where rival factions have been unable to form a peaceful coalition government.

But he had no plans to send American troops into Laos unless the Communists forced his hand. His primary concern was the safety of Thailand which lies athwart the Communist-coveted road to the Asiatic rice bowl.

Khrushchev who last year agreed to an international truce team and a cease-fire in Laos, apparently recognized that Kennedy meant business. He instructed the Soviet ambassador here to say Russia agrees on th necessity of another cease-fire and a peaceful political settlement.

* * * *

BUT HE ALSO declared in a speech at Obnova, Bulgaria, that it was "only a question of time" until the American troops would be driven from Thailand. He said Kennedy's action was "stupidity" and that it was time the U.S. gave up its role of "international policeman."

It was the first time U.S. troops had been ordered ashore in an emergency since President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent 7,000 men to protect Lebanon from outside aggression in 1958.

At a nationally televised press conference, Kennedy said he was counting on the three rival princes of Laos to reach a political agreement which would avert "a shooting war in the jungles of Asia."

He said the U.S. troop movement expressed "our desire to stabilize the situation." He said it was a defensive act, wholly consistent with the United Nations charter. He consulted Democratic and Republican congressional leaders before issuing the landing order.

Secretary of state Dean Rusk said the Asian crisis could be ended quickly if Moscow "would leave these countries alone."

IN OTHER news spheres the President said in answer to caustic criticism from French President Charles de Gaulle that the free nations of Europe must decide for themselves whether they will form a strong political union or a loosely-knit confederation. De Gaulle opposes any political union that would supersede national governments.

He also is determined France will have her own nuclear defensive force outside the West's NATO defense alliance.

Kennedy said that was De Gaulle's right. But he also said that as long as the United States bears the major military and economic burden of NATO this nation must share in the progress and decisions in Europe. He said the Communist threat to Western freedom was basically indivisible, as is the Western deterrent to that threat.

On the home front, the President disclosed that 76 FBI agents and the Internal Revenue Bureau are digging into the financial manipulations of Texas boy-wonder Billie Sol Estes who had close contacts in the Department of Agriculture and Congress.

Four department officials accused of off-record dealings with the now disgraced financier have either resigned or been fired. Kennedy pledged further that any other federal employe found guilty of such improprieties woud be disciplined immediately.

Estes has been indicted on charges of fraud in grain-storage and cotton-acreage allocation programs. Senate and House committees also are cranking up for a major bi-partisan investigations. Estes will be called to testify.

The President, mindful of the political implications, noted that Estes' operations pre-dated his inauguration. And he staunchly defended the actions of Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman in the case. Republicans had demanded Freeman resign, charging he had been lax.

"The government," Kennedy said, "is staying right on Mr. Estes' tail."

Elsewhere in the news, a parachute problem at Cape Canaveral delayed until Tuesday America's second orbital flight — the space voyage of astronaut M. Scott Carpenter.

The United States was reported considering the launching of an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile armed with a nuclear warhead for detonation in the Pacific atomic testing area near Christmas Island, 3,000 miles from the California launching.

Khrushchev attacked the current U.S. tests in the Pacific and said Russia would resume tests. He set no date.

Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was arrested here and released on bond for later jury trial on charges he beat a union aide "like a man beserk." The aide, Samuel Baron, field director of the union's warehouse division, displayed black eyes and a face gash in court when Hoffa was arraigned. Hoffa pleaded innocent.

He also was indicted by a Nashville, Tenn., federal grand jury on charges of accepting illegal payments from a Michigan trucking company between 1949 and 1958.

The Senate bowed to a long Southern filibuster and killed Kennedy's bill to outlaw literacy tests as a voting requirement in federal elections.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, predicted the federation would open a drive for a 35-hour work week with no cut in pay unless the jobless problem is solved.

Military Might Goes on Display

—Staff Photos

ARMED FORCES DAY EVENTS in the Long Beach area included a parade of military might in Torrance Saturday, followed by a visit of Navy Undersecretary Paul B. Fay Jr. to the Long Beach Naval Base. Passing reviewing stand (left) is a marching unit from the 47th Artillery Brigade, Fort MacArthur, participating with Army armored units (center) and other groups from all services. Undersecretary Fay (extreme right) acted as grand marshal of the parade before meeting with Adm. Kenneth L. Veth, commander of Long Beach Naval Base, at a luncheon in the base's Allen Center Officers Club.

Scan Pomona Project

POMONA (UPI)—The question of whether private money can be successfully used to develop downtown areas will be the subject of a forum May 29, in Pomona.

Pomona has attracted nationwide attention by building a downtown pedestrian mall entirely financed by private enterprise without use of public funds.

Heading the list of panelists will be world famous artist Millard Sheets, creator of the Pomona Mall; Dr. Robert Bernard, president of Claremont University College; A. T. Richardson, president of the Pomona Transportation Center and publisher of the Pomona Progress-Bulletin, and local city officials.

News director Bill McMillan of radio station KRLA will moderate the forum. The radio station will broadcast the forum Sunday evening.

'Mutiny' Kin Sees Bounty's Homeland

PLYMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—Fletcher Christian, whose great-great-great-grandfather led the famous mutiny on the Bounty, had his first look last week at the land of his forebearers.

Christian, 64, is on a world tour as a guest of The Netherlands liner Willem Ruys, which calls from time to time at Pitcairn Island. There, Christian heads the small colony descended from the Bounty mutineers.

Offensive Effigy to Be Ousted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Saturday that the manager of a wax museum in St. Augustine, Fl., has agreed to destroy immediate a figure of the Prophet Mohammed. There have been objections it offended perosns of the Mohammedan faith.

Angier Biddle Duke, chief of protocol in the State Department, wrote Mrs. Lucie Talbott, museum manager, that ambassadors of Moslem nations in Washington regarded the figure of Mohammed "as a desecration."

A STATE Department spokesman, explaining the Duke letter, said the Mohammedan religion "has an abhorrence of images, especially images of Mohammed."

Press Officer Francis W. Tully Jr. made this announcement:

"Mrs. Talbott of Potters Wax Museum in St. Augustine, Fla., has agreed to the immediate destruction of the figure of the Prophet Mohammed from the museum's collection.

"Mrs. Talbott has informed the department that she did not wish to offend anyone and that in fact her intention has been simply to provide exhibits that would tend to increase understanding between peoples of different countries."

Diplomat's Wife Considered 'Spy'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The wife of veteran diplomat Robert M. McClintock, now U.S. Ambassador to Argentina, once was suspected by Finnish officials of being a spy, it was revealed Saturday.

The Finns called the Chilean-born Mrs. McClintock "the beautiful creole."

The incident was laughed off by McClintock's boss at that time.

Mrs. McClintock, the former Elena Barrios, is the daughter of a former finance minister of Chile.

The fact that she was once suspected of being a spy was disclosed when the State Department released a volume of diplomatic papers which includes documents relating to U.S.-Finnish relations in 1942.

Among the papers was a telegram sent by the U.S. ministers to Helsinki, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, to secretary of State Cordell Hull on July 18, 1942.

Schoenfeld informed Hull that Swiss Minister Karl Egger had told him that morning "that Finish official circles are obsessed by thought that the American Legation is center of extensive espionage activity in Finland."

Egger added that particular anxiety was felt there as to possible espionage activities of Mrs. McClintock who, he said, is described as 'the beautiful creole' and whose visits to Stockholm from time to time have been subject of anxious comment in this relation."

Mrs. McClintock's husband at that time was second secretary of the U.S. Legation in Helsinki.

Schoenfeld explained in his cable that "Mrs. McClintock's trips to Stockholm have of course been innocuous and have been undertaken either with their child during periods of air activity here or with her husband on courier trips."

Finland in 1942 was at war with the Soviet Union; and the capital was the target of Soviet bomber planes.

Schoenfeld concluded his telegram by observing.

"Finnish credulity in this matter is measure of characteristic provincialism."

Two Lodges Open State Convention

The six-day-long annual state convention of the Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, meeting with the Rebekah Assembly of California, will convene today in Municipal Auditorium.

The formal opening, a joint meeting of the two groups, is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

Daily sessions will continue through the week, winding up Friday night with installation of officers and the grand ball.

Allen F. English, grand master, will preside at the Odd Fellow sessions.

Kennedys After Him, Says Hoffa

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Teamsters president James R. Hoffa said Saturday an indictment charging him with illegally collecting more than $1 million for an employer stems from a long-standing grudge by President Kennedy and his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

"The taxpayers' money is being used to pay for Bobby Kennedy's foolishness," Hoffa said, "And to pay for the continuation of a vendetta against me."

He said the federal action was just another example of the administration harassing him and the teamsters.

* * * *

"WITH BILLIE Sol Estes, Laos and widespread unemployment as a consequence of administration policies, you would think they (the administration) would find something more important to do than to pick on us," he said.

The Teamsters chief was indicted by a federal grand jury in Nashville, Tenn., Friday.

As described in a statement by Robert Kennedy, the indictment accused Hoffa of conspiring with Commercial Carriers, Inc., a nationwide automoblie transport company, to set up a truck rental operation through which illegal payments were made from 1949 to 1958.

* * * *

HOFFA and the late Owen (Bert) Brennan, former Teamster vice president who died a year ago, were named in one count, and Hoffa and Commercial Carriers were named in a second count.

Kennedy said Commercial, whose headquarters are in Detroit, paid Hoffa and Brennan a total of $1,008,057 in violation of the Taft-Hartley ban on payments by employers to employe representatives. The provision forbids any such payment except for wages or other specified reasons.

Hoffa said his association with the trucking company was not a violation of the law. He said various governmental agencies had been checking his connection with the company for 16 years and none ever found a violation.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Anne Bancroft Finds Herself

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Anne Bancroft marveled out loud the other rainy afternoon at all the years she has given to playing Helen Keller's famous battered and bruised teacher, Annie Sullivan.

"They've asked me how old I was when I started working on the role. Well I was 27," Miss Bancroft said across the coffee table in her brownstone down in Greenwich Village.

"And in September," she said, "I'm going to be 31.

Patty Duke is a woman now. She was just a baby with dolls version of the story now, basking in the predictions that it'll win next year's Oscar. She must rush off to film festivals in Spain, or greet a student from HilsinskiAIS — o girl student from Helsinki who's playing "Miracle Worker" twice a week there, talk to people like me who have great curiosity about her.

ANNE

* * * *

"HOW did it happen," I actress—and the next day you were just a pretty fair movie acress—and the next day you were some kind of a sensation?"

"Arrived"—is that what you mean?" Anne was thinking over the question.

She admitted that she "arrived" when she played Gittel Mosca in "Two for the Seesaw"—after several years of undistinguished picture emoting—and she added, "If I'd played the part of Gittel a year before. I couldn't have done it as well."

"I went into analysis, divorced my husband, gave up Hollywood and came back to New York, and went back to school."

"The analysis is still on?"

"Still is, STILL IS, God in Heaven."

"I found out how miserable I was. I was blaming everybody else for my troubles. I didn't know that sometimes it was my fault. . . ."

"Yes," Anne added, "I was living for the wrong reasons."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Economists say that in 1963 the average American will earn twice as much as an Englishman, three times as much as a Frenchman—and half as much as he needs.

HOLLYWOOD NICE GIRL

Actress Dolores Hart, a Blushing Success, Still Turns Red Quickly

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dolores Hart is the only actress I know who blushes.

When I first met her in 1957, she was fresh out of convent school and her blushing was understandable.

In the five years since, she has compiled quite a bit of movie and broadway success—but she still blushes. It's remarkable.

"I shall never deny the effects of chemistry in my life," she answers when pressed for a reason of her natural technicolor.

* * * *

CERTAIN PEOPLE make her blush more than others. Tony Franciosa is one. About three years ago she made a movie with him but when she sees him even today, she gets all flustered.

"I just have to tell him that he shakes me up, I just can't talk to him without turning six shades of red. I don't know what there is about him that makes me behave so."

Known as one of Hollywood's nice girls, Dolores almost had her spotless reputation tarnished in London a few months ago. She was saved by a blush.

* * * *

"IT SEEMS funny now but was a moment of tragedy at the time. I was shooting 'Lisa' in London. In it, as a Jewish concentration camp refugee, I wear drab clothes — trench coat, beret and the rest.

"I came back to my hotel in the west end one night and absent-mindedly decided to take a walk around the block still wearing my 'Lisa' costume."

"As I walked, I suddenly realized that two Bobbies were following me. I started to walk faster but they caught me and asked for identification. I had none. I told them who I was and that I was staying at the Dorchester, which is a pretty ritzy hotel.

* * * *

"THEY LOOKED at my shabby dress and I could see that my story wasn't going over. Then I realized that they were about to arrest me.

"They started to take me to Scotland Yard and then I blushed through my makeup.

"One of the Bobbies said: 'Miss, you must be telling the truth because in 25 years, I never knew one of the girls to blush.' They let me go."

"I got in this business by being as direct and honest as I know how. I intend to stay in it the same way," she says. "I never try to put on an act."

* * * *

SHE DOESN'T go around bemoaning the fact that she is always cast as a good girl.

"I believe the good girl is harder to portray on the screen than the bad girl, and, of course, much harder to live.

"I consider it a challenge and I like it when movies show that the so-called good girl in reality has a lot more guts than her opposite."

After acting in high school dramas, Dolores won a drama scholarship at Marymount College.

* * * *

"EVERYTHING after that seemed to fall in place. As a Marymount freshman, I went to a dance at Loyola University, an all-male school.

"There I met a young felow who asked me if I would read for the title role in 'Joan of Lorraine' that the Loyola drama group was putting on.

"Almost in the same breath, he said he would write producers in Hollywood to come and see the play. There might be a contract.

"I said: 'Wait a minute, boy, that line's been used before.'

"But I did the part on Nov. 19, 1956 and Hal Wallis got one of the first letters.

"Wallis didn't come to see me but he telephoned my mother for me to come and see him. I walked into his tremendous office and promptly broke into this horrible multi-colored blush.

"It broke the ice somehow and I still swear the only reason he ever signed me was because he was so startled to see a potential actress blush."

She's still under contract to Wallis—and still blushing.

—Associated Press Wirephoto

HER FACE IS RED

The look of embarrassment on Dolores Hart's face came from nature, not stage practice. The 23-year-old Hollywood film actress is distinguished by the fact that not only can she blush, but she can help blushing. Says it's chemistry.

NO 'PRODUCER' WANTED

Welk Refuses Screen Offers

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lawrence Welk, one of television's biggest stars, is being sought for a movie role, but the champagne music maker has refused screen offers.

"We've had some pressure for the past two or three years to do a movie," Welk revealed "But I think it has been to use our name to make money. We would want it to be for the entertainment value."

Welk's 12-year career on television has brought him monetary rewards and professional respect. He wouldn't risk all that on one movie produced with just boxoffice receipts in mind.

Welk brews ideas for his popular champagne music from a large office suite located in a beautiful building in which he's financially interested.

* * * *

"I'VE TURNED down all the movie offers that have come along," said Welk, who appeared in a few short musical feature films years ago.

"The wrong movie, played against us, could be unfavorable. We're in television and we've found that when an artist goes into another field it hurts his main job if he doesn't do well.

'GLASS MENAGERIE'

LBCC Drama Truly Superior

The little animals in Laura Wingfield's glass collection break easily and demand the most delicate care in handling. The same is true of Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie." The slightest shock can shatter its power to sustain an illusion.

Thanks to a production superior in every detail, the Long Beach City College version of the play this weekend achieved and intensified "the truth in the pleasant guise of illusion." Under the firm and insightful direction of J. L. White, who also designed the set and lighting, a small but excellent cast brought the Wingfield family and the gentleman caller brilliantly to life.

"The Glass Menagerie" was Williams' first important success, and remains his most appealing if not most powerful play. Although even in it we find a fascination with the misfit in society, Williams had not yet graduated to sadism or cannibalism. Amanda Windfield is at worst only a minor monster.

* * * *

AMANDA'S trouble, like that of so many of the characters in the Faulknerian "decaying South" tradition, arises from her inability to give up the past or to find anything but misery in the present. She loses a husband to long distance, drives a son to the sea, and adds psychological to physical crippling of her shy daughter, all because she was, as she remembered it, once the belle of the Delta, with 17 gentleman callers all at the same time.

Amanda is a complex character, combining obtuseness with a kind of animal cunning, all overlaid with charm, charm, charm. Played wrong, she would be either just honey chile cute on the one hand or aging bitch nasty on the other. Either would ruin the play.

Marlene Silverstein, who plays the part, not only does not ruin it, but she enlarges and enriches it. In timing, in intonation, in gesture she is perfect, so that her southern accent never sounds false and every action she performs seems to grow naturally out of her understanding of what Amanda is.

* * * *

IN NAGGING at Tom, in reassuring Laura, in entertaining the gentleman caller, she is different people, and each one just right, each one a recognizable part of Amanda. In every way here is a remarkable and admirable performance.

The rest of the cast are strong, too. Susan Knoblock sustains the fragility of Laura very well, without making her uninteresting. Laura's brief glow of hope in response to the attentions of the caller provides the emotional high point of the play, and Miss Knoblock creates it with great economy of means.

Alan Ross is Tom, Amanda's son and the narrator of the play. As the necessarily practical one in the family he makes a good foil for the mother and daughter. Ross' performance adds just the amount of contrast necessary for the play.

* * * *

VAUGHN Von Merwald plays the gentleman caller. He is appropriately outgoing and affable in bringing Laura part way out of her shell.

The set is simple but highly functional. Usually dimly lighted, it aids considerably in creating the proper sense of illusion.

Taking it altogether, "The Glass Menagerie" is probably the best effort of LBCC in the last five years. It undoubtedly is the best of this year, and one of the best anywhere in town.

ROBERT C. WYLDER

Shinn Sued by Swaffield for $400,000

Aircraft builder Clifford L. Shinn and his Shinn Industries Inc. at Orange County Airport are defendants in a libel suit for more than $400,000, filed in Orange County Superior Court by Robert M. Swaffield of Long Beach.

Swaffield, former chairman of the board of Shinn Engineering, Inc., claimed that he was libeled by a letter he said Shinn wrote to Josiah M. Scott and other Shinn financial backers in Delaware.

* * * *

THE LETTER accused him of incompetence and a lack of managerial ability, among other things, Swaffield said.

Within a month after the alleged letter was written, he was discharged Feb. 13, Swaffield told the court. He asked $250,000 punitive damages, $100,000 for loss of his business reputation, $50,000 for mental distress, and $35,000 for loss of income.

Sen. Engle Suggests Pacific Common Mart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said that many of the problems between Mexico and the United States could be ironed out with a Pacific Common Market.

He said the Pacific Community has a great potential for development of its own Common Market, comparable to, but less formal, than the European market.

Romanian Reds Seek New Members

VIENNA (AP) — Romania's ruling Communist Party has launched a campaign to strengthen its ranks by mass admissions of new members. Radio Bucharest has announced a decision of the central committee "to invite more farmers and intellectuals to join the party." It ordered waiting periods for party candidates cut short. Latest official statistics gave party membership of 800,000 out of a population of 18,403,000.

BEN MARTIN
CNPA Head

Publishers Assn. Picks Ben Martin

Ben D. Martin, 39, former secretary of the Bellflower Chamber of Commerce and employe of The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, has been named general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

He was appointed by unanimous vote of the CNPA board of directors to succeed the late John B. Long, who died March 15 at age 67.

Long held the post for more than 34 years.

Martin was assistant general manager for three years prior to his appointment as acting general manager in March.

* * * *

MARTIN, a resident of Loomis, Calif., said he would maintain his main office in Sacramento, where his wife, Carmela, is women's editor of the Sacramento Bee. The new general manager also said he would supervise offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Both Martin and his wife formerly were members of the regional news staff of The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram. He was secretary to the California Highway Commission before taking the CNPA post.

The appointment was announced by CNPA President Ralph H. Turner, publisher of the Temple City Times, at the organization's meeting at Richardson Springs, near Chico.

AT OJAI

Festival Concert Charms

By RACHEL MORTON

OJAI—Saturday morning's concert of the Ojai Music Festival was held in the Nordhoff auditorium before a capacity audience and was a program of chamber music and song.

There is such a lovely Old World atmosphere in the informal gatherings outside the auditorium under the old trees before the morning concerts begin. The weather was perfect and festival habitues for many seasons greated one another happily.

Except for two Mozart numbers, the music was by contemporary composers. The most beautiful music came at the end with a Quintet for Winds and Piano by Mozart. The quintet was composed of virtuoso players, Leo Smit, piano; Bert Gassman, oboe; Gunther Schuller, horn; Norman Herzberg, bassoon and Richard Dufallo, clarinet.

* * * *

THE WORK was given a memorable performance.

There was a beautiful intermingling of the instruments. The slow movement was lovely beyond words, each of the players taking bits of solo and weaving together in a velvet legato that was exquisite. The allegro was full of joyous ripples with Smit underlying it all with perfect piano coordination.

Leo Smit was the hardest-working musician of the morning. In the Fantasy No. 2 for Piano Four Rands by Mozart, he and Natalie Limonick combined in well matched artistry and tonal loveliness the fascinating music of Mozart at his best.

Smit then became the very capable accompanist for Marmi Nixon, soprano, who sang songs by Bartok, Milhaud, Hindemith, and Schoenberg. Miss Nixon has a sweet lyrical voice with a plaintive tone. She is a splendid musician and seemed quite capable of encompassing all the hurdles of modern composition.

* * * *

MOST DRAMATIC of the songs was the "Ballad of Jane Grey" by Schoenberg, a really powerful and intriguing number which displayed her voice to its best advantage.

Four very sharp pieces by Berg for clarinet and piano were played by Richard Dufallo, clarinetist and Leo Smit, piano. Dufallo is one of the finest clarinetists today. His tone is of gorgeous color and he played with great artistry. The music was descriptive and gripping and held the audience.

The cellist, Howard Colf, with Leo Smit at the piano, played "Three (even smaller) Small Pieces for cello and piano by Weben. The title should have been, "Three Fragments for Cello and Piano," if they were meant to be humorous, they achieved their goal, for laughter was the only response of the audience. Lasting a minute or less each, the sparsity of notes was also conspicuous. How can one judge music with no notes and cello playing with no playing?

Smashing Victory for Washington

Washington Crosses Finish Line Followed by British Columbia and California

Husky Crew Cracks Record; State Settles for 4th Place

By DAVE TAYLOR

Washington University's eight oar-swinging Huskies swooped across the finish line to snatch the Western Intercollegiate Rowing Championship crown by half a boat length before 4,000 screaming fans at Long Beach Marine Stadium Saturday.

Setting a new 6-minute 11.8-second 2000 meter Marine Stadium course record, Washington led the crews of the Universities of British Columbia and California across the line as Long Beach State College's upstart "giant-killers" were trampled by three of the mightiest Goliaths in the sport.

In the final sprint for the Ky Ebright varsity championship cup, UBC followed Washington under the wire in 6:15 flat, leaving third place to California in 6:10.6. LBSC was fourth with 6:26.2, Stanford fifth in 6:27 and UCLA sixth in 6:34.

With a spectacular display of physical stamina, the crews matched Washington's 44-stroke start pull-for-pull. At 700 meters the pace leveled off to about 38 strokes, with the Huskies taking a slight lead. But it was still anyone's race.

THEN THE DISTANCE BEGAN to tell, and from there on it was a bow-to-bow standoff duel between the the two-time defending IRA Champion Huskies and the 1960 Olympic runner-up British Columbia Thunderbirds.

They traded the lead down the stretch until the last 200 meters when Washington edged out front to gain its one-half a boat length ahead of the Columbians, with California nipping at the Thunderbirds' tail feathers.

Coach Fil Leanderson's Huskies gave notice of their intentions for settling the issue of the day as early as the second varsity elimination heat when they first broke their own 6:17 Marine Stadium course record set in 1933. The Washington eight won the heat over UBC, Stanford, Oregon and USC by clocking 6:14.5.

In all, the 1933 record was broken four times Saturday in what Ky Ebright—"grandfather of West Coast crew racing"—termed "the finest crew rowing exhibition ever staged on the Pacific Coast." Washington broke their own 1933 mark thrice, and UBC made four, cracking the record with their 6:15 runner-up dash in the Ebright sprint.

BUT THE EBRIGHT VARSITY championship win was only half the victory for the oarsmen from Washington Saturday. Taking up the cudgel in the junior varsity, Frank Read Trophy championship sprint, the Huskies thumped UBC, California, UCLA, LBSC and Loyola with a finishing time of 6:16.

Outside collegiate competition, the Lake Washington Rowing Club won every event in which they contended—Senior Singles quarter mile, Senior Singles 2000 meters, Junior Doubles, Senior Four, Junior Singles, Junior Four and Senior Doubles.

"We're mighty happy about the way things stacked up today," said Washington coach Leanderson as his Ebright champion varsity oarsmen threw their Coxwain, Grant Allen, in the drink with a victory whoop that drowned the steady buzz of TV cameras.

"I don't know that the boys rowed their best race of the season today, but they were up to the occasion. We're mighty happy—you bet we are, but now we've got plenty of work to do for the IRA 'cause that's where we're going next."

The IRA national intercollegiate competition is slated for New York in June.

For LBSC coach Bill Lockyer, his 49ers were still

Stan Cracks Hit Mark, Cards Win

By GEORGE LEDERER

Two restaurant owners will be setting 'em on the house today by remote control.

For patrons of Ray's Coffee Shop in St. Petersburg, Fla., it'll be free coffee. For clients of Stan and Biggie's Restaurant in St. Louis, it should be something more elaborate. Steaks, perhaps.

The celebrants are Cardinals' Stan (The Man) Musial, who stroked his long-awaited 3,431st National League hit, and Ray Sadecki, a winner over the Dodgers for the first time by an 8-1 count Saturday night.

* * * *

A LADIES night turnout of 50,103 gave Musial a standing ovation after he set his 40th league record with a single to right field in the ninth inning. Of Polish ancestry, the 41-year-old Musial picked on Ron Perranoski, a fellow landsman, for the hit that wiped out Hall of Famer Hans Wagner's 45-year-old record.

Hitless in 16 trips against the Dodgers this year, Musial lined a Perranoski curve ball in front of Frank Howard to start a superfluous three-run round for the Redbirds. It was only the second hit for The Man in his last 25 times up.

Umpire Dusty Boggess called time and presented the ball to Musial, who left for a pinch-runner after absorbing cheers for three minutes. Musial's record hit came on his 10,297th time at bat. Wagner, who retired in 1917, batted 10,427 times.

* * * *

SADECKI, still in diapers when Musial collected his first major league hit in 1940, spaced six hits in conquering the Dodgers for the first time in five lifetime starts. He has made it a custom to treat his patrons to free coffee after he wins. This year, however, the java has been running like molasses. This was his second win to square his season record.

Don Drysdale (5-3) was the loser as the Dodger streak of eight series victories came to an end. Phil Ortega, recalled from Spokane Friday night, and Perranoski finished, making it a total of 31 pitchers who have worked in the Dodgers' last eight games.

LARRY BURRIGHT singled, walked and drove in only Dodger run. Cards won, 8-1.

Greek Money Wins Preakness by Nose

By RAY AYRES

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Greek Money survived a torrid stretch battle and a foul claim to win the $188,300 Preakness Stakes Saturday and jockey Manny Ycaza, who claimed the foul against him, was suspended indefinitely for "unfair tactics."

Greek Money charged home a nose in front of Ridan in one of the most dramatic finishes in the history of the Maryland classic.

Ycaza then protested that Greek Money bumped Ridan and the stewards studied the films of the race to determine the merit of his claim. They found none.

* * * *

BUT WHEN the day's racing was over, the stewards reviewed the pictures. And there, right at the finish line, was Ycaza, leaning over in the saddle with his elbow planted in front of jockey Johnny Rotz on Greek Money.

"We are suspending Manuel Ycaza for a frivolous claim of foul in the Preakness and for unfair riding tactics just before the finish," said steward Joseph F. Flanagan. "Just before the finish, Ycaza leaned far over and put his elbow right in front of Rotz. He was practically in Rotz's saddle."

Ycaza had been invited to attend the review of the films by the stewards but he did not show up. They acted immediately because the Pimlico meeting ended Saturday.

* * * *

GREEK MONEY and Ridan battled all alone, for there was a big gap of five and one-half lengths back to Roman Line, who finished third in the field of 11.

Decidedly, record-breaking winner of the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago, started a big move from far back in the field on the final bend but he had no punch in the stretch and trailed home a poor eighth.

Jaipur, who wound up a co-favorite with Ridan, also ran out of gas in the home lane and finished even farther back in 10th place.

This was the third win in four races this year for Greek Money, who carried the blue and gold silks of Donald P. Ross' Brandywine Stable. But in his previous races this year, Greek Money had not run against standout horses.

* * * *

HE REMAINED in the East while Decidedly lowered Whirlaway's Kentucky Derby record by a full second, but he was ready for the touring Triple Crown hopefuls Saturday at old Pimlico.

Greek Money battled his way to the front with an eighth of a mile to go in the mile and three-sixteenths race. He dug in courageously to stay there, for Ridan refused to give up and fought back desperately.

By ERNIE MASON

Fred W. Hooper is one Floridan who can't be sorry his thoroughbreds left the land of the fountain of youth for California, the land of opportunity.

His aptly-named Winonly and a properly-named outsider called Crazy Kid, staged a scintillating finish to the richest sprint in Hollywood Park history here Saturday with the former finally getting up to score a spectacular neck victory in the final few strides.

Winonly, who in his first start of the season accounted for the Hollywood Premiere Handicap, picked up the lion's share of the $56,050 Los Angeles Handicap as Bill Harmatz bulled him down the middle of the stretch to pick up the flying Crazy Kid at the wire and pump another $33,550 into the Hooper Stable till.

BOSTON—Besides books and movies, they have now banned the bunt in Boston.

Manager Mike "Pinky" Higgins, roundly criticized by the Boston press for sacrificing in a key spot of a game with the New York Yankees three days ago, attempted to smooth public relations by flashing the hit sign in obvious, late-inning bunting situations Saturday in a game with the Angels. The strategy again backfired, turning Pinky's face red.

Manager Bill Rigney, meanwhile, did call for the sacrifice in the 10th inning and walked away with a 6-5 victory when Bobby Rodgers followed Dean Chance's perfect bunt, advancing Joe Koppe who had walked, with a single.

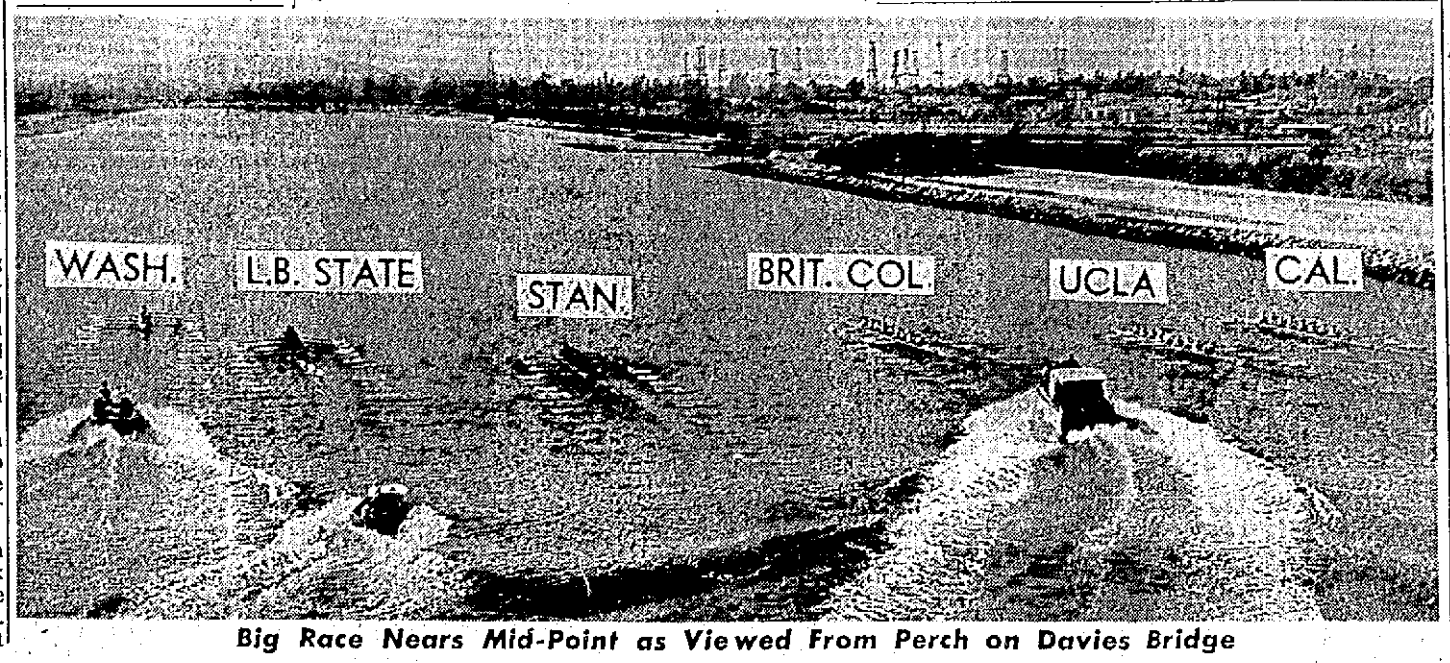

* * * *

IT WAS A big win for the Angels—their second straight in Fenway Park where they triumphed only twice in nine games last year. By handing Boston its fourth straight defeat, the Angels climbed above the .500 mark and moved back into the first division, three games off the pace.

"This was a big one," agreed Rigney in a clubhouse filled with World Series atmosphere. "I've never seen our bench as alive as it was was today. They wanted this one bad. With Kenny (McBride, 2-3) and Bo (Belinsky, 5-1) going tomorrow we've got a good crack at a sweep. I wouldn't mind carrying that into Yankee Stadium."

The victory was the Angels' third in five games on the current road trip and brought

HURTUBISE CRASHES, UNHURT

L.B. Car Qualifies at 146.4

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Ten drivers braved 90 degree heat and qualified Saturday for the 500-Mile Speedway auto race, but former record holder Jim Hurtubise crashed and walked away unhurt in one of seven accidents.

Only two positions remain to be filled today, the final day for time trials for the 33-car Memorial Day classic.

State police estimated about 75,000 fans watched the speed trials and spins in scorching heat as the track surface soared to a record 141 degrees.

Veteran Gene Hartley of Indianapolis was the day's fastest qualifier at an average clip of 146.968 miles per hour for the 10-mile test. Nobody came close to the record average of 150.370 mph that won the pole position last Saturday for Parnelli Jones, the California comet.

* * * *

The field now averages 147.254 mph, compared with last year's overall average of 145.302.

Hurtubise, a stocky, 28-year-old speedster from Lennox, Calif., who had just completed his first of four qualifying laps, was rolling along at an average speed of better than 147 mph when disaster struck. He lost control and hit the wall twice, going into the southeast turn on his second qualifying lap and the car was bent up so badly it cannot be repaired for final time trials.

Hurtubise, who set qualifying records as a rookie two years ago, was driving the same roadster in which he led the early part of last year's race and in which he also crashed May 10, the day before qualifications opened.

Saturday's qualifiers in order of their speeds:

CLAY STOPS DANIELS IN 7TH ON CUTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Cassius Clay of Louisville stopped Billy Daniels of New York on cuts in the seventh round of a battle of unbeaten heavyweights at St. Nicholas Arena Saturday night.

Referee Mark Conn halted the contest at 2:21 of the seventh of the television fight because of a nasty cut over Daniels' left eye.

Dr. Sam Swetnick had visited Daniels' corner after the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds.

Richardson's 69 Sets Pace in City

By JERRY WYNN

Qualifying brings shakes to most golfers, but not rock-steady John Richardson.

The broad-shouldered State Amateur champion from Lakewood fired a three-under par 69 at Recreation Park Saturday to take the first round lead in qualifying for the 38th Long Beach City Championship.

There were only six sub-par rounds produced by a field of 160 as a pestiferous wind sent most scores soaring. In fact, some of the better players will have to revert to form in the final 18 at Skylinks today or face elimination from the match play field.

Among the sub-par shooters, there is a three-way tie at 70 among Larry Griggs Jr., Chuck Dotsch and unheralded Howard Coleman. At 71 came Dennis Murphy and Bill McCormick. Notable among four at par 72 is Bob Carson, 15-year-old Wilson High sophomore.

Bill Wright, the 1960 United States Public Links champion from Seattle and the first Negro to win a national golf title, is in contention at 74.

* * * *

THE RANKS of Saturday's high scorers is headed by defending champion Dick Clover, who shot a 79 with a triple bogey-8 on the 14th and a double bogey-6 on the 18th. However, he is exempt from the trials.

Other eye-openers were an 80 by Southern California Public Links finalist Eddie Major, 82s by Pete Kramer and Don Winger and 83s by Don Kelley, Mike Fedderly and Gene Brunstetter.

Brunstetter, a City semi-finalist last year, hit three balls out of bounds to take an 11 on the easy 297-yard 13th. Fedderly hit two balls out on the par-three 12th and another on the 13th to go 8-6. Bob Wagner, a Poly golfer, took a 10 on the 12th, stood 14 over par after 12 holes and did not turn in a card.

* * * *

RICHARDSON breezed through his round by hitting 17 greens in regulation figures and missing the other by only four feet. It was his failure to sink birdie putts that kept his score as high as 69.

On the front nine, he took three putts on the sixth and seventh holes for bogies and birdied the ninth by blasting from a trap to within four feet of the pin.

Blazing home in 32, Richardson birdied the 13th, 14th, 15th and 17th on putts of 4, 8, 20, and 10 feet.

"Those 19 putts on the front nine slowed me," he said. "Otherwise, I played very well. There was some wind, but it didn't bother me."

Sports Merry-Go-Round

L. B. Diners Left Gasping

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . Bill Nicholas, Coliseum and Sports Arena boss, left 250 diners gasping at last week's first annual awards banquet at L. B. State College. Unwittingly, Nicholas delivered slaps to this city on a half-dozen occasions.

. . . In explaining problems of the Coliseum and Sports Arena, Nicholas stated: ". . . but you people wouldn't know about that here. This is a small town, not like Los Angeles." Of course not like Los Angeles, sir, but a half-million population isn't exactly in the village bracket.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

. . . Then, Nicholas firmly supported the Western Hockey League rule prohibiting more than one franchise to exist within a 50-mile radius. This evoked a wave of gasps from the audience, most of which is firmly supporting a franchise here within the next season or two.

. . . Nicholas' point was that Los Angeles already has too many sports attractions—and needs no more.

. . . (I'll agree that TOO MANY teams are utilizing the Coliseum, Sports Arena and even Chavez Ravine, but that's no concern of the soon-to-be-completed LONG BEACH ARENA, is it Mr. Nichols? We don't think so.)

. . . Nicholas frosted the cake by informing listeners that nobody yet had given proper credit to the one organization most responsible for bringing the Dodgers to Southern California — the Coliseum Commission! This came as a surprise to this writer and, I feel certain, to Dodger executives, who paid a pretty penny for use of the Coliseum . . . and got a lot of "lip" as a receipt.

. . . What actually is going on these days relative to Long Beach's bid for a hockey franchise? Well, a final decision on whether or not this city lands a franchise will be made by the WHL within two weeks. The main stumbling block remains Dan Reeves, owner of the L. A. Blades, who has met with L. B. officials but is still not certain that his franchise would prosper if another club was situated only 25 miles away. (I'm glad Dan'l showed more courage some 15 years ago when he transported the Rams from Cleveland to L. A. But I guess age mellows us all.)

. . . EXPECT AN ANNOUNCEMENT within 48 hours regarding Long Beach's franchise in the American Basketball League. Art Edwards, the franchise holder, plans to tie up any loose ends Monday—and immediately thereafter will reveal names of the people who will operate the club.

. . . At this point, the Long Beach entry has access to some fine basketball names, including some who performed last season with the rival NBA. Thanks to some excellent behind-the-scenes work by a few local men, the lure of Southern California has been extended to a number of well-known cagers throughout the U. S.

. . . To the many people who have asked how my old sparring partner, Bobbo Kelley, is progressing, here's Dr. Bob Woods' Saturday report: "Bob suffered a massive heart atack, but is holding his own. He'll be in the hospital at least a month, but there is no reason why he won't be able to continue normal broadcasting duties . . . if all continues well." Bobbo is at Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood . . . and certainly would appreciate fan mail from the Long Beach area!

. . . If all continues well, as Doc Woods claims, Bobbo probably will be restricted to Ram radio broadcasts this fall. His radio sponsors previously had insisted that he refrain from any TV announcing of Ram games. At the moment, Tom Harmon and Gil Stratton are running 1-2 for the Ram telecasting spot.

BILL LOCKYER, Long Beach State crew coach, couldn't be blamed for jumping into Marine Stadium's waters himself after what happened just a few days before Saturday's big intercollegiate regatta. His No. 6 man, two-year veteran Dick Neel, came down with measles and had to be replaced by a jayvee rower. Neel's illness necessitated three position changes for Lockyer. "Losing Neel was like the Yankees losing Roger Maris," moaned the thin man. (Maybe worse. The Yanks have a stronger bench than Lockyer.)

. . . While addressing the Long Beach Lions Friday, Dodger tub-thumper Red Patterson was asked (1) how many balls the Dodgers used during a game and (2) why Dodger Stadium had no screen behind home plate like other parks. "We use at least six dozen baseballs," said Red, "sometimes many more because of lack of that screen. We decided to sacrifice baseballs for fan enjoyment. Without that screen, the fans can see better. Likewise, they've got to be alert at all times."

. . . Even though Vin Scully brought down the house with his favorite anecdote, which unfortunately can't be printed, Patterson produced the afternoon's big stunner when asked his opinion of Frank Howard. "Howard HAS to play every day to be effective," replied Patterson. "He'll never be a star until he gets into the daily lineup." (I wonder if anybody carried the word to Walter Alston?)

Mays Supplies Power for McCormick, 10-2

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Southpaw Mike McCormick returned to winning form and Willie Mays snapped out of a batting slump with four hits Saturday to help the San Francisco Giants bomb the Houston Colts, 10-2.

McCormick, relegated to the brief appearances since losing his only 1962 start April 17, got his first win although retiring for a pinch-hitter after hurling eight innings. He walked only two batters and fanned five while scattering nine hits.

McCormick's task was made easier by three tremendous home runs that produced five tallies in the seventh inning to put the game out of sight. Mays and Orlando Cepeda each hit his 11th homer and catcher Ed Bailey blasted his eighth as the Giants carved out a 9-0 lead.

* * * *

MAYS, who went into the game batting only .262, knocked in the first Giant run in the four-run third inning with a double. He singled in his next time at bat and then in the seventh added his homer, a 380-foot shot over the rightfield fence. In the eighth he singled again, driving in his third run, as the Giants scored their final run.

The Colts picked up their runs in the eighth inning on a single by Jim Pendleton, a triple by Bob Aspromonte and a pinch-hit single by Jim Rusby.

Mets Score Four in 8th to Shock Braves, 6-5

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The New York Mets pulled from behind with a four-run uprising in the eighth inning and edged the Milwaukee Braves 6-5 Saturday with Frank Thomas supplying long ball power.

Thomas, sold by the Braves for $150,000 last winter, hit his 10th homer in the second and then launched the decisive rally with a triple. He also collected a single.

Baffled for seven innings by rookie righthander Cecil Butler, the Mets put together four straight singles and a sacrifice fly after Thomas' triple. Butler gave way to veteran Lew Burdette who was charged with his fourth straight loss. Burdette has not won a game this season.

Cubs Halted by Phillies' Mahaffey

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Art Mahaffey, mired in a five-game losing streak, hit his first major league homer with one on Saturday and it provided the margin of victory as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Chicago Cubs, 7-5.

Mahaffey, working in 95-degree heat, the hottest May 19 in Philadelphia history, went the distance for the third time this season, but he had to get Ernie Banks on a fly ball with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth to win.

SPAHN, CRAIG FINED FOR 'BEANBALL' DUEL

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Neither would admit it, but pitchers Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves and Roger Craig of the New York Mets were each lighter today by $50 for an alleged "beanball match" Friday night.

Spahn conceded it was only the second fine in his long illustrious career, the first being a $5 charge for violating the fraternization rule. But he wouldn't say if he was dusting some of the Mets too closely with his pitches.

Craig wouldn't admit anything either, but he was point-blank in his accusation against Spahn. "Sure, he threw at me," Craig said.

Umpire Ed Sudol issued a warning against both pitchers in the fourth—after Craig had made Spahn hit the dirt. This meant an automatic $50 fine for each, and suspension if it happened again.

Spahn won his 313th game in the process.

LONG BEACH NIGHT AT DODGER PARK FRIDAY

A deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday has been set for special game and bus tickets for Long Beach Night at Dodger Stadium this coming Friday.

Tickets ($2.50) and bus, roundtrip, ($1.25) information may be obtained at Downtown Long Beach Associates, 601 Pacific Ave. (HE 5-7377), the Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave. (HE 6-1251) and Board of Realtors, 3744 Long Beach Blvd. (GA 4-8687).

The Dodgers will play the New York Mets Friday night. A first-ball throwing ceremony will include vice-mayor Bert Bond, Dr. Orville Cole, George Trammell and Barbara Fiske, Long Beach's Miss Dodger entrant.

Buses will leave Friday night from the Chamber of Commerce and also from the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St., at 6:30.

Sadecki Stifles Dodgers, Musial Smashes Mark

None has gone the route since Drysdale defeated Houston, May 10.

* * * *

THREE Dodger errors made four Cardinal runs unearned. Willie Davis over-ran a single by Curt Flood and bobbled the ball again to give the Cards an extra run in a four-run fourth inning.

An error by Wally Moon set up a gift run in the fifth and led Drysdale to his early bath. Two of the three ninth-inning runs were unearned, the result of Maury Wills' throwing error.

After routing six successive lefthanders and winning eight of 11 against southpaws, the Dodgers were all but handcuffed by the fast-working Sadecki. They were able to capitalize on two of five walks to score in the second inning.

Walks to Doug Camilli and Moon set up a run-scoring single by Larry Burright, his 12th RBI in 12 starts. There after, only one Dodger reached third base.

Drysdale ran into his fourth-inning difficulty just as he did against Houston Tuesday night. Singles by Ken Boyer and Bill White and a walk to Carl Sawatski filled the bases with none out.

* * * *

THE COUNT on Julio Gotay was 3-0 when manager Walter Alston came to the mound to calm his tempermamental pitcher. Drysdale had complained bitterly to plate umpire Vinnie Smith on the ball-3 call.

Alston's psychology worked momentary wonders as Gotay went down swinging, but Drysdale was on his own during the remainder of the inning. Doug Clemens' single brought home a pair and Flood's single, together with Willie's error, made it 4-1.

Alston plans some changes this afternoon when 19-year-old Joe Moeller (2-3) pitches against veteran lefthander Curt Simmons (5-1) in the series windup. John Roseboro returns to do the catching. Lee Walls will be at first base and Andy Carey at third.

DIS AND DATA—It was 8:27 and the middle of the second inning before the stragglers had found parking spaces . . . A portion of the Dodger bullpen made its headquarters in the press box . . . Johnny Podres and Pete Richert, both injured, were the visitors . . . Phil Ortega arrives from Spokane and will wear uniform No. 17 . . . Fashion Show staged by Gisela Carpenter's Dodger belles preceded the game.

Dodgers lead NL in stolen bases (41), triples (16), bases on balls received (142) and the pitching staff leads the majors in strikeouts (264) . . . Burright has hit safely in nine of 11 games since he became the regular second baseman, May 8 . . . A foul ball hit by Tommy Davis in the third inning knocked the telephone off the table in Gene Autry's private booth, adjacent to the press box . . . With the count 2-0 on Frank Howard and Dodgers at second and third, Sadecki changed his mind and decided to walk Howard intentionally . . . The strategy worked as Doug Camilli bounced into an inning-ending double play.

WYNN

Man to Man

TARZAN

By JERRY WYNN

He'll find no Janes lingering in the eucalyptus trees nor crocodiles lumbering out of the tules, but Tarzan is coming to Recreation Park.

Johnny Weissmuller, often imitated but never equaled in his original role of Tarzan, will be Long Beach bound soon to play in the World Entertainment Golf Championship, June 9-10.

Renowned for his athletic feats as a swimmer—he once held 67 national records—Weissmuller also is one of the finest golfers in show business. He serves as a member of the tournament committee for the big L. B. event.

Why is golf so popular among entertainment figures, John?

"It is because they have so much time to spend between pictures and assignments, and it takes time to play golf well. I used to make one Tarzan picture a year, and it would take about four months. That left me plenty of time for golf."

You tied for first place with Bob Sterling in the tournament four years ago. Do you consider yourself a contender this year?

"No, I haven't been playing well. I've been doing a lot of swimming for a new show, and my game has suffered. I shoot to only a nine handicap now. I once carried a two handicap at Lakeside."

Who do you rate as the tourney favorites?

"Bob Wilkie, Bob Sterling and Randy Scott are the best players. How well they are playing now depends if they are working on a picture. If they are, they don't have time to play often.

If Bing Crosby and Bob Hope played a match today, on whom would you wager?

"They are pretty close, but I think Bing would win. Bob just learned to play about 10 years ago while Bing has always played, and he's good."

You have played in many tournaments with the pros. Which tourney is your favorite?

"I like the Crosby the best, but I don't like the weather. Everyone wishes they'd move it to Palm Springs or some place down here. But it's always a lot of fun and I play in it every year."

Have you a favorite pro?

"No, I know most of them, and they're all nice guys. I used to play with Porky Oliver in the Crosby, and he was the greatest. I remember one year, he got onto the beach on the eighth hole and took a 10. He yelled up to me, 'call those elephants, Tarzan, I can't get out of here.'"

What was your greatest thrill as a competitor?

"I've made five holes-in-one in golf and held 67 swimming records, only two that haven't been broken. But nothing can match the thrill of winning in the Olympic Games. I won five Gold Medals, and each time it was the greatest feeling to go up to the stand while the band played the Star Spangled Banner."

What was your reaction to the furor caused when a member of the Downey school board ruled that Tarzan books were unfit for children?

"It was ridiculous. If he would have read the books, he would have found out that I was married to Jane by her father. It was in Tarzan and the Ape Man."

Do you ever still hear the old call of the jungle, and yearn to be Tarzan again?

"I had a lot of fun playing Tarzan, and think it was a good show for the kids. My three boys still watch the old reruns on television. When they see something that is outdated, they turn to me and say, 'boy, you're square, daddio.' Imagine that, me Tarzan."

BOB HOPE, CROSBY BOYS ENTER L.B. 'STARS' GOLF

Bob Hope will take the Road to Long Beach to play in the World Entertainment Golf Championship at Recreation Park, June 9-10.

One of the world's most famous persons and one of golf's most ardent boosters, Hope will be returning to the scene of his famous World War II charity golf matches with Bing Crosby.

It is not known whether Crosby will be able to play in the tournament this year, but his sons, Phil and Lindsay, have joined the field.

Other motion picture and television stars already entered are Gordon MacRae, Fred MacMurray, Jim Backus, Lawrence Welk, Ricky Nelson, Johnny Weismuller, Howard Keel, Fred Waring, Dennis O'Keefe and Andy Williams.

The tournament is sponsored by Golf Life Magazine in association with the City of Long Beach with proceeds to benefit the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Tickets, priced at $3 for both days or $2 daily, now are on sale at Recreation Park, Skylinks and Lakewood golf shops, and will be available at other locations shortly.

THE VICTOR EXCLAIMS . . .

Coaching Won for Varsity

By JEROME HALL

In an upset that will take its place in football's archives of important events, the USC varsity team—under superb direction from five sports writers and a radio announcer — Saturday exploded the theory that a college team can't beat a professional team.

From the point of view of one of the victorious coaches, it was a magnificent contest.

The 100,000 or so who could have purchased tickets missed something. The 4,630 who cheered the Trojan varsity to its 21-10 triumph over the pro-studded Alumni team in the Coliseum saw a splendid come-from-behind performance.

"I was very satisfied," said John McKay, who is the USC head coach on every day except this one. "I thought we (the varsity) played very well."

Well? It was scintillating.

Coaching, obviously, is the all-important thing in football.

Last year, with the regular USC coaching staff, running things, the varsity was over-run, 31-6, by an Alumni team of similar quality.

Which means that with sportswriters doing the coaching, the net improvement was 36 points.

All this without star fullback Ben Wilson, who stayed on the sidelines due to a knee ailment. And without baseballing Willie Brown, too.

Actually, it was remarkably simple. In the first half we let the Alumni have the ball and we practiced defense. The only touchdown the Alums got all day was an accident.

In the second half, we decided to practice offense as well as defense, so we scored three touchdowns and we allowed the Alumni team nothing.

It all went exactly according to game plan.

The strategy employed by the alumni team's coaches was not without its surprises, however. We didn't expect, for instance, that they would try for a 55-yard field goal with a 25-yard kicker.

When QB Pete Beathard passed 14 yards to former Poly High star Harvey Crow for the touchdown that made it 21-10 with eight minutes to go, the game was plainly under control, so we went into our alternate containment variation plan.

No problems.

Perhaps there should be a mention of appreciation to Mr. McKay, who handled the play-calling and substitutions and defenses.

But everything else the sportswriters did.

THE LOSER COMPLAINS . . .

The Officials Were to Blame!

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Like Liz Taylor, I had another loser.

As you will read at length in Jerome Hall's thesis on this page, his USC Varsity squad edged my Alumni club, 21-10.

In defense, I'd like to say three things:

1. A coach can't win without the horses.

2. Saturday's officials will never work another game in my conference again.

3. My quarterback should be investigated. The gamblers got to him and the bum took the points!

Adding insult to injury, my Alumni squad scored its only touchdown when I wasn't there. Along with out other coaches (Tom Harmon, George T. Davis and Jim Murray), I sneaked into the parade tunnel of the Coliseum during the second quarter to view the Preakness on TV.

During that absence, using THEIR plays, our boys climaxed a brilliant march with a 40-yard scoring pass play. My only explanation is that the Varsity was watching the Preakness at that time, too.

The first quarter was a coaching masterpiece. Our defensive team didn't take the field for even one play in that quarter, yet when the gun sounded we were behind, 7-3. (Read THAT over again and let it slide along your tongue.)

In post-game interviews some smart-aleck reporter wondered if the Alum coaching staff would be hung in effigy. Another asked the asinine question, "What was the turning point?"

Without giving me time to consider a proper answer, one of my overpaid rookies named Arnett snickered this retort: "The turning point was when our coaches showed up."

Some balm was received, however, when a kid called McKeever paid homage to his coaches with these words:

"They were nuts . . . or had guts. Imagine going for the yardage on fourth and two on the 40 . . . and making it!"

(After offering this play to Gillman and Waterfield for years, we had to use it," didn't we?)

Anyway, Arnett and Lindon Crow may have pressed their luck too far. They'd better not make a mistake all next season with the Rams.

Their Saturday coaches devised a can't miss "center eligible" play . . . and those two bums refused to call it all afternoon.

No wonder the Rams are anchored deep in the second division with unimaginative drones like that!

SPIKERS TOPPLE ONLY ONE CIF MARK

By DOUG IVES

It was a dandy day for record-breaking in the CIF track and field semis at Compton High Saturday, but despite the wealth of talent the records proved too elusive.

A warm sun and virtually no wind had fans buzzing in anticipation of a record-shattering day, but the meet was almost over before the host school cracked the one and only CIF standard in the Bee 660 relay.

It was a fine meet, nonetheless. Forrest Beaty was up to snuff, the 880 heats were close and exciting, and the Moore League put on another good show, qualifying 25.

Beaty just missed tying the CIF 100 mark with a 9.6 clocking, loafed through the 220 and then gave Glendale Hoover a win in its 880 relay heat with a finishing 220 of 20.8.

Millikan's George Davis won his half-mile heat from Harvard's Jon Peck and Muir's Dennis Breckow zipped to a 1:53.9 to beat Hoover's Tom Blanchard in the other.

Davis took an early lead, slowed up a bit enabling Peck to draw even with 400 yards to go and then fought off the boy with the famous father to win by a stride. Both did 1:54.3.

Poly's muscular Jeff Smith was the standout among Moore Leaguers, however. He threw the iron ball a lifetime best of 59-5¾ for a second-place finish in the shot.

Wilson's John Yancy won the broad jump at 23-3½ and was a surprise winner in 20 flat in his low hurdles heat. Poly's Marv Motley also made it in the broad jump.

Millikan's Paul Reynolds got off slow and finished fourth to Yancy but the Ram ace had his moment of glory earlier with a sizzling 14.3 high-hurdle win.

Poly's George Alford won his 100 in 9.8 but barely qualified in the 440, stumbling home second in 49.8.

Downey milers Bob Goodson and Ed Lindley finished second, losing their leads on the final turn, but qualified along with Millikan pole vaulter Alan Shomaker and Wilson 220 man Dan Ryan.

In Bees, Poly's James Miles qualified in both hurdle races, Wilson's Terry Thorpe (22-9½) made it in the broad jump, Poly's Earl McCullough (6-1) in the high jump and Downey's Clarence Cregar in the 1320 (3:11.2).

Only Moore League Cees to qualify were Jordan's Fred Bristow (1320) and Mike Shott (low hurdles), Lakewood's John Williams (high jump) and Poly's Ron Sommer (660). Poly qualified relay teams in all divisions.

Biggest disappointment was when Centennial dropped the baton in the varsity 880 relay and ruined its chances of defending its CIF title. Muir topped qualifiers in all divisions.

The finals are Friday night at Mt. San Antonio College.

Thornton Shatters JC Mile Mark

By KEN PIVERNETZ

The fastest junior college mile in history highlighted the Southern California JC track and field finals Saturday night at Cerritos College as four new meet records were set and Cerritos won the team title with 47 4/5 points.

El Camino freshman Mike Thornton won a wire-to-wire duel from Fullerton's Jan Underwood in the record time of 4:08.4, breaking the old mark of 4:09 set by Harry McCalla of Fullerton last year.

Thornton tried to run away from the field at the outset of the race and only Underwood was able to keep up with him. He never managed to get closer than within two strides of the ex-Torrance prep star. Then Underwood made his big move with 220 yards to go and Thornton simply picked up the pace. They both were 50 yards ahead of the third-place finisher.

Thornton's unofficial lap times were 60.5, 2:03.6 and 3.07.5.

* * * *

LONG BEACH City College's bright spot was the first event to end. Dennis Wynn continued his late-season rush to win the shotput with an all-time personal best of 55-8¾ though it fell short of the meet record. Teammate Bill Pace was second at 55-6¾.

The showdown between the Vikings' Tim Russell and Dave Morris of Pasadena was finally decided with the result all Morris.

Morris had it all the way to win the 100 in 9.5 and came back to overlake Russell with 50 yards to go and hold him off at 21.0 in the 220. They'll vie again in the state meet next Saturday night at Modesto.

NEVADA SHADES LBSC SPIKERS; DEE SPARKLES

SANTA BARBARA—Dee Andrews' heroics weren't enough as Long Beach State College was shaded by University of Nevada, 47¼-45½, Saturday in the NCAA district 8 regional track championships.

Andrews won the 220 lows (23.5) and finished second in the broad jump (22-11), hop step, jump (44-1) and 120 highs (14.6), but it was in the latter event that State lost the meet.

Dee held a slight lead over teammate Gary Patterson going into the sixth hurdle. But Patterson tripped and fell against Andrews. Somehow Dee kept from spilling and scrambled back to finish second. The loss meant the difference in the end.

Long Beach's other victories were recorded by Bill Cooper and Darryl Taylor, marking the first time and LBSC squad had won three events in the regionals.

Taylor bettered his school mark with a 4:16.4 clocking in the mile while Cooper posted a varsity record when he won the hammer throw at 163-4.

Other 49er scoring went like this: Jim MacDougall tied for second in the pole vault (14-6) and placed third in hop-step-jump (43-4). Dave Ile was fifth in hammer, 153-8. Jim Richardson finished fourth in 440 (49.3) and third in 220 (21.6). Mike Clark recorded his all-time best in javelin (204-4) to place fifth. Steve Tinley finished fourth in mile (4:21.9) and Patterson wound up third in lows (24.1).

Baby Pin League Stung by Losses

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: The six surviving owners of the National Bowling League's rocky first season insist they are ready to go again next year and are presently striving to get at least two more cities to round out an eight-team loop.

The six teams set for a second year are Detroit, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Fort Worth, Dallas, Fresno and New York. Detroit won the first championship in a rolloff with Minneapolis-St. Paul.

All of the teams, including four which folded during the season, suffered huge losses . . . but these were softened somewhat by a $100,000 "contribution" from one of the big bowling equipment manufacturers.

While the owners themselves are sold on another season, they likely will have a tough time selling the leading bowlers on another trip.

ED LUBANSKI
Thunderbird Captain

"We kept going on promises the past season," says Ed Lubanski, one of the nation's top-ranked bowlers and captain of the champion Detroit Thunderbirds. "The league is going to have an awfully rough time getting most of the bowlers to come back. They'll be able to fill the teams, of course, but I'm talking about the 'name' performers."

Instead of salaries next year, the owners want the bowlers to compete for cash prizes (some put the total as high as $250,000). However, the bowlers are not elated over this prospect. "We heard all about fabulous prize money like that this year, but we didn't get it. They'll have to put the money in front of us before we'll believe it," says Lubanski.

The owners are in favor of a shortened 16-week schedule next year beginning in January. The dates, however, will coincide with the winter tour of the Professional Bowlers Association that has far overshadowed the NBL this year.

In fact, Lubanski says that an unofficial poll he took of bowlers in the National Bowling League, most of the leading performers indicate they will not come back next season. Instead, they'll go on the PBA tour.

THERE HAS BEEN FEVERISH activity in National Basketball Assn. circles the past few days, indicating that the loop has been thoroughly shaken up by Jerry Lucas signing with the Cleveland Pipers of the rival ABL.

Up to now, the NBA has been quite smug in its attitude towards the fledgling league, but now realizes that it must take immediate counter action to keep the ABL from getting a more firm foothold in the sports picture.

The Lucas signing has now assured the ABL of at least regional television . . . and quite possibly a National TV contract.

Officials of the Cleveland club admit that if they had not been successful in signing Lucas, they probably would have folded the club. Although the Pipers won first ABL title last year, the operation lost $170,000 . . . and the league as a whole lost upwards of a million dollars.

Lucas is the first real "box office" star the new league has been able to sign.

As a result, a series of counter-moves is expected shortly by the NBA to meet the new threat.

SINCE WE'RE MENTIONING financial losses, the official "red ink" deficit of the San Diego Chargers last season was $302,000 . . . bringing Barron Hilton's two-year loss to approximately one and one-quarter million dollars.

He again is expressing the hope of breaking even next year, but the club budget is so high that it is a bit of a longshot chance of cracking the "nut." . . .

Eddie Arcaro, who retired recently, has long called himself "the best hangover rider in history," and says "I finally aged right along with the whiskey in me." . . .

And when Eddie's close friend, comic Joe E. Lewis, heard he was retiring, Joe said "so the little chump is finally retiring after 31 years. If the bum had retired 31 years ago I'd be a billionaire today!"

MOST OF THE COUNTRY'S TOP POOL hustlers are currently engaged in a three-week U. S. Open one-pocket championship in San Francisco. . . .

Among the participants are the Knoxville Bear, Pittsburgh Marv, Connecticut Johnny, etc. . . .

First prize is only $1,000, but the boys will be playing for big money because of the large side bets. One fellow called "Hundred" will bet $100 on any shot you care to name. . . .

Incidentally, they're calling the San Francisco baseball stadium "Stick Park" these days because "the wind blew out the candle!"

champions when the final gun sounded on Saturday's regatta.

"They gave the best they had, and no one can ask more of them than that," he said as the darkhorse 49ers had their championship hopes blacked out.

Asked if matching Washington's grueling 44-stroke start had been planned, Lockyer said, "nothing was planned. I just told the boys to do anything they had to win, and that's what they did."

Records Tumble as Tarpons Grab Girls 'Y' Title

John Montrella's Lakewood "Y" Tarpons took the 1962 Girls Southern California "Y" Swimming Championship held Saturday in the Long Beach City College pool.

Twelve-year-old Cathy Downs won the 50-yard butterfly in 31.0 and the 100-yard individual medley in 1:14.0. Another double winner, Carla Fuertsch, an 11-year-old swimming in the 13-14-year-old Junior division, set a recrod of 1:15.6 in the 100-yard backstroke and also a mark of 2:42.7 in the 200-yard individual medley.

their over-all road record to 8-5. Last year the Cherubs captured only 24 games away from Wrigley Field and after 13 road contests were 1-12.

SATURDAY'S heroes were many and the complexion of the game changed as often as the weather which was a radiant 96 degrees at post time and a forboding electrical storm when Rodgers sliced a Chet Nichols's fast ball into the dark of rightfield some three hours later.

The early heat wore down starters Ted Bowsfield and Earl Wilson and before it was over Rigney had used four pictures and Higgins three. Wilson, a giant righthander from San Diego, yielded a fourth-inning home run to Billy Moran (3) and a two-run blast by Leon Wagner (11) in the sixth before giving way to another king-size package, 6-6 Dick Radatz in the seventh.

The homer by long gone Leon was a 400-footer and placed the Angels' atlas again atop the A.L. standings in that money category.

* * * *

WHILE THE Angels were playing long ball with Wilson's serves, Boston was also blitzing Bowsfield. A homer by catcher Bob Tillman, in his first official at-bat, nullified Moran's wallop and, in the fourth, Pete Runnels' single following a walk and infield out made it 2-1.

After Wagner's poke put the Seraphs ahead 3-2, a triple by Carl Yastrzemski and Tillman's deep fly in the bottom of the sixth knotted matters and when Bowsie walked Frank Malzone, out walked Rigney and in walked Tom Morgan.

A throwing error by Joe Koppe on a double-play ball didn't exactly bring a smile to Morgan's face and Carroll Hardy, the ex-San Francisco 49er, then ended a string of 19 and one-third scoreless innings by Angel relievers by slamming his second home run of the campaign, putting Boston ahead 5-3.

* * * *

RADATZ, A former Michigan State baseball and basketball star, entered the game with a 0.92 ERA and the Angels saw why when he retired them in order in the seventh. But as the lightning and thunder began to rumble in the eighth, so did the Angels.

A walk and double by Tom Burgess put the tying runs in scoring position and Felix Torres, who doesn't speak English, let his bat talk for two runs with a single to center. Nichols then appeared on the scene and looked like a million dollars until the 10th.

* * * *

CHANCE yielded a leadoff single to Malzone in the eighth and opened the ninth by passing Nichols. Both times, however, Higgins let his next batter swing away and both times Chance went on to retire the side in order.

ANGEL OF DAY

LEON WAGNER cracked two-run homer to take AL lead away from Al Kaline. Angels won, 6-5.

The Long Beach Rockets meet the L.A. Yankees at Blair Field today at 2. Wally Wasinack is the probable starting pitcher for the home team.

Yankees Cool Off Twins on Terry's Three-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Terry cooled off the sizzling Minnesota Twins with a three-hitter Saturday and the New York Yankees squeezed out a 2-1 victory without hospitalized Mickey Mantle.

With the thermometer bouncing around the 99 degree mark, Terry mowed down the Twins and struck out seven en route to his fifth victory.

* * * *

WITH Mantle out of action, probably for three weeks, due to a severly torn muscle in his right thigh, the Yanks played rookie Joe Pepitone in center field. However, Pepitone went hitless as did Roger Maris, who returned to the starting lineup after being limited to pinch hitting duty in the last two games because of a strained muscle.

Maris made a game-saving catch of Bernie Allen's fly to deep right in the eighth, leaning back into the stands to grab the ball.

Bunning Cracks HR, Protects Tiger Win

CLEVELAND (AP)—Detroit's Jim Bunning turned in a neat relief job and smacked a home run as the Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 9-3 Saturday.

Bunning, who replaced starter Don Mossi in the eighth inning with one out, protected Detroit's 4-3 lead by striking out the next two men and retiring five in a row.

The Tigers broke open a tight game in the ninth with a five-run rally highlighted by Bunning's solo blast off reliever Frank Funk, the third Cleveland hurler. Four of the runs were unearned as the Indians made four errors in the ninth.

Orioles Pelt Chisox With HR Barrage

CHICAGO (AP)—Home runs by Jim Gentile, John Powell and Charley Lau powered Baltimore to an 11-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Gentile and Powell connected for three-run blasts, both featuring 5-run rallies. Gentile's homer came in the first and helped chase rookie right-hander Joel Horlen who made the start for the Sox but couldn't get anybody out.

Dick Hall, who relieved Barber in the fourth received credit for the victory.

Bass Scores Relief Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kansas City's Norm Bass came out of the bullpen Saturday to pitch one-run ball for 6 1/3 innings and beat Washington, 8-4.

Bass, who had lost five times without a win in starting roles this season, relieved Art Ditmar with the A's trailing, 3-0, in the third inning. Striking out five, Bass gave up six hits.

SAN DIEGO JC NINE CLAIMS TITLE FORFEIT

San Diego City College, 7-2 victors over Palomar Junior College Friday, claimed the Southern California junior college baseball championship by forfeit Saturday.

Athletic director Merrill Douglas claimed victory because the other two teams entered, Orange Coast and Cerritos junior colleges, failed to appear for their first-round game at Beeson Field here Friday.

He said the schools played instead at Orange Coast, with the host team winning 6-5 in 13 innings.

The schools asked San Diego City College earlier this week for permission to play at a site other than Beeson Field. Permission was denied. The plea was then taken to Al Revis, baseball representative on the State Athletic Committee. He approved their request.

In gate 1:47, off 1:47. Start good, won driving. Winner ch.m. 5, Mr. Busher-Lotus Blossom. Trainer J. Weatherington. Mutuel pool $205,617.

LOTUS BUSH was always within striking distance of the lead, advanced steadily on outside on backstretch, came between horses entering last furlong and under strong handling in final sixteenth held ROUGH JUSTICE. Latter was in contention while on outside, closed strongly in stretch but could not head winner. COLLECTION took command going to first turn, gave way under pressure going down backstretch, but under vigorous handling held on gamely to last sixteenth. KINISHBA closed some ground while on inside. DISCOVERER made up ground on inside to take a short lead on far turn, weakened in stretch. CHRIS S. had a short lead while between horses midway of backstretch, gave way in last quarter. BOGO was never prominent. PATROLMAN PETE tired.

SUNNYSLOPE MISS broke in a tangle but soon straightened out, forged to front while between horses in first furlong then gave way rounding far turn, came again under strong handling in stretch to get up in last sixteenth. FAIREST OF ALL took command on far turn, weakened in last sixteenth under pressure. DELTA MISS was in close quarters leaving the starting gate and had to take up sharply, closed a wide gap in last quarter. ROYAL ARM had speed from stretch, held on gamely. AMERICAN JET gave an even performance, was forced wide on far turn. MOOLAH MISS gave way after showing good early speed although on extreme outside. SPORTY BOY gave an even performance. (Jockey Ray York lodged a claim of foul against winner which was not allowed).

National Kings Enter 14th Lions Regatta May 30

A pair of national champions, Ed Olsen of Garden Grove and Ray Hemmings, Long Beach, came into the fold Saturday as the entry list topped 100 for the Belmont Shore Lions Club 14th annual Memorial Day Speedboat Regatta May 30 at Marine Stadium.

Already set for 11 classes of racing are six world inboard record holders. They are Bill Phelps, Long Beach; Rocky Hartland, Manhattan Beach; Bob Ellis, Compton; Marion Beaver, Parker, Ariz.; Red Wilson and Duane Easton, Long Beach.

Winonly Nips Longshot in Hollypark Feature

crowd of 49,121, returned $9.20, $7 and $6 across the board.

The largest crowd of the season was momentarily stunned as hard-trying Rudy Campas brought Crazy Kid on again in mid-stretch to take command and the 50-1 shot looked like a winner with 50 yards to go. But Harmatz had pinpointed his final surge with Winonly and the southern invader got there in time.

Crazy Kid led for most of the first five furlongs, cutting out a blistering pace as Campas took him to the quarter in 21⅘ seconds and the half-mile mark in 44 seconds flat.

* * * *

HARMATZ was closest to the Vista Hermosa Stable longshot in the run down the backstretch but as the first two swung slightly wide entering the stretch, Alex Maese moved up confidently with Olden Times of the favored Rex Ellsworth entry.

Olden Times forged to a half-length lead with three-sixteenths of a mile remaining and it appeared that with highweighted Four-And-Twenty unable to muster a serious threat, his arch-foe had the race in the bag. But Olden Times, unraced since early March, apparently was in need of the race as he tired badly in the final furlong and finally finished fourth.

FISHIN' AROUND

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

With the May cold snap finished and possibly no more weather of that nature in sight, it stands to reason that ocean fishing should pick up tremendously in the next few days.

A few hardy souls, not caring whether the wind blew or not, showed up at the landings Friday. Pierpoint's Liberty and Islander rewarded their passengers with 24 yellowtail at Catalina Island, in addition to big catches of kelp bass and bonito. The Sea Angler tried Rocky Point, upcoast from here, and got limits of large barracuda for its half-dozen passengers.

Today should tell us what's in store for the week. Both Pacific and Pierpoint have booked sailings to San Clemente Island, Catalina, Rocky Point and, of course, the offshore banks, Horsheshoe Kelp and Huntington Flats.

Statistics bear out the fact that fishing at Catalina Island usually picks up in late May, runs in high gear through June, then slows down for the rest of the season. Any good skipper, however, can always pick up kelp bass and enormous rockfish at Catalina regardless of the month of the year.

IF YOU ARE THINKING about trying the Salton Sea for corvina, think in terms of mudsuckers—if you can find them—because that still remains the number-one bait for big fish at the Sea. And remember that six corvina is the limit, daily and in possession.

This season is one of those utterly fantastic fishing periods in which the corvina are biting day and night. Fishing is allowed 24 hours a day, so a person can go to an air-conditioned room at the North Shore Yacht Club, hole up through the hot daylight period, then fish all night.

The corvina are hungry and they'll take anything offered—flies, jigs, live bait, spoons and flashers fished right on the bottom, and, of course, live bait, plus all kinds of frozen baits, sardines, tomcod and big shrimp.

Clifford Matthews, DFG warden at the Sea, also points out that the gulf croaker is a good eating fish and that it is quite prevalent in the Sea. There is no limit on that fish, which differs from the corvina in that it has a squared-off tail rather than a rounded one, a sharper spine on the anal fin and no canine teeth.

"Another good fish is the sargo," Matthews said. "He's scrappy, good eating, weighs three or four pounds, takes shrimp, worms and cut bait. The sargo has a dark blue stripe in front of the dorsal fin and the limit is 10."

IT ISN'T OFTEN THAT ANY PART of this column is turned over to a politician. Through the years FISHIN' AROUND has tried to stay out of politics except in a few instances where pending legislation would help or hamper the outdoors. There are other departments where you may read all the politics you wish.

Today, however, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel makes this column in a big way. He has just pushed his S1988 through the Senate by unanimous vote. The bill creates legislation to preserve the boundaries of the Tulelake Wildlife Refuge and thereby saves 100,000 acres for the migratory waterfowl on the Pacific Flyway.

The refuge, which embraces Tule and Klamath Lakes and the surrounding country, at one time contained between 500,000 and 700,000 acres, but agricultural and homesteading interests nibbled at it until fewer than 100,000 acres were left and even that area was in imminent danger.

S1988 defines the boundaries and prevents anybody from gobbling up the rest of the refuge, which the ducks and geese use for resting, nesting and even breeding. Kuchel hopes that his friends in the House of Representatives will give the bill a quick ride to victory at this session. Sportsmen have a real friend in Tom Kuchel!

THIS IS THE TRADITIONAL SUNDAY for boat parades at the yacht clubs. Actually, it's hard to understand why the clubs say it officially opens the boating season when the ocean is full of boats most of the year 'round.

At any rate, there'll be a parade of boats in Alamitos Bay from noon to dark today. It should be of much interest to spectators, particularly the picture-snappers.

Commodore Bill Hardcastle says that at least 150 boats flying the Long Beach Yacht Club colors will parade through part of Alamitos Bay, then past Basins 1, 2, 3 and 4 and finally the LBYC itself. There should be everything in the parade from 50-foot cruisers to sabots and small outboards.

Down Newport way, NHYC will have its opening-day ceremony with an annual fleet inspection and awards to the best-maintained craft. Commodore Dick Steele is going all-out for pomp, with a band and speakers (no politicians).

King Harbor Yacht Club at Redondo Beach started its season with a two-day regatta that winds up late this afternoon. Also, South Shore Sailing Club is ending a two-day regatta for multihulled yachts.

SOFTBALL CUTIES VIE HERE TONIGHT

The California Cuties, a softball team made up entirely of men dressed in women's clothing, will invade Long Beach tonight for an 8:15 engagement with the B-M Meats Club at Park Ave. Field.

The Cuties, originally from Compton, are in their 15th year of competition. They feature some of the top softball players in this area—no matter what their attire.

Lakers in Softball Charity Tilt Thursday

The Lakers will turn to softball Thursday night when they face the Lakewood Majors at Mayfair Park in a benefit game for the Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Rod Hundley will manage the Lakers, and play either shortstop or catcher. Frank Selvy will pitch, Rudy LaRusso play third base, Ray Felix first base, and Wayne Yates and Tom Hawkins outfield.

Lakewood, Amerine 2nd in Gym Finals

Lakewood High finished second and so did its top performer, Jim Amerine, in the CIF gymnastic finals at El Rancho High Friday night.

Baldwin Park won the team title and had the top over-all gymnast. Amerine had three seconds and a third. Skip Mercier of Poly was second in tumbling.

United Plays Harbor

Long Beach United soccer team plays Harbor Soccer Club today at Pan American Park. Kickoff is 2:30 p.m.

ARE YOU HUNTING FOR A JOB OR CHASING A WILD GOOSE?

If you're looking for a job, you naturally want to find something that fits your talent and experience. The business of making a living doesn't have room for wild goose chases.

That's why it makes sense to do your job hunting through professional placement agency. They take the time and trouble to evaluate your skills, and find the right job for you among the many opportunities on their lists. They know where real opportunities exist, and they won't waste your time with unrealistic job leads.

Agencies who are members of the California Employment Agencies Association are bound by a code of professional ethics to assure you of capable, courteous, honorable service.

For V.I.P. treatment, place yourself with a professional employment agency. Last year they found more than 550,000 jobs for applicants. They know how to help you.

COCKTAILS—$6100 April all bar. Inglewood's priceless offering. Only $32,500. $10,000 dn. may shake the seller UP.

COCKTAILS—$12,000 mo. & the beautiful, beautiful difference it's located in Balboa. Seller out of step in the cocktail business as he's a beautician. Believe $37,500 with terms will buy this "Blossoming Business."

COCKTAILS—$4000 bar. Ownr tells me he's so emotionally disturbed—that he doesn't know "Beans From Burlap." $4500 dn. + can purchase this "curtain raiser." Only $15,500. Can move the license as this poppin' spot would certainly sell as a beer bar at $10,000. You figure it out!
30 OTHERS! — 30 OTHERS!

CURRIE'S COFFEE SHOP—Nets $1000 mo. So easy—like rolling off a "you-know-what!" $2500 dn. if you're right for the spot.

TACO & BURGER STAND. $1000 mo. net profit for an operator with know-how! Located in a smart shopping center. $2500 dn. +. Figures only $7950.

SNACK BAR—$100 day. In huge super mkt. It's off with the old—& on with that "new look." $1950 dn. ??

BAR-B-QUE in Costa Mesa. Nets $200 wk. Close 7:30 p.m. Considered "a mint for those who know!" Ask $7950.

MANY OTHERS! MANY OTHERS

Income Properties—Trade
The better buys are at our finger-tips. It is a pleasure for us to show them to you personally and discuss how creative speculators would enhance their value. Many peoples rate growth can be greatly accelerated through trading or manipulating their assets without decreasing their safety margin.
One property we are selling is typical of many in that there are many ways it can be purchased . . . 20 units, only 4 years old, but poorly kept and in FORECLOSURE.

The One to See Is From Walker & Lee

Six Conveniently Located Offices to Serve You

LOS ALTOS

THREE BEDROOMS AND JUST $16,500 — Big wide 64-ft. frontage with back yard large enough for addition plus pool or just room to romp. Choicest area just 2 blocks north of State College. First time in print. Call HA 9-5924 — Key at 3010 Woodruff Ave.

"DOUGLAS SPECIAL" — Custom built 2-bedroom and paneled den (or 3 bedroom), double fireplace, 220 in kitchen and garage, 2 air conditioners, 2 baths with 2 separate showers. Large pie-shaped lot. Price $18,950! Call HA 5-1214 or come to 4100 Bellflower Blvd.

CUSTOM BUILT! $18,950! — You read right! This lovely 2-bedroom and den home with its 2 baths, fireplace, 2 air conditioners and other extras is an exceptional value at this price and conveniently located, too! Large lot adds to already big value, one only so you better hurry! We may never get another like it, yes, terms to suit you! Call GE 4-7426 — key at Hwy. 101 and Anaheim.

ATTN.: HANDY MAN. PLEASE BUY ME! — I'm a lovely 2-bedroom and den home on a nice corner near the Broadway. I have a fireplace, carpets, drapes, 1¾ baths, double garage, etc. All I need is a little paint and a few repairs. I'm only $2800 down, vacant and available. Call GE 3-7493 — key at 2060 Bellflower Blvd.

PLAZA AREA

FAMILY ROOM PLUS 3 BEDROOMS — Just $17,500. Beautiful divided residential street close to St. Cornelius, Millikan Hi, Marshall Jr. Hi and elementary. Vacant and just listed so be first to call HA 9-5924—Key at 3010 Woodruff.

A CORNER FOR EVERYBODY — 2 Bedrooms—3 bedrooms—3 bedrooms and family room—2 bedrooms and den—all on lovely corners. From $950 to $2800 dn. Any of these can be easily added on to. Call GE 3-7493 — key at 2060 Bellflower Blvd.

LAKEWOOD VILLAGE

"PERFECT FOR CHILDREN"—Well kept 3-bedroom home with 11½x17-ft. hobby room on large lot completely fenced — short walk to grade, Jr. Hi schools. Price $17,500 and $2500 down. Call GE 9-2134 or come to 2265 Palo Verde. Open eves.

ROSSMOOR

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — In Rossmoor the name "Golden Estates" describes the most wanted modern and we challenge you to find another at $26,950. Just $5600 to existing loan includes carpets, drapes, huge alum. covered patio. Be first to call HA 1-1211 — Key at 5549 Woodruff Ave.

"HARVARD" MODEL, OWNER TRANSFERRED —All the "extras"—covered patio, sprinklers, planters, block fence, refrig.-freezer. Price reduced to $26,500, which makes this the most outstanding 4-bedroom model available in Rossmoor. Call HA 5-1214 or come to 4100 Bellflower Blvd.

IT'S A "GOTTA GO" — Husband transferred back east and family anxious to join him. If you fail to see this lovely carpeted Plymouth 3 and den home, you're hurting yourself! Asking $26,900, excellent location, see it!! Call GE 4-7426 — key at Hwy. 101 and Anaheim.

LAKEWOOD

THE ONLY GI NO DOWN 2-BATH HOME — we know of in his area. World War II Vets lose their loans in July. Don't waste your biggest Vet benefit. Excellent area close to all schools. Home has rear living room to patio and birch kitchen. Call HA 1-1211 — Key at 5549 Woodruff Ave.

"17,500!" — New listing on a lovely 3-bedroom, 2-bath home with block wall fencing, brick planters, 2 patios, one covered. Sliding glass door in living room. W/w carpets and drapes thruout. $1500 dn. to new loan! Call GE 9-2134 or come to 2265 Palo Verde, Open eves.

MAY WE REMIND YOU:

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP—THE KEY TO FREEDOM!

Display it Proudly
It's a Grand Old Flag . . .

The Morrill Act of 1862 granted public lands for the support of State institutions of higher education. Those who are close to the land today . . . urban and rural home owners and the Realtors who serve them . . . are no less dedicated to the support of a high level of excellence in our schools. Home ownership is a source of national strength as are the schools that, now as in past, follow the establishment of homes.

Long Beach Board Joins in Nation-Wide Program

Realtors of the Long Beach district today begin celebration of national Realtor Week which will run through Saturday.

Under the motto "Homestead and Home — Foundation of the Nation," they will join with some 70,000 other realtors across the nation, seeking through this means to emphasize their services and to make clearer the distinction between realtor and others in the real estate business. Realtors are members of local constituent boards of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of the largest trade and professional organizations in the country.

"A realtor," explains James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, "subscribes to a well-established code of professional ethics enforced through the local board. It obligates us to keep the interests of both buyer and seller uppermost in mind during a transaction."

* * * *

THE TERM realtor was adopted by NAREB in 1916, and its exclusive right to the ownership of the term for use by its members only has been established by numerous court cases over the years. It is registered as a collective mark (similar to trademark) in the United States Patent Office.

For Realtor Week, the following events are scheduled by the Long Beach Board of Realtors:

Tuesday has been designated as Civic Official Day. Civic leaders of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill and Seal Beach will be honored at the Tuesday morning breakfast meeting to be held at the Crown Cafeteria. At this time first copies of the new U.S. postage stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Homestead Act will be presented to these officials.

THE EVENING of Tuesday the Long Beach membership committee, under the chairmanship of Realtor Ralph Saffle, has invited a group of broker licensees to be their guests at a dinner to be held at the Elks Club. Herbert Lakey, past president of the California Real Estate Association, will be the guest speaker and he will endeavor to acquaint these licensees with significance of the term "Realtor" and stimulate their interest in becoming Realtor members of the local Board.

Wednesday, Long Beach City College officials will be guests of the Board at a luncheon to be held at the Elks Club, and will be presented with color prints of a specially commissioned landscape painting in oil by one of the country's foremost wildlife artists — Robert W. Hines.

Saturday will be "Open House" at the Board office—3747 Long Beach Blvd. The Board office will be open to the public to better acquaint them with the activities and meaning of organized real estate. A film, "The House Hunters," will be shown be the office will be open between the hours of 12:00 noon to 4:00 p.m.

In addition to the above, the Long Beach Board will display appropriate literature and plaques in local banks. A Realtors' Window Display Contest will be held and the Build Long Beach Better Contest which is designed to stimulate interest in the rehabilitation of sub-standard and deteriorated dwellings — home improvement and beautification.

Insurance Broker Is Realty Speaker

John Lokey will be the speaker for the North Long Beach Real Estate Club at its weekly breakfast meeting Thursday at Mayo's Restaurant. "How Insurance Ties In With Real Estate" will be his subject. Lokey, an insurance broker 12 years, is located at 1420 E. Artesia Blvd.

BOOSTERS FOR DOWN TOWN

Civic Officials Day at Realtor Meeting

Civic officials will be honored at the breakfast meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors Tuesday at the Crown Cafeteria, Reg F. Dupuy, program chairman announced.

This is an annual feature during Realtor Week and city officials of Long Beach, Signal Hill, Lakewood and Seal Beach will attend.

Speaker will be Larry Hoag, a director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and president of the Downey Chamber of Commerce. He will discuss "Homestead and Home—and the Realtor."

* * * *

FIRST copies in Long Beach of the new postage stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Homestead Act will be presented the civic and city leaders at the breakfast, announced Max Livoni. The Homestead Act made it possible for thousands of citizens to establish homes and farms on public lands.

James A. Edmonds, the board president, said all Realtors will be asked to renew the Realtor's Pledge at the meeting. The pledge is:

"I am a Realtor—I pledge myself:

To protect the individual right of real estate ownership and to widen the opportunity to enjoy it;

To be honorable and honest in all dealings.

To seek better to represent my clients by building my knowledge and competence;

To act fairly towards all in the spirit of the Golden Rule;

To serve well my community, and through it my country;

To observe the Realtor's code of ethics and conform my conduct to its lofty ideals."

Plans Store in Lakewood

Mullen & Bluett, Inc. men's and women's specialty chain, will open a new unit in the Lakewood Shopping Center early this fall, it was announced by Maurice Mandel, vice president and general manager. He also stated that Mullen & Bluett has renewed for 15 years the lease on the premises occupied at Sixth & Broadway, which Mandel described as "the best location in Downtown Los Angeles."

He pointed out that the Lakewood Shopping Center store represents the first move in Mullen & Bluett's expansion program made public on March 29 by Timely Clothes, Inc., owner of Mullen & Bluett.

Mortgage Firm to Incorporate

Articles of incorporation for Insured Mortgage Co., capitalized at $500,000 to engage in real estate loan brokering, have been filed with Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan.

Directors are Melvin L. Mould, 2918 Del Amo Blvd., Lakewood; L. G. Toner, 10462 Dewey St., Garden Grove, and E. Tennyson Moore, 5610 El Parque, Long Beach.

Joseph Shuff Head of L.B. Associates

Joseph Shuff, manager of Walker's Department Store has been elected president of the Downtown Long Beach Associates, the 19th president in the succession of prominent businessmen to hold the position. Shuff has been vice president the past year, and chairman of one of the most successful membership drives in the history of DLBA. He has been the general manager of Walker's the past two years.

Shuff was elected along with three officers and will be at the helm of a board of directors numbering 30, all of whom will be installed at the 26th annual meeting which will be held June 5, in the International Ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel.

* * * *

LARRY COLLINS SR. was selected as the installing officer.

New vice president is Gus Lueking, who previously has been a director of DLBA 22 years, and was president in 1941-42. He was been manager of Florsheim Shoe Store in Long Beach the past 30 years.

Slated to serve as secretary for the coming year is Jack Merrick, owner of T. F. Merrick Co., a real estate and appraisal business in Long Beach since 1930.

Merrick has been a DLBA board member a number of years and has been active with the local realty board and Chamber of Commerce.

Newly elected treasurer is Roy H. Showalter, vice president and manager of the Security First National Bank at First and Pine Ave. Showalter has been in the Long Beach Branch since 1960 and has already become very active in Rotary as well as in a number of civic organizations.

Vito Romans will continue in the capacity of executive director, which he has held the past seven years.

To Key Post in State Group

Robert M. Kripp, a principal in the firm of Adams, Morgan, Latham, Kripp & Wright, Long Beach architects and engineers, will be installed Friday as a vice-president of the California Society of Professional Engineers. The installation will be the annual meeting of the society to be held in Berkeley.

BANK IN NEW BUILDING

Pictured is the new Cerritos Square branch of United California Bank, which occupies the lower floor of this building at 4210 Long Beach Blvd. Official opening took place Friday when it was announced that night depository service, safe deposit facilities and complete banking services are available. The leasing agent for the premises is Coldwell Banker and Co., and the owner, C. J. Bonner. Parking area will serve 150 cars.

Deadline Near for Some Vets to Buy Homes Under GI Terms

Deadline for many World War II veterans to purchase a home under the GI Bill of Rights is only two months away, Don Hermanson, sales manager of Brentwood Gardens, warns.

"The bill starts to 'run out' July 25," Hermanson said, "at which time many World War II veterans will no longer be able to buy a home on no-down payment and at 5¼% interest."

More than 800 veterans have taken advantage of their home purchase eligibility at Brentwood Gardens, 2000-home planned community being developed by Larwin Co., an affiliate of Larwin Group, which includes the world's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

* * * *

HERMANSON SAID the reasons given by veterans who buy at Brentwood Gardens are: Location, terms and value.

The development, he noted, is 20 minutes from major employment areas in Los Angeles and Orange County, in addition to being approximately 10 minutes from major recreation.

The 18-hole championship Los Alamitos Golf Course is across the street from the development's newest unit.

Financing terms at the project enable veterans to move in for only $1 total cost, Hermanson added. Monthly payments start at $89 which include principal and interest. Loans carry 5¼% interest and each buyer receives a grant deed to his property.

Brentwood Gardens residences are available in four basic floor plans and 20 exterior elevations, including ranch, Hawaiian, provincial, contemporary and traditional.

* * * *

FLOOR PLANS provide popular central entry halls and include three or four bed rooms, or three bedrooms and family room or den, two baths and oversized two-car garage.

Features include built-in gas range and oven, built-in TV antennas, disposal, double sink, ceramic tile counter tops, walk-in bedroom closets, custom wallpaper and aluminum sliding glass doors.

To reach Brentwood Gardens, go east on Carson to Knott Avenue.

IN BRENTWOOD GARDENS

Here is shown the spacious living room in one of model homes in Brentwood Gardens, 2,000-home planned community near Buena Park. Floor plans also incorporate popular central entry halls.

Two Month Rental Free in Apartment

Anaheim's newest apartments, the Lincoln Arms, just off Lincoln Blvd. between Knott and Western Ave. on Westchester are now open.

According to Richard L. Sinclair, president of the developing firm, a special offer of two months free rent will be given to all those leasing apartments with the special offer in effect for a limited time only.

The new apartment complex of 423 one and one-bedroom apartments in 11 buildings, feature separate adult, family, and bachelor sections, professionally selected drapes and carpeting, TV and phone outlets, laundry room with washers and dryers, mammoth walk-in closets, O'Keefe and Merritt built-in range and oven, a snack bar and separate big dining area in apartments ranging up to 900 square feet in area.

* * * *

A NEW CONCEPT in apartments is being inaugurated by Lincoln Arms. A unique plan developed by the company allows renters to purchase the furnishings displayed in any one of the 10 model apartments, as a group, for far less money than normal because Lincoln Arms pays half the retail value. As an example: Sinclair said: renters would pay only $70 for a $90 apartment under this plan.

Not only will our renters pay less for their rent and their furniture under our "own-your-own furniture" plan, Sinclair said, they will also save money on their utilities because we pay for both gas and water.

SUN RAY ESTATES WILMINGTON

Offer Many New Designs in Garden Park Estates

"Why go further? You can find what you want right here!"

This, as value-conscious home shoppers attending Garden Park Estates' grand opening, is a fitting maxim for the new unit of handsome one and two-story homes, spokesmen point out.

Latest addition to this planned "city within a city" at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway, the all-new unit presents not only a widely diverse selection of contemporary and conventional elevations, but an exceptionally wide range of plans specifically designed to meet the spatial needs of large families and small.

* * * *

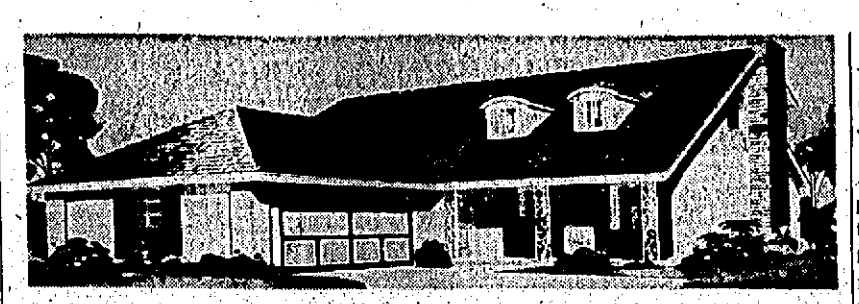

THERE ARE two-bath plans with two bedrooms and a convertible den for retired couples or those without children; three and four-bedroom plans with family room and dining areas, and the new two-story residences with five spacious bedrooms for today's larger families.

These, the spokesman said, are not "split-level" homes, they are actually two-story dwellings. Expertly designed for the maximum of gracious communal living and individual privacy, each two-story home has two bedrooms, a bath and the master bedroom with a fireplace on the second floor. Downstairs, there is an inviting entry hall with stately stairway, and in one separate wing (a center hallway conveniently divides these areas) there are two bedrooms, and in the other, the spacious living room with its hospitable fireplace, the dining area, and the appliance-equipped kitchen. The second bath is convenient to all.

* * * *

THE HOMES are fully priced from $17,800. "Four way" financing offers veterans terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $89.50 including principal and interest, or Cal-Vet loans. Non-veteran financing includes conventional loans and choice of 30 or 35-year FHA loans.

Furnished models are reached by driving east on Seventh St. to Knott Ave. and Garden Park Estates' new unit.

IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES

Today's grand opening officially presents Garden Park Estates' new unit of one and two-story luxury homes. Exteriors are diverse and distinctive, and the range of plans keyed to meet the needs of families of virtually every size.

To L.B. Office of Paper Firm

Robert A. Campbell has been appointed manager of Blake, Moffitt & Towne's Long Beach division, according to H. P. Westler, president of this Pacific Coast paper distributor. Campbell advances from an executive position on the company's headquarters staff in San Francisco. He succeeds Jack P. Rogers who has resigned.

Campbell started as a salesman in San Bernardino in 1953. Five years later, he was promoted to sales manager of the San Bernardino Division. In 1961, after a brief assignment to a staff position at the company's southern regional headquarters in Los Angeles, he was appointed to the San Francisco headquarters staff.

Sees Ample Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospective home buyers will continue to find ample mortgage funds available through the rest of 1962, says the president of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

J. Stanley Baughman, the association president, said he based his forecast on a nationwide survey conducted by the agency's field offices and on an analysis of the association's quarterly report.

"A number of favorable factors are at work for prospective home buyers," Baughman said. One of these factors, he said, was the action of the Federal Reserve Board in raising the maximum interest rates commercial banks can pay.

* * * *

THIS, HE SAID, "has increased time and savings deposits substantially, thereby creating the happy situation of these banks seeking additional investment outlets. Mortgages, as a result, have become increasingly more attractive to them."

Former Timekeeper Webb Prexy

A man who "hired on" 24 years ago as a $25-per-week timekeeper has stepped up to the presidency of the Del E. Webb Corp. of Phoenix and Los Angeles, whose 1961 building activities exceeded $100 million in volume.

He is 49-year-old L. C. Jacobson of Phoenix, executive vice-president and, with Founder Del E. Webb, the only man ever to share ownership of the Webb Co. until it became publicly held 18 months ago.

Builder Webb, 62, while announcing Jacobson's ascendency to the presidency at the annual stockholders' meeting in Town Hall of the Webb-developed Sun City retirement community near Phoenix, left little doubt he will continue actively in Webb Corp. operations as chief executive officer and chairman of the board.

* * * *

"RETIREMENT," he declared, "is something I haven't even thought about."

Webb reported 1961 showed a substantial increase in earnings, with gross revenue of $67,100,718 and net earnings of $2,835,908 or 50 cents a share on average shares outstanding. The company also performed $13,221,000 in construction work for its own properties and subsidiaries, and its estimated share of joint venture construction was $25,400,000 boosting 1961 activities over the $100 million mark.

In becoming president of the construction and land development firm he has helped build to major proportions in two decades, Jacobson assumed direction of more than $200 million in projects currently underway or on the planning boards, as well as Webb-owned properties such as shopping centers, hotels, office buildings and other businesses.

Tidewater Tightens Marketing Budget

Tidewater Oil Co. plans plans capital expenditures of $81 million in 1962.

The 1961 capital expenditures totalled $101 million, of which approximately $15 million was spent for the purchase of an interest in certain California oil and gas properties of Honolulu Oil Corp., and a half interest in its undeveloped acreage in Alaska, president George F. Getty II said.

Getty said the 1962 budget reflected a "general tightening up" of marketing expenditures, while providing funds to maintain the modern marketing-facilities program begun by Tidewater during its expansion launched in 1954.

Flying A service station construction will be concentrated in areas where Tidewater enjoys its most favorable delivery costs, Getty said. Continued attention will also be focused on modernization of existing stations.

Getty noted that the 1962 plans indicated Tidewater's generally optmistic outlook for the oil industry's future.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Co. announced that Union Pacific Railroad has ordered 12 G-E U25B diesel-electric locomotives.

The order is the second placed by Union Pacific for the 2500-horsepower locomotives. The railroad took delivery of four U25B's last August, and by early April of this year the units had operated over a total of 94,000 miles—a nayerage of 12,200 miles per month.

* * * *

MARKET BASKET reported earnings for the fiscal year ended March 3, 1962 of $1,413,188 or $1.51 a share compared to $2,011,973 or $2.18 a share, adjusted for a 3% stock dividend, for the previous fiscal year. Sales rose to a record high of $119,183,184 from $104,511,854. The company continued to maintain a strong working capital position of $6,183,202 with cash of $4,117,968 and no bank borrowings.

President Neal D. Ramsey attributed the decline in earnings to the recent amount of write offs due to 10 new store openings during the year, general softness in the economy during the early part of last year and a downward revision in the retail price structure.

Ramsey stated he was optimistic regarding the current outlook as he felt there was a discernible improvement in general business conditions in Southern California. He believes that the number of newly opened stores will contribute to expanded operating profits during the current year.

ROGER M. LAVERTY SR., president and chairman of the Board announced that Thriftimart, Inc. earned $2,030,147 during its 53-week fiscal year ended March 31, 1962. This compares with total profit of $1,794,521 for the previous 52-week year ended March 25, '61. Earnings of $1.80 per share were the same for both years. This past year average shares outstanding totaled 1,126,368 compared to average shares outstanding for the previous year of 999,307.

Sales for the year reached a record high of $209,065,322, an increase of $30,124,335 or 16.83% over sales of the preceding 52-week year which totaled $178,940,987.

During the 1961-62 fiscal year, Thriftimart expanded its retail organization by acqulsition of the MORE membership department stores through a newly formed, wholly-owned subsidiary, and the opening of six new supermarkets in its food chain.

ROOM DIVIDER FEATURED
Cambridge Park in the Orange-Tustin area features one of their dining rooms divided from their family room by ornate stone room divider. Cambridge Park, three and four-bedroom homes, located Cambridge Avenue just north of Fairhaven between Orange and Tustin, are now selling under $25,000 and are more than one-half sold out.

Quality Features in Sunshine Home

LOCATION IS APPEALING
Huntington Beach Sunshine homes are ideally located in one of the finest south coast resort areas offering easy access to beaches, golf courses, boating, and deep sea fishing.

A number of quality features, including wall-to-wall carpet and built-ins in the kitchen are attracting home buyers at Huntington Beach Sunshine homes, units 1 and 2, according to Stan Rossi, executive sales manager for S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers.

Locted in the fastest growing section of Orange County, near beaches, golf courses, boating and deep sea fishing and close to schools and shopping centers, Huntington Beach Sunshine homes offer the home buyer a choice of several attractive elevations and floor plans and may be purchased with no down payment in unit 1 and only $95 down in unit 2, stated Rossi.

* * * *

OFFERING THE HOME buyer a choice of three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and large two-car garage, these homes feature forced air heat, metal sliding windows with screens, ample closet space and all-copper plumbing. The compact kitchens have built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, vinyl tile, Fabricon counter tops, and natural finish cabinets. There are floor to ceiling folding wardrobe doors.

Furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Unit 1 Huntington Beach Sunshine homes may be inspected on Heil Ave. just off Golden West St. Unit 2 homes may be seen on Golden West St. and Smeltzer.

Big Advance Sale on New Unit

Over 30 homes have been sold in Lakewood Manor before model homes have been completed, reports Ray K. Cherry, president of Hadley-Cherry, developers of the 380-home community in Lakewood.

Sales agents Walker & Lee are still processing over 150 reservations which were made before the project got under way.

Current plans are for the furnished model homes to be open the first week in June. The model homes, being furnished and decorated by Bill Luther, will be a showplace of new decorating and furnishing ideas, according to builder Cherry.

Located in Lakewood at South St. and Palo Verde, Lakewood Manor offers spacious three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes. There is a proposed park in the planning stage and a protective concrete block wall surrounding the entire development.

Lakewood Manor homes are now selling for from $18,750 to $19,250. Information may be obtained by calling Walker & Lee.

MODELS READY SOON
Hadley-Cherry, developers of Lakewood Manor, report over 30 homes have been sold in the unit being built at South Street and Palo Verde. Model homes, such as this, will be ready shortly.

Sites Now Selling in Rancho Carrillo

All 72 ranch-size sites developed from a portion of historic Rancho Carrillo near San Juan Capistrano will be sold within 30 to 60 days, predicted developers Richard Beamish and Ronald Diggins. "The interest shown at our preliminary opening was far greater than we anticipated. Ten sites were sold the first weekend alone," Diggins said.

Three-acre rancho sites, access roads, equestrian trails and a multitude of recreational facilities are highlights of Rancho Carrillo, which is in a rolling mesa above San Juan Capistrano.

The sites are priced between $6,900 and $9,999.

* * * *

RECENT DISCOVERY of abundant well water has spurred development of the historic rancho which is off the Ortega Hwy. (74), eight miles east of San Juan Capistrano.

Each rancho in the tree-rimmed valley is available for outright ownership, Diggins added.

Out of the coastal fog zone but still cooled by ocean breezes, Rancho Carrillo is 2,200 feet high and actually in the Cleveland National Forest.

The Rancho Carrillo sales office is on Ortega Hwy. across from the mission in San Juan Capistrano. Phone number is GYpsy 3-1131. The main Rancho office is located at 365 Newport Blvd., Newport Beach.

Orange County developers Ronald Diggins (left) and Richard Beamish are framed beneath colorful entrance to Rancho Carrillo. They predict all 72 ranch-size lots on a portion of the historic rancho will be sold quickly.

DESIGN WINNERS
Howard Savage and Don McNab of Long Beach have won national honors from Alcoa Aluminum for outstanding achievement in designs with aluminum. They won the award on table and desk accessories.

Win National Award on Aluminum Design

Two young Long Beach men have been selected by the Alcoa Aluminum Industrial Designs Awards jury as recipients of National awards recognizing outstanding achievement in designs with aluminum.

Don McNab and Howard Savage of the Long Beach firm of Savage-McNab-Wilson & Associates will receive a sculptured aluminum stabile as a tangible symbol of the award at the next regional meeting of the Industrial Designer's Institute.

McNab and Savage won the award on a line of home and office table and desk accessories produced for Peter Pepper Products, Palos Verdes Estates.

Savage and McNab formed their present organization in January, 1959, following three years of association with another group, while all were attending Long Beach State College.

* * * *

A SEPARATE organization, Geometrics, Inc., is owned by McNab and Savage. It was organized in January, 1961, to manufacture certain items.

Much of the experience of the firm is in graphic design. Their work on the 1960-61 annual report for the City of Costa Mesa is currently receiving national recognition. At present, the firm is in the process of developing a series of items that will round out the decorative accessories line now manufactured by Geometrics, Inc.

The accessory line includes a range of boxes—cigarette, card, all-purpose—and companion lighters. All were designed to employ standard aluminum extrusions as the body, some with sections of aluminum extrusions as decorative inlay in hardwood tops.

REALTOR WEEK AFFAIR

Copies of Painting Will Be Presented

Color prints of a specially commissioned landscape painting by one of the country's foremost wildlife artists will be presented to Long Beach City College officials when the Long Beach Board of Realtors honor these local educators at a luncheon Wednesday at the Elks Club.

James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the board, said that the occasion will be "Education Day," one of the high lights of Realtor Week.

The painting entitled "Under All Is the Land," is the work of Robert W. Hines, artist-illustrator on the staff of the U.S. Department of the Interior. Praised by critics for the skilled technique it displays as well as for its content, the painting depicts the grandeur of wooded mountain slopes and fertile valleys. He painted "Under All is the Land" for the Department of the Interior which is currently engaged in commemorating the centennial of the Homestead Act and related legislation, in cooperation with NARER and other national civic groups.

* * * *

"I THINK it is particularly appropriate that we should honor Long Beach City College and the men who head it by presenting them with prints of this outstanding painting," Edmonds said. "Land, with which Realtors are particularly concerned, has in a very literal sense been the foundation of public schools in our country since the turn of the nineteenth century. It was then that Congress marked one section in each township out of public lands for the support of schools. And the Morrill Act of 1862 granted public lands for the support of state institutions of higher education. Those who are close to the land today—urban and rural home owners and the Realtors who serve them—are no less dedicated to the support of a high level of excellence in our schools. Home ownership is a source of national strength as are the schools that, now as in the past, follow the establishment of homes."

Guests of the board, each of whom will receive a color print of the painting include: Dr. George E. Dotson, president of Long Beach City College; C. N. Patterson, dean of Business and Technology Division; Dr. Wiley D. Garner, Dr. Keith James, and Dick Jones.

Bolsa Park Is Introducing Big Five-Bedroom Home Near Beach

"To answer the needs of growing families, Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach is unveiling a new five-bedroom plan," announced sales director Ernie Merrill.

"Pricing will be fully $3,000 below any other five-bedroom plan in the area," he added. "Early buyers may select the lot on which their five-bedroom home will be built, a privilege we can offer only for a limited time as the new third unit gets underway."

The new Bolsa Park five-bedroom plan has direct bathroom access from the rear of the house, permitting owners to move straight from pool area to shower. The master bedroom suite occupies a separate, private wing of the home, with large wardrobe and walk-in closet included.

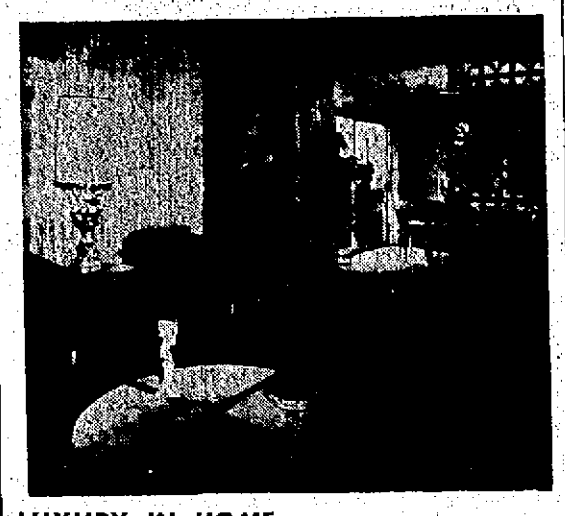

* * * *

BESIDES THE five-bedroom plan, Bolsa Park offers four-bedroom homes priced from $19,800, and three-bedroom models from $19,250. The pricing includes dishwasher, shake roof, and Palos Verdes stone fireplace.

Ceilings and walls in the Bolsa Park homes are of lath and plaster. Special decorator tiles highlight the ceramic tile central bath, with shower over tub, and the separate ceramic tile shower in master bath. Also included is a ceramic tile kitchen with breakfast bar.

Bolsa Park homes may be purchased with VA no-down-payment terms, 35-year FHA financing with 5¼ interest, and 6% conventional financing.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh Street east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

LUXURY IN HOME
This living-dining area of a Bolsa Park home shows how the builder has provided luxury setting in all models. A five-bedroom model is now being offered.

Little Concern Being Shown Over Increased Foreclosures

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (U P I) — More people lost their houses through mortgage foreclosures in 1961 than at any time since the waning days of the great depression of the 1930s.

Moreover, the 73,074 foreclosures on non-farm properties (including some small business real estate) marked a startling increase of nearly 22,000 from 1961.

The total of 75,556 foreclosures was the highest since the 1940s.

The increase from 1960 was the largest one-year rise since 1932. In that year foreclosures totaled 248,700, about 3½ times last year's volume, and on a much smaller base of home ownership.

* * * *

IN 1933 TOTAL foreclosures crept up to 252,400. Then began a decline which progressed steadily but slowly. By 1939, the total was down only to 100,410. This was allowing for differences in the number of home-owners, roughly double the 1961 level.

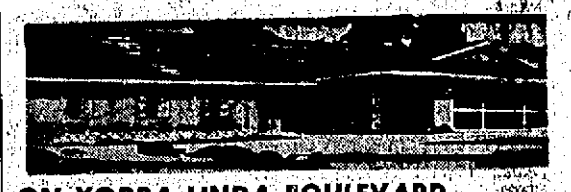

It is these favorable comparisons with the pre-World War II years which government officials use to support a professed — and probably real—lack of worry about recent foreclosure levels.

An industry source was also unperturbed. "We don't look at the situation as serious," commented Dave Gillogly, an economist at the National Association of Home Builders. "And it's certainly not ominous. It's the aftermath of the recession, continuing high unemployment and poor credit checks."

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS claim that the rate of foreclosures is low. In 1961, according to a preliminary estimate by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, it was 3.6 per 1,000 non-farm mortgaged homes. There were 20.2 million such homes last year, 19.4 million in 1960.

"That 3.6 is a very, very low rate," one official said. He stressed that view rather than the big jump from the 1960 rate of 2.65. The post-war low was in 1952, when there were 18,135 foreclosures.

There are no signs that government officials are worried about the rise in foreclosures when viewed against the total volume of housing activity.

ON YORBA LINDA BOULEVARD
Here is one of the models of homes in Carlyle Square in Orange County on Yorba Linda Boulevard, which will be seen in grand opening today.

Home Sales Start in Carlyle Square

Grand opening of Carlyle Square, 98-home development, will be held today, developers Arthur B. Moody and Glen E. McCloud announced.

"We are proud to invite the public and home buyers to the Carlyle Square grand opening to inspect our four furnished models and the entire development," the builders said.

Carlyle Square homes are located on Yorba Linda Blvd., at the corner of Prospect. The three- and four-bedroom homes feature large living rooms, family rooms and two baths, two-car garages, and are priced from $23,900 up with down payments as low as $1,400.

Among one of the first features, which will be noticed by the ladies, are the full length mirrored wardrobe doors in the master bedrooms.

* * * *

THE COLORFUL kitchens are finished with hardwood cabinets and equipped with such features as O'Keefe & Merritt gas ranges and two fully automatic ovens and dishwashers, also Nutone built-in blender-mixers and disposals.

All the homes have slate and marble tile entry halls, AM and FM intercom systems, marble pullmans in all baths, and tub and stall showers.

Carlyle Square homes can be reached from Orangethorpe, north on Linda Vista, east on Yorba Linda Blvd., to Prospect. Visitors may also reach the development via Imperial Highway.

Rural Charm Close to Downtown

Proof of the popularity of Montgomery Park's spacious homes offering the combination of rural charm and "downtown" living convenience is that the first unit was sold out in only six weeks and second unit is now ready to go.

On Harbor Blvd. just south of Bolsa Ave., within the city limits of Santa Ana, the development offers three different "family engineered" floor plans priced from $15,950. For just $395 a non-veteran can live in an area with all metropolitan facilities such as schools, churches, modern shopping marts.

* * * *

"THE LOCATION, low purchase price, plus the fact that the homes have three and four bedrooms, nine exteriors to choose from, hardwood floors, and two-car garages, plus front landscaping and fences are the reasons for the fantastic appeal of these homes," said sales manager Dick Murray of Farrow Real Estate.

"Easy financing is another big feature nowadays when we can offer homes to vets with no down payments and keep monthly payments to as little as $88.35 including principal and interest," he added.

Montgomery Park has many extras such as kitchens with built-in Wedgewood-Holly ranges and 21-inch ovens, waste disposals, forced air heating, glass lined water heaters, sliding glass doors, custom cabinets with deluxe hardware, and acoustic finish ceilings.

$150,000 in Gifts In Three Years

In three years, the Flying A dealers of the harbor area have awarded their customers $150,000 in free Cadillacs, Fords and additional gifts.

The Flying A gasoline service stations are continuing to make new friends and customers with this program. The next give-away will be July 17th.

Anaheim Plant Is Expanding

Construction is under way for a new 30,000 square foot manufacturing facility for Astrodata, Inc. on a four-acre site in Anaheim.

Civic, industrial and business leaders attended the groundbreaking ceremony, which took place adjacent to Astrodata's present location at 240 East Palais Road.

Since the inception in August of 1958 when the payroll consisted of three people, Astrodata has had a remarkable growth, according to Wallace E. Rianda, president. Astrodata presently employs 375 local people.

Astrodata's contribution to the country's space efforts include pre-flight checkout equipment for the Atlas missile at both Cape Canaveral and Vandenberg Air Force Base, several projects on the Minuteman program, and timing instrumentation has been supplied the entire Pacific Missile Range.

Low Prices for Homes Near Beach

Eager home seekers have been getting their own "sneak preview" of Seahaven Homes, a development of 540 homes, in Huntington Beach, according to Paul Rowland, of Walker-Lee, Inc., agents for the Deane Brothers development.

Rowland explained: "We literally furnished and landscaped the models around and through homeseekers and even before our preview showing many homes had been sold."

* * * *

THE HOMES offer a "triple first" to the home buyer. (1) A quality home is offered veterans at the low price of $89 to move in and a monthly payment of only $89 a month and this includes taxes, insurance, principal and interest or FHA minimum down payment and $95 a month including everything. (2) This is the first time a home of this price and quality has been offered with all-electric kitchens. (3) This is the first time buyers have been offered quality beach homes for less than it would cost to rent a comparable home.

Seahaven offers two, three and four bedroom models, each with a choice of three exteriors from as low as $13,950. From Hwy. 101, take Beach Blvd. two miles to Adams and turn right to see the homes.

Warns About Home Repair Racketeers

With the spring home repair and improvement season once more at hand, Long Beach area home owners were warned by James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, to beware of racketeers operating in this field.

"The eagerness of many home owners to repair residences or to take advantage of the favorable spring weather in making additions or improvements is commendable," Edmonds explained. "As realtors know, home maintenance is an essential factor in conserving property and neighborhood values and standards. And as long as our home owners contract with our many established, reputable repair and maintenance firms for services and products, results will be good. Unfortunately however, spring always brings a return of fly-by-night operators. It is against this latter group that home owners should be on guard.

According to the Long Beach board president, home improvement rackets flourish in a wide range of services and products — landscaping, shrubbery, house sidings, patio construction, to name just a few.

* * * *

WHILE THERE IS NO hard and fast rule that may be used by home owners in distinguishing between the claims made by the racketeers and reputable firms, Edmonds cited steps that have been developed by the Federal Trade Commission from its experience in investigating home improvement frauds. These are:

1. Before signing up for any offered service or product, get comparable cost estimates from at least one competing firm. Reputable merchants are quite willing to have this done.

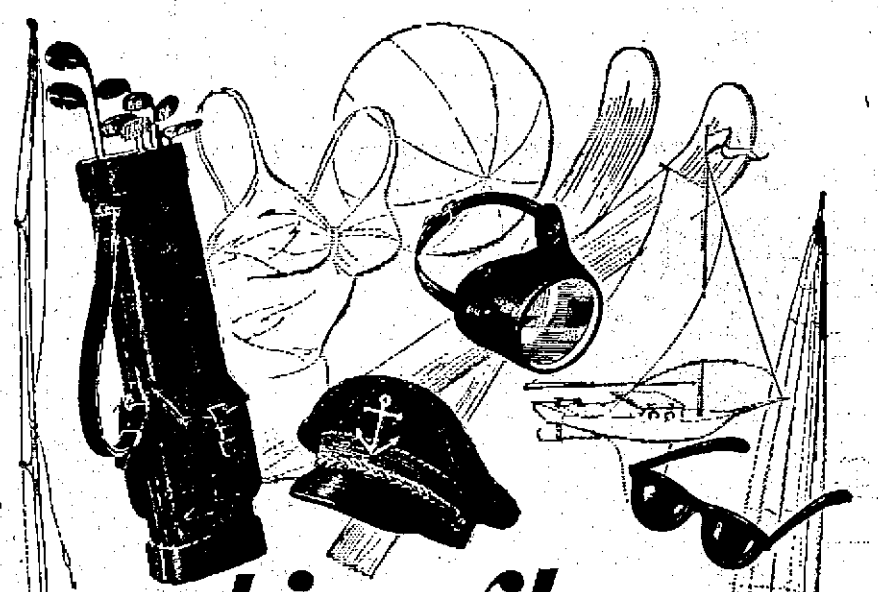

2. Obtain names and addresses of previous customers from the soliciting firms and contact these customers.

3. Make sure that the firm has a place of business.

4. If the product or service is said to be guaranteed, find out exactly what is guaranteed, any conditions that are attached to the guarantee, and who will make good on it if necessary and where he can be located.

5. Be doubly suspicious and ask many more questions if the price is a great deal lower than the going price in the area.

Homes by Henry Cox Prove Very Popular

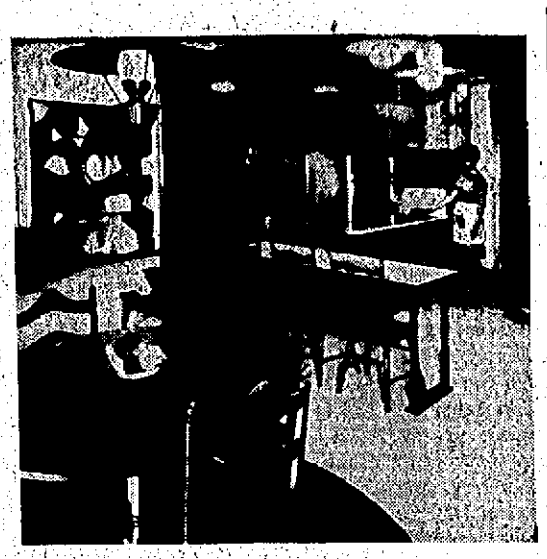

Park Estates in south Santa Ana, and Lifetime Homes in Tustin, both developments by Henry C. Cox, are proving to be extremely popular with the public.

The big, five, four and three-bedroom, two-bath homes, with a two-story, four-bedroom plan available at Park Estates, contain the newest in home improvements and innovations: Frigidaire Flair all-electric range and oven; ingenious, patented, rearrangable and removable wall panels; hardwood cabinets in both kitchen and baths, finished inside and out; separate dining area, living room and a big kitchen with acres of counterspace, and up to 60 different exterior-interior arrangements available at Park Estates.

Minimum down payments at both developments is $1000. Lifetime Homes are priced from $20,200; Park Estates Homes full prices stop at $22,500, both developments have been inspected and insured by FHA for 30-year loans at 5¼% interest. They represent the 67th and 69th Orange County developments of Henry C. Cox, and have been personally designed and built by him.

Model homes at both Park Estates and Lifetime Homes are open for inspection from 9 to 6 daily. To see Park Estates homes, drive south on either Bristol or Harbor to West Warner Ave. (formerly Delhi Road). Park Estates are located on the corner of Raitt St. and West Warner a half mile west of Bristol.

Lifetime Homes are located between Newport and Tustin Ave. on McFadden St. just off the Santa Ana Freeway. Bert Elstad is executive sales agent.

OFFERED ON $1,000 DOWN

Park Estates homes in south Santa Ana offer the purchaser a choice of 60 different exterior-interior arrangements. The five, four and three-bedroom, two-bath, one and two-story homes sell from $1,000 down with full prices stopping at $22,550. Here is the interior of one model.

Stock Donated to Church Fund

LEVITA, Tex. (UPI)—The well-established Lord's Methodist Church of Levita has developed a new twist on the well-established Lord's Acre program.

Instead of setting aside a certain amount of acreage for the church, members are allotting a pig, cow or several chickens to it. Proceeds from the sale of the stock will go to the church.

China Reds Lack Simple Farm Tools

TOKYO (UPI)—Bad weather and bungling bureaucracy are not the only causes of Red China's severe food shortages.

An authoritative Communist Chinese publication has disclosed that the 500 million peasants in the people's communes are handicapped by an acute shortage of basic farming implements.

"The rural areas require most urgently at present," said an article in the Ta Kung Pao newspaper, "drainage and irrigation machines, small farming implements and articles for use in everyday life."

* * * *

THE ARTICLE, recently received here, said there was a shortage of such basic implements as hoes, picks, shovels, pails and even baskets and other crude items made of bamboo. The Ta Kung Pao newspaper, an authoritative daily, deals mainly with economic news.

"The need for such farming implements and articles as pick-axes, rakes, grass sickles and rainwear, one piece of which is required by each person, is also quite urgent," the paper said, "for these articles directly affect the rate of attendance of laborers at work in the fields."

The paper also said the peasants "urgently need" such home items as "iron pots, china bowls, pot lids, soup pots and earthen ware for use in everyday life..."

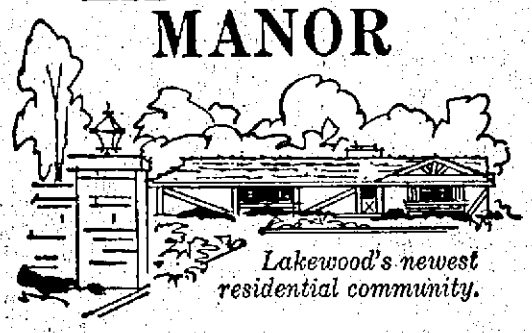

* * * *

ONE OF THE most serious shortages is in the area of drainage and irrigation machines, the paper said.

"The wear and tear of drainage and irrigation machines has been especially severe because drought struck in the past few years in succession..."

The article lamented that "comparatively little attention" has been given to the production and supply of these articles. It also implied that the quality left much to be desired.

Tax Tattlers Get $777 on Average

NEW YORK (UPI) — Informers helped the government recover $12 million in federal taxes, penalties and interest during the year ended June 30, 1961, according to Commerce Clearing House.

CCH also reported each of the 706 informers whose stories checked out received an average reward of $777. Claims for rewards were filed by 4,145 informers, but 3,439 were rejected because they were not proved.

LAW IN THE NEWS

Protect Own Rights in Case of Accident

Summer travel is at hand, so before you crank up for that trip, consider what to do to prevent trouble if you get in an accident. For an accident can happen to any of us, and you may become too confused. So here's what you do to obey the law and protect your rights:

1. Always stop in a safe place. Never drive away — even from a little bump — without seeing if any harm has been done. If the mishap occurs on a highway at night, set out some signal to warn others. If the accident is serious, notify law enforcement officers. Stay there until they come.

2. Injuries. If anyone is seriously injured and needs medical care, get a doctor or call an ambulance at once. Meanwhile make the person as comfortable as you can; but never move him in any way that may add to his injuries.

3. Write down the license number of the other car(s). Show the other driver(s) your license and check his. The law calls for such an exchange. Check the registration slip in the car(s) and get the names and address(es) of the registration owner(s).

4. Write down the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of everybody involved. Those in your own, as well as those in the other car(s).

* * * *

5. GET NAMES, addresses, and telephone numbers of other witnesses at the scene. Ask them if they saw any part of the accident. Write all these facts down. Get names of anyone, witness or not, (as some witnesses initially claim not to be a witness). If names are not obtainable, jot down the auto license numbers of probable witnesses.

6. Write out notes of your observations of the accident to refresh your own memory. Do this in as full detail as you can and as soon as you can after the event. Diagram the accident to show how it took place. Note weather and road conditions, time of day, skid marks, street lights at night, crosswalks, speed estimates, sequence of events, and other important facts.

7. Be factual if you are reasonably certain of details. For example, when the time comes to talk, be prepared to say actually what happened, such as (if true): "I was slowing down from approximately 25 miles per hour," rather than "I was not speeding." On the other hand, do not guess as to time intervals, distance measurement, or speed factors if you don't know them. If you are dazed, whatever the reason, so that your mind is not clear, do not make statements to anyone as to how the accident occurred. A basic rule is to avoid positive, specific statements as to dates, times, distances, etc., unless you have a basis for being positive. Go straight to a hospital or get medical attention. In any event, call your attorney before you make any general comment on the accident, accept blame, or sign any paper, an admission, release, or whatever. If anyone falsely accuses you of wrongdoing, deny it promptly.

8. REPORT ACCIDENT and any resulting personal injury at once to the nearest patrol when anyone is hurt or killed, or damage to property exceeds $100.

9. To comply with the Financial Responsibility Law you must, within 15 days after an accident which involves death, personal injury, or property damage in excess of $100, report to the Department of Motor Vehicles. When you report, show that your insurance covers you up to $5,000 for property damage, or $10,000 for one, or $20,000 for two persons injured or dead.

Lacking insurance, you can put up cash or a bond for the same amounts, or show that you have made an out-of-court settlement.

10. See a doctor at once if you feel any after effects at all.

11. If you carry car insurance, and you certainly should, notify your agent or insurance company at once.

12. Consult your attorney. Keep his name, address, and telephone number in your wallet or glove compartment, along with the names of your doctor and your family, and business associates.

13. If the car you hit is unattended, leave a slip of paper under the wiper blade with your name, address, and car license on it.

Parklane Luxury Homes in Grand Opening

Parklane Luxury Homes, located in the heart of Santa Ana, will hold their grand opening of their second unit today it was announced by the developer, Mark Andrews.

The Parklane development of 113 homes, representing an estimated $3,000,000 investment, is located on Santiago one mile north of 17th St. in Santa Ana and is accessible of the Santa Ana freeway from all points.

Andrews, who has built other major apartment developments and tracts throughout Santa Ana and Orange County, states that his main objective in designing Parklane, was to incorporate into these plans all the luxurious features of a mansion at a figure more people could afford.

The three and four-bedroom Parklane Homes sell from $25,600 and up and feature all-electric kitchens, intercoms, hi-fi, pool sized lots, large garages and are planned on winding streets for beauty of the development.

* * * *

Cabinets are of natural walnut, birch, ash and maple. Fireplaces and planters are of natural Palos Verdes stone, driftwood stone from Arizona, used brick and painted block.

Furnished models are open for daily showing from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., according to Ray Trizinsky, sales manager.

Parklane Homes are reached off the Santa Ana Freeway on 17th Street, east to Santiago Street, one mile north to models.

OFFERED IN SANTA ANA

The man YOU nominate may become 1962's

FATHER OF THE YEAR

Each year at this time the Independent, Press-Telegram chooses the "Father of the Year" . . . chosen from the nominations written in to us by our readers. Undoubtedly among your family or friends you know of an outstanding father . . . tell us about him! He will be awarded many valuable prizes if he is chosen

FATHER OF THE YEAR

It's easy . . . fun . . . rewarding. Here's all you do! Simply nominate (in 100 words or less) a man you know deserving of the title "Father of the Year." The nominee does not have to be a resident of Long Beach, but may reside anywhere in the trade territory served by this newspaper. Persons making nominations need not be a relative of the man they would have honored. Entries have been received for scoutmaster, ministers, school teachers and merchants who are doing youth work. The entry should give the reasons why, in the writer's opinion, the nominee deserves the honor, listing some actual instances where the man has done outstanding work.

Neatness of the writing or spelling will have no bearing on the decision by the judges. Deadline for submitting a nominee in the contest is midnight, Friday, June 1st. This will give the judges ample time to check all entries. Entries should be submitted in 100 words or less to the:

"Father of the Year Contest"
Independent, Press-Telegram,
604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

There will be a special section in the Sunday Independent, Press-Telegram announcing the winner with his picture on the cover. This will appear Sunday, June 10, a week ahead of Father's Day. In the special section will be advertisements and stories on special gifts and gift suggestions to honor Dad.

SELLING FROM $16,500
Spacious living areas are one of many features of the three and four-bedroom, two-bath Huntington Village homes. Selling from $16,500 and $195 down, plus costs, the homes are open daily for inspection.

New Floor Plans, Designs Now in Huntington Village Homes

Homebuyers are offered a variety of six brand new "wife-saver" floor plans and 21 new beautiful designs at Huntington Village, a Balanced Power residential development by the Doyle and Shields Construction Co.

Three or four-bedroom, family room and two-bath homes are available, priced from $16,500, according to Dan Mytinger, sales manager of the firm. Only $195 down is needed, plus costs, includes deed and title insurance for both home and land. There are no due dates and no balloon payments. Cal-Vet Financing is also available.

Among the outstanding features of this Balanced Power development are the kitchens, which feature modern gas built-in Whirlpool RCA range and oven and ample cabinet and counter space.

* * * *

PROSPECTIVE BUYERS will find many advantages at Huntington Village, Mytinger pointed out. Among these are: wall-to-wall carpeting in living room, hallways and master bedroom, wood burning fireplace, two car garages and central forced air heat.

A grade school, on full-day sessions, is located within the Huntington Village community of some 900 homes and a high school is in the preliminary stages of construction immediately adjacent to the development. A newly opened shopping center is located within walking distance.

From Long Beach, drive east on Seventh Street to Highway 39 (Beach Blvd.). Turn south on Beach to Edinger (Smeltzer), turn right on Edinger to Springdale, then left on Springdale a short distance to the furnished model homes open daily.

Wilmington Sun Ray Homes Have Appeal

Offering three-bedroom and a family room, two-bath homes in the heart of the harbor area, Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington is attracting many buyers.

Included in the cost, which starts from $18,900, the homes provide wall-to-wall carpeting throughout and many built-ins including a range and oven. The buyer has a choice of Hotpoint electric or O'Keefe & Merritt gas appliances in the kitchen.

* * * *

FROM LONG BEACH visitors to Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington may drive west on Pacific Coast Hwy. to Avalon. Turn right to "Q" St. Then right to models.

Among other features available are oak parquet floors in family room, natural wood cabinets, hood with fan and light over the built-in range; vinyl tile in kitchen, baths and on service porch. American Standard plumbing fixtures, forced-air gas heating, ceiling insulation, sliding aluminum windows and sliding glass doors.

Veterans need only $195 to move in.

Report Sales Heavy in Huntington Hills

Although peak sales at "Sea View" Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach have greatly reduced the number of homes, buyers acting promptly will still find a highly individual and diverse selection of attractive, luxury residences, according to W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co.

Some of the recent sales activity, McCaffrey said, is due to the fact that certain groups of World War II veterans whose GI privileges are scheduled to expire July 25, are anxious to take advantage of Huntington Hills' $88 "move-in." However, he added, with the favorable 35-year FHA loans for non-veterans, veteran and non-veteran purchasers are about equally divided. There are also good conventional loans and full prices are from just $17,500.

MANY OF the homes are ready for occupancy, including two "special" dwellings which, complete with pool and patio, are each priced at $20,990.

Buyers have choice of many different exterior designs, and there are large-family plans with three or four bedrooms, two baths and a family room. All of the homes have fireplaces, gleaming hardwood floors and acoustic-type ceilings, natural mahogany wood paneling throughout and thermostatically controlled forced air heating.

From Long Beach, Huntington Hills is reached by driving south on Pacific Coast Hwy. to Huntington Beach. Turn left at Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) and follow the directional signs two miles to the property.

HUNTINGTON HILLS HOME
Attractive dining nook shown is just off the appliance-equipped kitchen in one of the furnished models at "Sea View" Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach.

X-RAY HOME AT STARDUST
This model Stardust Home is an "X-Ray" model, containing many cutaways to show construction methods.

Vet Needs Only $1 Down on Stardust X-Ray Home

New VA terms featuring minimal $1 down payments and no other move-in costs are drawing cards of veterans to Stardust Homes in Huntington Beach, said Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder.

Also offered to veterans is two months' free rent. Some buyers will be able to move in by the end of the present school term.

On view at the development is the Stardust "X-Ray House," a model home incorporating 53 separate displays to satisfy homebuyers' curiousity about construction. Special cutaways permit viewers to look through the ceiling, walls and floor. Other exhibits show consecutive stages in the building process, while cutaway models demonstrate internal workings of such products as the water heater, forced-air furnace and garbage disposal.

* * * *

BESIDES the VA $1 down terms, Stardust offers 35-year, 5½ per cent FHA terms. Pricing is from $16,600.

Now debuting at Stardust are popular four-bedroom models with "Jack and Jill" expandable bedrooms. These may be closed off by night to give children separate sleeping quarters, and opened together by day for more play room and easier cleaning.

Rated at eight minutes from Pacific beaches, the three or four-bedroom Stardust homes offer oak flooring throughout. Other highlights include: Large family room, built-in Gaffers & Sattler colored gas range with 20-inch oven, natural finish kitchen cabinets, sunken living room, gas forced-air heating with new overhead "no draft" diffuser, fireplace, all exterior decoration and trim of redwood, utility room, and oversized two-car garage.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving east on Seventh Street, turning right on Bolsa Chica and continuing south two miles to Bolsa Avenue, then left to models.

New Type Home Loan Offered

NEW YORK (AP)—The First National City Bank has introduced a new type of home financing in which the buyer gets a mortgage commitment before he purchases the house.

The plan allows the customer to obtain advance approval of a mortgage loan. Then he can take up to 90 days to find the house he wants. After that the bank completes the financing details.

The bank said it will commit in advance for mortgages up to 75 per cent of appraised value with up to 20 years to pay.

NEW CHAPEL FOR MORTUARY

Extensive construction is under way at the Sheelar-McFadyen Mortuary, 1952 Long Beach Blvd., Mrs. Louise Dixon, president, announced. The $100,000 project will include construction of this new chapel, seating 200 persons, being built on the parking lot. The mortuary has purchased the building to the north and will use that property for parking. The existing main structure will be modernized when the new chapel is completed.

Offering Fine Home in P remium Locale

Dutch Haven's new unit 20, successfully previewed recently at Huntington Beach, is continuing to attract record crowds with its sales-building combination of attractively styled homes, premium location and moderate prices.

An official of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, said that a large percentage of unit 20's immediate success can be attributed to the fact that Dutch Haven fulfills a popular demand for near-the-beach property, priced within the budget of the average family and offering title to land with each purchase.

* * * *

SITUATED ON Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica, this is the 20th Dutch Haven community opened in Southern California.

The homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at the newly authorized 5¼ per cent interest rate are also available.

Monthly payments begin at $79.63, including principal and interest.

* * * *

IMPROVEMENTS such as street lighting, sidewalks, streets, curbs and utilities are covered in the original cost. There are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments.

"American Home Series" residences are being featured exclusively at unit 20. Buyers have a choice of award-winning floor plans. There are 16 exterior elevations available.

Custom features include complete frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

To visit the furnished model homes at unit 20 from Long Beach, go east on Seventh St. to Bolsa Chica, then right on Bolsa Chica to models.

APPEALING INTERIOR

Two Patios, One at Entrance, in Popular Golden West Model

Both a front entranceway patio and a secluded side patio are included in the popular "600-Plan" at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice-president of McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction.

The well-liked plan includes a formal living room for entertaining guests while children play in the large separate family room. Adjoining the modern built-in kitchen is a spacious dining area.

The three bedrooms are grouped in a separate sleeping area apart from the rest of the house.

* * * *

THE LARGE SIDE PATIO in this plan includes ample room for a pool, and the garage converts easily to a poolside cabana simply by lifting up the rear "boat door." The pool area has direct access to the master bedroom.

Immediate occupancy is available on most of the plans and elevations at Golden West. There are 22 exteriors.

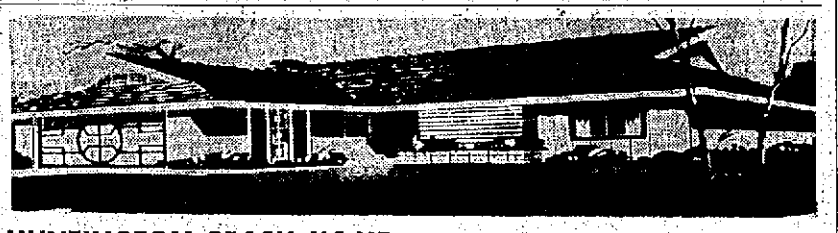

Offered with three or four bedrooms, family room, two baths, and two-car garage, the homes may be purchased with FHA, conventional, or VA no-down-payment terms.

The 35-year, 5¼% FHA terms offer down payments from $800, while conventional down payments range from $695. Pricing is from $17,800.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached via Seventh St. east to Golden West St., then right (south) to models.

Great Comeback Being Made by Bituminous Coal Industry

The bituminous coal industry has staged one of the most remarkable economic comebacks of our time, writes an industry expert in "The Exchange Magazine."

Coal has been through a life-and-death struggle with rival fuels for years, notes Joseph P. Routh, chairman and chief executive officer of the Pittston Co., in the New York Stock Exchange publication. But the reports of its death, he adds with a Mark Twain touch, have been greatly exaggerated.

Through more efficient management and by substituting automation for the pick and shovel, the soft coal industry has been able to hold down prices and become competitive in both the domestic and export markets.

* * * *

ILLUSTRATING this point is Moss No. 3, a mine opened by Pittston in southern Virginia in 1958. Its complex drilling and cutting apparatus, conveyor belts, processing plant and Cape Canaveral-like pushbutton control room give Moss No. 3 the look of a modern manufacturing plant, not a traditional coal mine.

And the mine's 30-year producing expectancy justifies the $30 million investment in methods and machinery that gives an extraction rate of 35 tons per man day—compared with 14 tons per man day for the industry as a whole and 1½ tons per man day in Europe.

* * * *

MOSS NO. 3 helps explain why today the coal industry can produce more at lower costs than 10 years ago. Coal prices at the mine have dropped from a 1952 average of $4.90 a ton to an average of $4.65 in 1961, despite a $6 per day increase in wages during the period.

This mine also helps explain why American coal can be shipped to Germany, France and England and sold at $2 to $4 a ton less than the coal produced in those countries.

Among problems still vexing his industry, Routh notes, that transportation costs in some instances run as high as the cost of the coal itself. But so-called slurry pipelines, several of which have been developed already, may provide an answer. In this system, coal is pulverized, mixed in a 70-30 ratio with water, and pumped like a liquid through pipes to destination.

Pacific Sands Selling Rapidly With Unit 4 Now Being Offered

Pacific Sands, residential community in Huntington Beach, just one minute from the ocean, has completely captivated viewers, according to Bill Cheney, vice president of Walker-Lee, Inc., sales agents.

"Seventy per cent of the value-packed Pacific Sands Homes, custom designed for beach living, have already been sold and at the rate sales are going the fourth unit which is now open, will be sold out in the very near future," Cheney explained.

Home seekers with a zest for California beach living are delighted with the advantages offered. The homes, said to be priced as much as $5,000 less than the present market, are available in 26 models ranging from two to four bedrooms with multiple baths, priced from $13,500 to $19,950 for the 1700 square foot two-story model.

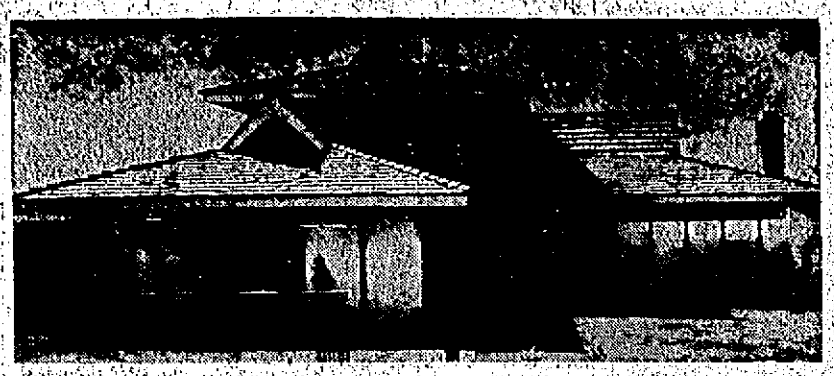

* * * *

THE HOMES offer luxury items such as mahogany paneling in the living room, wall-to-wall carpeting, sliding glass doors, birch cabinets in the kitchen; two-car garages, some with boat doors.

"THE MOST outstanding and eagerly awaited feature of these homes," Cheney continued, "is the Pacific Sands Cabana Club and Community Recreational Area. For a limited time, there is no initiation fee to first-time Pacific Sands buyers. The Cabana Club, which will open in early July, will feature an Olympic-size swimming pool, tennis courts, children's playground, shuffleboard court facilities, and a spacious clubhouse.

Pacific Sands is a co-development by Deane Brothers, and M. J. Brock and Sons, Inc., builders of thousands of quality homes throughout the West in addition to millions of dollars worth of commercial and industrial developments.

The homes are located on Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39), just north of Pacific Coast Hwy.

TWO-LEVEL HOME

Luxury beach living is featured at a low price in Pacific Sands deluxe two-story model by Deane Brothers. This model features three bedrooms plus den and two baths.

Earnings Show Gain

The general improvement in business conditions this year over those of early 1961 has produced more traffic for Southern Pacific and resulted in better first quarter earnings, announced Nebhut L. Smith, Long Beach district freight and passenger agent after receiving a report from D. J. Russell, SP president.

First quarter rail revenues for the system totalled $190,363,000—up $14,970,000.

Net income of SP and its subsidiaries for the three month period was $17,733,000—equivalent to 65 cents a share, compared to 55 cents a share a year ago.

TRAFFIC GAINS were registered in nearly every category of freight, Russell said. Leading increases were in shipments of automobiles and parts, lumber and plywood, iron and steel manufactures, ores and concentrates, and canned goods. Last year's very heavy movement of steel pipe for gas line construction on the West Coast was not duplicated and this traffic showed a decline.

Russell said that Southern Pacific this year will invest about $93 million in capital improvements.

Warns on Hiring of Teeners

SAN FRANCISCO—Employers, teen-agers, and their parents are reminded by Regional Director Frank J. Muench of the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Public Contracts Divisions, that the Fair Labor Standards Act restricts certain jobs for youngsters under 18.

"With the increase in the country's teen-age population," Muench said, "more youngsters than ever before will be competing for summertime employment in a tight job market. It is important that they understand the provisions of the Federal child-labor law."

The Act sets a 16-year minimum age for general employment and an 18-year age minimum for jobs which have been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. It applies to employment in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce.

* * * *

MUENCH SAID that the best way for employers to protect themselves against unintentionally hiring an underage child is to require an age certificate showing that the young worker is old enough for the job. It will serve as proof of age for purposes of the law.

Manager of Zodys Joins Hartfields

Richard H. Wolfe, vice president and general manager of Zodys Department Stores, has been appointed a vice president of Hartfield Store, Inc., Leo Hartfield, president of Hartfield Stores, Inc., announced.

Wolfe, who has headed the Zodys operation since its inception in early 1960 has spearheaded the rapid growth of the chain of discount stores in Southern California to its present status, Hartfield said. "Zodys is now operating at four locations in Garden Grove, Orange County; in the Redondo Beach and Long Beach areas, and in Northridge in the San Fernando Valley.

R. W. WOLFE

"Under the leadership of Wolfe, we are planning to open six more stores the end of this year and are looking forward to our ultimate goal of 36 stores in the California area.

"We are very pleased to announce the promotion of Wolfe at this time when Zodys chain of quality discount department stores stands on the threshold of its greatest growth period, which will place Zodys in a dominant position in the retail field in California," Hartfield concluded.

The New 'West Side Story'

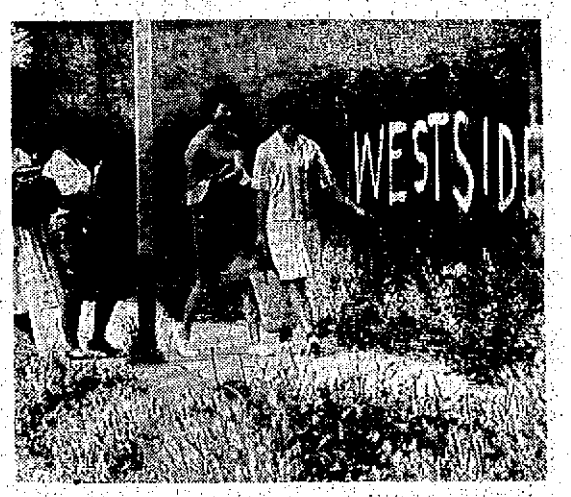

Girls Club Is Scene of Real Life Drama

By Mary Ellis

GIRLS LET OFF STEAM doing rock 'n' roll, one of favorite pastimes at Assistance League Girls Club West.

Today's teenagers, often referred to as the Cool Generation, are invariably the subject for heated discussions wherever adults congregate.

Critics have called the 12-to-20 set indifferent and distressingly bland, have branded them with such contemporary jargon as beatnik, hot-rodder, delinquent, no-goodnik.

On the other extreme, apologists maintain that today's teenagers are more vital than ever before and vigorously defend them as self-assured individualists.

But those who take time to look more closely, who care enough to survey the problems, the goals and the aspirations of today's youth, have a more realistic approach.

They believe in the future of American youth—and they're doing something about it.

* * * *

ONE SUCH group is Long Beach's Assistance League, an organization of active, civic-minded women who have made youth of the city their principal philanthrophy.

They have surveyed local trouble spots and studied the city's recreational and cultural needs.

They've taken into consideration the gifted and the dull, the privileged and the underprivileged, the ambitious and the lazy, the bright-eyed scholar and the bewildered delinquent.

Result: They've come up with a realistic, action-packed program geared directly to the wants and needs of local teenage girls.

* * * *

CURRENT FACILITIES include the Assistance League Girls Club West, operated in a modern, league-built structure at 3640 Santa Fe, for Stephens Junior High Girls. . . . also the Assistance League Girls Club North, housed in a bungalow leased from the Board of Education on the Lindbergh Junior High campus.

Newest is a similar club, operated by Rick Rackers, junior auxiliary to the league, one day a week in the gym at Franklin Junior High.

Most all-encompassing of the centers is the club on the West Side, one of Long Beach's most crowded areas, where a cross-section of nationalities, races and creeds mingle together in a workaday world and where, like in many such areas, juvenile delinquency looms as an ever-present problem.

A modern, sprawling building in the heart of housing projects and crowded living conditions, the club provides wholesome, character-building after-school activities (3:30 to 5 p.m.) five days a week.

Through the summer months, the facility opens its doors from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with an expanded program of classes and recreational activities.

* * * *

HERE GIRLS of all races and creeds can rock 'n roll or listen to records, bake cookies or whip up a new dress, learn ceramics or how to play the piano, take part in dramatic productions or learn the social graces.

They can wham a volleyball or try for baskets, learn the latest hair styles and what-to-wear-when, also how to apply make-up, how to walk, how to stand and how to sit.

Two libraries provide adequate reference materials, also a quiet atmosphere for study. . . . and a patio, equipped with fire ring and sports equipment, is an up-to-date haven for outdoor recreation.

But most important: the club provides a wholesome atmosphere for companionship — an essential ingredient of most teenage activities.

For among today's youth, even television watching involves joint staring with a companion nearby. Togetherness appeals; singleness does not.

* * * *

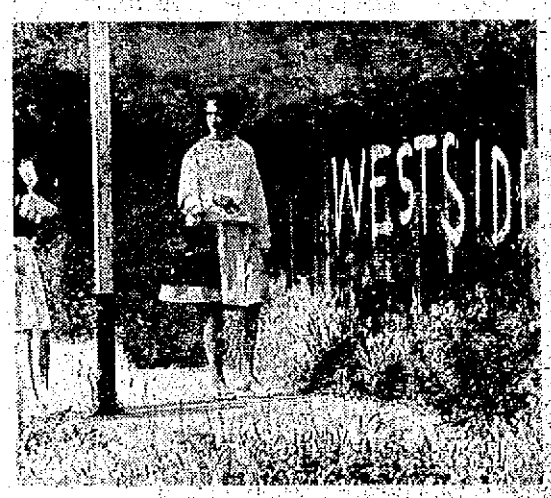

THEREIN LIES the social impact of clubs such as these, according to Capt. Paul Landsdowne, commanding officer for the juvenile division, Long Beach Police Department.

Noting that 5,056 boys and girls were handled by his department last year (a decrease of 1,294 from 1960), he said:

"The No. 1 control for young people in this, or any, community should be the home. Second to that is the influence filled by schools, churches, also facilities made available by such organizations as the Assistance League.

"These fill a void in the day-to-day activities of teenagers that families often are not able to do. In this environment, teenagers can mingle with their peers, with whom they're more comfortable,

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

JUSTICE prevailed at Long Beach Lawyers' Wives annual awards luncheon Tuesday.

I mean they clip-clopped along at a no-fooling-around speed, gave guests something to hear and all looked so pretty. If that isn't justice, what is?

"Justice prevailed"

George England, who just happens, dear friends, to be director of Legal Aid and Lawyer Reference Services for the State of Bar of California, had some amazingly uncomplicated and straight forward (for a lawyer) things to say.

Without mincing words he advised the many attorneys present that it was time the profession began building a better rapport with the public. Mr. and Mrs. John Q. have gotten in a habit, he said, of asking anybody BUT an attorney for legal advice.

Probably, he conjectured, because people tend to regard a lawyer as too rarefied or too expensive to consult on simple matters. He scored this as faulty thinking and suggested it was up to the profession, generally, to change it.

Interesting, I thought, was his description of a movement afoot in the East to begin legal insurance. The policy would cover attorneys' fees and court costs in same way any insurance protects the policy holders.

Another intriguing idea advanced, now being plunked for in many states, is that of having annual legal check-ups, similar to medical checks. You don't THINK there's anything wrong with your affairs . . . but are you SURE?

* * * *

THE WEATHER was the only unpleasant guest at Sue Buell's luncheon Tuesday when she entertained for her Medical Auxiliary outgoing board as well as the incomers. Dedicated Californians insisted on dining outdoors, as originally planned, steadfastly ignoring goosebumps while making with sunny smiles.

YOU JUST Never Know Dep't: Cute Betty Seal, our featured mama for last Sunday's Mother's Day cover page, had quite an unnerving day, as it turned out.

"Some meowma's!"

Seems she spent the entire holiday, HER holiday, tending to the wants of a batch of infant kittens abandoned by their OWN mother. Mrs. Pussycat chose this particular time to prove she's emancipated. What a meownumental meownstrosity!

* * * *

JACK BENNY and his perennial 39 would never stand a chance in this crowd. Ruth Todd and Betty Buffum were so sneaky with their surprise gimmick for a dinner party last Saturday even their co-hosting husbands, "Mac" and Bob, didn't catch on.

It was a 49er frolic in honor of all the men guests, each of whom will or has celebrated his 49th birthday this year.

The over-the-hill affair began with cocktails at the Buffums', concluded with dinner at the Todds'. Bidden (ho, boy, listing 'em really is dirty pool) were Lee and Dorothy Wiltse, Bill and Jane Rhorer, Odie and Lois Wright, Hugh and Frieda Prichard and Dan and Carol Langston.

Grabbing at straws, the men spent the night comparing birthdates to ascertain who was the youngest present. Turned out to be Hugh . . . his 49th isn't until way next December. "Junior" acted pretty smug about it, too.

* * * *

AND SPEAKING of Dorothy Wiltse, as I did a mo' ago, what could be more delightful than shedding 13 pounds in a matter of minutes, as she did. Monday they clipped away the head-to-hip body cast she has been cocooned in all these past many weeks. She couldn't appreciate her torso moreso than she has since then.

CHRISTMAS will begin in July and extend through August for Ann and Charles Gillespie. Main gift under their tree is from Uncle Sam. Unc' has signed Tony Gillespie's release papers.

Tony and Vivian with Charles IV (he'll be six months old when he arrives) will return from service abroad on the S.S. America to visit for five weeks. In September they'll go to Berkeley where Tony will enroll in the Hastings College of Law and Vivian will keep house the American way after four years of the European way. Even so, Ann says it will be nice to have them just 500 miles away instead of 5,000.

UNDER GIDDY hats there were lots of thinking heads Wednesday up at Ambassador Hotel when members of the Children's Home Society of California gathered for annual state meeting.

Marilyn Graham, a state director for the past 15 years (Doug was secretary-treasurer of the statewide adoption agency before that) led the local parade in attendance.

Sandlarks of Long Beach present were Gloria Grandle, "Jimmie" Nutter, Mary Jane Walker, Barbara London, Maria Stevens and Lorena Farnham. Lamplighters, the other local guild to the society, sent Pat Steen, Ellen Jacobson and Joni Bezusko.

EVEN ALTHOUGH Edison Company was the big cheese, the lionized concern spotlighted during annual Chef of the Week banquet Tuesday . . . the 500 balloons used in decorations, it was pointed out, still had to be blown up by GAS. And so, tongue-in-cheek, with all manner of gags and spoofs, the fun-filled night progressed.

"Lionized"

For a first hand look I asked I, P-T food editor Mildred Flanary to give us a Millie's-Eye View from her hostess advantage at head table.

Proving again that birds of a feather do flock, she recalled noting five judges sitting together in one corner and six medics congregated at a table in another. What tickled Millie was that Judges Percy Hight, Martin De Vries, Maurice Sparling, Beach Vasey and Charlie Smith each wore his identical chef's cap with individualistic, rakish tilt.

The MDs . . . Tom Noble Johnny Cottrell, Francis Settle, Harold Neibling, Ken Berkaw and George Paap were equally rugged individuals in their approach to the chef's hat angle most becoming to them. They all looked about as un-chefish as Lily Dache.

Right here I want to sneak in a little praise for I, P-T boss-man Dan Ridder, night's emcee, who zipped through his chores with to-the-point hilarity, and Harold Quinton, guest speaker and chairman of the board for Edison, who took exactly three and one-half minutes to deliver the night's main speech! People in the know said they were great.

TROTH TOLD

Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Ricker, Long Beach, have announced engagement of daughter, Carol J., to Martin D. Meeker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Meeker, Arcadia. She is a junior at LBSC and he a junior at University of Notre Dame. The wedding will take place in June.

Roaring Twenties Bazaar Scheduled by St. Corneilus

Flappers and frosh, gangsters and molls all will be present when St. Cornelius Church puts on its two-day Roaring Twenties bazaar here next week.

The event will take place Saturday at 10 a.m. and Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the Church, Bellflower Avenue and Wardlow Road.

Money will be used to supplement the parish building fund.

According to Jack O'Neil, chairman, booths and games will be geared to the heyday of jazz and bootleggers, day of jazz.

ONE OF the biggest attractions will be the "Soupy Sales" booth where participants can pretend they are keystone comics and pop someone with a pie.

Local talent will be featured in a "Roaring Twenties Review" performing continuously both days.

A variety of food booths, specializing in homemade pies and cakes, tacos and sno-cones, also will be featured along with a doll booth and "ladies choice" booth offering handmade items.

An auction also will take place both days. Music will be provided by the Municipal Band during the 1:30 p.m. children's parade Saturday. Prizes will be offered both for children and adult costuming. Jo Burke is co-chairman of event.

Back in the '40s, bobby socks were as much a symbol of American schoolgirl as dirty saddle shoes.

SHEER NONSENSE?

Bobby Soxers Rock Budget in Nylons

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Long Beach bobby soxers aren't living up to their name.

As most will remember, the term "bobby soxer" came into everyday usage in the '40s because of the schoolgirl craze for white anklets, or bobby socks.

And although the term's still popularly applied to any adolescent girl, the fashionable fact is that today's teen-age legs are twisting around the clock—not in bobby socks, but—in nylon stockings.

ACCORDING to a national survey by Seventeen magazine, 46.1 per cent of America's teen-age girls now wear stockings daily—winter, spring and fall. And more than 76 per cent always wear them for dates and parties.

So when your chic chick gives you that age-old clack, "but, mother, everybody's wearing them," you can believe her.

The teenage stocking habit is by no means confined to metropolitan areas. A spot check of a midwestern high school disclosed that virtually 100 per cent of the coeds consider stocking de riguer for the classroom.

Ditto, Long Beach.

Out of a cross section of local junior high and high school coeds interviewed, all but one—a rugged bobby sox individualist in the 11th grade—said they wear stockings to school regularly.

AND, HEAVEN help the working mother (father, too), even some sixth graders are stepping out in sheer hose. Of course, they do not wear them as frequently as their big sisters, but then that could be due to circumstances beyond their control.

Namely, mother!

In the local survey, junior high and high school girls reported they wear anywhere from four pair a week to "one pair every two weeks." The latter "because mother says I have to take care of them if I wear nylons."

Of course, there's mixed feelings among the mothers. Some welcome the trend to neater dress, saying "it's all for the good," while others, wryily eyeing the budget, look back nostalgically on bobby sox days.

WHAT'S AT THE ROOT of the junior-miss swing to stockings?

There's no single answer. But fashion, of course, has a lot to do with it.

Rolled-down bobby socks, dirty saddle shoes and baggy sweaters fitted in with the scheme of things a generation ago when the all-American-girl look was one of country-style casualness—often dishevelment.

Clothes have changed, and so have the girls.

The modern teen-ager dates earlier, wears make-up earlier and is a veteran on the dance floor before she goes to junior high. A young sophisticate in the truest sense, she dresses the part from her lacquered coif down to her sheer nylons.

AS FAR AS the wearing of hosiery to school is concerned; "dress-up days" have been a major factor in developing the trend.

These are days when boys are asked to have on jackets and ties, and girls are expected to be in stockings, very often "heels."

And once a girl sees what stockings do for her legs, she doesn't wait for an invitation to wear them on special occasions. Before long, she's wearing them as a matter of course.

And hosiery manufacturers are playing right into the girls hands—or gams. They're offering styles proportioned to fit slender teen legs. More than a dozen brands are now on the market—virtually all of them seamless. For that's how the teen-agers like them. Only about one girl in 10, it seems, wears full-fashioned hosiery.

According to a national study, America's 10,250,000 teen-agers of feminine gender are buying $190,000,000 worth of hosiery a year. They usually have about five pairs of stockings on hand, purchase 22.8 pairs over a 12-month period and pay an average of $1.09 per pair.

As one mother put it: "I don't mind footing the bill—as long as Susie is as smart in the classroom as she looks."

The look of today—teenage legs in nylons—a neater appearance but a drain on family budget.

Haunted by Hurts of a Now Dead Love

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I was in love with a young psychiatrist once. For almost two years we succeeded in hurting each other. We were both very jealous and, in fact, so jealous we deliberately hurt each other.

One night he up and married another girl and I still believe he did it spitefully.

I was hurt badly but I wouldn't let him know it—or my pride wouldn't.

Occasionally I get the horrible wish to break up that marriage. I know I could have done it one way or another. But he married a nice girl and so instead of hurting her, too, I left town.

For a while, seeing other fellows, I forgot my doctor fixation. But lately the craving to see him again and, yes, hurt him again, is returning. Today especially he has been at the back of my mind and unless I get help fast I believe I'll head back at the old game.—SPITE

DEAR SPITE:

You go back now and you'll likely make a fool of yourself. You might just find yourself in something too big to run from again.

He wrote finis to your relationship when he gave his wedding vows to another. You'd do better to write finis to your heart and convince it the game is over before you get kayo'd publicly. Please don't try to hurt yourself further.—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

A terrible thing has happened to my marriage even before it has got started.

You see, the friends of my fiance are planning to give him a bachelor dinner on the night before we are to be married. My father insists that he wants to join the party.

My fiance says that this isn't proper; that it's strictly a get-together of his old friends; and, furthermore, he isn't issuing the invitations.

My father says that if he isn't invited, he won't attend the wedding, and won't let my mother do so either and he'll curse us till his dying day. You see, he's Irish and pretty hard to handle. Dear me, what am I going to do? —ALMOST A BRIDE

DEAR ALMOST:

Your father's just a silly old man who, in his heart, I suspect, really hates to see his daughter leave home. Why don't you talk to your priest and ask him to knock some sense in his head? Of all things, the father of the bride trying to take over his son-in-law's bachelor dinner! They'd laugh him off the streets in Galway.—M. M.

WHISPER TO J. K.: I wouldn't think of buying elevator shoes. If she loves you enough to accept your ring, she surely won't mind your being shorter than she. —M. M.

FESTIVAL REPEATED FORMER MISTAKES

By RACHEL MORTON
I.-P-T Music Critic

The second Long Beach Music Festival has drawn to a close and I wish I might report that it was an unqualified success. But, unfortunately, apparently no lessons were learned from the mistakes of last year so they were repeated again this year.

Except for the outstanding concerts which we would have had anyway, spring festival or not—namely, the Community Concert Association's concert, the Organists' Guild concert, the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra concert with the Schola Cantorum and the Long Beach Municipal Band concert—the rest of the festival was a Long Beach State College affair. This is not truly representative of a large city's music festival.

* * * *

LONG BEACH is fast growing up culturally, but is still adolescent. To whet her interest and cultivate her taste for the best, our music festival should have had great names of box office value and stimulating events of real note. Two such names we had: Eileen Farrell, soprano, and John Browning, pianist, and the Pacific String Quartet; but the festival as such did not bring them to us.

In order to have great concerts, there must be money spent. If a lack of money was the problem, more arduous labor, with someone at the head who knows box office values, would be the answer. The Community Concerts people hustled and got 4,000 subscriptions last year right here in Long Beach.

* * * *

FREE CONCERTS, like everything else that is free, lose value. The free festival concerts given at State College were poorly attended for the most part and attended mostly by State College personnel.

Of what interest to the average concert-goer, especially in Long Beach, are concerts of original compositions, however meritorious? Or free lectures on contemporary music? In the future the festival concerts should charge admission fees and fees should entitle one to concerts by great artists. It would be better to have a four-day festival of exceptional talent than to have eight events, some of which drew little interest.

* * * *

NEXT YEAR let our music festival boast some world-famous names for at least three paid concerts. We might even have an opera night. What an innovation that would be for Long Beach!

I am sure if outstanding attractions of world-famous celebrities were announced for next year's festival the people would get behind the venture generously.

LADYKILLERS
Scene from "The Ladykillers," starring Alec Guiness and Peter Sellers, one of the offerings on Long Beach Film Society's summer series.

To Show Comedy Classics

Long Beach Film Society has spiced its summer series, which begins June 2, with masterpieces of comedy.

All showings will be at 7 and 9 p.m. on Saturday evenings at Long Beach State College Little Theater and each feature will be preceded by an international short subject.

First film will be "La Grande Illusion," directed by Jean Renoir and starring Eric Von Stroheim, Pierre Fresnay and Jean Gabin. At the Brussell's 1958 World Fair it was voted one of the top five films ever made.

* * * *

OTHER FEATURES will be "Smiles of a Summer Night," directed by Ingmar Bergman, June 16; "The Ladykillers," with Alec Guiness and Peter Sellers, June 30; "Ball of Fat," from Russia, and "Madame Husson's Rosebush," with Fernandel, July 28; Jean Cocteau's "Beauty and the Beast," Aug. 11; and "Pather Panchali," one of a trio from India, Aug. 28.

* * * *

SUBSCRIBERS to the modestly-priced series receive a bonus: an invitation to the day-long International Film Festival at State College July 7.

Complete information may be obtained by writing to the Film Society, P.O. Box 8091.

Children Invited to Spring Art Festival

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

This is the second and final day for Crestwood Street School's Spring Art Festival, and the sponsors extend a special welcome to children. The grounds, at 1946 Crestwood St., San Pedro, will open at noon and close at 5 p.m.

In addition to exhibits and demonstrations by professional artists, there will be a special children's corner where youngsters will be given smocks, easels and paint pots and can create their own masterpieces.

Mrs. Dale Brent Sexton of the Artists Co-op Gallery will do a portrait; James Hesler, South Bay artist and teacher, will do charcoal sketches of visitors; and Robert Neathery, also of Artists Co-op, will do caricatures.

Of particular interest to children will be Mrs. Leslie Stone's demonstration; she will paint the portrait of a live clown model. The artist is a member of San Pedro Art Association and was the recent recipient of a Woman-of-the-Year award from San Pedro Chamber of Commerce.

Mario de la Cruz of Long Beach will show how he paints to music.

* * * *

ENTRIES for Long Beach Art Association's membership show will be received at the Villa Riveria Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd., on May 28 from 1 to 8 p.m. The exhibit will open June 3.

Pictures to be hung in the front gallery will be chosen by Marlyn Prior.

A simultaneous show of paintings by children under 10 years of age will hang in the Little Gallery. Members are asked to submit their children's paintings, or they may sponsor the entry of another youngster.

* * * *

THE BOOK FAIR in Westwood Village, Weyburn and Broxton will have a month-long "Clothes Line" art exhibit and sale, beginning June 1. Amateur and student artists will enter oils, watercolors, drawings and sculptures. All works will be made available for sale at prices established by the artists themselves.

Work submitted for display must be at the Book Fair not later than Saturday at 6 p.m. Robert Klonsky, 10953 Weyburn Ave., Los Angeles 24, will supply further information.

* * * *

LAGUNA BEACH School of Art and Design, a division of Laguna Beach Art Association, has scheduled its summer session from July 9 through Aug. 31. Members of the faculty will include Mario Cooper, Sergei Bongart, Leonard Edmondson, Sueo Serisawa and Merlin Enabnit. A brochure may be obtained by writing to P.O. Box 216, Laguna Beach.

At the gallery during May is an exhibit by 13 men, "Paintings by Artists of the Walt Disney Studios." Also on view is the First International Exhibit of Photographic Art, sponsored by the Orange Empire Association of Camera Clubs.

* * * *

Fullerton Junior College, 321 E. Chapman Ave., will continue its spring student exhibition through June 7. Hours are Mondays through Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Wednesdays, 7 to 9 p.m.

FOR 38 YEARS Pasadena Society of Artists has held annual competitive exhibits of work by members. This year's show will hang at Pasadena Art Museum through June 20.

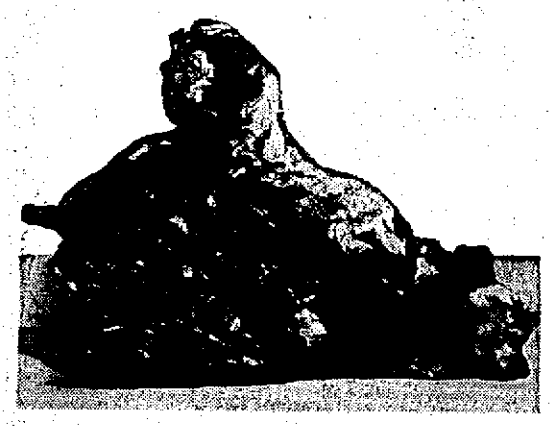

Furs Unclaimed From Storage To Be Sold!

Unheard-of Prices on New and Used Mink

Here is the story of these furs. Furriers from time to time get "stuck" with furs unclaimed or uncalled for from storage. Benjamin Furs has been consigned a large group of new and used furs which will be almost "given away" to Long Beach area buyers.

Imagine buying a Fur Stole for only $15 and up. Many of these furs are expensive furs and are being sold for "practically nothing." These used furs really look like new but must be labeled "second-hand used." Fur origin unknown. If you want to buy a real $15-and up (plus tax) bargain in a fur, you'd better come early. New fur products labeled to show country of origin of imported furs. Also, many fine quality fur COATS, JACKETS, SCARFS, AND STOLES go at ridiculous giveaway prices.

These furs on sale at

IN ONE-MAN SHOW
Bronze from Europa Series is included in retrospective exhibit of Reuben Nakian's sculptures and drawings, on view for the first time in this country at Los Angeles County Museum.

'Monumental Drive' in Rodia, Nakian Works

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Happenstance alone could not have brought about the juxtaposition of the two artists having one-man shows at Los Angeles County Museum from now until June 24. Reuben Nakian was born in 1897 in New York of Turkish-American parents. Simon Rodia was born in Southern Italy around 1880, and came here as a lad. While Nakian studied and worked with leading artists from 1912 on, and Rodia was a humble, untutored tile-setter, there are many qualities which the intellectual sculpture and the weird Watts Towers share.

Both works are infused with passion and a drive to achieve the utterly monumental. Both works capture a Baroque enlacement of space and light. Neither could succeed without magnificent mastery of hardware technique.

* * * *

THE RODIA show is all photographic, displayed against a wandering background painted in the primitive colors of the tile and glass used by Rodia to ornament and reinforce his concrete enclosed steel structures. Photographic blow-ups of the Watts Towers pilasters are placed around the wall. Most charming of all are the photos of the humble environment of the Watts community with the neighborhood children enjoying the fantastic wonderland Rodia created.

* * * *

NAKIAN'S work has just come from the Biennale in Sao Paulo, Brazil, where it won an international award. It is composed of 20 ink drawings, further developed in terra cotta sketches with 10 completed pieces in bronze or welded steel. The largest of these, "The Rape of Lucrece" is over 12 feet long and is displayed to advantage against a wall 16 feet high. Constructed of rods and sheets of steel, its magnificence is awe-inspiring. The works in bronze are rich and give a sense of ever evolving.

* * * *

FROM LONG BEACH, it is easy to go to the County Museum via the intersection of Willowbrook and 107th St. to visit the Watts Towers. While Nakian's work is the result of deep intellectual commitment and knowledge and Rodia's apparently came from some tremendous instinctual drive, both are the statements of brave spirits which rise in protest above the commonplace.

'Pinafore' Added to Greek Bill

A new approach and new staging for the perennial Gilbert and Sullivan operetta favorite, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be brought to the Greek Theater, Los Angeles, when Sir Tyrone Guthrie's current sensation of the London theater season is flown complete from England for seven performances, July 16, through 22.

"Pinafore" is the third production scheduled to premiere for the Greek Theater this season. The others are Balanchine's lavish full-length ballet, "Midsummer Night's Dream," July 2 to 8, by the New York City Ballet, and presentation of the entire Comedie Francaise from Paris in "The Would-be Gentleman," Aug. 17 to 25.

Also to play in the Greek Theater are Victor Borge, June 27 to 29; the New York City Ballet in repertoire, July 9 to 14; Danny Kaye, July 23 to Aug. 4; Nat King Cole, Aug. 6 to 15; Maurice Chevalier, Aug. 27 to Sept. 2; Andy Williams and Al Hirt, Sept. 3 to 8; and Johnny Mathis, with the Roberto Iglesias Ballet Espanol, Sept. 10 to 16.

Visitor From New Zealand to Present Recital Tuesday

Lenora Owsley of Auckland, New Zealand, interrupted her practice at the organ in First Congregational Church to make a few observations — all complimentary — about her stay in Long Beach.

She will play her premiere performance in the United States Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the sanctuary at Third Street and Cedar Avenue, under sponsorship of the church music committee.

The slender, brown-haired, blue-eyed organist is the houseguest of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Connor, 1501 Hackett Ave.

* * * *

"I HAVE been so pleasantly surprised at the interest people here show in organ music," she said.

"Perhaps it is the great number of long-play recordings available that has whetted interest. But the average listener is more interested than his counterpart in New Zealand.

"There are more organists, too, and your American Guild of Organists is larger than our organ assembly."

* * * *

MISS OWSLEY, who has performed and studied in Europe, Great Britain and Hawaii, named the two best organs on which she has played: the one in Westminster Cathedral, London, and that at First Congregational Church.

She began piano study when she was 3 and organ study at 16. The only musician of her sex to attain concert standard in New Zealand on both organ and piano, she is official organist at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Auckland, and has broadcast many recitals for the New Zealand Broadcasting Service.

* * * *

SHE IS A Fellow of Trinity College, London, where she obtained the gold medal for both associate and licentiate diplomas, and is a licentiate of the London Royal Schools of Music.

Before leaving for her home July 9, the visitor will attend the AGO national convention in Pasadena July 2 to 6 and will play a convention recital July 3 at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Long Beach.

Orchestral Bill Varied

"Symphony in A," written by three-time Pulitzer Prize winner Douglas Moore, will be the program opener for the Long Beach State College Symphony Orchestra today.

The presentation, for which there is no admission charge, will be at 8:15 p.m. in the Little Theater. Dr. Robert Tyndall, associate professor of music, will be soloist in "Concerto for Bassoon and Orchestra," by Mozart. Dr. Bertram C. McGarrity will direct the orchestra.

Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" will provide variation in the program which will conclude with "Cappriccio Espagnol" by Rimsky-Korsakoy, conducted by Richard Williams, a senior majoring in music.

On Stage---

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 5021 E. Anaheim St., "Third Best Sport," 7:45 p.m. Thursday; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

CORINITHIAN THEATER (Morgan Hall), 835 Locust Ave., "Damn Yankees," 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturdays.

MAGNOLIA THEATER, 2400 Magnolia Ave., "The Seven Year Itch," 8:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday, 8 p.m. Sunday.

OFF-BROADWAY THEATER, 221 Lime Ave., "The World of Suzie Wong," 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Sunday Showcase, 8 p.m. Three original one-act plays.

QUIVERA PLAYHOUSE, 2236 S. Pacific Ave., San Pedro, "No Exit," 8:30 p.m., Friday, Saturday, Sunday.

Sidewalks Move

Hollywood Bowl soon will have two moving sidewalks to convey patrons to upper reaches of the amphitheater. They will be in operation in time for the opening of the 41st season of Symphonies Under the Stars July 3.

BTD Band to Perform

Public concerts are scheduled Monday and Tuesday by the Business and Technology Division Band of Long Beach City College. Both admission-free performances begin at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

The program will include marches, concert band numbers and show tunes. Mrs. Eileen Gallagher, organist at St. Barnabas Church, will be the piano soloist in Richard Addinsell's "Warsaw Concerto."

Directed by Earl P. Thomas, the BTD Band was formed a year ago and now has more than 70 members.

'Evenings at Eight' to Offer Final Bill

Final "Evenings at Eight" offering of the season will be the Long Beach City College Festival of Music at 8 p. m. Friday in the college auditorium. Admission will be by season ticket or by general admission tickets available at the box office.

LBCC musical organizations taking part in the concert will include the Schola Cantorum and the College Choir, directed by Wayne B. Gard; the College-Community Orchestra, directed by Gaylord Browne; and the Concert Band, directed by Richard L. Jones.

Numbers will include a joint choral-orchestral performance of Borodin's "Polovetzian Dances," excerpts from Bernstein's "West Side Story," and a work with the cryptic title, "Illustrated History of Concert Band Music, 1590-1984."

AVAILABLE ONLY to those attending the Friday night program will be the advance sale of 1962-63 season tickets. No additional public sale will be held until late September.

The coming "Evenings at Eight" season will present the Whiskeyhill Singers, actress Cornelia Otis Skinner, guitarist Carlos Montoya, Hal Holbrook in "Mark Twain Tonight," and City College drama and music productions.

The annual "Extra" program, available to season subscribers at special rates, will bring the Shankar Hindu Dancers to Long Beach on Oct. 23 from their extended engagement at the Seattle World's Fair.

Spring Brides Say Vows

Gladys Anne Brake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Washington Brake, Lake City S. C., became the bride of Capt. Robert Joseph Brun, U. S. Air Force, at a recent ceremony in Saint Philomena's Catholic Church, Lake City, S. C.

The bride, wearing a gown of Chantilly lace and peau-de-soie, was attended by Mrs. Carroll Francis Godwin as matron of honor.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Gaylord L. Fisher, Long Beach, and Joseph A. Brun Sr., Long Beach, was attended by his brother, Joseph Anthony Brun Jr.

Ushers were Daniel Walter Brake, the bride's brother, and Capts. Robert Beretta, John Hagemeister and Jacob Turner Tutterow.

The new Mrs. Brun attended Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C., and Palmer College, Charleston, S. C., where she was a member of Alpha Iota.

The bridegroom attended Compton Junior and Long Beach City Colleges. He was commissioned in the U. S. Air Force in 1955 and recently completed Squadron Officer School.

Shaevitz-Cicourel

Long Beach Elks Lodge was setting for the recent wedding of Carol Lee Cicourel and Murray Shaevitz.

The new Mrs. Shaevitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Cicourel, Los Alamitos, wore a silk organza gown and carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

She was attended by Eileen Geller as maid of honor and Betty Hoffer, Iris Freitag and Candy Matlow as bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaevitz, 4559 Atlantic Ave., chose his brother, Jerry Shaevitz, as best man. Dean Gold was ring bearer and Mark Cicourel, Bob Schenkman and Merwin Goldsmith were ushers.

The bride, a Wilson High alumna, attended Long Beach City College, where she was a member of Entre Nous, and was graduated from dental assistants school. The bridegroom was graduated from Poly High and UCLA, where he was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Mu. He is a member of the Elks.

Clark-Mapes

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Clark will reside in Long Beach upon return from a honeymoon in Canada.

The wedding ceremony uniting them was held recently in St. John's Lutheran Church here.

The bride, the former Beverly Mapes, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil L. Mapes, 211 E. Plymouth St. For the nuptial rite, she wore a Cahill gown of Chantilly lace and carried a bouquet of white roses atop a white Bible.

Her sister, Ardis Campbell, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara Mapes and Donna Ackerman.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Svacina, 767 Termino Ave., is a member of the Long Beach Police Department.

He was attended by Richard Post as best man. Completing the wedding party were Daryl Mapes and James Probish, ushers, and Kenneth Mapes and Stephen Mapes, nephews of the bride, junior ushers.

DISCOVER YOURSELF

Tall, Slender? Lucky You!

By WILMA HASTINGS

You tall, slender girls are most fortunate indeed, for you have great leeway in clothing selection!

In your case, we may even want to select clothes which cut the height somewhat. Don't misunderstand — I mean the illusion. Your height is an established fact, so we can take great liberties with it.

Here a combination of colors may be worn and the dropped shoulder or deep sleeve in any proportion will give a lovely effect.

Pleated skirts, flared skirts and bloused fullness at the waist, ALL can be worn and worn well by the tall, slender girl. However, her clothes always must maintain the look of harmonious combination—what is commonly called the well-put-together look.

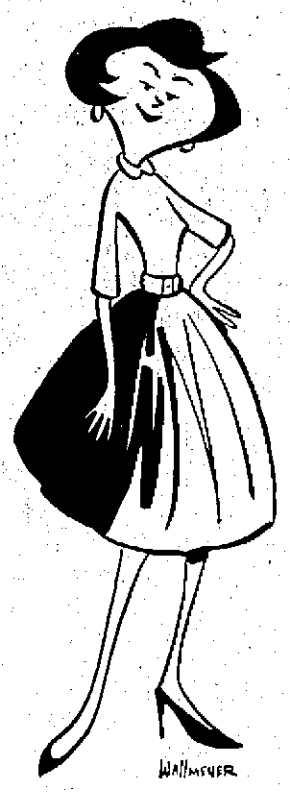

For the tall, slender figure, the over-all effect must be a harmonious blend of color, texture and body lines which are long and well-defined. This is the look which emphasizes the shoulder line, rounded bust, minimized waist, rounded hips and trim ankles.

* * * *

UNLESS THE costume is well cut and has a generous look without appearing too large, the effect will be skimpy and have a cheap look regardless of cost!

To point out the importance of the well-defined line, let me tell you what I call the opposite look—I call it the "blob" silhouette. It's nondescript from top to bottom. There is no hint of any thought being given to a well-balanced figure, proud carriage or a well-coordinated costume.

The taller woman will choose hats to complement the appearance and the shape either will have bulk to the crown or brim or both. The hat MUST balance the figure. Here again let me show you the incorrect and the correct way for a tall, slender girl to look.

* * * *

WRONG: Hair brushed up toward the crown, a pillbox hat, V-neck dress on a naturally long neck. The lines of her dress are long and slinky and she wears high-heeled clogs. She carries a small purse and wears little, short gloves.

RIGHT: Hair styled softly with fullness to achieve a pleasing balance. Her hat is bulky to help balance her height. She wears a suit of rough-textured wool, silk or cotton and the length of her jacket falls just below the large part of the hips. Armholes are "easy" and the back blouses softly at the waistline. She wears a smart chiffon scarf inside the neckline of her suit which buttons high and is accented with a small, youthful collar. Her earrings are larger than average. Her shoes are basic opera pumps and match her bag, which is large and bulky. Her eight-button gloves crush above her wrists, or to the length of her three-quarter-length sleeves.

Now, can you visualize the difference?

* * * *

MOVING ON to campus wear, the casual look of complete simplicity is correct for campus. Matching sweaters and skirts also are ideal for the overweight girl. That all-in-one look always removes inches where they should be removed and gives the illusion of more height.

The two-tone look is effective, too. That is, two shades of the same color. But learn to be discriminating in blending colors, because with the classic look achieved through sweaters and skirts, it is the COLOR interest which can set the look apart from average.

Girls, DO wear tailored blouses and DO refrain from wearing the thin, frilly type. If you tuck your sweater or blouse inside the skirt, wear a belt which blends well with the color and texture of the fabric. This, however, is far more becoming to the tall, slender girl.

Choose your school dresses with care and avoid the too-dressy look. Remember that tailored look for campus always gets the compliments and prompts admiration.

Remember also that there is no substitute for cleanliness and neatness, so keep your clothes in perfect condition. I do believe there's no more thrilling sight than a truly feminine teenager.

* * * *

AND ELABORATING on something I mentioned previously, there's nothing LESS feminine than a short bra with bare skin showing between the girdle and bra through a cotton dress or blouse. This is another reason I recommend the waist-length bra which comes down over top of the girdle.

If the top of your dress is sheer, although lined to cover the bustline, by all means wear a strapless bra so that no straps will show through the sheer bodice. With a boat necked dress which covers the shoulders, if you MUST wear a bra with straps, put keepers in the shoulder seams of the dress to hold (and hide) the straps in place.

The underpinnings are just as important to the finished look as the clothes which go on top!

Coats, shoes and bags will be covered in my article tomorrow

Job or More School Will Enrich Summer

By RICHMOND BARBOUR

What will your teen-agers be doing in July and August? Loafing around, and getting into trouble? I hope not. Idle teen-age hands really are the devil's workshop. Better start planning their summers now.

If possible, they should work. They need the experience. They need to earn money doing a regular job under a boss who is not too easy on them. They need the fun of spending part of the money, and of saving part of it. They need to learn to take orders, work hard and stick with unpleasant tasks. Maturity comes that way.

* * * *

BUT JOBS will be scarce, as usual. Many types of work are illegal for teen-agers. Many employees dislike the red tape involved in hiring them. Some unions oppose their employment. Fewer than half of the teen-agers who want work will get it.

Then what? If your kids aren't working, send them to summer school. Thousands of high schools now offer regular summer sessions. Your children could go back and improve bad grades. They could take enrichment courses such as music, art, literature or creative writing. Or they could enroll in skill courses they haven't time to take during the school year—typing, for example. Or auto shop or driver training. There are many possibilities.

* * * *

I'VE A word of caution about summer school. Pupils are not required to attend. Teachers are not obligated to keep them there. In most summer schools students who cause trouble are kicked out, pronto. Warn your offspring that they have to behave themselves in their summer classes.

L.B. Museum Association Invites Public to Meeting

Long Beach Museum Association will follow its annual meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in Long Beach Museum of Art with a celebration honoring retiring and new association officers. The officers will be feted at Restalrig, former residence of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Buffum.

The meeting at the museum is open to the public. Mrs. James Kresl, retiring president, will introduce chairmen who will report on the group's activities.

Following a talk by Frederick Black, museum director, entitled "No Little Plans," there will be election of new officers.

The association is comprised of more than 200 members, 63 of whom joined this year. In addition there are more than 50 members in "Friends," the group's auxiliary.

* * * *

THE PURPOSE of the Association is to promote and advance the welfare of Long Beach Museum of Art. All persons interested in membership are invited to attend meetings.

The group takes bus excursions to museums and galleries in the Los Angeles area which are arranged by Dallas Conklin, Mrs. David Moseley and Frende Combs.

Don Raney, first vice president, has filed incorporation papers and worked out details for the receipt of tax-deductible gifts for museum use. Two substantial cash awards were given by the group for the Long Beach Museum's annual juried show.

STUDENT BODY ELECTIONS LOOM ON BOTH CAMPUSES

Liberal Arts

Fall semester student body elections and the scholarship-benefit faculty variety show are major events this week at the Long Beach City College Liberal Arts Division.

Candidates for ASB president in Friday's elections are Gary Downey (Progressive), Mike Jewell (Independent) and Bill White (United Collegiate). Vying for the AMS presidency are Bob Hill of the Progressives and Jim Soukup of United. In the nonpartisan race for the top AWS position are Pat Dolphin and Mary Fryar. Other slate candidates and independents will compete for a dozen additional student body, AMS and AWS offices.

"Prof-O-Naughts of 1962," the annual fund-raising faculty show, goes into orbit at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the auditorium. Plot involves contrasting scenes on the college campus and on a distant planet, Pinkus Number Ten. Proceeds will finance LAD Faculty Club scholarships for high school seniors in the Long Beach area. Tickets are on sale at the AWS office, and the usual capacity-plus student audience is expected.

* * * *

FINAL preparations are now being made for the semesterly banquets held by various organizations on the Carson Street campus. Included will be affairs honoring musical groups, publications staffs, spring sports teams, AWS, AMS and the incoming and outgoing members of the ASB Cabinet. Several awards will be presented to students for outstanding academic achievement and service to the school.

Correction: The "straight A" students mentioned in last week's "Voice of the Vikings" were from the LAD campus, not BTD.

—MARY CALLOS

Business, Technology

Campaigning for fall semester offices will also be a major activity this week on the Business and Technology Division campus. Contestants for the ASB Council, the AWS Board and Prom Queen will be presented at a Candidates' Assembly scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday. Polls will be open Tuesday and Wednesday for evening students and on Thursday for day students.

Winner of the Prom Queen balloting, and her two princesses, will remain top secret until the start of the Plantation Ball, or spring prom, at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Lafayette Hotel's Cavalier Room. Also to be announced during the prom are the six winners of the Hollingworth Award, highest honor of the BTD student body.

Paul Bazaar and his orchestra will provide the music. Coronation ceremonies will be conducted by ASB president Fred Ashley, vice president Ken Kilfoyl and prom committee chairman Kathy Altman.

And don't forget the BTD Band concerts at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the gymnasium (no admission charge). Still another BTD musical group, the new Women's Chorus, will make its debut with director Earl Thomas at the Wednesday election assembly.

Alumnae Install Officers

Mrs. Hugh Osmera will be installed president of Long Beach Alumnae Chapter, Kappa Delta Sorority, Monday at 7 p.m. in Victor Hugo Restaurant.

Others taking office will be Mmes. R. C. Wedemeyer, Joseph Ribal, J. Albert Brown and S. B. Conger.

Mmes Conger, Al Stack, George Gardiner and Miss Nancy Haach will welcome new members to the chapter.

Kappa Delta Sorority's national philanthropy is aid to crippled children. A $1,000 award, administered by the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, is presented annually by the sorority.

At the 1961 convention, Kappa Delta increased the award. Two awards were presented at the recent convention and beginning next year three awards will be given.

* * * *

RECENT AWARDS went to Dr. Robert C. Mellors and Dr. James B. Wray for outstanding orthopedic research. Mrs. Herbert E. Mueler, Kappa Delta National Panhellenic Conference delegate, made the presentations.

Dr. Mellors, Hospital for Special Surgery, New York, was awarded for his research in rheumatoid arthritis and cellular origin of rheumatoid factors.

Dr. Wray, Department of Surgery, State University of New York, Syracuse, was awarded for research on vascular phenomena associated with fracture.

under the controlled supervision of adults who care and attempt to guide them.

* * * *

MRS. JUNE GRAFF, executive director of the club and a long-time worker in girls activities, noted that membership in the club (currently 180 girls) crosses all barriers—racial, social and economic.

"It's a real pleasure to work with youngsters who seemingly have no prejudices," she said.

"Many of them, starved for attention, find a measure of fulfillment for their personality needs here."

Mrs. Marvin Clark, last year's Assistance league chairman for the girls clubs, noted that the centers "not only help a great deal generally—but specifically, as well."

She cited the case of one girl of Oriental heritage who, from the club, went on to high school to become a yell leader and subsequently president of her senior class, who later made fine marks in college and was elected homecoming queen by the student body.

Still another: an insecure girl with untold problems at home discovered new talents in the club's fun-with-clay class. One of her designs, a sitting horse, was entered by the club's instructor in the state ceramics contest.

* * * *

THE GIRLS CLUBS, a program started during the war years with Mrs. Thomas E. Noble, Assistance League life member, as first chairman, are fulfilling a great need in the community.

In addition to daytime club facilities, the Assistance League provides a program of camperships and scholarships, plus boy-girl dances once a month during the school year and one-night-a-week programs during the summer months.

As Capt. Landsdowne puts it: "We must face the fact that we have delinquency in Long Beach. And we have a lot of it.

"The busier we keep our youth, day in and day out, with instructive programs—the better opportunity for them to develop into mature self-reliant adults.

"We want no movie version of the 'West Side Story' here."

Two Clubs Schedule Installation Meetings

Two clubs will install presidents and boards Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Murray Wheeler will succeed Mrs. Sol Ashkenaze as president of Los Altos Women's Club in a ceremony beginning at 8 p.m. in Whaley Park Clubhouse.

She will be inducted by Mrs. Walter Cooper who also will install Mmes. Dudley Shelnutt, Alvin Maddy, Henry Relation, Walter Pierce, Francis Long, Charles McCleary, Gene Barnes, Bill Hayden and Verne Rasmussen.

Mrs. Ashkenaze will present a scholarship for Long Beach State College to Robert Wise, Millikan High School student.

* * * *

AT 7:30 P.M. in the Garden Room, Third Street and Alamitos Avenue, Mrs. Joseph Colgdarripe will be reinstalled as president of Agassiz Nature Club.

Serving with her will be Misses Ruth H. Kirkland, Margaret Heigele, Curry Bell and Mrs. Bessie Pullen.

Mrs. Pearl Baker, chairman, will present motion pictures, "Land Sinking in Long Beach," and "Glamour Fish of Hawaii."

Reunion Highlights Visit to L.B.

Three sisters who had not been together for 39 years have spent the past six weeks in a happy reunion here.

Mrs. David Rew and Mr. Rew of Monifeith, Scotland, have been houseguests of her sister and brother-in-law, Mrs. Robert Young and Mr. Young, 2698 Baltic Ave. The third sister is Mrs. James Young of Lynwood. Mrs. Young had not seen Mrs. Rew since she left Scotland 27 years ago.

Highlight of the visit was celebration of the Rews' 25th wedding anniversary at a party in Los Angeles. Many Long Beach residents who had visited the couple in Scotland, as well as other Scottish friends, attended.

Both Mrs. Robert Young and Mrs. James Young are well-known in Scottish circles, being members and past chief daughters of Lady McDonald Lodge, Daughters of Scotia, in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Rew will leave by plane Saturday for Scotland.

East Opens Diamonds

Today's hand represents an experiment. I made it up and put it in play in a strong duplicate game. Every East player opened one diamond and nine South players arrived at four spades.

All Wests opened the queen of diamonds. Five South players covered with the king and four of them went down.

It seems that four East players were smart enough to figure that the second diamond trick would keep. Each one led the four of clubs. It made no difference which club South used to win the trick. West dropped the six spot. Then East grabbed the first spade and laid down the club ace. West completed his echo with the deuce and then ruffed East's eight.

WHEN South ducked the first diamond every West player continued the suit and let South make his contract except for one South who ducked and went down.

He was the victim of a tremendous defensive play by East. East said to himself: "My partner surely has five diamonds and South surely does not want me on lead. I wonder why?"

After that soliloquy East played the ace of diamonds and led that low club to knock over South's applecart.

The One Thing He Doesn't 'Baby Along' Is His Cooking

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P.-T. Food Editor

Chef of the Week

He came — he saw — and he returned to his world of kiddies, quite certain that pediatrics offers a far smoother world than "cooking." Chef of the Week, Dr. Kenneth A. Berkaw, made his debut at the Chef of the Week Banquet last Tuesday night.

The doctor started out in Michigan and "stayed-put" until he had mastered grammar and high school . . . had received his A.B. degree from that city's Wayne University, and his medical degree from the University of Michigan School of Medicine.

Dr. Kenneth A. Berkaw

In fact, Berkaw, served his first year internship at Harper Hospital — his junior residency in Pediatrics at Children's Hospital, and his second year residency in Pediatrics at Henry Ford Hospital, without ever leaving Detroit.

* * * *

THEN World War II happened and he went into the Army with the rank of captain. As medical officer, head of communicable diseases, he spent 10 months in North Africa, and eight months in Italy. Transferred to Germany with a corps of engineers, he spent 18 months as "bridge" surgeon. When the Jerrys blew up a bridge, his men repaired it, and he repaired them.

Returning to the States, he practiced pediatrics at Birmingham, Mich., for two years before coming to Long Beach in 1948. After all those years, he suddenly decided he didn't like Detroit's snow.

His war years eventually led to one of the most rewarding experiences of his life. He sponsored a French boy to this country, whom he had met in Constantine, Algeria. This lad now is head of the translation department ARAMCO (Arabic American Oil Co.), after having learned Arabic from an enlisted man in Monterey.

Head of Pediatrics at Harriman Jones Clinic Hospital, Berkaw now is attending babies of young mothers whom he had attended as children.

* * * *

IMMEDIATE past president of the staff of Community Hosptial, Berkaw still serves as chairman of the pediatrics department at that hospital. A fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Berkaw is certified by the American Board of Pediatrics. He presently is chairman of the policy committee, Long Beach Children's Clinic, and "prexied" the Long Beach Pediatrics Society in 1952.

His love of children was inspired by his work with boys at camps in Northern Michigan. Each summer from the time he was 16 until he was through school, he served as both counselor and director.

Mrs. Berkaw is equally well versed in the medical world, having been a nurse at the Harper Hospital when her husband was a first year intern. They have a daughter, Susan Maria 15, and a son, Robert Alan, 13.

Gardening and finding time to spend at their Palm Springs ranch are intermingled with dancing lessons and his bouts on water skis. He finds the latter a bit difficult, being more in the water than out.

Our "chef's" favorite food is Shrimp Curry, and here's how he does it:

SHRIMP CURRY

- 2 lbs. cleaned raw shrimp
- 2 tblsp. fat or cooking oil
- 1 tblsp. curry powder
- 2 whole cloves
- 2 tsp. salt
- few grains pepper
- 1 tsp. Ac'cent
- ½ lemon, grated peel and juice
- 4 cups boiling water
- ½ cup finely diced onion
- 1 cup diced tart apples
- 3 tblsp. butter or margarine
- ½ cup flour
- 1 cup cold water
- ½ cup seedless raisins
- 3 cups cooked rice

Cook shrimp in hot fat or oil until pink; drain off fat. Add seasonings, lemon peel and juice to boiling water; reduce heat to simmering. Cook onion and apples in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine until soft but not brown; add to water and seasonings. Blend remaining butter or margarine with flour; add cold water slowly to form a smooth paste; add to sauce. Stir smooth over low heat. Add prepared shrimp and raisins; simmer 10 minutes. Serve with hot rice and accompany with shredded coconut, raisins, chutney and macadamia nuts. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

OUR COVER

Note to Girl Watchers: There's a "shift" to the relaxed look in swimwear this season. But don't despair. There are still plenty of swimsuits that fit sleek and slim as a girl's suntan. Example: the red knit maillot as shown on Southland's cover, a Jane Ford design for Peter Pan's California Group, featuring corded straps and deep plunge-back. Zipperless, it's closed with brass buttons. Making the biggest splash in fashion history, new beachwear has oceans of style, no weight—but lots of shape! For more bare facts about the shapes swimwear will take this season, turn to Page 7.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

A-frame plan makes this greenhouse easy to build.

By Bill Meyerriecks

USING Filon translucent fiberglass in place of ordinary window glass makes building a greenhouse much easier for the amateur gardener-do-it-yourselfer.

Filon is shatterproof and hailproof and produces a glare-free, shadow-free light evenly diffused over the growing area. Heat loss in winter is mimimized and sun heat in summer is reduced.

The plastic panels are utilized on a simple A-frame skeleton to produce a compact greenhouse complete with a 7-foot potting bench along one end.

The Sketchbook plan tells you exactly what materials are required and clearly explains each step in construction.

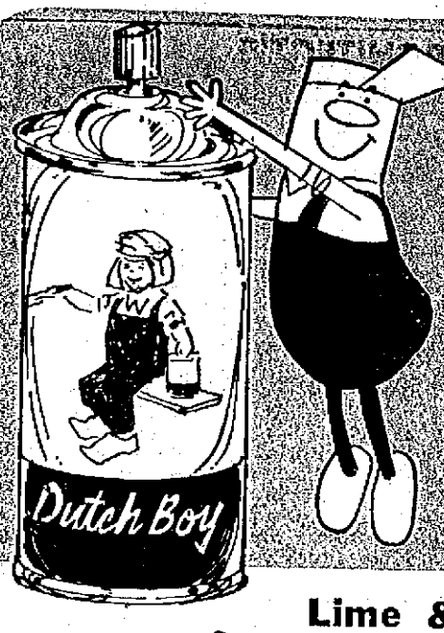

TO OBTAIN PLAN, specify Greenhouse Plan S-57 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Colonial Dough Box

Dough boxes had a utilitarian place in colonial days, and their value today is decorative. If you haven't a true antique, you can easily make a dough box like that shown above with NBC-TV's Sybil Collier. Use a full-sized pattern and you'll have no trouble. Send 75 cents for Colonial Dough Box Pattern No. 280 to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. And don't forget to include your name and address, too.

Books That Turn Back Years

By Helen L. Gillum

Books, some of them very old, are a large part of the life of John J. Frisch, shown in corner of his library.

ALTHOUGH not exactly an antique collector in the usual sense of the word, John J. Frisch, of 4777 Daisy Ave., can be justifiably proud of certain collectors' items which he owns, if for no other reason than that they are directly related to his hobbies of literature, music and art. Among his thousands of carefully cataloged books, phonograph records, sheet music, player piano rolls, paintings and etchings (from "the latest thing out" to the "very old"), he can quickly locate an original player-piano roll, the melody of which was composed and recorded by Grieg; a complete 11-volume first-edition of Dr. Samuel Johnson; a worm-eaten, pigskin-bound book from the 16th century, and other noteworthy artistic memorabilia.

At last count, Frisch, a former Poly High School teacher, owned 7,306 books. A most interesting one is a thick, pigskin-bound copy of the Justinian Code, nearly 400 years old, which Frisch found in a secondhand book store in Chicago long ago. Printed completely in Latin, this volume is so ancient that the exact date was difficult, even for Frisch, with many years of languages to his credit, to decipher. However, the name of the Dutch printer, Louis Elzevir, who established a printery in Leyden in 1580, is plainly legible on the flyleaf.

THE TITLE of this old book was burned into the cover with a hot iron. Fragments of leather thongs still cling to the covers. One purpose of such thongs was to bind the pages tightly together, to prevent them from absorbing beer spilled on the tables where students gathered for discussion and camaraderie over the common beverage of the times. At least one voracious bookworm dined well on this ponderous volume of Emperor Justinian's laws, as evidenced by the "tunnel" eaten completely through the book.

The eleven volumes of Samuel Johnson were, according to Frisch, "another lucky find while browsing through a used-bookstore." The calfskin-bound books were published in 1787, three years after Johnson's death. Frisch was so fortunate as to purchase this complete works of the great English man of letters for a fraction of its actual value.

While Frisch plays his white grand piano with aplomb, he also enjoys demonstrating to guests the capabilities of his modern Ampico electric reproducing piano. From among 930 player piano rolls on his shelves, he might select "Erotik," Opus 43, No. 5, composed and recorded by the great Norwegian composer, Edvard Grieg. A pleasantly melodious tune reminds of the past, it also points up the fact that player pianos go back "quite a spell" since Grieg's greatest achievements occurred in the last half of the 19th century. In fact, musical history reveals that mechanical pianos were made as early as 1842.

Frisch owns many excellent reproductions of great paintings, and many good original paintings and etchings. He has arranged on one wall in his home a number of original etchings by the Swedish artist, Anders Zorn. One of these, of Zorn and his wife, is dated 1890.

New wrap-around styling in stretch knit; by Rose Marie Reid.

Skimmers for Swimmers

...Stunners for Sunners

Sweet caresses for curves in Marina Del Mar's "Sea Leaves"—gently rounded in front; deeply scooped in back. Weighs only ounces, yet practices art of figure persuasion.

By Mary Ellis
Independent, Press-Telegram Fashion Editor

"Skimmer" is the latest word for today's fashionable swimmer.

Body-consciousness has made such a big splash in the dress world that swimwear designers have followed suit with a loose, slow-fit silhouette that suggests—without flaunting—the curves beneath.

Of course, bikinis are still adding to the seascope (also see-scope), but more modest two-piece sunner-stunners are better sellers.

THE EVER-POPULAR maillot, this season all shape and no weight, often are cut in new wrap-around styling from cloudlike stretch fabrics that move easily without confining or restricting the figure.

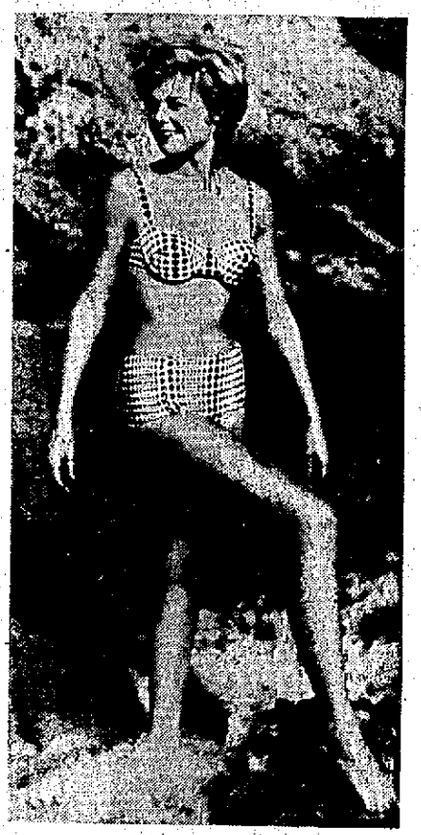

Other 1962isms: Legs cut higher in front for a new long-stemmed look . . . skirted or pleated styling—sometimes the skirt a mere flounce at the hemline, other times completely encircling the hips . . . bloused and belted styles, usually done in conjunction with slim, snug-fitting trunks.

TRUE, THE GREAT "shift" is to the relaxed look. But don't think for a minute the figure isn't revealed.

It's much in evidence, but more subtly. And for flawless figures, there are still many of the sleek suits that fit like a girl's suntan.

As any member of the GWS (Girl Watchers Society) would say:

Oh buoy!

Polka-dot bikini, imported from France by Peter Pan. Lightly wired bra can be worn strapless; maillot-cut pant has shirred elastic panels that adjust for more or less exposure.

New "skimmer" silhouette, here done by Elisabeth Stewart. Body lines are classic princess, ending in multi-knife pleats. Of double-knit jersey; may be lightly sashed.

Stunner for sunners . . . the popular two-pieced look, here done by Catalina in primitive-patterned cotton. Available in combinations of aqua and orange.

Office Hours, Tahiti Style: John Curtis of Long Beach and Dr. Hal Cross of Encino try to concentrate on business with isle secretary Vaia Benet.

Long Beach men find old axiom reversed on Pacific Paradise

In Tahiti It's Pleasure Before Business

By Lee Craig

TWO SOUTHLAND MEN, in Tahiti recently to wrap up plans for a new resort hotel there, made an appointment to talk over the $1 million deal with an important Tahitian businessman.

After a hot, dusty hour's drive in a rented car, they showed up at the Tahitian's office in Papeete at the appointed hour.

He wasn't there. Nor did he return that afternoon. The mystified Americans returned to their hotel 30 miles outside town.

NEXT DAY, the Tahitian turned up at their hotel bungalow with a present for them: two large albacore.

"The fish were running," he explained simply.

To a Tahitian, this makes sense. The typical Polynesian attitude toward business is that it's a fine hobby to follow between fishing and swimming or parties.

Most American businessmen, however, forced to cope with this insouciancy would shortly litter the ground around them with handfuls of hair and stamped-flat hats.

FORTUNATELY, these two—John Curtis, of a Long Beach advertising firm, and Dr. Hal Cross, an Encino dentist—had been warned that the usual axiom of "business before pleasure" is reversed in Tahiti.

All of the downtown offices and most of the shops in Tahiti open about 8:30 or 9 a. m. and close about 11:30, when the motor scooter and bicycle traffic becomes heavy as everyone scurries home for a siesta.

Most of the offices and shops open again about 2 p. m., and close for good at 5, when the streets again become flooded with scooters and bicycles and a few cars.

FOR AMERICANS in Tahiti for business purposes, there's a language problem unless they can speak French or Tahitian and, in some cases, Chinese.

Cross and Curtis overcame the lingual barrier by hiring a Tahitian girl, Vaia Benet, as secretary and interpreter. By coincidence, she also happens to be one of the island's most beautiful girls.

Even lovely Vaia, however, couldn't help them break through the island philosophy of Timi, a gigantic, happy-go-lucky former Tahitian police officer who uses stone-age tools to carve out authentic tikis from wood imported from the Marquesas.

The two Southlanders wanted to make a deal with Timi to import the tikis to Southern California. But Timi saw right away that this would involve more work and fewer parties for him.

FURTHERMORE, he had no established price list, since he usually charged whatever he felt suitable at the time. However, he amiably agreed to work out a schedule of prices and send it to them.

Of course, it never arrived.

Cross and Curtis plan to be on hand when their hotel is under construction, after hearing what happened to another builder near Papeete.

Tahitian workmen, assigned to build a swimming pool near a new hotel, did a very competent job. Feature of their tile and flagstone masterpiece was a large concrete structure supporting the diving board. Only one criticism could be made.

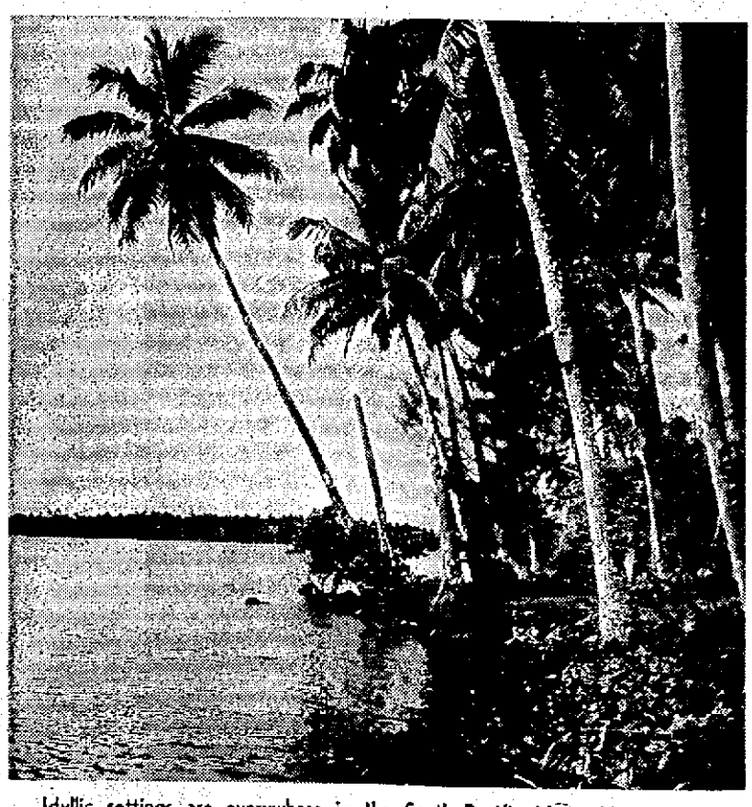

They had built the diving platform at the shallow end.

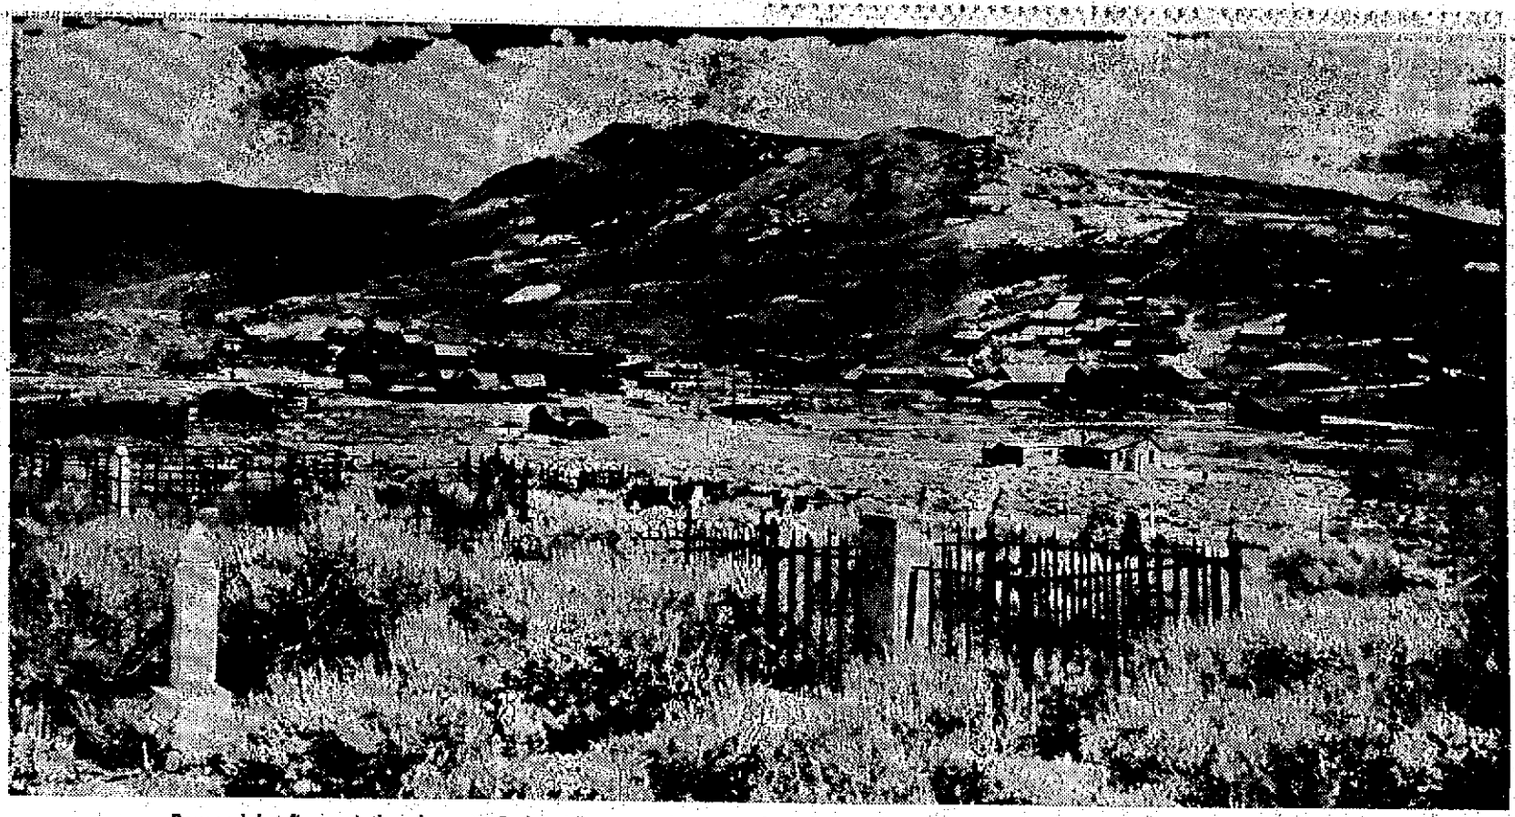

Vaia, besides being a secretary, is one of Tahiti's most beautiful girls.

Making tikis for export trade might involve too much work and too little time for fun, Timi, a huge former Tahiti policeman, told Cross and Curtis.

Idyllic settings are everywhere in the South Pacific isles. This is area along waterfront of hotel outside Papeete where Cross and Curtis stayed.

Ravaged by fire and the elements, Bodie still can muster approximately 100 buildings; but it is a ghost town in purest sense.

BODIE:
Town With No Future

By Frank L. Remington

BODIE'S HOROSCOPE contains nothing. Once a bonanza town where more than 12,000 persons lived and delved for wealth in its hillside mines, Bodie is a true ghost town today. It is weather-beaten, lonely and deserted—just as the miners left it, except for the ravages of time.

From its beginning in 1859, through its heyday to its death spasms, Bodie saw and lived a lot of life. Today, except for the whistling wind, and occasional sightseers, the streets of Bodie are quiet. On a hillside, a graveyard overlooks the town.

Located high in eastern California's High Sierra, Bodie stands near the Nevada border. It can best be reached by a good dirt road running east from U. S. Hwy. 395. During the 13-mile drive to Bodie, there are few signs of life except solitary shepherds and their flocks.

MOST WESTERN ghost towns have been commercialized and cluttered with souvenir shops, hot dog stands and paved roads—but not Bodie. It's an authentic memento of the rip-roaring mining days when people lived with but one thought: Get rich quick.

In 1859, William S. Body discovered gold and the miners who built a town on the site of his "strike" named it after him. But the man who painted the first sign on a livery stable in the community misspelled the name—and it has remained "Bodie" to this day.

Bodie came to life slowly. It was some 20 years before miners struck a bonanza with the fabulous Fortuna vein. In 1878, the real stampede to Bodie began. The mines yielded gold bullion at the rate of $400,000 a month. It is estimated that altogether the Bodie mines produced a total of $80,000,000.

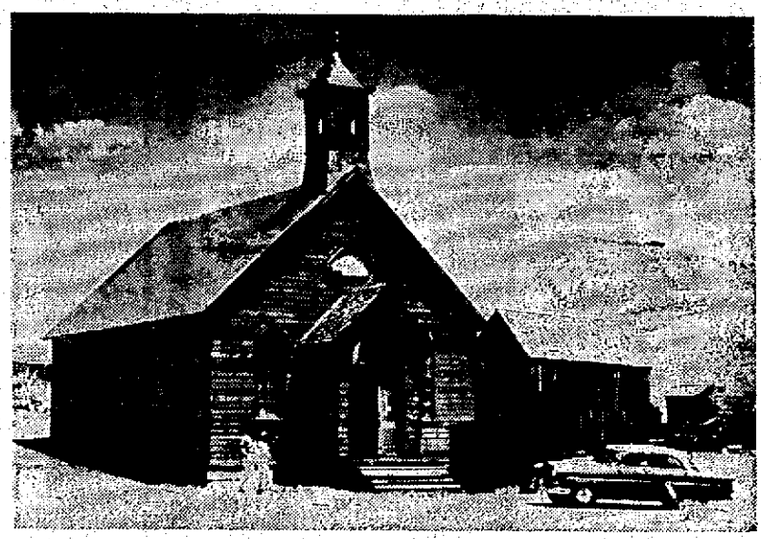

Life was difficult in Bodie, which sprawls between high mountains on a treeless, rocky, 8,300-foot-high plateau. Winter winds punish it severely and deep snow practically isolates it from the outside. In the old days food, supplies and all else had to be brought in by sleighs. In the summer, a burning sun blisters the town.

MANY MINERS struck it rich during the boom, but by 1883, the bonanza slackened. Bodie's miners began drifting away and by 1890 the population was down to 2,000. By the turn of the century there were only 1,500 hardy souls left. Some of the mines were still producing in the present century. The consolidated Bodie and Standard mines operated until the late 1920s. Since then, the last miners departed and the town was left to the elements.

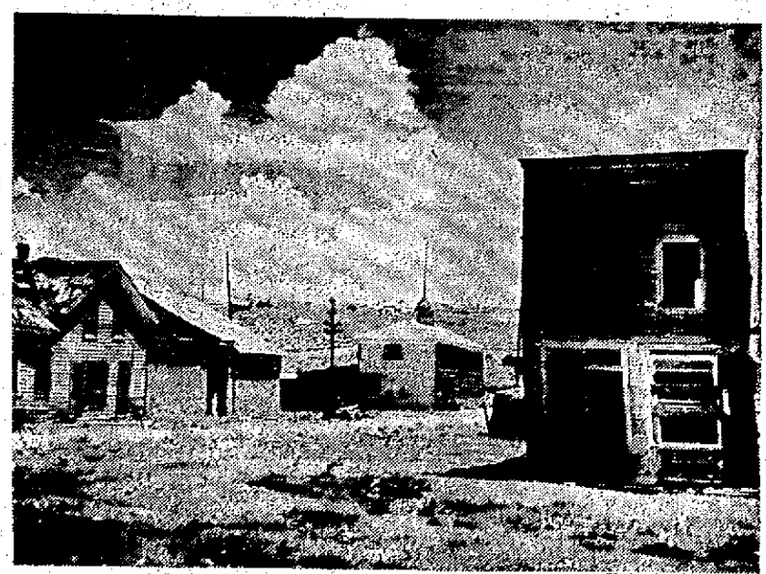

Despite the elements and two disastrous fires in 1892 and 1932, about 100 buildings still exist in Bodie. The 1932 fire destroyed half the business district, including the bank, of which only the scarred vault remains.

The church, schoolhouse and fire station are still standing. So is the Miners' Union Hall, which is now a museum displaying hundreds of items little-known today but common in the boom days of Bodie. They include iron snowshoes for horses, early-day mining equipment,

Despite Bodie's rough and ready ways and convenient morals, some of its residents had time for worship and erected a church, which still stands.

Many Bodie buildings are as unstable on their foundations as some of the miners were after Saturday night carousing. Bodie's school is in background.

California's Division of Highways is constantly at work in research and development aimed at traffic safety on freeways. Here is cable-fence barrier on northern freeway.

Barriers Cut Freeway Head-Ons

By Paul Wallace
Independent, Press-Telegram Staff Writer

HEAD-ON freeway collisions virtually have been eliminated by erection of barriers between opposing lanes, a State Division of Highways study indicates.

But while the experimental center fences have cut freeway fatalities in the process of preventing head-on crashes, they have increased the number of injury accidents, preliminary results of the study show.

Nevertheless, going on the proposition that the fatality column is the important one, the division is planning to install barriers on all the busier freeway stretches where most of the head-ons occur.

Highway engineers have carefully documented fence experiments on sections of the Santa Ana Freeway and the Nimitz Freeway near Oakland.

Two types of barriers were built. One is chain-link fencing with steel cables stretched along it parallel with the ground. The other is a steel beam run along above the ground on stout wood posts.

THE ENGINEERS started their experiment by instigating special reports on the two sections of freeway (on the Santa Ana, between the Long Beach Freeway and Buhman Ave.) on all accidents for a year.

Then the barriers were erected and similar records were kept for another year. The comparison showed:

Before the barriers, 49 head-on crashes in which cars jumped the dividing strip were recorded. After the barriers, only two crashes resulted from cars jumping the barrier.

There were 12 fatal accidents before the barriers went up, and eight after.

Injury accidents increased about 33 per cent (up from 152 to 202) after the barriers appeared, and all accidents jumped a roughly corresponding amount.

THE MAIN GUESS concerning reasons for the increase in accidents is that, without barriers, many vehicles may have crossed onto the center dividing strip but got back in time to avoid a collision with oncoming traffic.

A comparison of the respective efficiency of the beam and cable barriers brought the cable-type out on top. It is planned as the standard barrier to be put into service.

The accident rate increase, after the test barriers were

Beam-type barrier guards lanes of opposite travel on this freeway section. The accompanying article gives findings to date on the two types of median safeguards.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Do you have genealogy data on SADLER?—M. S., Downey.

M. S.: SADLER meant "saddle maker," referring to a skilled artisan who made saddles for the horses of knights and barons in 13th century England. Beautifully decorated saddles were the pride of warriors at that time. The Sadler family became noblemen and established a manorial estate in Hertfordshire. An ancestor, Sir Ralph Sadler, a distinguished statesmen, was Knight Banneret to King Henry VIII. His coat-of-arms, which the family still bears, had a rampant lion on a red and blue shield. Libeaus Sadler, one of this lineage, baptized the baby who grew up to be Capt. John Smith, founder of Virginia. Ann Sadler was the wife of John Harvard who established Harvard University in 1636.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the relationship between DONALDSON, MacDONALD and DONELSON?—E.D., Torrance; B.D., Long Beach.

E.D., B.D.: DONALDSON and DONELSON are septs or divisions of the famous Scotch clan MacDONALD. The mutual ancestors of these families were rival brothers who raced with each other in small galley ships for Scotland from their native Ireland. When they neared shore, one brother, seeing his competitor was winning the race, cut off his own left hand and threw it ashore saying, "My flesh and my blood are ashore ahead of you." The land won by this means was the Hebrides Island, 2,900 square miles in area off the west Scotch coast. The MacDonald title "Lords of the Isles," referred to their island estates. MacDonald means "Sons of World-ruler." The ancient armorial emblems of the MacDonalds are a red hand for the crest, symbolizing the hand thrown ashore in the legend, and a black galley ship, representing the craft that won the race from Ireland.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give the background of BAY.—M.F., Downey.

M.F.: BAY is an old English name indicating "Man with reddish brown hair." Thirteenth century records list ancestors, Walter Le Bay of Cambridge and Nicholas Le Bay of Bedfordshire.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you analyze BYERLEE.—Mrs. R.B., Wilmington.

R.B.: BYERLEE is a variation of the English surname Byerly, taken from an old locality description. A "Byreley" was a "cattle shed meadow," a grazing field landmarked by an outstandingly large barn or shed. Byre-ley was the site of this family's home. The Byerly coat-of-arms has a red cross with the end of each arm crossed again, centered on a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain ESTES. — D.E., Lakewood; E., Compton.

D.E., E.: ESTES is from a 7th century Italian suburb called, "Este" mean "in the east." This was an ancient popular resort where wealthy Roman citizens stayed to escape summer heat. The Marquises of Liguria took this town name as their surname in the 1300s. In 1461 an Estes descendant left Italy, settling in the English county of Kent. Among subsequent generations was Robert Estes of Dover, whose son Matthew, born in 1645, came to America in 1670, settling in New Hampshire. The Estes coat-of-arms has three gold fleurs-de-lis on a red and silver bordered blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background of POLLARD.—A.P., Downey.

A.P.: POLLARD was recorded in England over seven centuries ago. This surname originated as a nickname. A "Pollard" was a rebellious individual who cut his hair short in the days when most men wore it shoulder length. An early listing shows Stephen, Son of Pollard, in Kent, 1273. The Pollard coat-of-arms has a black chevron between three red seashells on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you give the origin of BLUE. —E.S., Paramount.

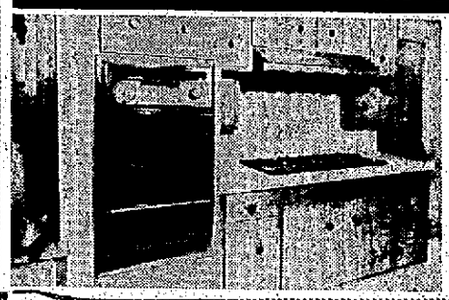

E.S.: BLUE is traced to the early English word "Blew" describing a type of blue woolen cloth. This family's founder was a weaver and seller of this specific blue material. Another source of Blue was the old French meaning of this word, "Pale complexion." London marriage records for 1808 list the wedding of Thomas Blue.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like your analysis of HAWK and HAWKS.—G.C., Mrs. E. H., Long Beach.

G.C., E.H.: HAWK and HAWKS represent an early English nickname for a man who had the keen vision of a soaring hawk. However, these names could also indicate descendants of an owner of an inn identified by a trademark sign picturing a hawk.

Thomas, Adam and John Hawke were Yorkshire taxpayers in 1379. The Hawke shield from Cornwall has six diagonal alternating blue and gold stripes covering the background, placed below a horizontal stripe at the top of the shield. The Hawkes or Hawks shield is similar, a blue background crossed by three diagonal gold stripes placed below a ermine horizontal band.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Portal to Smart Styling

By Stella George

RURAL IN setting but smart as today in styling, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Golden, 16707 Graham St., Huntington Beach, is a one-of-its-kind, planned by the Goldens.

A wide, semi-circular driveway outlines a front garden and sweeps up to the entry of this hillside development. A view of a nearby golf course is a feature of the location.

The approach to the dwelling, through a double gate, is reminiscent of a Pompeiian garden or courtyard with a walkway to the front door flanked on either side with large plants set in clean white gravel. The effect is one of enchantment and luxury.

THE ENTRANCE hall of the home leads to the kitchen and living room and extends around to the bedrooms on the right. Purple carpeting is used dramatically. The living room is probably twice the average size, and the feeling of tremendous space is emphasized with extra high ceilings and widely spaced beams running both ways.

The fireplace at the far end of the room reaches to the ceiling and is wide and handsome in design. Walls are paneled in squares from floor to ceiling, with three-quarter drapes leaving the glass exposed above.

The long sectional couch is white, very effective against the purple carpeting. The low coffee table in front of the couch is also white. An outsized hassock in front of the fireplace divides into four separate seating units.

On either side of the fireplace the paneling opens to reveal built-in units. On one side the space is used for a completely equipped bar, ready and available for entertaining.

THE MODERN, compact and functional kitchen adjoins the dinette which doubles, with no effort, as a dining room. The glass-topped table is edged with white filigreed aluminum as are the matching chairs. This particular type of dining room set has a dainty, graceful, and elegant quality of its own.

On one side of the room, a built-in china cupboard is nested against the wall. Glass doors display the treasured pieces within, at the same time keeping them dust free. The entire wall facing the patio is glass.

The bedrooms were treated as carefully as the rest of the home. Adjoining the master bedroom, where a colorful spread provides the color accent, is a built-in dressing table with mirrored wall above. Nearby are ample closets with more built-ins taking the place of furniture pieces.

THE SITE is large enough to accommodate a spacious patio and garden and an out-sized swimming pool that runs diagonally across the far end of the lot. The whole area represents California living at its best.

Every feature of the home, large and small, is noteworthy. For example, the tile used in the kitchen and dinette is an unusual gold-flecked white, with a large black border lending a carpeted effect. A guest book on a tiny, built-in table in the entrance hall bids guests welcome. Each room seems to complement the other, and no detail was overlooked as being too unimportant.

An out-sized pool runs diagonally across the large site. Space is ample for a large patio and garden.

MEDICINE AND YOU

More Psychiatry Study Urged

By Ben Zinser

Independent, Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

PSYCHOTHERAPY (communication with a patient) appears to have little beneficial effect on some conditions such as child and adolescent delinquency.

The observation is that of Dr. Hugh A. Storrow of the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

Dr. Storrow, a former Long Beach resident, reports in the Southern Medical Journal that conventional psychotherapeutic techniques leave a lot to be desired, and that more effort and money should be devoted to psychiatric research.

Already, he says, new psychiatric techniques show promise and should be checked out. Eight out of 10 neurotics are being helped, he says, by a technique in which the therapist insists on changes in behavior. In addition, the psychiatrist focuses more on current problems than on earlier difficulties.

ANOTHER CAUSE of hay fever has been discovered: airborne algae.

Two Texas doctors reported the newly implicated culprit to a meeting of the American College of Allergists.

The doctors began their research after two other scientists informed them that algae, a water contaminant, can be blown about by the wind.

They studied four strains of green algae and performed skin tests with them on 120 allergic children. Ninety-eight of the youngsters showed positive reactions to the tests.

So the doctors now believe that algae, when airborne, can act as molds and pollen do to cause hay fever.

* * * *

A patient recently developed a ringing in the ear after using a new electric shaver. Was the noise from the razor responsible?

Very unlikely, says a consultant to the AMA Journal, Dr. Aram Glorig Jr.

Dr. Glorig says that the intensity of sound from a razor at close range would produce a hearing loss in the high frequencies only under the following condition: Exposure of 50 minutes or more a day for 10 or more years.

FOR WHAT is believed the first time, health officials have found rabies in the flying squirrel.

Health officers isolated rabies virus from a flying squirrel captured in Pinellas County, Fla., according to Public Health Reports.

The creature was captured one afternoon by three boys fishing in a canal north of St. Petersburg. It fell to the ground under a tree, and two of the boys were bitten while handling the animal.

His Gun Wears Indian Magic

By Betty Hardesty

O. J. (JACK) PINNELL'S Wild-West six-shooter was used as a five-shooter by its first owner, the outlaw Bill McWhorter. That was because it had no trigger and one shell chamber was kept as a "safety" when the gun was fully loaded. "Bill thumbed it," Pinnell explains as he points out how the "rearing Colt" trademark was worn off the left side of the gun's grip by the outlaw's thumb slipping down as he fired.

Jack tells story after true story about the Old West while he shows his gun at his home, 233 Covina Ave. Now a retired police sergeant, he cherishes this 85-year-old, single-action Colt "Peacemaker" .45-caliber and its hand-made, leather holster. The belt, 3½ inches wide, folded double and sewn at the top edge, has cartridge loops and a large, flat, iron buckle. The holster, decorated with concha buttons and leather thongs, also carries a hunting knife in a scabbard fastened to it.

"This is the way it was when my dad first got it way back in 1884," Jack relates, "when he was a cowhand on a Texas ranch."

WILEY E. PINNELL, Jack's father, was born in 1856 on the banks of the Stanislaw River in Tulare County. When he was 25 he took charge of driving 3,000 sheep to Texas, from May to December by way of Death Valley, Wyoming and New Mexico.

When the sheep were sold, one of the Mexican herders attempted to rob the owner but succeeded only in killing him. Thus out of work, Wiley stayed at Tascosa, Texas, where he acquired the nickname of "California" and before long, a new boss. "California," seeing a couple of fellows "double up" on a cowman in a poker game, stepped in to stop it. The grateful cowman was the boss of the LIT Cattle Co. and gave Wiley Pinnell a job which he kept for three years.

In 1884, the outfit hired a new hand, Bill McWhorter, a wanted murderer. Three different times, Texas Rangers raided the outfit in search of the outlaw but he never bedded down in camp," Jack explains.

During a long cattle drive to Dodge City for shipment, McWhorter told Wiley how he saved a sick and starving Indian tribe by shooting game for them. It was for this kindness that the medicine-man had put a spell on the Colt Peacemaker "so no man carrying it could be killed."

Nevertheless, the outlaw lost patience with his gun when one day he fired five shots into the head of a steer and only broke its jaw. The next day when he thumbed five shots at a flock of turkeys without hitting one, he asked to borrow "Cal's" gun. Killing one immediately, he wanted to trade for keeps, sat down, took off the trigger and put it on the "Peacemaker," keeping his weapon triggerless.

AFTER THE DRIVE, Wiley went back to California, married and settled down as a blacksmith. The gun, however, continued to shoot its way through a series of violent episodes in the hands of the notorious outlaw, Jim McKinney, who got it from a bartender friend of Wiley's. With this gun, McKinney killed his best friend and kidnaped a 16-year-old boy to drive him from Porterville to Visalia. After acquiring a horse and saddle, he disappeared only to be apprehended later in Bakersfield.

This was when two Kern County deputies having shot a horseman they believed to be McKinney, followed a man who came to a drug store for carbolic acid solution to clean a wound. McKinney was "forted up" in a Chinese Joss House and in the gun battle he killed officer Bill Tibbett, father of Lawrence Tibbett, the opera singer, and another lawman.

A blast of buckshot fired by Bert Tibbett sheared off the outlaw's walrus mustache, another killed him. "McKinney was using a rifle," as Jack Pinnell tells it, "and had laid aside the gun which, by Indian medicine, gave immunity to its wearer." When Wiley Pinnell took his "Peacemaker" home he told his growing sons many stories about it. Thus Jack ac-

Casserole in the Mood of Spring

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

THIS TIME of year, clever is the homemaker who rations her indoor time to give her more outdoor time by having simple, prepare-in-a-jiffy lunches. Such is Spring Asparagus Delight, a casserole of cooked asparagus, hard cooked eggs and cheese and topped with herb-seasoned crumbs of bite-sized, toasted corn cereal. Cook the asparagus and eggs at dinnertime the night before and season the crumbs, but don't add them until the casserole is ready for the oven.

Herb-seasoned corn crumbs are so good that you'll want to keep them in the refrigerator at all times for quick casseroles and for coating fish and chops. Use marjoram part of the time and thyme or basil other times. The combination of cooked vegetables, leftover or otherwise, condensed soup and bite-sized, toasted corn cereal crumbs will be one of the best of rationing tools all summer long.

For the rest of the menu: franks on buns, relishes and strawberry ice cream with cookies. If there are teen-agers in the family, they might be interested in grilling the outside for extra flavor.

Made with asparagus, hard-cooked eggs, cream of celery soup, herb-seasoned crumbs, Spring Asparagus Delight is a pleasing casserole. Serve with franks and relishes.

Spring Asparagus Delight

1 can (10½ oz.) cream of celery soup
½ cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
¼ teaspoon and ⅛ teaspoon ground marjoram
2 cups cooked cut green asparagus (save 2 tablespoons cooking liquid)
3 hard cooked eggs, sliced
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1½ cups bite-sized toasted corn cereal crushed to 1 cup

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees). Butter a 1-quart or 5 individual casseroles. Blend together soup, cheese, ¼ teaspoon marjoram and asparagus liquid. Carefully mix in asparagus and eggs. Pour into casserole. Combine butter and ⅛ teaspoon marjoram. Add cereal crumbs. Stir to coat evenly. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake 40 minutes or until bubbly. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

$5 for Your Recipe

NUT TORTE wins $5 for Mrs. Ethel Rodman for the best recipe submitted this week. The recipe:

Nut Torte

½ cup butter
⅓ cup sugar
1½ cups sifted flour
3 egg yolks
½ tsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. lemon rind

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead until rolling consistency. Roll dough between wax paper to fit 8x12 shallow baking pan. Brush lightly with slightly beaten egg white. Bake in 375 degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove from oven and cool. Spread with thin layer of apricot preserves.

6 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
2 cups ground walnuts
2 tblsp. flour
1 tsp. vanilla
6 egg whites beaten stiff

Beat egg whites until stiff, set aside. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon color. Add walnuts and flour, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread over apricot mixture. Bake in 375 degree oven for about 15 minutes or until light brown. Cut in 2-inch squares.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the women. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram Southland Magazine, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12.

TRAVEL NOTES

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"What it will cost us to ship a car home from England and the tax and how you do it. . . ."

FIRST, you don't pay any British tax when you buy the car. As long as you get it out of the country within a year. (British tax is about half the cost!)

You pay American Customs duty at 8½ per cent on the value. If you've driven the car, it's second-hand. You don't pay as much as for a new car. So drive it 100 miles.

Shipping costs depend on size—but roughly $200 should do it. The place where you buy the car should make all shipping arrangements. And make it early. Space gets pretty tight toward August when all the tourists are heading home.

"We hear it's difficult to get tickets to the Folies Bergere in Paris. . . ."

It does get filled up in the summer season. Forty per cent of the business is American. (In my opinion, this show is plenty overrated — they make so much money they're not trying anymore).

The concierge at your hotel (tip five francs) will probably come up with a pair.

If you don't make it, see the Casino de Paris. Same thing. Semi-nudes in big production scenes. The Lido night club has an excellent show for the cost of one bottle of champagne.

And Naturistes and Chez Eve in Place Pigalle are more close up. Add your check yourself. The waiters flunked math.

"If you could suggest some place in America, not too hot in the summer, for a vacation?"

I am high on Grand Teton National Park in the cool, high Rockies. Price ranges from $20 in the plush lodges to a few dollars a day in half tent, half cabin camps where you can rent cots, cook on open fires and fish the lakes or the Snake River. Information booklets from Cerwin Organization, Phelan Building, San Francisco.

Farm Vacations, 500 Fifth Ave., New York City, (50 cents) lists all kinds of places, from dude ranches to working farms that take guests.

"You wrote about a place to get caviar in Hong Kong."

That was the Parisian Grill. Refugees were bringing it down from Harbin — they weren't allowed to take out money and caviar was negotiable. But no more. It comes in from Iran and the price has gone up to New York rates.

You can get Sydney Rock oysters there though. Flown in alive from Australia.

Puerto Rico: Land of Paradoxes

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent-Press-Telegram Travel Editor

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO

COLUMBUS discovered this unbelievably beautiful Caribbean paradise in 1493. In 1962, it will be rediscovered by 400,000 Americans who will scarcely believe what they see.

For Puerto Rico, only about 6 hours out of Los Angeles International Airport aboard a Delta Air Lines' swift 880 Convair, is, indeed, a land of gratifying paradoxes.

Just a little more than a decade ago, Puerto Rico was called the "poorhouse of the Caribbean." There was virtually no industry. Agriculture was practically the only source of wealth, and sugar cane was the main crop.

Average per capita income was so low ($121 a year) that Puerto Ricans were swarming to the United States at the rate of 60,000 a year.

FOMENTO: Then the United States decided it was time to "do something," and inaugurated "Operation Bootstrap" (called Fomento down here) under the Economic Development Administration.

In only a few years, Fomento had harnessed rivers and streams to provide pure water supplies and electrical power for farm and home, factory and office. It added thermal power stations to hydroelectric systems, built a network of modern highways, airports, and made the harbors more accessible to the ships plying the Atlantic-Caribbean sea lanes.

Carolyn Martin

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Martin of 5103 Monlaco Road, Miss Carolyn J. Martin has graduated as a United Air Lines hostess and now is serving aboard Mainliners flying from Washington, D.C. Miss Martin is a graduate of Millikan High School and attended Long Beach State and La Verne College.

Slums, once the shame of neglect by the American government, have almost completely disappeared. In their place, vast FHA housing developments dot the island and continue to spread.

But Fomento's main job has been to stimulate private investment, and in a way that it will make private enterprise "not a sacred cow but a productive and contented one."

BY USING government funds to help private enterprise, Fomento not only has raised the per capita income to more than $600 a year, but has made Puerto Rico a model of what can be done in underdeveloped countries. Virtually every Central and South American country has sent officials and delegations here to see and study how the remarkable transition was accomplished.

Migration out of Puerto Rico has dwindled to less than 15,000 annually, and many natives in the exodus of a few years ago are returning to the island.

New industry is the reason why most Puerto Ricans, now working and living under vastly improved conditions, hold up their heads and say proudly that they are Americans.

A total of 153 new manufacturing plants were recruited in the first nine months of fiscal 1962 alone, providing 10,000 more jobs. The Commonwealth's government economists are confident that the gross national product in the current fiscal year will reach the level of $2 billion, a rise of 9 per cent over a year ago and one of the highest growth rates in the world.

THIS MEANS significant increases, too, in bank deposits, government revenues, wage and salary payments, construction activity and electric energy production.

Puerto Rico, as a result, has become one of the best customers in the world for U.S.-made products — more than $763 million a year, of which $75 million comes from the Far West states.

Remarkable? Everyone who comes to see, thinks so, when it is remembered that this extraordinary progress was made in the face of the worst conditions of poverty in the world.

It is important to remember, too, that it was all done by democratic methods in close association with the United States, but by initiative of the Puerto Ricans themselves.

Puerto Rico, you may or may not know, is a self-governing commonwealth, officially proclaimed so July 25, 1952. Its 2,350,000 people are American citizens, and its government resembles that of California and other states. However, it has no voting representation in Congress and its citizens do not vote for President. In keeping with the principle of "no taxation without representation," it is Master spy and counterfeit traitor in World War II is role played by William Holden, shown in scene from the film.

The World for His Stage

IF EVER William Shakespeare's observation that "All the world's a stage," had any meaning in the 20th century, it certainly would apply to a globe-circling actor named William Holden.

One of the screen's foremost stars, Holden has literally made the world his stage by appearing in more productions filmed in more foreign lands than any other actor in or out of Hollywood.

In June he'll be on his way to Paris to join co-star Audrey Hepburn in Paramount's "Together in Paris." In recent years his motion picture portrayals have taken him to such diverse locales as the historic shores of England, the parched African veldt, the sweltering jungles of Ceylon and the teeming British Crown Colony of Hong Kong.

With Paramount's forthcoming Technicolor adventure and suspense film, "The Counterfeit Traitor," Holden once again packs his bags to enact the sort of tension-filled role that has become his stamp. This time his travels take him through Germany, Denmark and Sweden in a World War II saga which recounts the true exploits of one of the Allies' most important espionage agents.

While Holden readily admits that making films abroad has its pleasures and advantages, enough unpredictable inconveniences occur to make anyone, tourist or professional, absolutely miserable.

"IN BERLIN," says Holden, "my hotel accommodations were first-rate. Unfortunately, my window overlooked the Berlin Zoo which had a prized seal who insisted on marking reveille in the middle of the night. I had entertained the thought of presenting my wife with a seal coat before we left."

Holden believes the inconveniences are totally insignificant if a picture can achieve a certain amount of authenticity and excitement. Today, that excitement can no longer be generated exclusively on a Hollywood sound stage. If the picture is about Paris, film it on the Champs Elysee; if about London, shoot it in Piccadilly; if it's about New York, make it there and if it's about a spy inside war-torn Europe, make it in Europe.

Strife-ridden Germany is the setting for "The Counterfeit Traitor." Holden portrays American-born Eric Erickson, who became a Swedish citizen and ultimately a master spy for the Allies. In this capacity, Erickson was able to obtain valuable oil secrets from the Nazis which enabled American and British bombers to locate and destroy gasoline refineries. This curtailed the fuel supply to the Luftwaffe and shortened the war by many months.

More than 53 different locations were used. In Berlin, scenes were filmed along the banks of the River Spree which separates East and West Berlin and in front of No. 116 Kurfurstendam, which was Adolph Eichmann's headquarters during the height of the Nazi regime.

IN HAMBURG, the company filmed scenes along numerous streets, at the Jung Oil Refineries and along Herbertstrasse, its famed waterfront, red-light district. Additional segments were filmed in and around Copenhagen and Stockholm.

"It was an amazing experience," says Holden. "Shooting in three countries and in dozens of different locales required the same amount of logistical support as a major military campaign. Air transports took us from city to city where we picked up actors, technical crew and equipment. This film took more precision planning than anything within recent memory."

Of course, many things were left to chance. One of them was the weather.

"Since we weren't filming in sunny California, we were subject to the whims of the rain gods all the time. But this was just the sort of thing we used. Instead of waiting for the weather to clear, we filmed in the rain. What we didn't bargain for was the severe winter of 1960-61. Our production ground to a halt and we had to return to Stockholm last summer to finish the picture."

"The Counterfeit Traitor" is a Perlberg-Seaton Technicolor production for Paramount release. The film also stars Lilli Palmer and Hugh Griffith. It was produced by William Perlberg and directed by George Seaton from his own screen play.

Liberty Walkway Proposed

Because Liberty Island and its famous statue are only 200 yards off the New Jersey shore, a congressman from that state wants a causeway built so that visitors to the island can walk there. At present, visitors must go to downtown Manhattan and take a ferry. An exit at Jersey City on the New Jersey turnpike is convenient for motorists, the solon states. He'd also want a national park established on the shoreline, shown here in background.

Puerto Rico

not subject to U.S. federal income taxes.

BUT WHAT ABOUT tourist accommodations? A little more than a decade ago Puerto Rico had 507 hotel rooms, less than 65,000 visitors a year, and an annual tourism income of $7 million.

During the past year, Puerto Rico's hotel accommodations totaled more than 3,500 rooms, 343,000 tourists who spent $54 million.

This year will see hotel accommodations expanded by another 2,000 rooms through investments of more than $58 million.

Many of the bigger hostelries, such as Laurance Rockefeller's Dorado Beach Hotel, have been more than 92 per cent full since last October.

More and more vacationists from the West Coast are arriving on the island, and still more are expected with the Delta Air Lines' new one-stop (New Orleans) service from Los Angeles, inaugurated May 2, four times weekly.

DISTANCE FROM Los Angles to San Juan—via Delta's sleek 880 Convairs — is 3,586 miles. We flew the 1,671-mile lap to Moisant International Airport, New Orleans, in three hours; the remaining 1,785 miles in three hours, five minutes and seven seconds. All wonderfully smooth sailing, deliciously different meals, and service out of this world.

(Next week, more about life on Puerto Rico — its hotels, sports, night life, and the people themselves.)

You Ask, We Answer

By Haskin

Q. Does a person always become unconscious when hypnotized? N. B.

A. No. There are various stages or degrees of hypnosis, which may be grouped as light, medium and deep stages. In the light stage, which is adequate for most medical purposes, the patient is completely relaxed but entirely aware of what is going on. Even a patient in deep hypnosis knows what is happening about him, and can remember these occurrences when hypnotized later and asked about them.

Q. Does a copyright protect the subject matter of a published factual article, so that nobody else can write on the same topic? M. S.

A. No. An idea, fact or topic cannot in itself be protected by copyright. A copyright protects the way in which the subject is presented, but not the subject matter itself. Copyright covers the relationship of words, sentences, paragraphs, etc., to each other, and the choice of language.

Q. How long does it take concrete to dry out completely? C. C.

A. Very little concrete ever dries completely, except possibly concrete in the interior of an artificially heated building. Even in this case, some residual moisture remains in the concrete, depending on the temperature and humidity of the surrounding air. Concrete exposed to normal outdoor conditions is wetted from time to time and therefore contains a larger amount of moisture.

Q. Is there a specific difference between a tree and a shrub? D. R.

A. There is no clear-cut distinction. A plant that reaches a height of 10 or 15 feet and is inclined to develop a single stem or trunk is likely to be called a tree, whereas a plant of the same height that has several branches coming from the root is generally called a shrub. Plants that are less than 8 feet high at maturity are usually classed as shrubs, and those which grow to 20 feet or more are ordinarily called trees.

Busiest Airport

Frankfurt's airport is the busiest in Germany, reports the German Tourist Office. Some 2,570,000 passengers passed through the terminal in 1961, or 18.3 per cent more than the previous year. Almost 10,000 landings were clocked.

Candid Observations on Life

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

INTRODUCING conversation "by the backstairs of his own writing," Clifton Fadiman offers his candid observations and considered judgments on life and the multitudinous things which make it what it is in "ENTER, CONVERSING," a collection of 32 essays (World, $5).

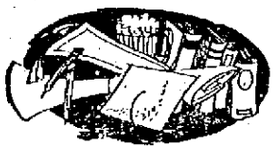

Here are a few of his conversational thoughts:

On celebrities: "As a general thing intellectuals make poorish celebrities—they don't seem to have the brains for it."

On satellites: "Are satellites the issue of a basic scientific curiosity? Or is this attempt to communicate with the nonhumanity of outer space merely a confession of our failure to communicate with each other, a cry of despair that we pretend is a shout of triumph?"

On travel: "Travel, though a minor art, is still an art and should be undertaken in the spirit of the artist. Each traveler-artist has a style proper to himself."

On life: "For most men, life is a search for the proper manila folder in which to get themselves filed."

"Gold! We leapt from our benches. Gold! We snorage from our sloots.
Gold! We wheeled in the furrow, fired with the faith of fools.
Fearless, unfounded, unfilled, far from the night and the cold,
Heard we the clarion summons, followed the master-lure—GOLD!"

WITH Robert Service's famous lines, Lowell Thomas Jr. opens his latest book, "THE TRAIL OF '98: An Anthology of the Klondike" (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $3.95).

Although most of the men who followed the lure of gold to the Klondike were a rough-and-tumble lot, the Yukon also attracted an unusual number of first-rate writers in addition to Service, including the novelists Jack London and Rex Beach, William Ogilvie, who became first commissioner of the region, and T. A. Rickard, the geologist. Selections from their writings are included, giving a cross section of life in the remote camps and lusty boom towns.

FOR THE DOMESTICATED male who has everything, on Father's Day give him "MAN IN APRON" with cartoons by Terence Parkes of Punch fame. This pocket-sized funny manual is dedicated to man's way of doing things from setting the table with a magnet to carry the silverware to using a power sander to ice the cake. It convulsed England and the continent and is currently undermining American woman's confidence in man as a kitchen helpmate (Stephen Green Press, $1).

"THE TENTH YEAR OF THE SHIP" by Norman Lewis (Harcourt, Brace & World, $4.50) tells how the coming of civilization ruined the land baron on an island paradise.

With steamer service came union trouble, a peasant rebellion, new tractors, tourists, a cannery and adultery.

There are so many sideplots involving the family and other holdings of rich and powerful Don Flavio Tur that a reader almost needs a chart to keep track of the happenings.

But the book makes a magnificent case that progress and freedom do not always breed good things—sometimes they just cause more breeding.

"THE WORLD OF ICE" by James Dyson (Knopf, $6.95) is the story of the ice age in which we still are living—the last half-million years or so. It is the story of ice sheets in Antarctica, Greenland and the Arctic islands; of streams of ice in high mountains all over the world; of icebergs; of pack ice and ice islands drifting over the Polar seas, and of frozen ground beneath the land. More than that, it tells how ice has affected mankind in the past, and how it will continue to do so in the future. It is illustrated with 83 photographs and several charts and drawings.

MYRON AND ANN SUTTON

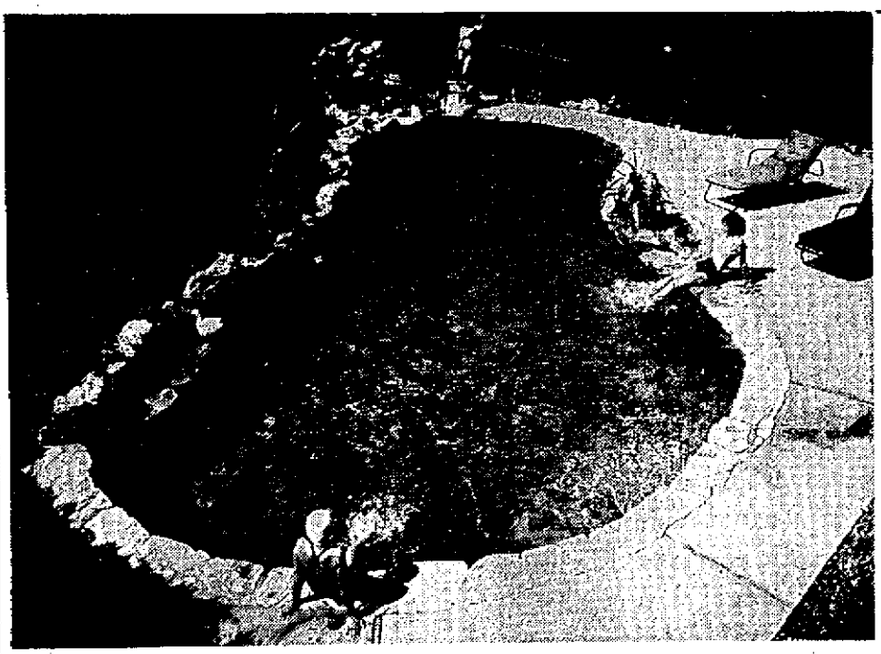

As ranger-naturalists in national parks throughout the west, Myron and Ann Sutton experience many caprices of nature. So they wrote "NATURE ON THE RAMPAGE" (Lippincott, $6), about hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, volcanoes, earthquakes and avalanches. Nature lovers will find the book absorbing.

AUTHOR GERALD GREEN has a hilarious rib-tickler in "THE PORTOFINO P.T.A." (Scribner's, $3.95).

Green recounts the misadventures when he, his wife and three children chucked their split level, suburban

Cactus Unlimited

By Adelaide K. Roeslein

THERE'S a disease about called cactusitis. Don't worry. It isn't fatal. In fact, it's lots of fun.

From the early 30s, until his death on October 5, 1957, cactusities has been responsible for providing a good livelihood for Howard Gates of Norco. Neighbors who knew him well say that Gates was not only very seriously inflicted with cactusitis himself, but that he transformed many otherwise perfectly "normal" individuals into cactomanines, which is just another word for cactus collectors.

Gates became afflicted with "cactusitis" in 1929 when he attended a cactus show in Pasadena. By 1930, he had become so seriously addicted that he was making many exploring trips to find new specimens to add to his collection. His main field of exploration was Mexico and Lower California, but on three trips he even traveled as far south as the Guatemalan border. When all this began to get rather expensive, he started his "Cactus Gardens" to help finance his exploring trips. But his venture grew until finally his annual sales ran into millions of dollars. On his 15-acre farm at 2514 Hillside Ave. in Norco, just north of Corona, Gates grew his cactus and shipped it all over the world. He discovered more than 20 different types of hitherto unknown varieties of cactus, and developed a number himself, some of which are named after him. His friends came to call him "The King of Cactus Growers."

Because of rugged conditions in which cacti grow in their native areas, culture at home is far from exhausting hobby.

Desert areas are a source of materials for some "cactomaniacs" but others prefer just to buy plants for their hobby.

CACTI grow in all sorts of shapes—some so outlandish and ugly that they are beautiful. Some grow in such grotesquely achitectural shapes that they give you the feeling that you are not "growing" the plant, but "building" it.

Cactus seed is expensive, and since there is no regular source of seed, most cactus enthusiasts must collect their own. Gates' seed room boasts of thousands of dollars worth of seed, most of which he collected himself.

Since the cactus fruit has a habit of exploding when ripe and throwing the seed in all directions, he developed a plastic cone which he placed over ripening fruit to catch the seeds.

Seeds are planted first in flats, and, after sprouting, are transplanted several times before they are considered large enough and strong enough to be sold.

Gates Cactus, Inc., is still being carried on at the same address, but his son, the Rev. Morgan Gates, is now president of the enterprise. However, he lives in Torrance where other interests keep him busy, and he visits the Cactus Gardens about once every week or two. He has an able staff there to carry on the business and to discuss the various species with the thousands of people who visit the cactus gardens every year.

GRADE CARD

TV vs. Reading

By Harry Karns

Education Research Associates

WHAT EFFECT does TV have on the reading habits of American youngsters?

There's little agreement among the experts on that one.

For example, Ralph S. Graber, an English instructor at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., said not long ago that he has noticed TV's adverse influence in the papers of his students.

"With increased television viewing, the student hears many new words and expressions which he has never seen in print," said Graber. "Since he does very little reading, he has no idea that he is using the wrong word, for he has never seen the expression in print and thus has no knowledge of the correct word."

On the other hand, the Robert Palmer Corp., sales training and industrial relations publishers of Santa Barbara, recently reported that between 1947 and 1957, when TV viewing was emerging as a popular pastime, the sale of juvenile books increased 400 per cent.

The corporation's report said:

"Television's success depends upon attracting large numbers of people. It touches many subjects, rarely covering any in real detail. Thus, instead of taking the place of reading, TV has encouraged it."

It seems clear to us that a sensible diet of television can increase a child's understanding of words and ideas and the world around him.

But if taken in excessive doses, it blocks out other sources of education. Obviously, the child who spends every spare minute watching TV has no time for reading books or engaging in any other activity.

IN SHORT, TV is one of those things which, if taken in moderation, can do no harm and may do good.

A mother called us recently and complained that her son is lagging in school. She correctly attributed his poor progress to the fact that he neglects his homework. Instead, he watches television for hours every evening.

Here we have simply a question of discipline. In a case such as this, the answer is quite clear:

Require that homework be done and checked before the TV set is turned on. And if you want to encourage your child to spend more time on reading, post a TV-watching schedule which thrusts upon the child some time that needs to be used. Then make the books available, and observe the pleasing results.

(If you wish assistance in helping your child to do good work in school, mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in this "Grade Card" column.)

installed, was substantially greater on the beam sections over the cable ones, the survey shows.

In the case of the Santa Ana Freeway experiment, total accidents increased slightly after the cable barrier was installed but injury accidents on that stretch did not go up materially.

On the beam-barrier section, the injury accident rate jumped 53 per cent. (Engineers, however, noted that all the increase did not appear to have been caused by the barrier.)

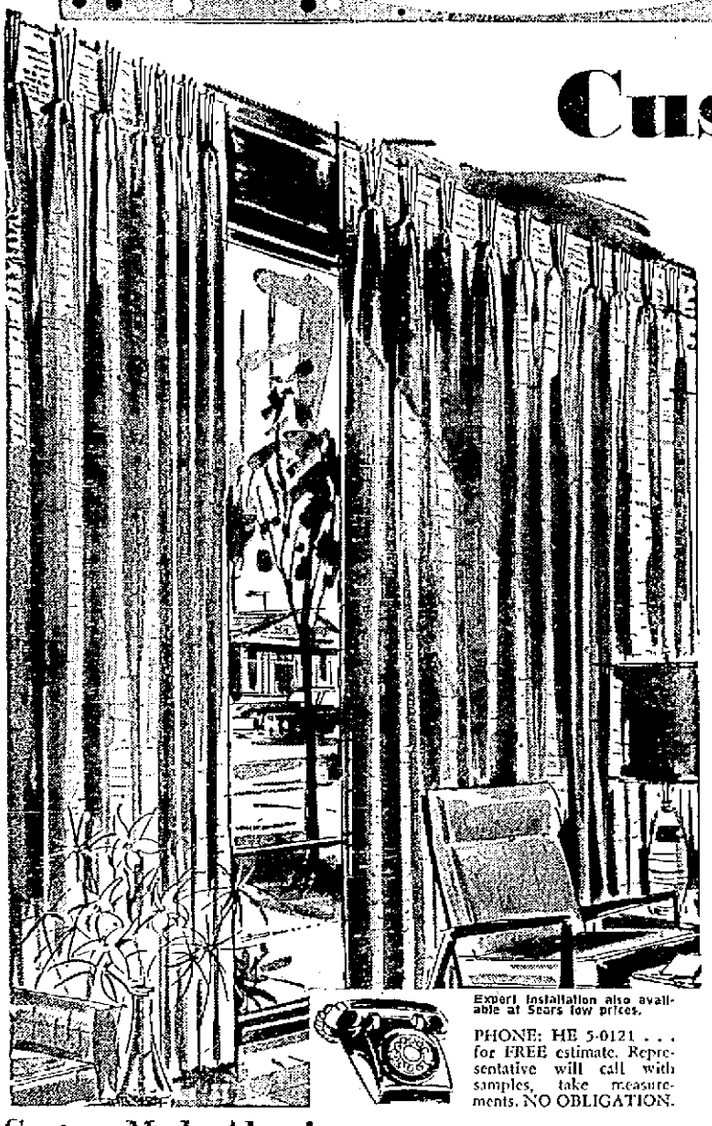

ENGINEERS ALSO have found that impact tests on the two kinds of barriers indicate crashes into the cable-type should result in fewer and less severe injuries than into the unyielding beam.

Initial cost of the cable barrier also is substantially lower than the beam type although it was found to require more in maintenance costs. The maintenance, however, was more than offset by the initial saving.

Pinnell has this photo of his father's blacksmith shop in California's 1890s. His father, Wiley, acquired McWhorter's gun in a trade on a Texas drive to Dodge City.

Magic Gun

quired a keen interest in Western history as well as a special love for that gun.

Jack was raised on a ranch in Madera County where he learned about horses and guns from the time he could walk. In World War I, he shod horses and boxed for extra cash. He boxed from the age of 19 and lost only seven fights out of 200 in 19 years. Spider Kelly said of Jack, "He had the hardest right cross I ever saw in the ring."

With a background like this, it was natural for Jack to go into the police force when he returned to Bakersfield, then his family's home. Of course, he carried his old Peacemaker which protected him in many gun battles on the force. He recounts how, on the sixth day of his police service, he engaged in a 300-yard distance running battle with an Italian murderer whom he hit five times out of six shots.

On the night of Sept. 23, 1917 (Jack remembers dates well), when he and his partner were fired-on, one bullet struck his partner's arm, another went through Jack's left coat pocket. However, true to its reputation, the old Wild West six-shooter found its mark in the doperunner. "That guy also smuggled Chinese into U.S. and drowned them when chased by a Coast Guard boat," adds Jack. But that's another story.

Brown Lawn Spots

Lawns develop brown spots for a variety of reasons—from compaction or fertilizer burn, from fungus or sod webworm.

If you have this trouble with your lawn, first try by your own appraisal to determine if soil is compacted, and if you decide it is, use a spiker or corer to remedy the trouble.

If compaction doesn't seem likely, ask your nurseryman for a spray to kill sod webworms. Chances are good that one or another of these remedies will work.

Fuchsia Reward

Constant moisture and frequent feeding is rewarded with prolific bloom on fuchsias. Use a spray when watering and give the leaves a shower as well as the roots.

Members of the California Association of Nurserymen suggest mulching around fuchsias with steer manure or peat moss as a moisture conserving measure. Use a two or three-inch mulch.

As for feeding, liquid fish or a soluble commercial fertilizer enables you to do the job without having to scratch around the near-surface roots.

She's a Big Girl Now

When the earth shifts from its axis the results are cataclysmic. This is the situation in "The Day the Earth Caught Fire," and brings former Walt Disney child actress, Janet Munro (above), before the camera as a full-fledged dramatic actress. She plays the feminine lead opposite Leo McKern and Edward Judd in the Val Guest film, English produced and Universal released.

Book Reviews

Long Island home life for a fling at Portofino, Italy.

Green, intent on going continental because a blonde model called him a square, is both a clever and able writer. And, unlike many authors who try to be amusing, Green knows how to be funny.

Despite the title, there's just one thing missing: No P-T.A. in Portofino.

TWO EXCELLENT books on photography do much to make the subject of interest to a wide range of readers. "TOTAL PICTURE CONTROL" by Andreas Feininger (Crown, $7.50) tells by word and picture many important ways to make better pictures. Some of the topics: which camera is best for photographing a specific subject; what type of lens to use; how to control contrast and color, which filters to use and what various kinds will do; how to achieve best depth results; how to create impressions of motion, action, danger and speed; how to provide a picture with scale and how to improve composition. "THE AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER'S HANDBOOK" by Aaron Sussman is the sixth revised edition published by Thomas Y. Crowell Co. ($5.95). It contains late information about new cameras and equipment and recent data about developing, color slides and films, projectors, black and white films, low-light exposure meters, latest advances in modern photography, such as the light value scale, films of foreign countries, new film speed and developer combinations.

IT'S NEW

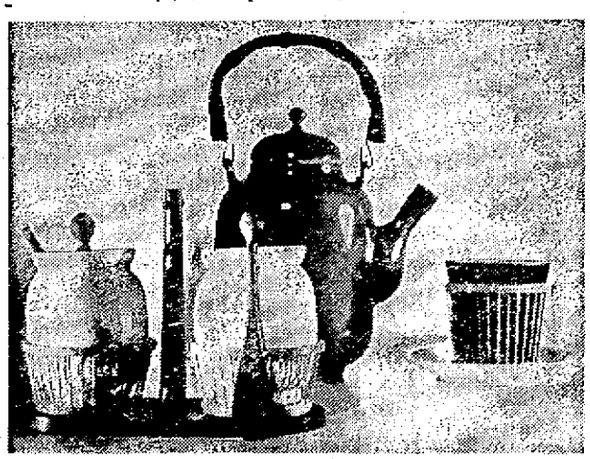

Fusion in New Pottery

DESIGNS of Japan and America combine in new pottery imports this season. The condiment set utilizes cherrywood, bamboo and porcelain for its oriental-western effect. The tea pot makes use of a bamboo handle while the cup and saucer combines color in the cup, a white porcelain dish and a bamboo holder.

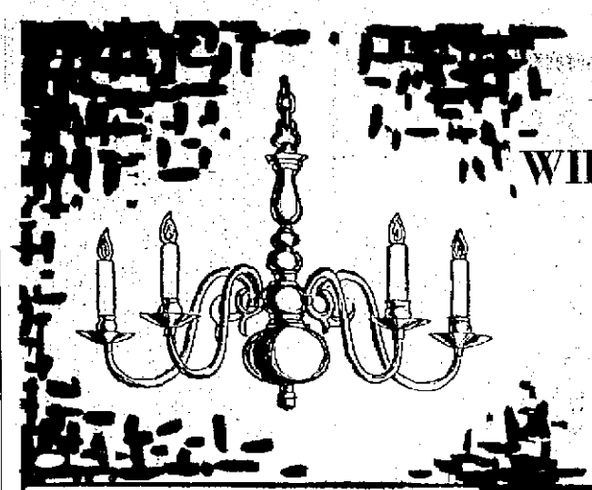

Condiment set, $5. Tea pot (for 8 cups) $6. In colors, $6.50, pumpkin, charcoal, black, mink, orange, green, teal blue. Cup and saucer (charcoal cup) $26.40 a dozen.

Freeman--Lederman, a California partnership, was the first giftware manufacturer to conceive of these contemporary designs to be made in Japan.

The giftware is sold in department stores throughout the United States and Canada.

Japanese and American design is combined in condiment and tea sets which are new among imports this season.

Lucky Adam: Eve Didn't Drive

By J. D. Ritchie

YOU don't hear as much talk about women drivers as you used to. In fact, there hasn't been a new women driver joke in nearly two years. The American male has apparently come to accept lady drivers with the same resignation he has come to accept women politicians, sonic booms, and fallout. They are one of the hazards to be endured in this highly complex civilization. It's all part of the big drive to grant equal rights and stamp out the double standard. This has been going on since Eve put the bite on Adam with an apple.

Recorded somewhere can probably be found the name of the first man to undertake to teach a woman to drive a car. It was most likely his wife. No doubt this pioneer really felt he was doing the world a favor. He's in the same category in my book as the football player who intercepts a pass and runs the wrong way for a touchdown. He thinks he's doing great, but his teammates aren't nearly as appreciative as he anticipated.

Most women (I said "most," mind you, not "all") are inept at operating motor vehicles. I can offer this generalization from years of hazardously close observation. I maintain that woman's psychological make-up is 94 and 4 one-hundredths per cent of the trouble. Technically and scientifically, women have progressed a relatively short distance since time began. A great percentage of them wouldn't even know which end of a wheelbarrow to push.

THERE ARE exceptions, of course. An 87-year-old lady in Sacramento was taught to drive by her husband early last spring. Later on, she went back east and came in sixth in the Memorial Day race. This, however, is a very isolated case.

Wives who have not learned to drive before their marriage seem most immune to acquiring this skill. Being a married man, I do not have an explanation for this.

About a year after we were married, my young bride dropped a subtle hint that she'd like to learn to drive. At first, I was all for the idea. She could do the Saturday shopping; leaving me free for a round of golf. She acquired a learner's permit and we set out on our maiden voyage, my beloved at the helm.

All went pretty smoothly. We drove across only two sidewalks (neither of which contained pedestrians), and made only one left turn from a right-hand lane. When we got back home, my wife turned into the driveway, holding well off the curbing. I was about to congratulate her when she parked the car in our one-car garage—crosswise. I still don't have the slightest idea how she got the car into the garage in that position. I also didn't have the slightest idea how I would get it out. She smiled sweetly and said, "Thank you, it looks like driving will be a lot of fun."

MY NEIGHBOR came over and helped me knock out the garage wall. After that, I went to bed with a sick headache. It was a week before I felt strong enough to face another training session.

My father was a brave, patient man. Although he taught my mother to drive with some degree of expertness, he never was able to break her of the habit of relying on her female intuition when dashing out of side streets. She would pull up to the stop sign, stop, and without looking either direction, roar out into whatever traffic was unfortunate enough to be passing. She never had an accident that I know of, but she sometimes would frighten a Greyhound bus on to the courthouse lawn in our home town.

I followed a woman driver for six blocks the other day. Her arm was out the window, bent about 45 degrees at the elbow, wrist turned downward, and forefinger pointing straight up. About the only thing I could interpret from this signal was that the window was open. At the end of six blocks, she pulled over to the curb and touched up her lipstick. A woman's hands can be beautifully expressive, unless she happens to be driving the car ahead of you.

Most women can't keep the hand signals straight. Is it up for right and down for left? Or, down for stop and out for right? They seldom think it's too important, anyway. After all, any fool can tell which way they are turning just by watching.

WOMEN seldom know much about the components of the horseless carriage, either. Most of them think you cool an engine by stripping the gears. I overheard my mother tell my wife that you determine the horsepower of an engine by counting the plugs.

Last month my car started acting more contrary than usual. It jumped, stuttered, and made an earful of odd noises. Being something of a Saturday afternoon mechanic, I decided to take the case and save myself a costly repair bill.

After I had been draped across the fender for about an hour, checking first one thing and another, my wife came out.

"Found the trouble yet?"

"No," I wiped grease from my hand onto my face.

"It's probably the spark plug wires," she said matter-of-factly, not coming within 10 feet of the engine.

"That is undoubtedly the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard," I snorted. "Nothing ever goes wrong with spark plug wires."

She gave me the old if-you-know-so-much-why-aren't-you-rich look and went back into the house.

I worked on the car for another two hours; at the end of which time it refused to run at all. I gave up and called a mechanic.

After he had repaired the car and had it running smoothly once more, I asked him what had been ailing the critter.

"The distributor, eh?"

"Naw," he said, cleaning his hands on my steering wheel. "The insulation on your spark plug wires was shot."

He collected $28.35 and left.

A FEW YEARS ago, a statistician employed by one of the large automobile insurance companies stated that, per capita, women drivers had far fewer accidents than men. Immediately upon publishing these findings, he was shouted down by a multitude of fellow statisticians. They claimed he did not take a typical cross-section of the driving American public.

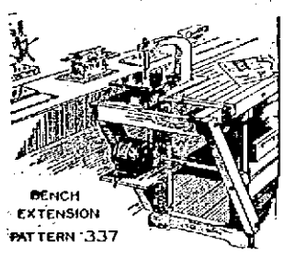

If I recall correctly, the uproar created by all this prompted Congress to appoint a committee to investigate the matter. Naturally, nothing of interest came of this.

As I said, that was some time ago. Nowadays, you don't hear as much about. . . .

Gets in the Act

Inspired by the American example, Germany has begun to establish a system of nature preserves. Twelve national parks have been opened since 1956 and 22 more are projected. Largest of these recreation areas, reports the German Tourist Office, is the 400,000-acre Pfaelzer Wald in the Rhineland Palatinate. The fourteen parks in existence cover 2,664 square miles, or 2.7 per cent of West Germany's area.

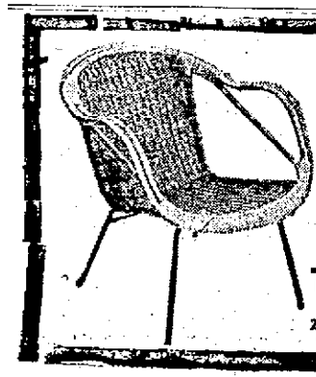

You Make It

One motor for all of your power tools may be mounted with this bench extension so that the weight of the motor regulates the pulley tension for each tool. Beauty is brought into colorful focus on silk in self-taught art by Mrs. Gerald (Shirley Lynn) Lindekugel.

Formula for Variety

By Walter Finch

SHIRLEY LYNN has found the magic formula for zest, enthusiasm—and a varied career.

Depending on the hour of the day, she is likely to be found in any of three different roles.

First, she is Mrs. Gerald R. Lindekugel, the attractive wife of a design engineer, and at home at 2221 Iroquois Ave.

Second, she is executive secretary to J. G. Scharer, vice president of marketing at Star-Kist Foods, Inc.

And last but not least, she is a busy artist.

Shirley, known both at work and among many of her friends and fellow artists as Shirley Lynn, (many persons find difficulty in pronouncing Lindekugel), personalizes her art under "Originals by Lynn." She is fast gaining recognition for both her beautiful paintings on silk and her artifical floral arrangements.

ALTHOUGH she studied oil paintings, specializing in portraiture, for several years, she taught herself how to paint on silk. Seemingly, the application of the silk to a proper backing, the type of paint to use, the kind of brushes and other processes are regarded as top secret.

Try as she did, no one would give her any information on "how to" when she first tried her hand at this rather difficult type of painting. She did research, read books and tried different techniques and approaches until she hit on a workable formula. She paints with Japanese brushes and uses special concentrated media.

The silk paintings are done for individual order only and are painted in the size, color scheme and subject matter wanted on a custom basis. She uses nature as her inspiration and then her creative ability and brush take over. She does not paint abstracts. Her silk paintings, which seem to incorporate a blending of the Occidental and Oriental, are painted to enhance any type of decor, contemporary, provincial, modern or Oriental. She also paints for several interior decorators, both here and in Beverly Hills. Some of her paintings have been bought by art galleries.

SEVERAL local photographers use her artificial floral arrangments when taking formal wedding portraits in their studios. Her driftwood and manzanita creations seem to be unlimited. In her home she has lamps made from driftwood—and bowls and containers made from discarded phonograph records.

Shirley is working on sketches and designs to be used by a Christmas card manufacturer in 1963.

In her spare time she studies Japanese—she wants to know what she is inscribing when she incorporates Japanese written characters in her paintings.

Someone forgot to tell Shirley Lynn there are only 24 hours in a day.

We're not Magicians!

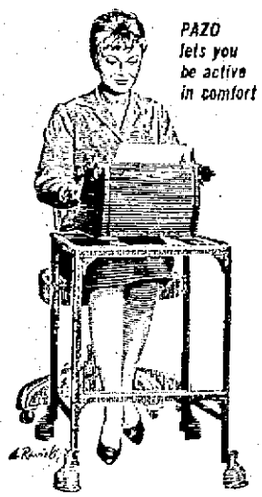

You may think we are . . .

when you see how fresh and vibrant your wall-to-wall carpeting and upholstery look after they have been cleaned by us . . . but our only magic is our professional and technical know-how.

CAMERA ANGLES

'Fun, Friends and Photos'

Poster advertising class he conducts is looked over by Carroll McGhee, City Recreation Dept. instructor.

Silverado class turns lens on many subjects, from models in studio type sessions to trips far afield.

By Marie Swenson

"ONE RULE" McGHEE is no polaroid playboy.

He will shoot from the hip, or any other angle, to get a candid picture with human interest.

His free adult camera class, which meets Monday evenings all year around at Silverado Park Recreation Hall, 31st Street and Santa Fe Avenue, has caught the spirit of Carroll McGhee's technique, along with his exhortation: "In this class, the one and only rule I have is that you get along with each other."

"Fun, Friends, and Photos" is the class motto, combining pleasure with the business of learning photography, based on McGhee's philosophy that, in this age, not only recreation but physical and mental activity are needed.

It was no easy jump from a deathbed verdict to a developing tank, because McGhee, a former square dance caller, photographer and magazine editor, knew the emptiness of inactivity, following two near-fatal operations.

A DESIRE to help others find release from frustration and physical handicaps, bore fruit when Long Beach Recreation Department officials, Duane George and Bob Van Antwerp, approached him to initiate a free photography class with a new twist.

His grass roots sociability and cracker barrel approach attracted visitors by word of mouth and, since its inception in May 1961, the class has grown from three to 125 members.

People from all walks of life meet informally to share ideas and techniques, talk shop, and participate eagerly when they shoot models, from movie chimps to show cuties, who drop in for a pose and a pot of coffee.

UNFETTERED by hard and fast rules of a confined, traditional classroom, nor marks of excellence or failure, professionals and beginners have one goal—to learn how to use their cameras effectively, from the old-fashioned box Brownie to the modern miniature.

Cameracade field trips include coverage of civic events, sports spectaculars, skin-diving feats, theater openings, hobby and flower shows, square and smooth dance exhibitions, art and camera centers.

Once a month, an "International Night" dinner, cooked by women class members, honors different nationalities composing its membership.

Spring Is for the Birds

Most gaily dressed of the falcons are sparrow hawks. They make interesting pets.

By Eleanor A. Price

ONE OF the many good things about spring is the abundance of young wild birds twittering in the garden. Occasionally you may find one that is injured or abandoned, and you will want to protect it. You are asking for a lot of work, for young birds are always hungry, but do what you can for it.

Put the bird in a box or wire cage with bedding of soft cloth or leaves. Keep it in a safe place out of drafts. You may need to seek advice from a bird fancier or veterinarian.

Some birds are grain and fruit eaters, others need meat such as tiny slivers of raw beef, chopped mealworms, and insects. All seem to enjoy small pieces of hard boiled egg yolk, baby chick mash moistened with water or milk, bread and milk. Tiny pieces of fruit may be tried. If the bird won't eat, hold food above its head and it may automatically drop its beak open. If not, gently force it open and push in small amounts of food with your fingers or tweezers.

MOST BIRDS should be released as soon as they can fly, but a few will adapt to captivity. The crow, for one, likes people, is fearless and intelligent. Of it Henry Ward Beecher remarked that if men wore feathers and wings only a few would be clever enough to be crows. This bird eats insects, worms, raw meat, fruit, vegetables, sprouting grain, mice, carrion, and will raid birds' nests for eggs and young.

Clip the crow's wings if you keep it as a pet. Give it daily baths in warm weather, sand baths in cold. Teach it to come for its meals, perhaps to say a few words. If you tire of it, let its wings grow back before you release it. It probably will visit you frequently, even bring along a flock of crows because crows stand together and help each other.

The sparrow hawk, with its high-pitched "killy-killy" makes a nice pet. It is the prettiest of all falcons and the male when mature wears slate-blue wings, red-brown coat and tail tipped with black and white, yellow legs and buff underparts spotted with black. The female is a bit less dressy.

YOU CAN cage the sparrow hawk in roomy quarters or clip its wings. As with the crow, don't release it until wings grow back. Feed it raw meat, egg yolk, grasshoppers, insects, spiders, worms. In captivity it may need to be hand fed, and it is a pretty good idea to wear gloves when handling it.

One seldom sees a barn owl, since it is nocturnal, but there are some in this area. (I found one in my yard.) It is a small owl but nevertheless should be handled with gloves. Feed it tiny pieces of mealworms (available at pet shops) by dropping them down its throat. A little milk may be given from a medicine dropper. An older owl needs slivers of raw meat.

Bodie

tobacco plug cutters, soda bottles with glass stoppers, folding keys to fit in thick doors, lanterns, scales, silver-studded hearses and beautiful saddles.

SCATTERED around some of the vacant lots, vehicles of ancient vintage stand in various states of delapidation. They include carts, freight wagons, buggies and many others. Some of them were equipped with sleigh runners instead of wheels.

Bodie's days of glory have long since passed into limbo. But California currently is considering making this wind-whipped, sun-baked relic of another day into a state park. If this should occur "the town with no future" will be preserved for posterity. Otherwise the elements will continue their relentless destruction.

Now—a 2-way treatment helps clear up piles faster

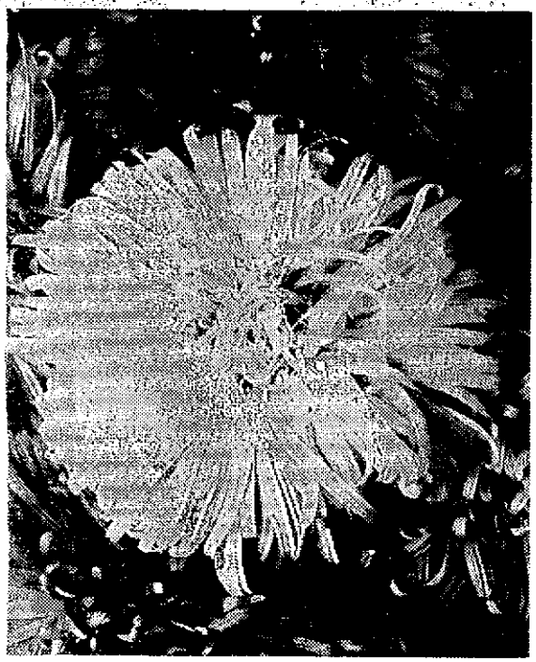

Unlike some leading preparations, Paracin contains a local anesthetic that works in minutes to ease pain and stop itch. Reduces swelling and relieves pressure so piles can heal naturally.

PARACIN® complete home hemorrhoid treatment is the new way to ease the pain and itching of tender, swollen piles. This new special medication contains three ingredients prescribed by many doctors . . . to help nature clear up piles faster. PARACIN has been proved effective in clinical tests. It acts fast to relieve most painful hemorrhoid conditions.

PARACIN starts working fast to ease pain and stop itch. Soothes and cushions the irritation of piles. Makes movement less painful, more natural. Reduces swelling and helps protect against infection.

Now PARACIN gives you this special home treatment with both ointment and suppositories for internal and external application at the same time. By using the ointment externally before using the suppositories, you get the most complete relief. Sold with money-back guarantee.

The Forecast Is for Flowers

For cutting or for garden show, asters rank very high. Nurserymen advise planting them in good drainage areas.

By Joe Littlefield

WHEN showy Pacific hybrid delphiniums nudged other types of delphiniums from the garden spotlight, two true perennial delphiniums, sometimes called perennial larkspur, have become almost forgotten by some gardeners, but not the wholesale growers or the florists.

Wholesale growers haven't forgotten them because these perennials, "bellamossum" a light blue and "belladonna" a dark blue shade, produce four or more crops of flowers, during the summer season.

The flower spikes are not large and showy like the Pacific bybrids, but they yield more flowers.

Plants may not be found at most nurseries unless one specializes in perennials. Seeds may be sown now. They will sprout and grow, but may not bloom. In late fall they'll die down to the ground for the winter. Next year clumps will have formed and there will be crops of blossoms.

Four or five years later, they should be dug up, separated and replanted. I can remember back in the mid-20's we'd sell them bare root for a time at the nursery, the same as perennial phlox, gerbera, shasta daisy, day lilies, and such are still sold during the winter season into spring. Later, these bare-root perennial delphiniums would be potted up or canned, and sold for more money.

HERE ARE some ideas for flower lovers:

Plant dahlia roots now and, come July, there will be blooms for garden color and for cutting.

White marguerites with red geraniums in front of them form an interesting color combination, as well as lots of color for the lazy gardener, or one who's time is limited.

Tulbagha violacea, "phew" plant or society garlic, begins flowering in late May or early June, then continues blooming through October. Its foliage when damp has an onion-garlic odor. Foliage is good when chopped up fine, mixed in salad, that is if you're not going to a party or a movie!

DUST or spray soil with chlordane or DDT before planting or sowing zinnias. Later, as the plants grow, spray them several times before they bloom. This is an insurance act against borers that are becoming troublesome in zinnias.

Asters should be set out in flower bed area where drainage is good.

African marigolds combine well with zinnias.

An edging of colorful petunias finish off the annual sunny flower bed planting.

French marigolds, annual phlox and ageratum are all good edging plants.

By Dorothy Jonson

The insect problem has been made simpler for gardeners in recent years by the availability of two-purpose sprays.

One enemy that can now be eliminated with a two-purpose spray is the so-called Wooly Aphis, which is especially had on Pyracantha and similar shrubs. And when you see that cottony substance accumulating in the crotches of plants, you can be sure that the same infestation also clusters around the roots of the plant underground. These subterranean pests are called root aphis.

Malathion will very effectively destroy the woolly aphis on the body of the plant but you will soon notice a new infestation unless the root aphis are destroyed also. Dieldrin is the material that is deadly to those soil insects.

Fortunately you can buy a spray combining malathion and dieldrin in one bottle and thus with one spray you can eradicate both the woolly aphis and the root aphis. In fact, this is an excellent product to use on all ornamentals to kill both sucking and chewing insects.

Shrubs That Laugh at Drought

In a land of long summer drought, plants and shrubs that seldom get thirsty can come in mighty handy. Lazy gardeners and those with estate-size gardens should pay close attention to planting some of our rough and ready reliables.

If you are one of those who thinks that beauty and drought resistance are incompatible, then the California Association of Nurserymen has news for you. There are many proven tough guys with all the good garden looks of plant world prima donnas.

Our native wild lilacs, for example, maintain their glossy green looks in spite of summer drought. They actually resent too much water and revel in stingy, unimproved soils. You can use wild lilacs widely: the prostrate Point Reyes Ceanothus and Carmel Creepers are excellent ground covers on a neglected hillside; the lovely look-alikes, Mountain Haze and Sierra Blue make compact evergreen, ever-beautiful shrubs. Ceanothus' blue flowers are as lovely as the California spring.

Drought resistant shrubs are often unusual shrubs, too. The red Bottle Brush is structurally intriguing for the summer-dry garden, rigid, unbending and completely individual. The blooms look like nothing if not like a red bottle brush.

The little-known, but highly attractive Hopseed Bush is another of unusual qualities, having all the airy grace of a young willow, the foliage color of a purple plum and the drought resistance of a native. Hopseed Bush is just coming into its own as a decorative horticultural specimen and definitely deserves a place in your garden. Use it as a 10- to 12-foot background shrub and for spot color.

The tortuous Australian tea tree also accents the unusual and makes a strikingly contorted screen plant for rear borders.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week. . . . Primroses can be divided and should be if it's been two or three years since they were planted.

Weigelia, Spiraea and other spring blooming deciduous shrubs that have already flowered, may be pruned now to shape them or to cut them down in size if they are overgrown.

May is a good month to improve lawns. Use a weed killer of the type that won't injure grass, then feed. Compacted lawns can be helped most by spiking. Consult your nurseryman.

When watering most plants and shrubs avoid frequent sprinklings in favor of long, deep soaking. The same goes for your lawn.

Feed roses again this month. Cut faded blooms before they go to seed.

The Deceitful Eucalyptus

Stately and graceful, eucalyptus trees have added a treasure of beauty to the Southland. These grow at Recreation Park.

By Clarence Bernard Propes

PEOPLE come to California and the Southland for a variety of reasons. Some want the mad thrill of driving the freeways while others want to breathe and benefit from the therapeutic values of smog. Fifty years ago many came intending to get rich with the wonderful, money-making eucalyptus tree.

At the turn of the century the nation became disturbed by the growing hardwood shortage. At that point authoritative voices rang loud and clear extolling the virtues of the fragrant eucalyptus that has since become so common in California. This native of Australia and Tasmania was declared to be the perfect answer to the hardwood shortage. It was fast growing, yielding fine woods and it produced more wonder drugs than the pharmacopeia of a Chinese herb doctor. Furthermore, it was well adapted to the arid lands of California.

One reputable magazine ran an ad stating in part:

"A judicious investment in eucalyptus timber will make you more money than can be made on the best farm and NO WORK. After ten years you can live on the income for the rest of your life."

This seemed to be a clarion call to investors of all kinds, and even the cagiest saw the wisdom of the investments in this fast growing tree. Then there were the investors such as the Santa Fe Railroad that planted 8,000 acres on a company ranch a few miles east of Del Mar. Santa Fe expected to use the timber for railroad ties. Then railroad men could lay track north toward Santa Barbara and the 40-square-mile forest now known as the Nipoma Mesa Forest. No one could argue with the wisdom of such huge investments.

Sharp promoters got in the act by buying desert land for $15 an acre, planting it with $5 worth of eucalyptus seedlings and unloading for $250 an acre.

These promoters were the only ones who made big money with no work from the eucalyptus trees. The Santa Fe, for instance, found the eucalyptus wood was worthless for ties because it checked and cracked. Lumbermen had much the same experience with lumber and further checking proved that the fine hardwoods came from trees centuries old.

THE FIRST eucalyptus seedlings were imported into this country in 1856 by William Walker who planted 14 trees in his greenhouse in San Francisco. The trees throve and within a short time seedlings and seeds were selling for as much as $10 each. In 1870, the high prices were a thing of the past and one Hayward rancher planted 170,000 seedlings intending the wood to be used for fuel.

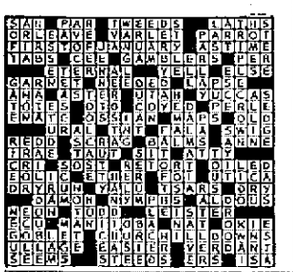

The genus of the tree is firmly established as Myrtiacea but the species are subject to scholarly dispute. Some experts say there are as many as 700 species while others claim there are only 400. The species varies from low-lying shrubs to 480-foot giants, probably the tallest trees in the world.

In the Southland there is another sharp division of opinion when attempt is made to name the oldest eucalyptus in California. One faction claims that the granddaddies of all the California eucalyptus are on the Banning estate in Wilmington. Some of these early blue gums were planted in 1866. The Los Angeles State and County Arboretum points with pride to the Wolfskill tree which, and according to Arboretum records, was planted in 1865.

INVESTORS and speculators lost money with the trees, but California has become richer. In and about Bakersfield there were malaria swamps until the trees were planted and drank up the water. In Orange County, growers suffered losses when winds shook young fruit from the citrus trees. Eucalyptus windbreaks saved the crops. The Palos Verdes hills grow green with the Australian trees.

Majestic and beautiful, the trees have held back the desert, reclaimed land, and perhaps most important of all, they have added a new treasure of green, sweet scented beauty to the Golden State.

Grubbed from the ground and finished into a planter this manzanita root is displayed by Mrs. Louis Lorge.

The Root of a Hobby

By Vera Williams

PURSUIT of hobbies turns up many facets of nature, and the digging and finishing of manzanita roots into interesting decorative articles is a foremost example.

Manzanita is a shrub that grows wild in California, having a hard, beautifully colored and grained wood, and Louis and Ruth Lorge, 410 Bolsa Ave., Seal Beach, have developed a number of attractive items from the roots of manzanita. These they have grubbed out of the ground at their avocado ranch at Rolling Hills, between Escondido and Fallbrook.

The ground is as hard as cement, the Lorges say, and the roots must be dug out with pick and shovel and hard labor.

"FIRST, we turn the hose on the root, washing off the red bark," Lorge says. "Then we clean and sandblast. We take out the dead wood, but usually we leave the imbedded stones because they add to the picturesque appearance.

"Sandblasting brings out the warm beige of the root. The texture is interesting, smooth surfaces and warty surfaces."

Manzanita grows in a twisted, tortured manner, as though guided by a mind gone mad, and thus assumes weird and imaginative shapes. Some persons see figures in the roots — dancers, animals, etc. The Lorges are content to enjoy the natural appearance of the root without bothering with figures.

Interior decorators use manzanita roots for conversation pieces. They place them on tables, mantels, walls. Sometimes candles are imbedded in them, or ash trays or vases for flowers.

MANZANITA is said to be the second hardest wood in the West, ranking next to ironwood.

There is an old saying that a straight stick of manzanita long enough for a billard cue would be worth a million dollars.

There isn't any such thing. Manzanita always is crooked.

JIM HAMMOND
Happy Birthday!

DOES SOMEONE in your family have a birthday coming up soon? Would you like to surprise that someone with a different kind of party?

Then by all means include Clifton's Cafeteria, 5006 Pepperwood Ave., Lakewood Center, in your plans. This extremely large, good-looking restaurant supplies free birthday cakes and specially decorated tables for birthday groups of all sizes, from two to 25 or 30 persons or even larger. To take advantage of this excellent arrangement, all you have to do is notify Clifton's two days in advance, by telephone if you wish, supplying such information as the size of the group and the date of the party.

With seating for 400 persons, Clifton's is one of the biggest and most popular cafeterias in this area. Last Sunday, Mother's Day, more than 3,300 guests were served in good order, with the lines moving smoothly and efficiently past the long, immaculate serving counters. Manager Jim Hammond, now in his 30th year with the Clifton's organization, and his skillful staff do an excellent job of taking care of the needs of all guests in numerous thoughtful ways.

Sundays are always a popular event at Clifton's, largely because of the fabulous seven-course dinner served from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. for $1.77. It consists of a choice of any one of three dozen fresh salads, whipped potatoes, vegetable du jour, entree, bread or roll and butter, dessert and beverage. The entree selection can be roast turkey, ham, chicken or one of six other entrees. The dessert selection consists of 15 kinds of pie, puddings and cakes, a beautiful array as colorful as the treasures in Ali Baba's storehouse.

Clifton's is a marvelous place for the youngsters, who enjoy "treasure tray" dinners for 59 cents Sundays and 39 cents daily. Each moppet receives a free gift.

GRANDPA 'DOBIE GILLIS'?

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Durable Dwayne Grows Old With Fans

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Dobie Gillis" has been with us only three years, but patient televiewers have seen him lope through high school, a hitch in the Army and his freshman year in college.

It is not unlikely we will see him progress through marriage, parenthood and eventually grandparenthood and hardening of the arteries.

Dobie, in the person of actor Dwayne Hickman, is all for it.

"The secret of success in show business is to endure," said durable Dwayne on one of his rare days off.

"It's easy these days for young actors to make a lot of noise for a short time and then disappear forever. That isn't going to happen to me. The trick is to work regularly, not make enemies and improve as an actor."

Spoken like a true Dobie Gillis!

AS AN EXAMPLE of the fast rise and equally rapid decline, Dwayne cited Tuesday Weld. She got her start on his show, went on to star in video guest shots and movies, and returned for a one-shot on his series.

"You can't climb too quickly," he said.

"I started as the lowest of the low. For five years I was the half-baked nephew on 'The Bob Cummings Show' for a start. Add that to my three years with 'Dobie' and it turns out to be real steady work.

"Some people I knew at the beginning are not around now. They weren't able to sustain themselves."

Hickman is a clean-cut individual with level eyes, thick brown hair and the look of a clergyman's son. He's 27 years old and portraying a 22-year-old on the screen.

"THE ORIGINAL concept of the series has disappeared," he said. "I was supposed to be 17 years old and looking for a girl friend. They put me in the Army when I outgrew the high-school bit. Actually, I was too old for the role when the show went on the air.

"The producers had tried to get me three or four years earlier, but I was tied up with Cummings.

"Now it won't be long before I outgrow the college kids. But that doesn't mean the show won't go on. Eventually Dobie'll get married and go to work. I guess his buddy Maynard (Bob Denver) will have to go right along with him.

"Sometimes I toy with the possibility that Dobie Gillis will remain on the air for years and years as the fans grow old with me."

HICKMAN'S SERIES is not that popular. But the actor reckons he has between 15 and 25 million viewers a week."

He was asked how he felt about branching into movies.

"I'm not so sure," he answered. "Warren Beatty, you know him, the guy who's doing so well in a lot of big pictures now, started on my show in bit parts. He's zoomed right to the top. But I don't know if he will stay there. He's a bigger name in Hollywood than in the rest of the country.

"There's a tremendous lag between being on the cover of prestige magazines and being seen on the screen by big segments of the public. It can give some young actors a false sense of stardom.

"They are 'stars' in one sense. But if the public doesn't know it there isn't much future in it. No. I'll stay with my TV show."

TUESDAY WELD appears with Dwayne (Dobie Gillis) Hickman. She got her start on his show.

I would very much like to tell your film industry how much trouble their horror films for television is causing us.

Gunplay, holdups and bashing—we are just about full up of them.

Why not give us some educational films such as city life, your industries, your outback life without violence?

We are sick and tired of the fun play films.

I might tell you that these horror films we are getting are getting the Americans a bad name.

Let's have something that will brighten our lives and leave the fun out of it. We don't like your so-called funny men that talk their heads off and bring a laughing record with them.

They can fool the people some of the time but they cant' fool them all the time.

We like your people and your country but please do something about changing your choice of films for television.

Bill Watson, Melbourne, Australia.

American television programs exported overseas have been the highest rated—those viewed by the most—wherever they have been shown.

I'm not quite sure how the television industry could go about brightening lives by leaving the fun out of it.

HEARING AID ADVICE

IF YOU DO NOT WEAR AN AID
but are thinking about it — don't shop for a hearing aid. Shop for a consultant you can rely upon to thoroughly analyze your problem, and give you honest and competent advice without high pressure sales tactics.

IF YOU ARE WEARING AN AID
have your hearing rechecked at least once a year. Have your instrument cleaned and checked regularly. Investigate the new model instruments for better hearing, wearing comfort and appearance.

FOR THE OAS PENSIONER
Don't settle for just any hearing aid. You may qualify for a fine Sonotone at no cost to you. Write, phone or come in and see us about it.

BUT CARA WILLIAMS MAY WIN AWARD

'Pete and Gladys' Dead as Hula Hoops

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cara Williams, the bouncy red-haired star of the "Pete and Gladys" television show, may win an Emmy award Tuesday but it will come too late to save the series.

Win, lose or draw, "Pete and Gladys" is as dead as hula hoops.

"I think our cancellation made history," the Williams girl said during a lunchtime lull. "I can't figure it out. We had very high ratings, much higher for instance than 'The Dick Van Dyke Show,' but we were thrown out and Van Dyke was renewed.

"As far as I know a network has never canceled a successful series before."

* * * *

CARA WILLIAMS

"I, 2, 3, Go!" nominated the best children's program, was so good it won't be back next year.

Somewhere along the line somebody goofed, either the Academy, the rating systems or the networks.

Cara is beyond caring.

* * * *

"I HAVE mixed emotions about our show going off the air," she said, "like watching your mother-in-law go over a cliff in your new sports car.

"It was sad saying goodbye to all the crew members and the cast. At our farewell party most of us were crying. After two years together you get to be sort of like a family.

"On the other hand, a weekly television show can be brutal. It seems you work from dawn till dark every day."

CBS-TV's low opinion of "Pete and Gladys" did not include Cara who has signed a new contract with the network. In all probability she will star in another situation-comedy series next year.

HERE'S 'EMMY' NOMINATIONS

"Emmy awards will be presented 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 4, to those winners among the following "outstanding performance" nominees:

ACTOR — Milton Berle (Doyle Against the House, Dick Powell Show); James Donald (Victoria Regina, Hallmark Hall of Fame); Peter Falk (The Price of Tomatoes, Dick Powell Show); Lee Marvin (People Need People, Alcoa Premiere); Mickey Rooney (Somebody's Waiting, Dick Powell Show).

ACTRESS — Geraldine Brooks (Call Back Yesterday, Bus Stop); Julie Harris (Victoria Regina, Hallmark Hall of Fame); Suzanne Pleshette (Shining Image, Dr. Kildare); Inger Stevens (The Price of Tomatoes, Dick Powell Show); Ethel Waters (Goodnight Sweet Blues, Route 66).

Everybody loves a WARM BATH and a PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE

NOW YOUR WHOLE FAMILY CAN ENJOY BOTH FOR ONLY A FEW CENTS A DAY!

IMAGINE! a Trained Masseur at your beck and call 24 hours a day! That's what you'll have with a

Jacuzzi WHIRLPOOL BATH

Never before could your family enjoy professional whirlpool massage in the home bathtub. Before the development of the portable Jacuzzi, whirlpool massage was available only at clinics and expensive health clubs. Now your entire family can enjoy whirlpool benefits, in your home, for a few cents a day. It offers long lasting relief from daily aches, pains, nervous tension and fatigue.

Water massage is not a new idea. Ancient civilizations — the Romans, the Greeks, the Japanese — used water and water baths for relaxation and for the treatment of many human ills. The healing and curative powers of warm, agitated water were well known.

Today, throughout Europe and America, better hospitals, clinics, health spas, and private clubs provide whirlpool water massage for those who can afford it.

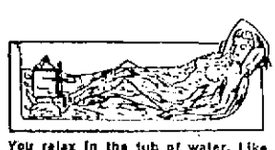

Now you and your entire family can enjoy the same beneficial water massage in your home bathtub — every day, several times a day. You can whirl away sagging tiredness, feel like new again with a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

HOW IT WORKS You simply set the Jacuzzi unit into the bathtub and fill the tub with water. The unit starts automatically.

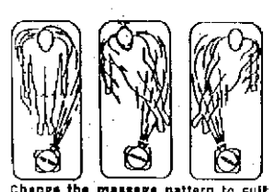

In the morning, use cooler water and full force of the Jacuzzi to wake up the blood stream, the brain and the ambition.

In the evening, use warm water and gentle hydromassage to calm jittery nerves, massage away pain, and prepare you for deep restful sleep.

Use the Jacuzzi 15 to 20 minutes each time. You determine whether you want vigorous massage for stimulation or gentle massage for relaxation.

You relax in the tub of water. Like many tiny fingers, the moving water filled with millions of vibratory air bubbles massages every part of your body.

Change the massage pattern to suit yourself. Adjust the unit for vigorous hydromassage or gentle whirlpool bath. Unit maintains water temperature.

DON'T SUFFER NEEDLESS PAIN

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The 14th annual "Emmy" award presentations are upcoming 10 p.m. Tuesday on channel 4. Here are my picks for winners in the major categories:

"Victoria Regina," aired last Nov. 30 on "Hallmark Hall of Fame," as "Program of the Year."

"Bob Newhart Show" as best humor program.

"Victoria Regina" as best drama program.

Best variety will be a toss-up between "Here's Edie" and "The Judy Garland Show." I'll take "The Judy Garland Show."

"Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic in Japan," best music show.

"Huntley-Brinkley Report," best news program.

"NBC White Paper," best educational and public affairs programming.

"Captain Kangaroo," best children's program.

For outstanding single performance by an actor in a leading role it's a toss-up between James Donald, who appeared in "Victoria Regina," and Peter Falk, who starred in "The Price of Tomatoes" on the "Dick Powell Show" last Jan. 16. I'll take Donald.

Julie Harris, for her title performance in "Victoria Regina," gets the nod for outstanding single performance by an actress in a leading role.

For outstanding continued lead performance of a series actor, Vincent Edwards of "Ben Casey."

Shirley Booth of "Hazel" for outstanding series lead actress.

Outstanding performance in a supporting role by an actor, Horace McMahon of "Naked City."

Outstanding performance in a supporting role by an actress, Jeanne Cooper, who appeared in the October "Ben Casey" drama "But Linda Only Smiled."

The sentimental favorites for best performance in a variety show should be Edie Adams for "Here's Edie" last April and Judy Garland for her special last February. I'll string along with a dark horse, Yves Montand, for his appearance in "Yves Montand on Broadway" last November.

Outstanding drama writing, Reginald Rose of "The Defenders."

The writers of the "Bob Newhart Show," including Newhart, Roland Kibbee, Don Hinkley, Milt Rosen, Bernie Chambers, Dean Hargrove, Robert Kaufman, Phil Sharpe, Charles Sherman and Howard Snyder, should earn the comedy writing award.

Outstanding documentary writing, Jay McMullen for "Biography of a Bookie Joint" aired by "CBS Reports" last November. There's a chance he could be upset by Lou Hazam for last November's "Vincent Van Gogh: A Self Portrait."

Outstanding drama direction, George Schaefer for "Victoria Regina."

Comedy direction, Nat Hiken for "Car 54, Where Are You?"

ALAN HANDLEY IS THE NBC PRODUCER for the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences "Emmy" awards.

The "Emmy" show, according to Handley, will make an effort to avoid the pitfalls that he feels dull the "Oscar" presentations.

Individuals presenting the awards will be limited to just that. They will not make "cute" speeches.

"Our entertainment will be integrated, not dragged in," Handley said.

"The 'Oscar' show has pop singers doing songs that were sung by other people in the movies. We'll show the actual entertainment that was nominated."

By "actual entertainment," Handley means such things as film clips showing Judy Garland singing a song that was on her special, taped impersonations by Edie Adams, a portion of a "Ben Casey" episode and similar TV offerings.

"We'll start the 90-minute show with a montage of the great moments from the TV season," he said.

"You'll see John Glenn's rocket taking off and Jackie Kennedy conducting her tour of the White House."

As the network "Emmy" producer, Handley is in an experienced position to compete with the "Oscar" show. For his experience includes production of three "Oscar" telecasts.

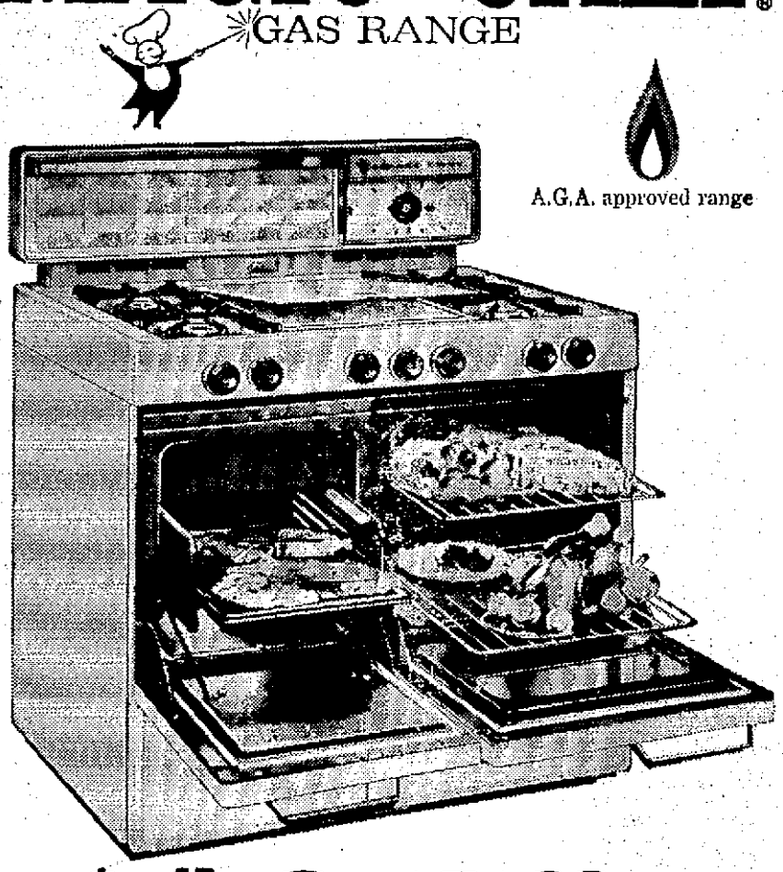

One of the three ran 20 minutes too short.

Mystery Theater

"Mystery Theater" will replace "The Perry Como Show" for the summer, starting June 13.

Q. Dr. Edward Teller, so-called father of the hydrogen bomb—is he in favor of a no-secrecy policy on atomic weapons?—Robert Macy, Seattle, Wash.

A. Teller's statement: "We might be better off if we had no secrecy. All secrecy so far has not helped us very much. The Russians did succeed in catching up with us, in overtaking us in almost all, perhaps in all, important military aspects. At the same time the little secrecy that we have has put a barrier between ourselves and our allies."

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by GENE BAYLOS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Gene Baylos is a comedian's comic, which means that most of his rivals steal his gags. Baylos has been in show business for 26 years and has played every name club in the U. S. at least twice. Several years ago he was booked into Mother Kelley's in Miami Beach for two weeks and proved so popular that he stayed for four years. Of late, he's been appearing at the Hotel Riviera in Las Vegas where he gives out with jokes such as these.

Working Las Vegas is much different from working Miami Beach. I just finished at the Fontainebleu, and I can tell you it's a fabulous hotel. Sure it's overdone, but where else can you find an 8-piece band in the men's room?

Speaking of Miami Beach, they're now catering to the people on the bus tours. You're entertaining at a club. Suddenly a bus pulls up. All the people come in to see you. Ten minutes later the tour conductor blows his whistle, the whole audience gets up and walks out. Do you know how tough it is, running down after the bus and yelling, "Don't go. Don't go. I've got two more jokes"—and then you find the bus driver doing your act?

Two fellows were discussing their dreams, and one said to the other, "Sam, did I ever dream last night—what a dream! I went to Coney Island, went on the chute-the-chute, had frankfurters and popcorn, took in all the side shows—it was the greatest dream in the world."

The other fellow said, "You're kidding. That's a dream? I had a much better one last night. I dreamed I went to a party, and I had Marilyn Monroe on one arm and Jayne Mansfield on the other."

The first fellow said, "Gee, why didn't you call me?"

"I did," replied the other, "but your wife said you had gone to Coney Island."

Have you heard about the fellow who went to the psychiatrist and said, "Doc, I've got a problem."

"What's your problem?" asked the doctor.

"Well, I'm married, I've got a car, my wife has a car, we have three children, we have a home in the country and a home in the city."

"You don't seem so bad off," replied the doctor. "What's your problem?"

The patient cried out, "I only make $45 a week!"

Then there's the story about the three sons at the bedside of their father who is dying. One says, "When Father dies, we're going to give him the biggest funeral there ever was. We're going to hire 20 cars and get $10,000 worth of flowers. It's going to be the biggest funeral in the country."

The second son says, "What do you want with 20 cars—who needs 20 cars? We'll get two cars for the immediate family, and that's it."

The third son says, "We don't need 20 cars, we don't even need two cars. We'll get a hearse and hop on the running board."

At that point, the old man sat up and said, "If it isn't too much trouble, would you mind going to the closet and getting my pants. I'll walk to the cemetery."

Las Vegas is a very money-conscious town. I know a doctor here who has a really exclusive list of patients, but he's very considerate—if you can't afford the operation, he'll touch up your x-rays . . . And everybody gambles, gambles with such a fervor that it frightens you. One fellow walked up to me last week and said, "I'll make a bet with you that you're dead." You know something? I was afraid to bet with him.

Well, I don't need Las Vegas anymore because I'm starting a collection for "Be Kind to Animals Week." And everything I take in during the week will go to the horses the first thing Tuesday afternoon.

17 years ago Claude Eatherly spearheaded the historic atomic attack on Hiroshima. Today he stands at the center of a worldwide controversy.

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Today, with the U.S. forced to resume nuclear testing, the spotlight is on a tall, hollow-eyed, violently controversial ex-Air Force major named Claude Robert Eatherly.

Eatherly was the World War II pilot who gave the go-ahead signal to bomb Hiroshima. Subsequently he spent long periods in mental institutions because of an oppressive sense of guilt. More recently he has been crusading to outlaw nuclear warfare.

In many countries, he is considered a martyr—and a handy club with which to attack U.S. policies. In this country, he is brushed off as a nut, branded a phony or labeled a dupe of the Communists.

He has become a center of international intrigue. Red agents are believed to be trying to lure him behind the Iron Curtain as an anti-bomb symbol. Our government is known to be quietly determined to keep him here. While allowing him to remain free, the government is keeping a discreet watch on him.

Lost in this swirl is the fact that no matter what you think of him Eatherly's is essentially a human story—a tragic story of a callow young man caught up in the vortex of events that were to change history. It is a story measured not in megatons but in terms of one man's life.

PARADE has spent nearly a year tracking down and checking details of this story. Reporters have talked to many of the chief characters—to Eatherly himself, who gives his version here for the first time, to people close to him who flew the fateful mission with him, to doctors and psychiatrists.

Here is the first complete, authentic report on the saga of Claude Eatherly. It is presented not to champion his views, not to arouse sympathy for a troubled man, but because it sheds light on one of the overriding issues of our time.

GALVESTON, TEX.

"HIROSHIMA! How can I ever forget it! Every night for 15 years I have dreamed about it! I see great fires, boiling fires, crimson fires, closing in on me. Buildings fall, children run—living torches with their clothes aflame.

"'Why did you do it?' they scream. 'Why did you do it?'

"I wake up paralyzed with fear, screaming, sweating, because I have no answer. One hundred thousand people died at Hiroshima, and all because of me, all because I gave the order."

As former Air Force major Claude Eatherly tells his story, he buries his face in his hands. He hunches forward on the sagging bed in the out-of-the-way hotel here where he lives quietly.

Seventeen years ago, Eatherly was on top of the world, a crack B-29 pilot, so cool and skilled he was picked to scout the first atomic attack on Hiroshima.

Today, tormented by agonies of guilt, Eatherly lives a nightmare. His nerves are shattered, his skills shot, his personal life in ruins.

Since Hiroshima, he has lost everything—family, career, peace of mind. He has been in jail seven times and in mental hospitals nine times. He has drowned himself in alcohol and dosed himself with drugs. He twice tried to kill himself. He has embarked on a life of crime so bizarre and pointless that the only explanation is a weird desire to be caught and punished.

And recently he has become an ardent pacifist. He

what happens

has publicly called upon the U.S. and other nations to renounce nuclear weapons and warfare.

In many places in Europe and Asia, Eatherly is seen as the foremost psychological casualty of the atomic age. His inability to make peace with his past is considered the reaction of a sane man in a mad world. Lord Bertrand Russell recently charged that Eatherly has been locked up by the U.S. to silence his unpopular views, a refrain echoed in Japan.

At home, opinion about Eatherly splits into diverse camps. Government psychiatrists recently said he is a very sick man—"schizophrenic, paranoid, and dangerous to himself and others." They also declare that he is gullible and a prevaricator. Some long-time acquaintances, like Ken Wey, his wartime bombardier, say he has a hero complex and is seeking acclaim of his own. A doctor familiar with the case feels his troubles trace to conflict between boyhood religious upbringing and his wartime exploits.

Even Claude Eatherly cannot explain Claude Eatherly. He spends a sizable portion of his time trying to do so. Free on a trial visit from a veteran's psychiatric hospital, he lives a solitary existence near the beachfront here, jobless, occupying his time writing letters and visiting his psychiatrist several evenings a week. He reviews endlessly the Hiroshima mission, each detail, worrying over the after-effects.

One out of Hundreds

Who is Claude Eatherly? How did he get this way? Why did he alone, of all the hundreds involved in the first atomic bombing, crumple under the strain? Why Eatherly and not others?

When you look into Eatherly's past, it is hard to find clues to his present. The son of Baptist farmers in Van Alstyne, Tex., he was the star athlete and class hero in high school. Claude went off to study law at North Texas State College, got flying fever in his junior year, and won his wings. At the time of Pearl Harbor, he was a lieutenant and a bomber pilot. Within a month, he was flying patrol missions.

In 1944 he was quickly grabbed for the 509th Composite Bombardment Group, the special unit training for the Hiroshima drop. "You are the men who are going to end the war," the commanding officer, Col. Paul Tibbetts, greeted them.

On August 6, 1945, Special Bombing Mission 13 took off from Tinian on its historic raid. Eatherly flew the lead plane.

A good deal of confusion still exists as to his actual role. Here is how he describes it:

"Six planes were assigned to the mission. Mine, the Straight Flush, was to fly over Hiroshima, which was the primary target, and analyze the weather. If it seemed clear enough for bombing, I was to report to Col. Tibbetts, following in the Enola Gay with Little Boy—the bomb. Two other planes were scouting the alternate targets, Nagasaki and Kokura. If my report had been negative, Tibbetts would have bombed one of the other cities.

"My plane took off about midnight. We were all pretty subdued about what was coming. At 7 a.m., we were over Hiroshima. I could see the city through broken clouds and I knew immediately what my report [illegible]. I remember thinking, Well, look what they [illegible] Pearl Harbor. Then I sent Tibbetts my message: Two Ships Over. Advise Bomb Primary Target.

Hiroshima schoolgirls visit shrine to atomic-bomb dead. Gutted building in background is preserved as a memorial.

Those were the words that doomed Hiroshima.

"Thank God, I never saw the damned bomb drop. After the report, I turned and headed back to Tinian. I passed the Enola Gay, flying lead in a three-plane formation. I was maybe 100 miles away when they reached the target."

When the United States announced to a stunned world that an atomic bomb had virtually wiped out Hiroshima, Eatherly, like many other Americans, greeted the news with mixed feelings. He was elated that the secret weapon had succeeded and that the war would be shortened. But he was also horrified that so many human lives could be consumed in a single flash. "My God! What have we done?" he thought.

Jumbled in with these emotions was jealousy. For Eatherly, incredible as it may seem, had yearned to drop the bomb himself! "I thought I had a better crew," he admits. His cheeks burned when he saw the decorations showered on Tibbetts and his men.

Many others of the 509th were badly shaken by the event. There was much silence and introspection around Tinian for the first few days afterwards, Eatherly recalls. But after Nagasaki (in which Eatherly did not participate), and the war's end, the fliers of the 509th began to come out of it. They began to feel that perhaps the bomb was a positive good—that in the face of its horror mankind might be compelled to give up war as a means of settling disputes.

He Volunteers for Bikini

Eatherly, too, seemed as though he might adjust. Because of a morbid curiosity about the bomb and hopes of being a career officer, he stayed in the Air Force and volunteered for the 1946 atomic tests at Bikini. This was the operation in which obsolete fighting ships were blasted to determine the pattern of nuclear damage.

Eatherly flew his plane carrying blast gauges right into the heart of the dense mushroom cloud—an incident that contributed to his later troubles—and saw his first atomic explosion up close.

"I can see it yet," he declares. "Brilliant, brilliant colors, every color you can imagine. Then these ships, huge ships, being tossed 'way, 'way, up in the air, just tossed like a handful of pebbles. Then the shock wave, a dark wall of spray coming right at us like a huge fist, pushing us sideways. Then the B-29, shuddering and tossing like an insignificant leaf. I realized at last what awesome power mankind was trifling with."

In conjunction with this experience came another that brought Eatherly to a fateful decision. The Bikini explosion had no sooner died down than he was called to the bedside of his dying mother. There a startling coincidence occurred.

As he knelt by the bed, holding her hand, he noticed the Bible open on the table. "It was open," he recalls, "to the twentieth chapter of Exodus. The words, 'Thou shalt not kill' leaped out at me. Then and there, for the first time, I realized what I had done."

Six months later Eatherly left the Air Force. But Hiroshima, occupying more and more of his thoughts, came to dominate his entire life. His marriage was affected first. His wife Connie, an aspiring actress who had married him in 1944, now found him moody, tense, insecure. His dreams about the bombing frightened her. He began to drink heavily. Sometimes he would start before breakfast and drink all day. He would brood about Hiroshima and call himself names.

In 1948, Connie Eatherly suffered a miscarriage in which the fetus was found to be malformed. In an attempt to learn the reason, Eatherly was sent to a diagnostic clinic, was found to have a sub-standard sperm count. The specialist told Eatherly radiation exposure was a "possible" explanation for the condition. Other doctors now say this is highly unlikely, but the observation threw Eatherly and his wife into a panic.

"We knew about those little monsters that had been born after Hiroshima," he says. "I thought it would be horrible to bring into the world a child like that. Sure, the doctors had said I was all right after Bikini, but did they really know? I thought to be on the safe side I ought to be sterilized. But the doctor kept reassuring me. 'Keep trying,' he would say, 'the condition probably will correct itself.'

Work Was Too Tame

"In 1950, when Connie became pregnant again, we were terrified, and when our daughter was born healthy, we almost died of relief."

Meanwhile, Eatherly's decline was accelerated by his inability to hold a job. He worked at a gas station, but found this too tame after the Air Force. So he became a gun runner, smuggling weapons to rebels in Latin America. It was lucrative work—until the Treasury cracked down. Eatherly along with others was arrested, but charges against him later were dropped.

But Hiroshima continued to haunt him.

He began to go on big debauches. He would roam for weeks, drinking, gambling and carousing his way around the Southwest with pickup girl friends. "I lived in a sea of booze," he says.

One day, home alone, Eatherly relates, he fell to brooding over the events of his life and decided to expiate his sins by killing himself. He swallowed a bottle of sleeping pills, washed them down with whiskey and lay down on the floor. He was still alive when Connie came home. She phoned an ambulance and Eatherly was revived. A few days later, he entered the VA hospital at Waco for psychiatric treatment.

a man who kills 100,000 people?

Crew of 'Straight Flush' gathered for this informal snapshot during World War II. Then-Capt. Eatherly is at far left, standing.

'I'm the greatest slaughterer in history'

Eatherly was to spend the next 10 years shuttling in and out of hospitals. In 1953, the VA concluded he had an "anxiety neurosis" as a result of Hiroshima and gave him a 50 per cent disability pension. Later doctors decided he was psychotic and raised the pension to 100 per cent.

Four years later, her patience exhausted, Connie divorced him, taking the three children. She has since remarried.

When out of the hospital, Eatherly would seek out doctors, theologians, old friends and drinking cronies and belabor them with unanswerable questions about Hiroshima. He also became involved in increasingly bizarre escapades. In 1956, with two men, he broke into two post offices. At one post office, in "casing the joint," his accomplice purchased a legitimate money order naming Eatherly as payee.

"He seemed," says an old friend, Jim Kitching of the Dallas County sheriff's office, "to be asking for it—for us to come and catch him and lock him up."

Weirdest Crime

Eatherly was arrested seven times. Charges were usually dropped because of his mental condition and war record, although he did serve nine months on a bad check charge in New Orleans. In 1959, he perpetrated perhaps the weirdest crime of all. With an unloaded 22-caliber pistol, he embarked on a stickup. Enroute, he stopped and cashed an $800 check and stuffed the money in his pockets. He entered a grocery store and ordered the proprietor at gunpoint to fill a paper bag with money. Eatherly waved him to the back of the store. He then departed without taking the loot. "When I got back to my hotel," he recalls with a smile, "the police were waiting."

This incident, the climax of his long process of deterioration, also was a turning point in Eatherly's life. After his arrest, he told doctors, "I'm the greatest slaughterer in history. My life is worthless. It's a curse on the world." The psychiatrists labeled him suicidal and committed him for 17 months. But the remark, reported at a time when the world was becoming exceedingly conscious of the dangers of nuclear war, attracted notoriety in many countries. Eatherly began to get fan mail.

One of the first to write him was Dr. Gunther Anders, a well-known Viennese pacifist philosopher. The two became fast friends by mail. Anders counseled Eatherly on personal matters and coached him in how he should protest the bomb.

From his hospital ward, Eatherly wrote articles for Japanese newspapers. They became front-page news. Eatherly was swamped with mail.

"One of the kindest letters was from the Hiroshima maidens [girls who had been disfigured by the bombing and brought here for surgery several years ago]," he recalls. "They begged me not to have any 'sick feelings' for what I had done, and told me they had forgiven me and hoped I would get well. They wrote, 'You are as much a victim as any of us.'"

Eatherly, who had been sending money to Japan anonymously for several years, now felt good. Having decided he had found in pacifism a purpose in life, he was ready to leave the hospital.

But meanwhile, as his name was being used by ban-the-bomb and pacifist groups, a controversy sprang up around him. Doctors said he was still a sick man and that in his unstable condition he was being exploited by anti-American forces. The hospital, instead of releasing him, extended Eatherly's commitment on petition of his brother James. Eatherly promptly escaped.

Moment of peace for Eatherly comes as he plays with children of Mariam Treuil, a Galveston friend. He is divorced from his wife.

Two months later he was picked up on a minor traffic charge. This time, a full-dress lunacy hearing was held. Although observers described him as "calm, poised, rational, quick-witted and humorous," a jury found him mentally ill and in need of hospitalization. Paradoxically, the same jury found him competent to handle his own financial affairs.

The verdict kicked up a worldwide storm. Anders wrote a long "Open Letter to President Kennedy" in which he charged that a sane man had been locked up because he differed with government views. Hospital authorities again placed Eatherly in the maximum security wing with barred windows and locked doors along with homicidal maniacs and dangerous paranoiacs.

Later, when the hospital eased up and put Eatherly "on privileges" he went over the wall again. This time he went to a private psychiatric clinic, which arranged to free him on a trial visit.

His Formula for Peace

Today, Eatherly devotes full-time to his "personal battle." He lives on government payments and royalties from Burning Conscience, a collection of his correspondence with Anders which is a best-seller in 14 languages and is now being published in the U.S. What's his solution to the nuclear threat? Both sides are "caught in a trap," he says. "The only solution is to trust one another."

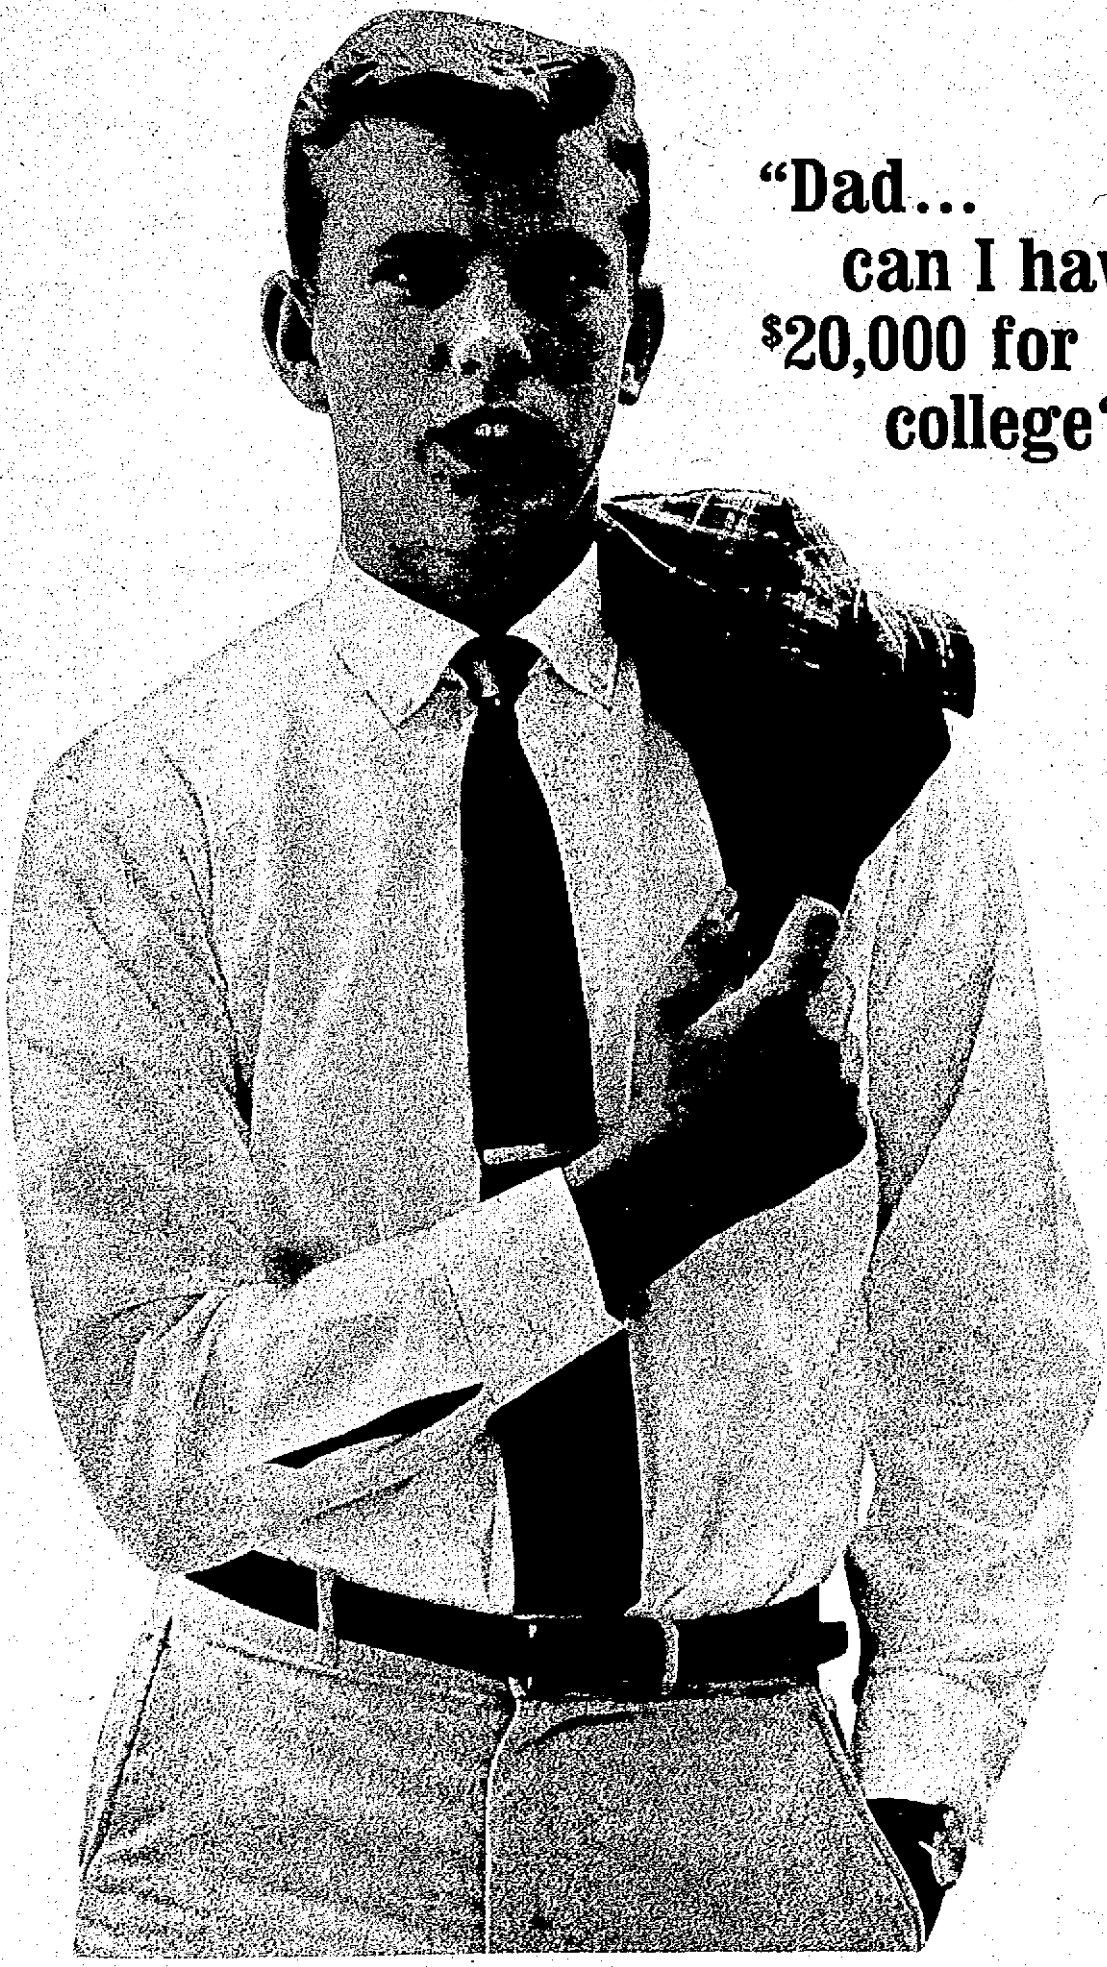

Washington still takes a dim view of his campaign. Some government officials fear Communists will whisk Eatherly behind the Iron Curtain to build him up as a symbol. Officials feel Eatherly is unwittingly playing the Communists' game.

Eatherly resents slurs on his patriotism. "I love my country and would never want to hurt her," he says. "Pro-Russian? Hell, no! I think their nuclear tests are absolutely criminal and insane. But I have my conscience. I must speak.

"People say to me, 'But it wasn't your fault they bombed Hiroshima. You had your orders.' That's like Eichmann's argument. He said he was just a small cog, following orders. But no matter how small a cog, a man must accept responsibility for his deeds.

"People can say what they want about me. They can say I'm doing this for publicity. What a laugh. They can say I'm doing it for money. That's a bigger laugh. They can put me in jail or lock me up in a hospital or anything but it won't stop me from saying what I believe and why I believe it. It's for my conscience. It's my atonement for Hiroshima. It's that simple. That's what my life is all about."

Meanwhile the controversy around Claude Eatherly—and the issue it represents—continues to rage. ■

"Dad... can I have $20,000 for college?"

Look ahead a few years and imagine your own son in this picture, asking the same important question. Your answer then will probably depend on the financial plans you make now. As the costs of a college education continue to rise, most families realize they cannot afford this expense unless they prepare in advance, following a practical, systematic plan. Here's where your New York Life Agent can be of great service.

He can show you modern plans through which you can be sure your son or daughter will have most or even all the funds needed for college. Two New York Life policies were designed especially for this purpose: The Educational Endowment, and Whole Life with Educational Endowment Benefits. Several other cash-value Nylic policies can also be used to help finance a college education.

Ask your New York Life Agent about such plans. Through his intensive training and experience as a full-time career underwriter, you'll find he's well qualified to advise and serve you. A good man to know! Call him at the office nearest you. Or, for information, mail the coupon.

Free "Milk Money" from Kellogg's

Yours when you breakfast on one of these Kellogg favorites

© 1962 by Kellogg Company

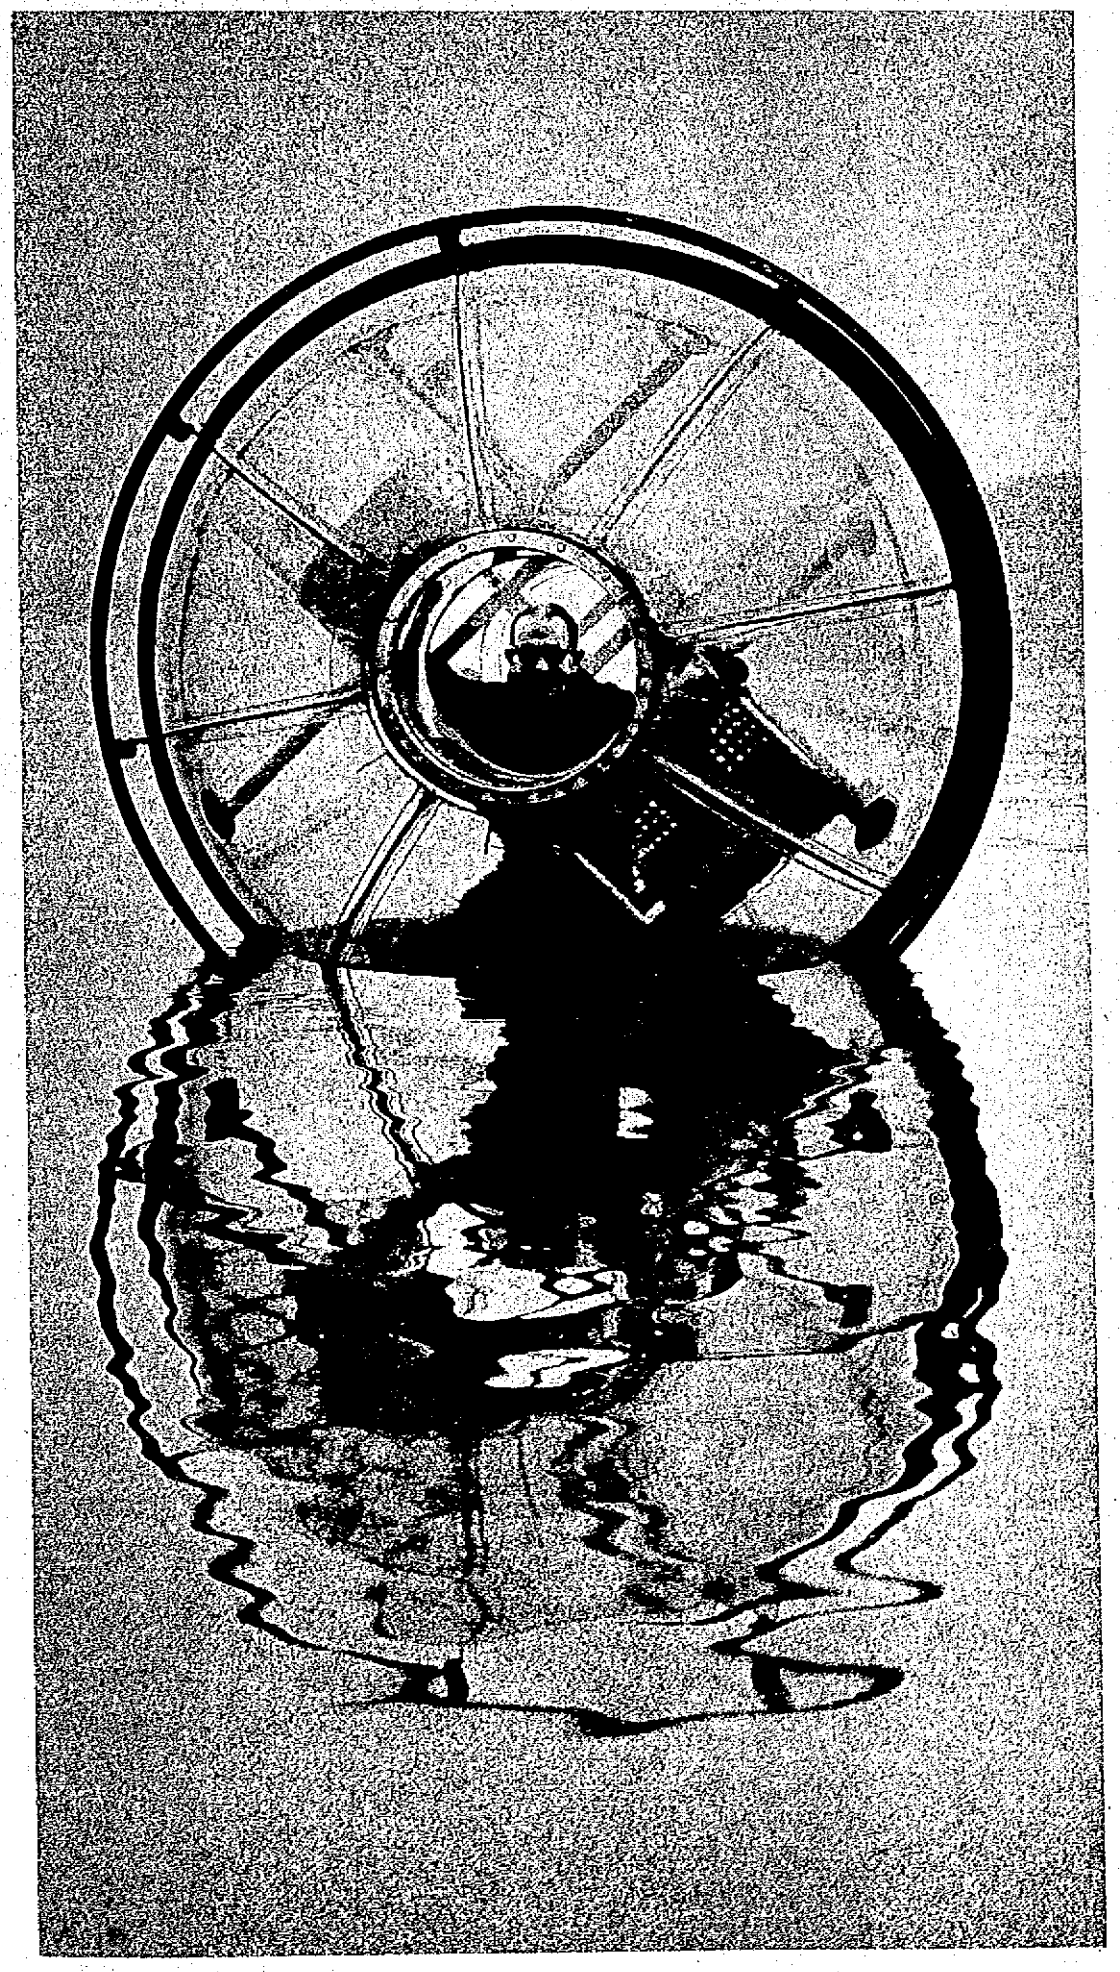

Most folks know that two of the nicest things that ever got together at breakfast are Kellogg's and milk. Could be you put 'em together yourself this morning, using one of the favorite cereals in this picture. If you did, and you happen to have an extra package or so in the cupboard—fine! Because you can collect your "milk money" from Kellogg's right away. But if you haven't enjoyed one of these Kellogg's-and-milk "get togethers" lately, there's plenty of time to qualify for your quarter. When you send us any two box tops from Kellogg's Corn Flakes—or Rice Krispies—or Special K—we'll reward you with a 25¢ piece.

Spend it however you like—but what better way than for milk?

HOW TO COLLECT YOUR QUARTER

Just mail us the tops with the blue star from any two family-size packages of Kellogg's Corn Flakes—Rice Krispies—or Special K. We'll send back a 25¢ piece. Address your two box tops to Milk & Cereal, P.O. Box 8, Marion, Ohio, and be sure to print your name and address plainly. (Offer expires October 31, 1962. Offer limited one to a family. Each request must be mailed separately. All others will be returned. Sorry we cannot honor multiple requests.)

Fun in a WATER BUBBLE

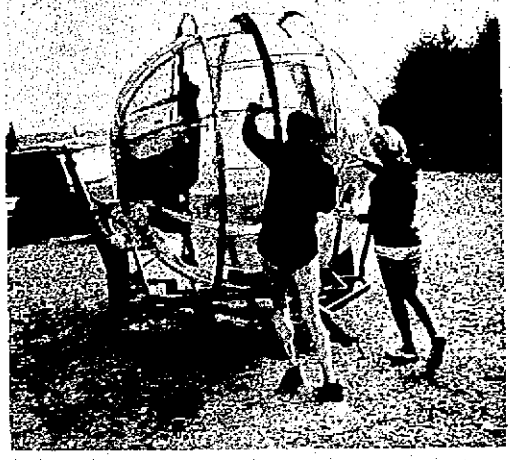

THE SAFEST VEHICLE ever made for use on water is the "Water Trotter" shown here.

That's the claim of its inventor, Wayne Wilson of York, Pa., a mechanical engineer who says he has a phobia about drowning, spent years avoiding water before he thought up his weird invention.

The Water Trotter is a big plastic ball that floats like a bubble on the surface. Passengers get in or out through round openings at opposite poles, propel the Trotter simply by walking forward, which makes the ball roll. Its plastic skin is as tough as shoe leather, enabling the Trotter to ride the most turbulent water in safety.

Inventor Wilson thinks his brainchild—not yet in production—should be useful for rescue work, observing underwater life and safe, easy travel among reefs or swamps. But its main value, he says, is for Nervous Nellies like himself who want to have fun afloat—and still be just as safe as in their own living rooms.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

CHECK CHIANG. Because conditions inside mainland China are disastrous and millions of Chinese are desperate, now would be an excellent time for Chiang Kai-shek to invade the mainland from Formosa. Reportedly Chiang is anxious to do so, but the U.S. has declined to sanction a massive Nationalist assault. Reason: such an action would bring Soviet Russia to China's side. Instead of the breach between these two countries widening as it now is, it would narrow, and China and the U.S.S.R. would once again become the common enemy against the U.S.
There is a slight risk that Chiang, 75, might defy Washington, however, and launch an attack. He has enough landing craft to land two divisions on the mainland but desperately needs U.S. air and fleet cover.

SEE THE U.S. The U.S. Travel Service is currently advertising for European tourists to visit America. The ads, carried in British newspapers, say: "For £35 per week ($98) you can see New York, Washington, San Francisco."

CHANGE SHORTAGE. The U.S. Mint and its branches frequently can't supply enough coins to meet the demand, especially in peak business periods. Reason: vending machines are becoming more numerous. There are now 4,000,000 of these devices in America, and money in vending machines and parking meters remains out of circulation longer than coins in cash registers. This year the Denver and Philadelphia Mints will stamp out more than 3,000,000,000 coins, twice the number turned out in 1969. The only coin they won't mint is the silver dollar; the last one was turned out in 1935. There are 74,000,000 silver dollars in circulation, most of them in the West.

RETURNING BELGIANS. Although many of their women were raped, their homes looted, their men murdered, the Belgians are returning to the Congo in mounting numbers. Their reason: "We understand this country and the Congolese, and there is money to be made here." In Leopoldville there are now more than 2,000 Belgians in the Congo Civil Service. Belgians still run the hotels, banks, supermarkets, cinemas, restaurants, railroads, and communications. Why? Because the Congolese don't know how.

ISRAELI DIPLOMACY. To win friends overseas, many countries export surplus food. The Israelis, who have no surplus products to export, are offering an even more valuable commodity: brains. Because Israel is well-stocked with well-educated European refugees, the Foreign Office in Tel Aviv has been sending out many of these experts to the underdeveloped countries of Africa. So far, more than 200 medical, agricultural, and scientific men have gone, winning friends and influencing people -- the Israeli version of the American Peace Corps.

GO EAST, YOUNG MAN. That's the motto in Russia today. The Soviets are promoting Siberia as their land of the future. This relatively unexploited frontier, one and a half times as large as the U.S., is a vast storehouse of natural resources. One of its boom cities is Sverdlovsk, the city behind the Urals over which U-2 pilot Gary Powers was shot down.
In the past ten years Sverdlovsk has mushroomed into an industrial center of 1,000,000 people, producing missiles, textiles, heavy machinery and aircraft motors. Prior to the revolution, Sverdlovsk was a mining city, called Yekaterinburg. Enemies of the Czar were sent into its mines to serve their exile. In 1918 Czar Nicholas II, his wife and children were executed in a Yekaterinburg cellar which the Soviets now preserve as a museum. The city was later re-named Sverdlovsk in honor of Jacob Sverdlov, a hero of the Russian Revolution.

Siberian boys from village near Irkutsk ride bicycles to school. They symbolize transformation of mineral-rich Siberia from virtual wasteland into booming new industrial frontier.

HOW TO FACE

THE SUN

NOW'S THE TIME to start spring training for that great summer ritual—the sun tan.

Get out the creams, the ointments, the lotions and spring-clean your skin before the first sign of peeling.

While dermatologists agree that the sun is beneficial for clearing up most cases of acne, there are other types of skin blemishes, due to clogged pores, that flare up in the sun.

Start your do-it-yourself home facial program with a nightly routine. Wash your face with a sponge and a good skin soap, and follow this with application of a lotion to dry out blemishes.

Women whose complexions are free of blemishes but excessively dry can go on to the next step in skin care—the massage. Nobody will claim that creaming the face and neck will banish wrinkles forever, but cosmeticians agree that nightly lubrication will keep your face soft and smooth-looking. This is especially true in the summertime. While sun rays provide healthy Vitamin-D, they also age and dry skin.

Exercises shown here help break down fatty deposits and stimulate your circulation. One should never apply too much pressure on facial tissues during massage, since overstretching can make the skin sag. The idea is to stimulate and give tone to the skin.

In working around the eyes, where lines are most likely to appear, always start massage from the inside corner of the eye. Work middle finger gently over the lid to the temple, then gently draw finger under the eye back to starting point. Always use a lubricant.

Sunshine Courtship

When you and the sun are ready for each other, begin your courtship slowly and cautiously. There are special sun-tan lotions on the market which actually filter out harmful rays. Use them; there's nothing really pretty about a girl who has a lobster-red complexion. Skin specialists suggest you take the sun in small doses. The first day allow three to five minutes of direct exposure, increasing the time daily. Sun-tan lotions are carried off by swimming and perspiring, so make sure you reapply the ointments frequently.

Some people are allergic to the sun. They should consult a physician about this problem. There's no reason why they should deprive themselves of outdoor living when there are specific medications for sun-sensitive people.

—ROSALIND MASSOW.

◄ Home facials lubricate and tone skin for summer. Cyclax of London recommends these exercises with well-creamed face. To firm jowls (left) place fingertips at temples and thumbs under chin. With gentle pressure bring thumbs up to meet other fingers.

A body oil on shoulders and arms, especially during the summer months, will keep skin soft and supple through the tanning period. A few drops in bath water also smooths skin.

One-finger exercise to stimulate circulation is this massage done with tip of third finger. Start from the middle of jawbone and work up to nostril; then draw finger up to temple.

With flats of both third fingers, begin this exercise from chin. Move fingers in arc motion to sides of nostrils and then upwards in wider sweep to temples. It smooths lines.

Shrimp dish for a special occasion

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Here's a shrimp specialty for a lovely spring luncheon. It's a nice change of pace to entertain your friends or to announce an engagement or to plan a bridal shower.

For the main course use our recipe for Shrimp Rolls with Mushroom Sauce, easy to make and pretty as a picture. Add canned baby carrots heated in parsley butter and a bowl of crisp raw vegetables.

Forget the calories, it's a special occasion, and have strawberry sundaes and hot coffee or tea.

SHRIMP ROLLS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 18 slices very fresh bread, cut ½-inch thick
- 2 cans (5 oz. each) shrimp
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Dash bottled hot pepper sauce
- 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 18 cooked asparagus spears
- Melted butter or margarine
- Paprika
- Mushroom Sauce

Trim crusts from bread slices. Roll bread slices with rolling pin until very thin. Mash shrimp; add next 4 ingredients; mix well. Spread on bread slices. Place 1 spear asparagus on end of each bread slice; roll up; secure with wooden picks. Brush lavishly with melted butter; sprinkle with paprika. Arrange on baking sheet. Bake in very hot oven, 450°, about 15 minutes or until deep golden brown. Remove picks. Serve with mushroom sauce. Makes 18.

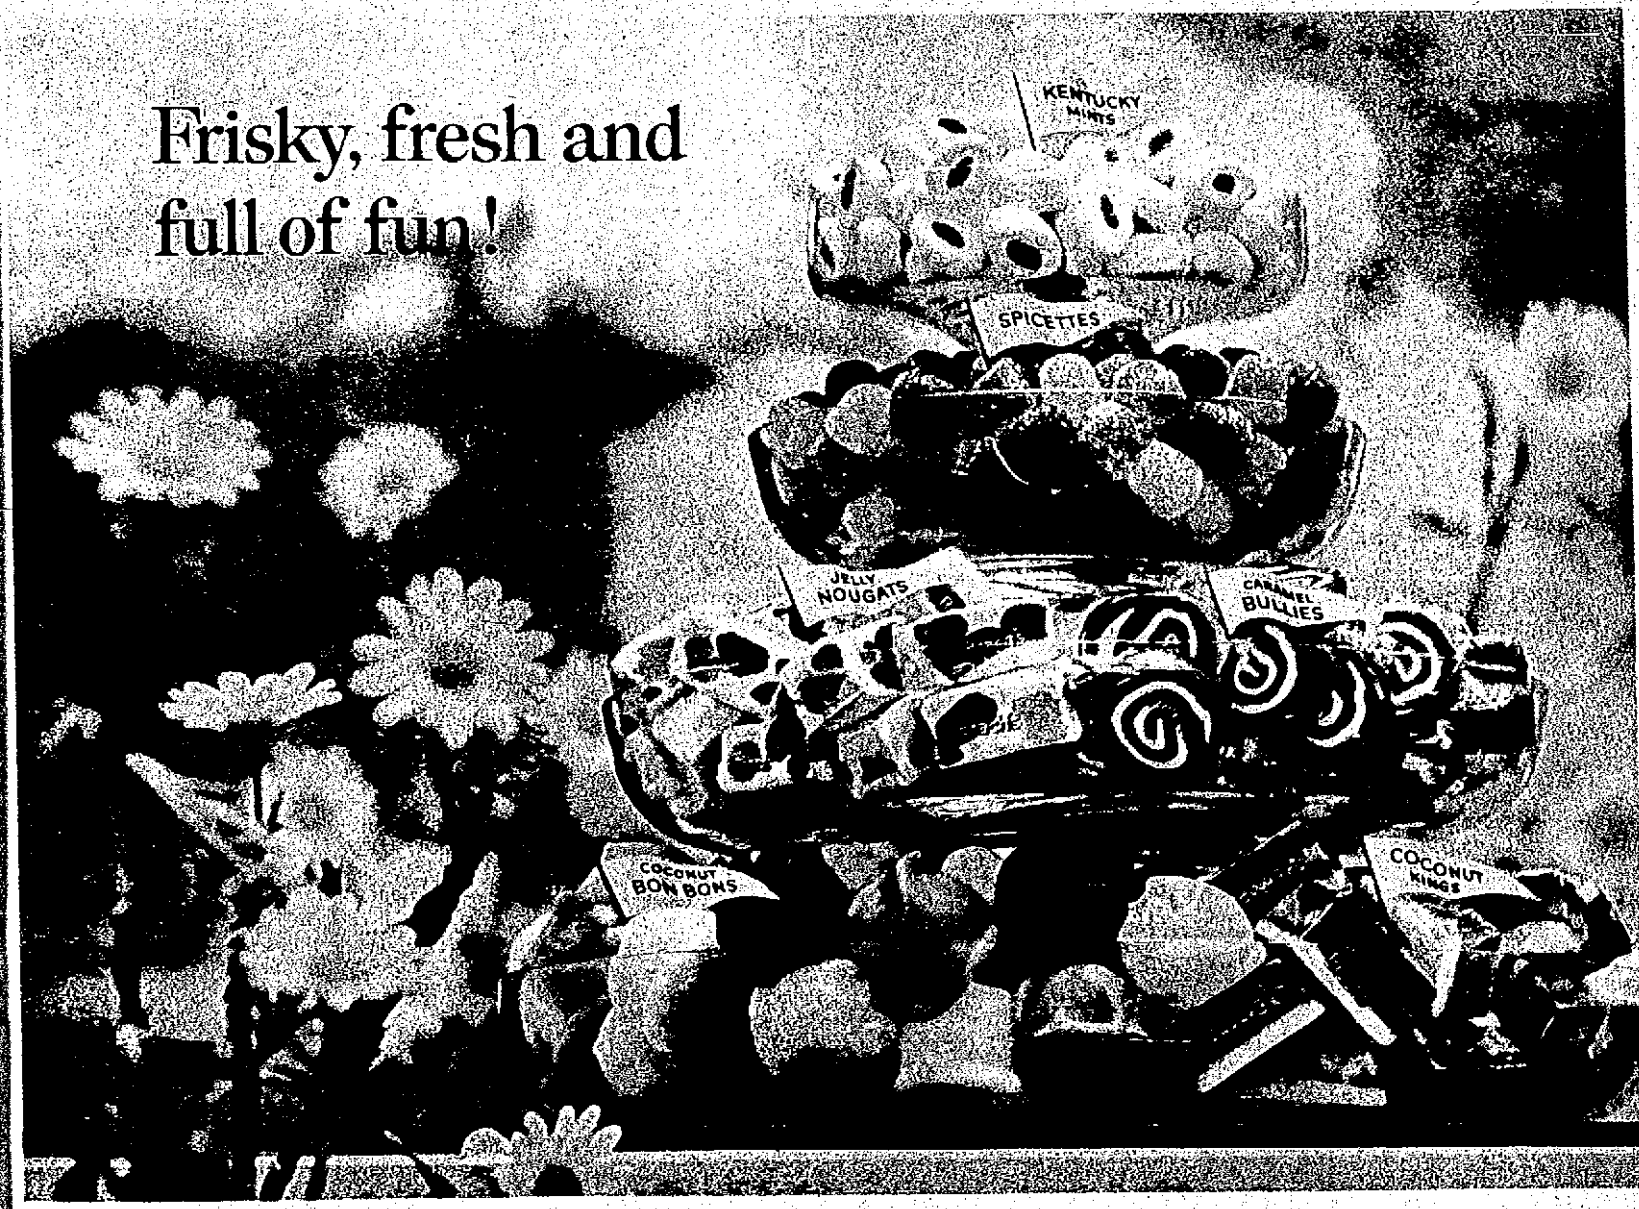

MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 1 envelope (2 oz.) cream of mushroom soup mix
- 1½ cups water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 cup light cream

Empty soup mix into saucepan. Add water slowly, while stirring. Bring to boil. Simmer 5 minutes. Blend cornstarch with ¼ cup of the cream; stir in remaining cream; add to soup. Stir over low heat until thickened to sauce consistency.

PARADE OF PROGRESS

Seeking new ideas for your home or yourself? Take a look at these — by PETER DRYDEN

Kite bird: Here's something to intrigue kids—a kite (above) that acts like a bird, fluttering its wings continuously, climbing, zooming and gliding. It can be launched without running, flies in any weather, is made of tearproof acetate cloth. 33" long, 48" wing spread, 250' cord: $2.98. Large, 47" long, 66" wing, 500' cord: $6.95. Gay Gift, Dept. PP, 430 Teaneck Rd., Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Sewing aid: No more need for tedious hand hemming with a new blind stitch hemmer that fits on your regular sewing machine. It quickly produces invisibly stitched hems on dresses, skirts, children's clothes, draperies, curtains, etc. Simple to use, it comes with instructions for making several different types of hems. $6.98. When ordering, state make and model of your machine. Four Sisters, Dept. PP, 31 Chesley Road, White Plains, N. Y.

New help for your lawn: Staple this new knit fabric (above) over a freshly seeded lawn, and it helps assure good grass growth by preventing rainfall erosion. Water flows over it, leaving soil and seed in place—and grass grows through openings in the fabric which eventually deteriorates and serves as mulch. Roll of 100 sq. ft., complete with staples and directions: $3.98. Strandex, Inc., Dept. PP, 1001 Maclellan Bldg., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Portable vise: Almost anywhere you have a job to do—in your home or on your boat—a new vise can go. It weighs only 4½ lbs. and anchors onto non-porous surfaces—such as linoleum, metal, porcelain—or any smooth painted surface. Vacuum power holds it fast when you flip a lever in the base. Jaws grip any material up to 2" thick. $6.95. General Slicing Machine Co., Dept. PP, Walden, N. Y.

Built-in beverage center: Installed in a kitchen or recreation room wall cabinet, this new appliance (above) doubles as automatic coffeemaker and hot beverage center. It heats and stores water in its own 1⅛ gal. tank, automatically brews 2 to 12 cups of coffee in 4 minutes—and provides immediate hot water for tea, instant coffee, hot chocolate, soup or bouillon. Details: Cory Corp., Dept. PP, 3200 W. Peterson, Chicago 45, Ill.

Golfer's aid: Hit a new practice ball in your backyard and a calibrated pin pops up as the club strikes—to show distance a real ball would have traveled. 4 for $1. K.G.S. Inc., Dept. PP, 9016 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles 35, Calif.

A lion is Hollywood's

Zamba proves gentle —and earns $75,000 in his first film role

by LLOYD SHEARER

Zamba the lion rests his 550 pounds next to Pamela Franklin, his 78-pound co-star.

HOLLYWOOD.

THREE YEARS AGO when 20th Century-Fox purchased the screen rights to a novel, The Lion, people here were convinced that the combined Intelligence Quotient of the studio's top echelon was 25 which puts it in the imbecile classification.

The reason for this opinion is that the two leading characters in The Lion are: (1) A 10-year-old girl named Patricia whose only friends are the wild beasts of the African bush, and (2) King, a lion brought to her as a cub who develops into her best friend and over whom she holds incredible power. Cradled between his savage paws, asleep against his massive chest, riding on his back, Patricia completely dominates this ferocious lion. One command from the child and he releases his prey or rushes to the attack.

In some cases when a motion picture script calls for the incidental use of a lion, a large dog (German shepherd or Great Dane) can be used, especially in long shots. A lion's mask is thrown over the dog and no one in the audience is any the wiser. For close shots, an old tame circus lion is used, or even a mechanical lion.

No recent fictional film has had a lion playing the major role until The Lion came along, starring Zamba—that's the beast's name—little Pamela Franklin, Bill Holden, Trevor Howard, and Capucine.

A Film 'First'

The film, which was shot in Kenya last year, will be released this summer. Never in the history of the screen has so potentially dangerous a beast as Zamba, a 5-year-old, 550-pound, black-maned lion, worked so continuously and intimately with a group of motion picture stars, especially with a 12-year-old like Pamela Franklin, who weighs 78 pounds.

Here is the inside story of how The Lion was made. When producer Sam Engel was assigned the story last year, he knew he had a casting problem on his hands. Who was going to play the lion? Engel had the studio check on all the possibilities. It was decided that the best man to contact was Carr Hartley, the noted East African animal exporter.

When Hartley read the script and saw what the lion was assigned to do—romp, play, sleep, and wrestle with a little girl—he said, "You're kidding. There's no lion in the world who can play that part. You're going to have to use a mechanical lion. Either that, or throw your script away."

The studio then contacted a zoo in Hamburg, Germany, which reputedly owned three tame lions. From one of the zoo officials came the words, "We couldn't let a 10-year-old girl within 10 yards of our lions."

After exhausting all the foreign possibilities, the studio finally phoned Ralph Helfer who runs an animal farm, Nature's Haven, 30 miles from Hollywood. Helfer let his favorite lion, Zamba, out of his cage, ordered him into the station wagon and drove him to the studio. When the station wagon arrived at the gates Harry Fink, the studio gateman, took one look at the lion and said to Helfer, "Drive in or drive out. I don't care which. Just don't stay around me." Helfer drove in and invited producer Sam Engel to meet Zamba. When Engel saw how playfully Helfer jostled with the lion, when he heard the history of the beast and was assured Zamba could meet all the demands of the script, he asked Helfer, "How much?"

Helfer: "Seventy-five thousand."

Engel: "Too much."

Helfer: "Get yourself another lion."

Engel: "You've got yourself a deal."

In addition to Zamba, Helfer flew two of his other lions to Africa for the picture. These lions play Zamba's wives in the film, but the truth is that Zamba has no wife. Ralph Helfer will not permit him a sex life. Why? "Because," says Helfer, "I would lose some degree of control over him. I would lose some of his confidence, some of his love, and most important, some of his dependence upon me."

No Guns, But a Bed

Born in the Zambesi basin of Africa, Zamba was transported to Hollywood when he was a few weeks old. Ralph Helfer bought him for $35, then took him to bed. "I take all the cubs to bed with me," he explained. "One at a time, of course. That's the basis of physical familiarization. I believe in emotional training. I never use a whip or a gun or any brutality whatever. My primary training principle is based on love and understanding. With Zamba, it's worked beautifully. He slept with me until he was seven months old and weighed 240 pounds. After that he learned rapidly and was most obedient to commands.

"When I flew him to Africa for the picture, I wasn't worried about his being ferocious one bit. What did worry me was the odd chance that something would happen which would startle the animal. You know, a light falling, or someone stepping on his tail. Even then I knew his reaction would be one of protest. But let's face it, even the slightest protest by an animal of his size, one strike of his paw, and someone could be dead. I wasn't too worried, however."

The studio did not share Helfer's high degree of confidence, largely because no insurance company would insure the production unless 20th Century-Fox came up with a premium of $500,000. The insurance companies, believe it or not, know a good deal about lions. Their agents realize that Zamba is a most remarkable beast. They realize, too, that lion cubs are quite commonly raised as pets—especially in Africa—but the law there requires them to be released into game preserves or placed in zoos by their third birthday.

newest star

Anyway, no insurance company would take the risk for less than half a million, so the studio decided to go ahead without insurance. If Bill Holden were clawed to death, they would settle with his widow.

To play it safe, however, Tony Archer, one of the most respected white hunters in Africa, was hired for the production. He squatted out of camera range just as close to Zamba's great head as he could get. Archer wore—or more often carried in his hand—a .357 Magnum revolver, but told director Jack Cardiff at the start of the picture: "I am making no promises, you understand. If anything happens I will be careful and I won't run. I will do the best I can, but we will have to be very lucky to prevent anyone getting hurt should Zamba suddenly turn angry."

But Zamba never turned angry. Why? According to Helfer, "Zamba is not temperamental to begin with. Secondly, we had a perfect cast for this type of picture. Take an actor like Bill Holden. He owns the Safari Club in Kenya. He has been on safari a good deal. He knows a lot about animals. By nature he is controlled and courageous. Trevor Howard who plays the game warden in the film is a sincere lover of animals and would never do anything foolhardy. He would have made a great animal trainer.

"Little Pamela Franklin, like most children, has a great affinity for animals. She took to Zamba immediately. Never for one moment did she imagine that Zamba was capable of harming her. To Pamela he was just a big shaggy dog. She was the one who worried me the most because I had to watch her for overconfidence. But she showed absolutely no signs of it, also absolutely no signs of fear. Animals sense fear and are most difficult to handle in its presence."

A New Interest

Zamba performed so beautifully in The Lion—the picture has received such raves and pleasing notices—that Ralph Helfer has been toying with the idea of relenting as regards Zamba's sex life.

"I have a lioness on the farm," he explained, "named Tammy. She is beautiful. I was thinking of mating her with Zamba. Their cubs would be photogenic and intelligent. I would be providing myself with replacements and, of course, I would be showing Zamba my gratitude. I am just afraid, however, that lions are very much like men. Once you bring women into their lives, they are just not interested in reading the sports pages any longer." ■

Bringing Up Baby®
Hints Collected by
Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 5

wanderlust, anyone?

Of course! Babies, like everyone else, want to see the world. What better reason for trying to creep? And those first attempts at creeping are adorably awkward, wonderful to behold. Some try it forward, others backward. Still others fancy crabwise creeping. No matter what style your baby selects, the important thing is that he's learning the 3 big C's: Confidence, Co-ordination, Control. Happy new horizons!

Girl or boy creepers, sit-abouts or gadabouts, every darling one of them needs protein . . . to help develop strong muscles. Tasty way to give baby extra protein: Gerber High Meat Dinners. These baby-style "casseroles" have 3 times as much meat (and therefore much more protein) as regular combination baby dinners. And all this savory meat is subtly blended with garden-good vegetables for bright flavor . . . hearty nourishment. 5 varieties, strained or junior.

Roaming routine. When baby becomes a "four-walker" you'll really have to keep an eye on your traveler. Good idea to schedule his roaming times when you have some watching time. Say, when you're taking a "breather" or doing some sit-down chores. When you return baby to his play pen, a favorite toy, a snack of Gerber Fruit Juice or a Teething Biscuit will help overcome possible resentment at the confinement.

Lip-smacking sipping with nutritional leanings. Gerber Strained Fruit Juices leave nothing to be desired in the way of flavor delight . . . and they're high in vitamin C. Has baby tried the new Orange-Apricot or Apple-Cherry Juices yet?

Reminder division. Rooms where baby has crawl privileges should be checked constantly for safety. Household hazards which may not occur to you: floor-drooping plants, dangling appliance cords, rocking chairs, dropped pins or buttons.

A word from Dan Gerber. "Our agricultural experts work on a year-in, year-out basis to improve the quality of your baby's food. Take Gerber Green Beans, for example. Over a period of years, our Agricultural Research Department experimented with several green bean varieties to develop a superior strain. As a result of these efforts, the beans we use are tender, succulent and extra-flavorful . . . have less fiber, more flesh . . . and most important, they have a deeper color which indicates a higher nutritive value."

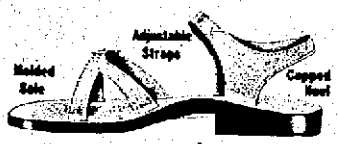

FREMONT, MICHIGAN

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—cereals, strained and junior—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say: "Babies are our business . . . our only business!"

Parade's second Annual Award AMERICA'S

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO drive from coast to coast across a beautiful, landscaped highway, manicured with blooming shrubs and wildflowers, carefully designed and tailored to sweep past the most interesting sights and scenic vistas—yet providing the ultimate in motoring speed, efficiency and safety?

Sounds like a dream in this day of conveyor-belt highways, doesn't it? Yet this dream may be closer to reality than you think.

Here in California, for the first time, a state is planning a complete statewide network of scenic highways. This pioneering effort is being closely watched by state highway officials across the U.S., for highway builders everywhere have concluded that what a motorist sees may be just as important as what he drives upon.

In line with this trend, PARADE today observes the beginning of National Highway Week by announcing its second annual scenic highway contest.

This contest—in which you are urged to participate—was inaugurated last year to commemorate the new highway which best advances the principles of beauty and efficiency. Given last year to the Maine Highway Commission for a 24-mile stretch of interstate Route 95 between Augusta and Fairfield, the award has been widely acclaimed by the highway industry.

What makes a scenic highway? I have just driven more than 1,000 of the 5,000 miles so designated in California's new plan. This web stretches from the desert to the redwoods, from rocky coasts to the high Sierras. Included are new roads and old roads, freeways, narrow farm-to-market roads. One, the so-called Mother Lode Highway, is so tortuous that you can't take your eyes off the road to enjoy the spectacular views; another, the shoreline highway, is in places an invitation to car-sickness. And some of the scenic routes are not even built yet.

Vistas of the Future

Yet, along this route, you can see mile upon mile of potential beauty. Eventually motorists will get wonderful views of the Sierras, drive coastal highways that leap from one breathtaking vantage point to another, sail along roads deliberately routed through vast orchards, cross the desert at places where the colors and the scenery are best.

In some places, signs of the future are already at hand. Near Cisco in Placer County, U.S. 40 is a narrow, dangerous, two-lane road, threading its way along the lip of the south fork of the Yuba River. In this steep-walled gorge the Yuba is wildly beautiful, gushing its way toward the Sacramento Valley in a series of foamy cascades. One way to build a new and badly-needed highway in this region might be with giant cuts and mighty fills high up the mountainside. Another way was outlined to me by Alan S. Hart, the district highway engineer.

"We're going to split the roadway and let the river run right between," Hart says. "We're even going to let people fish between the lanes. This kind of country, you ought to let people see it up close and really appreciate it, feel a part of it. Motorists on this road will be able to look a trout right in the eye."

As for California's system of scenic highways, only basic steps have so far been taken. A preliminary report, drawn up by experts from four state departments, makes 19 recommendations for setting up the system and lists the 5,000 miles which should be incorporated in it. The legislature received this report at its most recent session here, and, at the planners' request, gave them an additional year for a final report. Sacramento observers foresee little trouble for the project next year.

If the final report is adopted, it will introduce several innovations. Most revolutionary is the proposal for "scenic easements"—in which, literally, the state would buy the view. Under this proposal, property owners would agree, in return for a yearly sum, not to change the character of their property without the state's consent. A farmer, for example, might get a yearly stipend not to sell out to a housing development.

Needed Reforms

In addition, the report calls for better billboard controls, for a statewide chain of roadside parks and scenic overlooks and for new methods of condemning land for conservation purposes.

As you drive around California, you see the need for this kind of protection. The state's exploding population is rapidly intruding on the very landscape that attracted many residents here in the first place. Along the redwood highway, billboards and motels sprout among the trees. Housing tracts inch out into the most scenic parts of the desert. Even the remote Sierras are not free from creeping civilization.

That is the way it seems, too, to Governor Edmund G. Brown, a third-generation Californian who as a small boy covered many of today's scenic highways 45 years ago in a 1914 Cadillac. "We must preserve the beauty of California. It is the inspiration and the joy of the state that will soon be the biggest in the Union," says the governor.

It all adds up to a new age of beauty in California. The day when you can drive with pleasure across the entire country may not be far off. The rest of the U.S. is watching California to see if that state will lead the way. ■

HOW YOU CAN ENTER THE CONTEST

As you drive this summer, look for candidates for PARADE's scenic highway award. To be eligible, a highway must meet these standards:

1. It must be a new or rebuilt highway at least five miles long, opened to traffic after September 1, 1961, but before September 1, 1962.
2. It must be a highway for general use, not a highway for sightseers only like the Skyline Drive.
3. It must "drive well," with gentle curves, easy grades and wide lanes, although it need not be a superhighway.
4. It must be well-planned—with good use of land, minimum destruction of property and neighborhood.
5. It must look good, and be designed to take advantage of natural terrain and scenic beauty.

For the award-winning road, a bronze plaque will be given to the state highway commissioner. A citation will be presented to the engineer responsible for the highway's design. Parchment certificates will go to other highways considered worthy of special mention. To the person or group who submits the winning entry will go a $500 savings bond and a scroll. In case of duplicate nominations, the Board of Judges will decide the winner.

Judges will be representatives of the American Planning and Civic Association, the American Automobile Association, the Better Highways Information Foundation, the American Society of Landscape Architects, and Engineering News-Record, the bible of the construction industry.

So pick your favorite highway now. List name or route number, location, approximate length. Tell why you consider it worthy of the award. Send photographs if possible. Clubs and civic groups as well as individuals may enter. Send entries by August 31, 1961, to Parade Scenic Highway Contest, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N.Y.

THE RICHEST ORANGE FLAVOR IS SKIN DEEP . . . AND THAT'S WHERE TANG GETS ITS NEW NATURAL FLAVOR

Amazing but true: The richest orange flavor is not in the juice, not in the pulp, but locked in the rind of tree-ripened oranges. And that's where TANG gets its new natural flavor.

So, no matter how much you might have liked TANG before, you'll like new Natural Orange Flavor TANG even more.

Not a juice—not a soft-drink, TANG is the instant breakfast drink that gives you more vitamin C than fresh or frozen orange juice... plus important vitamin A, too.

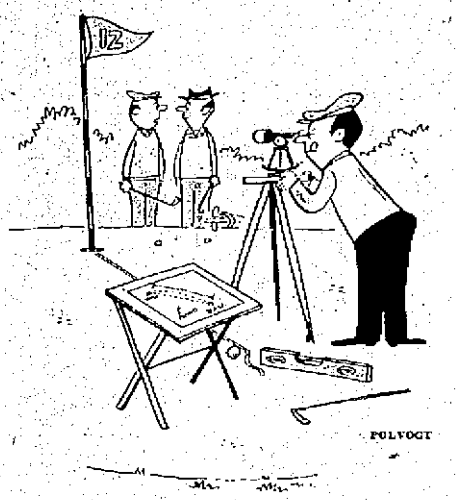

For breakfast tomorrow, mix a decanterful of New Natural Orange Flavor TANG tonight. Serve ice cold in the morning.

GET THE ORIGINAL INSTANT BREAKFAST DRINK! TANG is not a juice or a soft-drink mix but a nutritious food drink from General Foods.

ANECDOTE of the WEEK

An apocryphal story currently making the rounds in Paris concerns the celebrated painter, Pablo Picasso, who caught a burglar in his studio. After a small scuffle, the burglar escaped. Picasso volunteered to the police that he could do a rough sketch of what the man looked like.

With Picasso's drawing as a guide, the Paris police arrested the Eiffel Tower and the tomb of Napoleon. ■

Mentally Ill Auto Drivers a Menace to All

By JAMES McCAULEY

A wave of traffic accidents involving mentally and physically ill persons spurred safety officials here Saturday to call for new laws to take unfit drivers off the road.

Commenting on a recent example in which a psychiatric patient attempted suicide by triggering a four-car accident on California Avenue, managing director Leonard W. Herrington of Long Beach Chapter, National Safety Council said:

"We've got some emotionally disturbed persons with valid licenses."

Herrington said he favors some legislation to force psychiatrists and doctors to submit information to Department of Motor Vehicles when a patient might be a dangerous driver.

Noting that the medical profession is reluctant to give confidential information, Herrington said: "With so many traffic accidents, a dangerous driver falls in the same category as a man with a gunshot wound."

Herrington said the California Federation of Safety Councils long has advocated stricter licensing laws.

Suicide on the road isn't new, Herrington said—there were two tries in Southern California in one recent week.

A hint of how the problem of traffic suicide is universal: a San Francisco newspaper last autumn speculated on why the Golden Gate Bridge, site of numerous suicide leaps, was being snubbed by persons who were killing themselves elsewhere on California highways.

The newspaper editorialized: "What Is Happening to the Golden Gate Bridge?"

Accidents linked to sick persons aren't confined to mental problems.

Herrington said Safety Council records here show that four pedestrians on Pine Avenue sidewalks have been clobbered by electric vehicles since the first of the year.

Under state law, an electric vehicle operator pays no license or registration fee if a physician signs a letter stating he is unable to get about. And in Long Beach, the electric vehicles—driven by persons in poor health—are permitted to drive on congested sidewalks.

One traffic official, who declined to let his name be used, proposed the laws for all autoists could be patterned after the tight legislation on school bus drivers.

School bus drivers must submit to a physical exam-

JFK Path Perilous, K Thunders

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev charged Saturday night that President Kennedy has embarked on a dangerous road, that could lead to nuclear suicide and told cheering Bulgarians "We must keep our powder dry and be in a state of constant combat readiness."

The Soviet premier said at an outdoor rally winding up a one-week visit here that the Soviet Union was at first greatly satisfied with what he called an appraisal by President Kennedy that the Western and socialist forces were now equal.

"Unfortunately, President Kennedy could not later avoid the temptation and embarked on the dangerous road of his predecessors, resorting to threats against the Soviet Union," Khrushchev said.

Red China warns that it "cannot tolerate" any new U.S. bridgeheads in Asia. Story, Page A-6.

• • • •

"HE DID not even stop at declaring that in certain conditions the United States might take the initiative in a nuclear conflict with the Soviet Union."

This was a reference to a White House statement on March 27 in which Kennedy made it clear the United States would strike first with nuclear weapons if they were needed to prevent a massive, conventional Soviet attack from overrunning Europe.

"We cannot but take into account the statement made by Mr. Kennedy," Khrushchev said, "because it introduces a new element into relations between our countries.

• • • •

"DOES THIS statement mean that the President of the United States wants to prompt me, as the head of the Soviet government, to compete with him in who will be the first to press the button?" he asked.

"We are against such competitions. It must be clear to every sensible person how dangerous this would be, how inhuman and unreasonable. Knowing the aggressive nature of imperialism we must keep our powder dry and be in a state of constant combat readiness."

Nowhere in his speech did Khrushchev mention the dispatch of U.S. Marines to Thailand in Southeast Asia resulting from Communist advances in neighboring Laos. He termed the move an unwise decision in a speech Friday and later told newsmen it could lead to another Korea.

• • • •

KHRUSHCHEV said starting a war with the Soviet Union would be like committing suicide.

"He who would dare unleash such a militray conflict would receive a devastating retaliatory blow with the use of all modern means of warfare," Khrushchev said. "The socialist camp and the Soviet Union are in possession of these means and in sufficient quantity at that."

President's Fete Raises $1 Million

Kennedy Urges Drive for More Congress Seats

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy packed Madison Square Garden Saturday night to knock $1 million off the Democrats' national debt and urge strong campaigning for more seats for the party in Congress this year.

The Garden was a sellout for the huge "birthday salute" to Kennedy, and a great array of theatrical talent provided a two-and-a-half-hour show for the celebration.

It came on the hottest May day in New York City history, when the temperature had risen to 99. Heat waves still rose in the Garden when, after a sultry rendition of "Happy Birthday" by Marilyn Monroe, the President remarked:

"I can now retire from politics."

• • • •

DISCARDING most of his prepared speech on his program of "action" and Republican opposition, the President joined in the birthday-party spirit.

Thanking the entertainers whose presence helped sell more than $1 million worth of seats at from $10 to $1,000, Kennedy referred to his father's onetime acid comment on some businessmen.

He added: "When my father was giving his views on business, he always exempted show business."

Kennedy told the crowd that he and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who also was present, had run up a $4-million debt in the 1960 campaign.

"That is now gone forever," he said. "Now, all that's left is the national debt."

• • • •

KENNEDY SAID some of his legislation had been defeated in the House or Senate by one or two votes, and urged a big push this year to gain additional Democratic seats in Congress.

College Courtin' Rooms

GUESS WHO OPPOSES THIS IDEA

Should college dormitories feature semi-private "courting rooms" which would permit an occasional kiss?

This query was greeted with mixed emotions by occupants of Long Beach State College's two dorms, with the girls generally in favor and the men generally opposed.

The question was raised earlier in the week when the Oberlin College (Ohio) Student-Faculty Board created a nationwide furor by recommending the installation of such facilities.

At Long Beach State, the suggestion was greeted as a serious problem requiring thoughtful answers.

Thenell Mann, a blonde junior from Hermosa Beach, was flatly in favor: "Boys and girls are going to find a place to get together and it would be better than out in the tules somewhere."

Thenell was echoed by freshman Lorrie Hallenbeck of Torrance. "Persons who live on campus need companionship."

Helen Sieber, Manhattan Beach junior, and Marge Finnelly, freshman from Trona, Calif., pointed out that Oberlin College permits no cars.

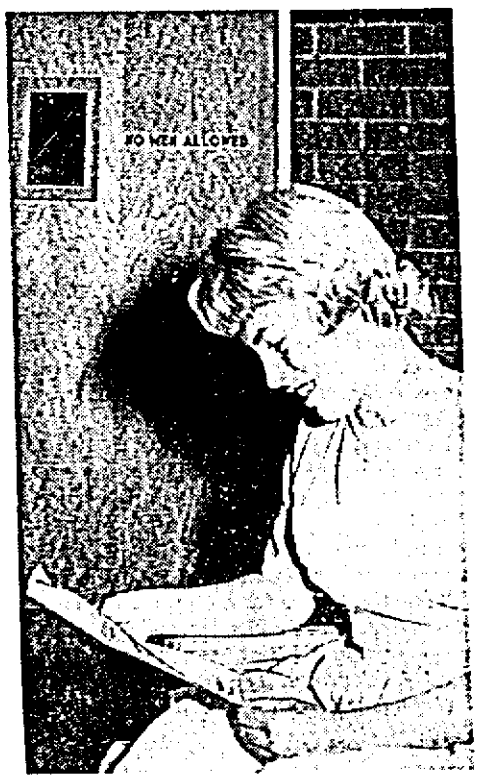

"We don't have that problem here," said Helen. "But I like to study with my boy friend, and there's no place here that's private."

Marge has the same woe: "The only place we can really study together is in the library."

A vigorously dissenting view came from Cami Rigsbee, Inglewood freshman. "I think it would be definitely inviting trouble, giving more room for opportunity. I also think that it would be too much of an open deal, like 'All you kiddies go in there.' What we really need is a student union."

Mrs. Clara Smith, head resident or "house mother," who was not asked to take a stand, said the

Coalition Rips JFK Tax Bill

By WILLIAM BROOM
U. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Opposition from liberal and conservative members of the Senate Finance Committee Saturday left the future uncertain for the administration's tax bill.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., often identified with the committee's liberal side, said he's opposed to the controversial request for dividend and interest withholding taxes. He also expressed doubts about investment tax credit.

Committee Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., a leader of the senate's conservative coalition, announced he will oppose both withholding and tax credits. Byrd assailed withholding as "impracticable and unworkable" and said it would produce "hardship and confusion." Tax credit, he said, "is discriminatory, wrong in principle and would do great harm to our tax structure."

• • • •

"OUR VIEWS are not far apart on the major provisions of this bill," said Sen. McCarthy.

In view of the opposition by the two leading spokesmen of differing points of view, the outlook for withholding in the Senate appeared exceedingly dim. Major modifications appeared in

Red Art Denied by Actor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Actor Tab Hunter Saturday sharply denied he had imported illegal Red Chinese art objects into this country.

He expressed strong desires to talk with E. E. Minskoff, a federal official who said in Los Angeles that Hunter could "be in very serious trouble" if he imported some $25,000 worth of rare and costly art objects seized by treasury agents there Friday.

"If it isn't one thing, it's another. I've been in for so many charges lately, everything including having my dog push someone into a swimming pool," the actor said.

• • • •

HUNTER, in Sacramento to enter his horses in competition at the California Spring Fair, declared that he would be "more than happy" to have Minskoff go over all invoices and "anything else he would like to see."

He said the only Chinese articles he knew about had been given to him on consignment by local parties. "Every antique shop has something Chinese," he added.

The actor said he planned to return Monday to Los Angeles as originally scheduled.

Auto of Bishop Hits 20 Persons

NEW YORK (AP)—A bishop's car went out of control during a children's religious parade in Queens Saturday and plowed into a crowd, injuring some 20 persons, mostly children.

At least two of the children were reported in critical condition at one of two Queens hospitals where the injured were taken by ambulance.

Police said Auxiliary Bishop Joseph P. Denning of the Brooklyn Diocese, who was to perform the Sacrament of Confirmation to which the children were marching, was the driver of the car.

• • • •

BISHOP Denning had just alighted from his car, police said, when it started to drift. He jumped back inside and put his foot on what he thought was the brake. Instead his foot struck the accelerator.

The car sped into the crowd watching the parade and witnesses said two children were dragged half a block before the auto could be stopped.

After going to the police station for brief questioning, Bishop Denning returned to St. Rita's and performed the Sacrament of Confirmation.

During the services, he asked parishoners to say an extra prayer for the injured children. He said that he was deeply concerned and would look in on them at the hospital.

He returned to the police station after the confirmation services and made a complete statement concerning the accident. Police said there would be no charges.

Orbit Shot Postponed to Thursday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The second U. S. man-in-orbit was postponed Saturday for at least another two days when scientists spotted new technical bugs, this time in the Atlas launching rocket.

The delay was the second in three days.

It came as scientists finished clearing up other troubles in the Aurora 7 space capsule's parachute system.

The news broke as astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, a Navy lieutenant commander, was running through final preparations for a launch he had expected for next Tuesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the next target date is Thursday, May 24, at the earliest.

FLY OLD GLORY

5 Patriotic Days Are on Calendar

An old sage recently remarked, ". . . the American people have to be in or near a war and scared to death before they're patriotic."

We don't agree; the American people are basically patriotic, only they don't make a show of it in their daily lives as they do during war times.

However, we do feel that there has been too little showing of our colors . . . and that is why The Independent, Press-Telegram is now putting on a drive to urge everyone in Long Beach and surrounding communities to "show our colors" Memorial Day, May 30; Flag Day, June 14; Independence Day, July 4; and Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

To make this possible, these newspapers have bought thousands of high quality 50-star flag sets from one of the largest and oldest flag companies in America. These sets are sold for $3.85 (plus tax) a fraction over their wholesale cost. The set consists of a 3x5 ft. flag of high quality bunting with bright, true colors that are rain and sun fast; a 6-foot flag pole, and bracket and screws to secure it to your home or building.

This flag set may be obtained at these addresses: Long Beach, 604 Pine Ave.; Garden Grove, 9624 Garden Grove Blvd.; Harbor City, 1428 W. Pacific Coast Highway, and Lakewood, 5056 Faculty Ave.

Many merchants in the Long Beach area also have excellent flags for sale.

JFK ASSAILS 'SWEATSHOP'

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday had a complaint when he spoke to the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union on a paved parking lot of a housing project in blazing 95-degree heat.

He began his address: "I want to register an official protest with the ILGWU about the sweatshop conditions under which you're working."

SISTERS OF CHARITY TO CELEBRATE SATURDAY

Dignitaries to Help Dedicate Hospital Wing

By GEORGE ERES

The year was 1959 and Sister Mary David made this entry in the Annals of St. Mary's Hospital, a black-bound book, she kept by hand:

"Plans for the long-awaited expansion of St. Mary's were given added impetus by the appointment of a lay advisory board to assist the sisters in long-range planning for improving St. Mary's and the community it serves."

Next Saturday afternoon, Sister Mary Laura, hospital administrator, who one year ago took over the post from Sister Mary David, will be able to make this entry in the hospital's log book:

"Today the new wing of the hospital, bringing the patient bed capacity to 350 and 12 surgeries and 74 bassinets was dedicated."

When six sisters of the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word came to Long Beach in 1923 to take over management of the recently purchased Long Beach Hospital, the structure had a bed-capacity of 70.

• • • •

IT WASN'T long before it became apparent a larger and better-equipped hospital was needed and plans were begun in 1929 for a bigger hospital. Various factors slowed the program and the program was not completed, but on March 10, 1933, the earthquake here took the matter out of the sisters' hands.

The hospital's summary of the events that day told the story:

". . . In the midst of fallen portions of ceiling and walls and of dust and mortar, the patients were removed by the nurses, sisters and lay volunteers to the lawn in front of the hospital. Miraculously, not a patient was hurt. With

L.A.C. Says:
Our Answer

A reader called us to complain—"Why do you worry so much about the steel companies, the stock market and profits—why not worry more about people?" Our answer is that you cannot objectively worry about people without taking into consideration the economic health of our corporations and the valuations of stocks on the stock market. These factors reach directly or indirectly into virtually every family in the nation.

There are over 15 million individuals who own shares in corporations in this country. Over 18 per cent of all the stocks listed are owned by insurance companies, mutual investment companies, colleges, churches and other nonprofit institutions and pension funds. Thus, everyone who has an interest in any of these institutions is affected by the success or failure of the corporations where stocks represent the savings of all the people.

The insurance company investments represent surplus funds which are to be used to pay off death benefits or annuities, or to return cash values to life insurance policyholders. Casualty companies hold large reserves to pay losses from fire, theft, earthquake and other major disasters—or for repairing your car after an accident. More and more of these reserves are being invested in common stocks from which they receive interest—which in turn hold down costs that otherwise would have to be charged in annual premiums.

Pension funds to pay workers on retirements are largely invested in common stocks—so interest will be earned and values added if stock prices increase. Colleges have endowment funds invested in stocks to provide income to hold down tuition charges to students. It would be hard to find a family that is not in some way involved in the safety of stocks and their ability to pay 3 to 5 per cent interest on the money invested in them. This is why one who worries about the welfare of the American people and its system must also be concerned about what happens to the earning ability of corporations and their stocks.

When we look back over 20, or even 10 years, we see much about which we should be concerned. We find the average yield of all stocks on the New York Stock Exchange dividend-paying stocks was 6.1 per cent in 1940—6.7 per cent in 1950, 4.2 per cent in 1960 and 3.3 per cent in 1961. The actual earnings were about one-third more for each year. The amount above what was paid in dividends was used for plant expansions—providing better and more jobs and technological development. The decreasing margin of profit is endangering both expansion and dividend returns.

These lower profit margins—which average about 4 cents on each dollar of sales—are caused by higher labor costs without equal price increases. Competition has held down prices while wage and fringe benefits have continued to rise. Now we find the President of the United States attempting to tell private enterprise what it can charge for its products—but he has failed to be equally outspoken as concerns what they must pay to produce their products.

These are factors that should interest every family in the nation—because these trends affect their investments, their church or college, their insurance or pension funds, and they also affect job security. In doing a little worrying about these fundamental principles, the people will be overcoming many reasons for worrying about themselves.—L.A.C.

DEEP DISCUSSION

Scientists Tape Porpoise Parley

By LOU JORST

Southern California scientists have recorded an underwater "conference" between a group of purpoises confronted by a submerged manmade barrier.

This was revealed by ocean researchers of the Lockheed-California Co. of Burbank.

The remarkable incident occurred recently during tests off the Baja California coast aboard the Los Angeles Harbor-based research vessel "Sea Quest."

SCIENTIST William Evans said a group of five porpoises stopped about one-quarter of a mile from a fence of aluminum poles and sent out a scout to investigate.

The scout returned to the group to report his findings with an exchange of shrill penetrating whistles which Evans said is comparable to sonar pulsations.

After about 30 minutes of porpoise palaver and several more scouting patrols the porpoises apparently decided the fence was harmless and swam through.

DURING the conversations the Sea Quest recorded 66 separate whistles of which eight identical patterns had already been recorded and identified from bottle-nosed porpoises kept at Marineland.

A technical paper on the incident and other research information on underwater sounds and the "talkative" porpoises was presented to the annual meeting of the Southern California Academy of Sciences last week in Norwalk, Lockheed reported.

Crowd Angered by 'Circus' Fiasco

By BOB GEIVET

A benefit billed as a gay circus in Anaheim turned into a vaudeville show, and an increasingly uneasy crowd all but disrupted the entertainers with catcalls and cries.

From the beginning, the widely heralded "circus" in La Palma Park, sponsored by Anaheim Lions Club as prelude to the city's "Hi Neighbor Day" Saturday, seemed to be jinxed.

Long lines formed before the only two ticket windows Friday night. Children, clutching free tickets and with their parents in tow to buy adult tickets for admission, became edgy and tired before they got inside the park stadium.

The entertainment was 40 minutes late in starting, and then it began under handicap of hundreds of youngsters on the field in front of the capacity crowd of 8,000 in the stands.

When Gentry Bros. showed no animal acts and no traditional circus features, the crowd began chanting, hurling insults and "boos" and otherwise interrupting the performers. Eyeing the hostile crowd, one team of entertainers refused to go on. Then the loudspeaker went out, and crowd-control was lost.

Dozens of angry spectators crowded around Lions Club officials and voiced complaints, some demanding refunds.

Police described them as "angry and hostile" but said there were no major disorders.

Dozens of refunds were made, some by individual Lions Club members.

Attorney Warren Schutz, former club president and one of a host of volunteers on the job, termed the whole affair "most unfortunate." He said the club advertised the show under the belief it would be a circus, with "traditional acts," and was "as surprised as anyone else to find that none were billed."

The club, sponsoring the entertainment as a fund-raising effort for its help-the-blind projects, was to get 10 per cent of the gross. Schutz said the club probably made about $1,400 "but wishes it could have profited under happier circumstances."

The "misunderstanding" as to what kind of entertainment would be presented "made us look like a bunch of country bumpkins being led to the slaughter by city slickers," Schutz moaned.

Baby Found Along With Corpse

LOS ANGELES (UP) — A sobbing, hungry, 2-year-old boy was found Saturday locked in a room with the body of a woman who had been dead about two days.

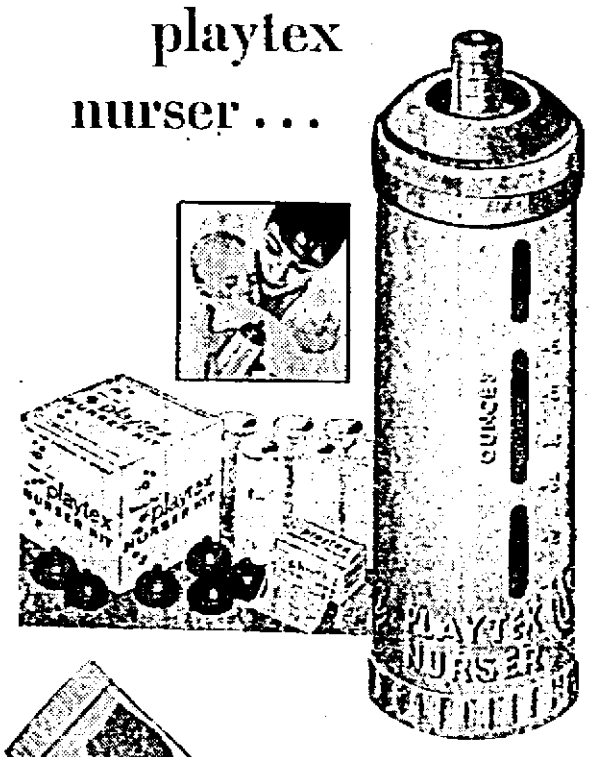

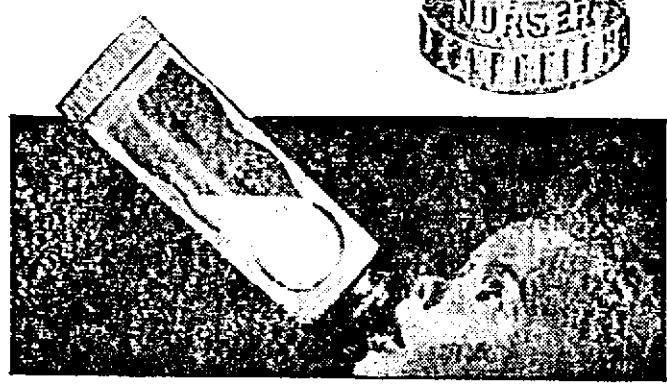

Mrs. Margaret Ortega, 55, had been stabbed in the head and throat, police said.

The youngster, Albert Juarez Hansen, was reported in good condition. He is the son of friends of the dead woman. She had been taking care of him.

Mrs. Ortega's body was discovered by her stepson, Daniel Ortega, 37, of Colton, in the bedroom of a boarded-up apartment at the rear of a market at 4003 City Terrace Dr., East Los Angeles.

Billie Estes Ordered to Stay in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department disclosed Saturday that indicted Texas magnate Billie Sol Estes has been served with a "departure control order" that warns him not to leave the United States.

This was announced as Sen. John L. McClellan's Senate investigations subcommittee made tentative plans to open its inquiry Monday into the politically explosive Estes case.

A Justice Department spokesman said the Immigration Service gave Estes the control order Friday night at his home in Pecos, Tex. The order notified Estes, who has been indicted for alleged fraud, that any plans he may have to leave "were not in the best interests" of the United States.

• • • •

UNDER THIS order, the spokesman said, all international traffic carriers and immigration officers would be alerted to the ban against Estes' foreign travel.

At the Capitol meantime, Senate investigators were speeding up the tempo of their inquiry into Estes' affairs, which have led to four government officials losing their jobs.

McClellan called a meeting of his subcommittee for Monday to start taking closed door testimony. His group will make the main congressional probe into the wide-ranging financial operations of the 37-year-old Texan.

The Arkansas Democrat said he and subcommittee aides have scheduled interviews in connection with the Estes case for Monday morning. He said he is pretty sure that the subcommittee can begin taking testimony at the afternoon session.

The subcommittee last Thursday approved a full investigation of Estes' cotton acreage allocation and grain storage operations. In doing so it specifically authorized closed-door hearings in preparations for public sessions later.

The public hearings are expected to begin next month.

Planes Miss Collision in AF Event

HANSCOM FIELD, Mass. (UPI)—Two Air Force C119 "Flying Boxcars" narrowly missed colliding Saturday during a mass takeoff at an Armed Forces Day exhibition at Hanscom Field witnessed by 120,000 spectators.

The two propeller-driven craft were part of a flight of five taking off from the field. The planes carried three-man Air Force crews. No one was injured in the near-collision.

The Air Force said the first plane of the group attached to the 94th Troop Carrier Wing took off safely. The second plane rolled down the runway without incident, but just as it left the ground the pilot found that its wheel-retracting mechanism had failed to function and immediately brought the craft down again.

The No. 3 plane in line, which had already begun its takeoff run, nearly collided with the No. 2 plane just as it prepared to lift off, but managed to swerve out of the way in time. The No. 4 and No. 5 planes took off without incident, the Air Force said.

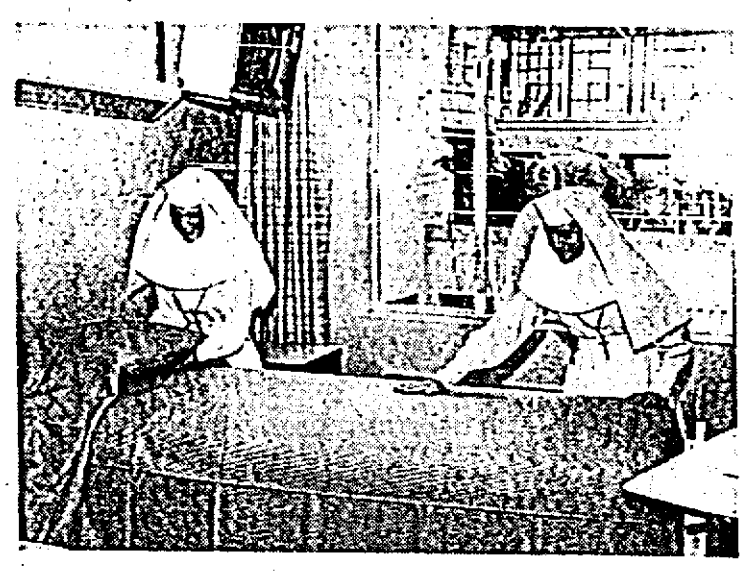

The show featured an exhibition of aerobatics by the "Golden Hawks" of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

It opened with a fly-over by the 103rd Tactical Fighter Group of the Connecticut Air National Guard.

Welfare Workers Set Biennial Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Health, Education and Welfare Department announced that research and statistics personnel from state public welfare agencies would meet here this week to consider trends affecting public assistance.

The Children's Bureau and the Bureau of Family Services will sponsor the fourth biennial conference. About 100 persons were expected to attend.

Sisters Build and Expand Hospital Despite Disaster

lighter quakes continuing every few minutes and the entire structure in danger of crumbling, first aid was hurriedly given to emergency victims who continued to gather on the lawn by the hospital. . . ."

The Sisters found that the hospital, chapel and convent were gone in the quake. All that remained was a small cottage which was used for living quarters.

They began rebuilding.

• • • •

A SMALL one-story building made do as a hospital while the new hospital, the present South wing went up on the site of the earthquake-demolished hospital. The new wing, a four-story structure served until 1947 when St. Mary's found the need again outstripping facilities and the North wing was added in 1949.

Sister Mary Timothy was on the staff then. She is still on the staff.

"About seven years ago," she recalled, "it became clear that we needed more room again. Every day, for many days we felt the crowded conditions."

There were emergency cases when waiting rooms and corridors and alcoves were used for bed space. Refusing patients beds came hard, but the space just wasn't available to handle the patient load.

Sister Mary Timothy read a further entry from Sister Mary David's "diary" of the period:

"The Sisters are justifiably proud of the 14-member board whose broad experience will be so helpful in the years to come. . . ."

• • • •

THE SISTERS had decided to engage in their first campaign for funds since coming to Long Beach in 1923. On the board were these members:

S. C. Cameron, Friend Combs, Dr. John C. Cottrell, John F. Craig, II, Mrs. Donald V. Davis, John Davis, Elmer Decker, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Bernard J. Dolan, J. W. Hancock, Joseph E. Madden, Mrs. Joseph W. Mullarky, Robinson A. Reid and Abe Tennenbaum.

The fund drive that followed was not just the usual drive for funds.

One of the heartening aspects of it was that the hospital's employes, not a highly paid group of workers, voluntarily donated $70,000 over a three-year period.

The Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word financed the biggest portion of the cost with $4,500,000, the community's contribution came to $1,500,000.

The new $6 million addition to St. Mary's is a five-story, 156,000-square-foot structure, so built that a sixth floor can be added to the modern new wing.

• • • •

IT WILL provide a spacious cafeteria (employes brought lunches or "ate out" previously), doctors' dining room, medical records department and medical library in addition to surgical, obstetrical and emergency room.

There are ten major surgical suites, two cystoscopic rooms, four major delivery rooms and nine separate nurseries.

The Sisters operate the hospital as a non-profit community hospital. It is non-sectarian and provides free and part-pay care to those in need through its clinic.

The medical staff is composed of 425 medical doctors, representing all specialties in modern medicine.

THE DEDICATION ceremonies next Saturday will mark the culmination of long hard work by the Sisters and the numerous volunteers who helped to realize the dream.

Associate Justice Thomas P. White of the California Supreme Court will be the guest speaker at the ceremony at which Dr. Carl W. MacIntosh, president of Long Beach State College will be master of ceremonies. His Eminence, James Francis Cardinal-McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, will bless the addition.

• • • •

SCHEDULED to speak on the program also will be:

Mayor Edwin W. Wade, James E. Brennan, M.D., chief of the Medical Staff; Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer, director, Health and Hospitals, Daniel H. Ridder, president of the Hospital Advisory Board and Cardinal McIntyre.

There will be another distinguished guest present at the dedication ceremonies. Sister Mary David, who a year ago returned to Houston, Texas, will be present to see the completion of the work undertaken while she was administrator.

Portugal Police End Rioting

COIMBRA, Portugal (UPI)—Shock police broke into a university building Saturday and forcibly removed 149 students who had barricaded themselves inside in an anti-government protest.

The students, many of them girls, were herded out of the university's academic association building and into 10 police wagons. It was believed they were being taken to Lisbon 140 miles away.

Steel-helmeted riot police continued to guard the university grounds and the municipal stadium where a soccer game was scheduled for today.

• • • •

EARLIER reports had put the number of students behind the barricade at some 300 but as police hustled them into the paddy-wagons a head-count showed 149.

The students locked themselves inside the building late last night as part of the current protests against government interference with their student union.

Several townspeople joined the students inside the building while police used rifle butts to break up a sit-down demonstration by other students in the street outside.

• • • •

IN LISBON, the education ministry—which claims that the student protests are communist-inspired—warned that "collective insubordination" in the universities would not be tolerated.

The ministry said it would suspend any "unruly" students for up to 90 days. In addition, it said, government authorities would assume responsibility for keeping order in the universities—until now a carefully guarded prerogative of university officials.

University undergraduates in Lisbon, Coimbra and Oporto have been staging anti-government demonstrations since mid-March.

Farm Officials' Death Quiz Calls Dozens, Asks U.S. Aid

FRANKLIN, Tex. (UPI)—Authorities issued subpoenas by the dozen Saturday and prepared to serve still more for Monday's grand jury hearing into the mystery death of Henry Marshall, 52, a farm official mentioned in the Billie Sol Estes scandals.

HENRY MARSHALL
Five-Bullet 'Suicide'

Among those called to the session were two doctors and a hospital authority. They were instructed to bring x-ray photographs of the body.

State Dist. Judge John M. Barron and Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ called the grand jury.

Judge Barron said Saturday, after 54 subpoenaes were issued, "We are working very closely with the FBI in Bryan and Houston to get their records, and we want to invoke the aid of the U.S. government to get their records made available to this jury."

BARRON REPORTED that investigators are determining who in Pecos, Tex., Estes' headquarters, should be summoned.

Marshall was found dead June 3, 1961, shot five times with a bolt-action, .22-caliber rifle. Justice of the Peace Lee Farmer issued an official ruling of suicide.

Barron and Russ said they will ask Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman "to come down if he has any pertinent information to offer."

Freeman made a statement May 7 that much of the Estes case remains cloudy because many of the facts died with Marshall.

Judge Barron said Saturday that subpoenas have been issued for Dr. James I. Lindsey, Marshall's personal physician; Sister Gregory of St. Joseph's Hospital and Dr. Dwight M. Andres, a Bryan doctor.

COLLEGE COURTIN' ROOM

It's Amazing Who Furnishes Opposition to This Idea

dorm's two semi-private reception rooms are now being used for other purposes.

Mrs. Smith said she was instrumental in getting the weekend male exclusion time at the dorm extended an hour to 1 a.m. "I thought it would be better to have the boys in here rather than have the couples out someplace else."

Three residents of the men's dormitory—a parking lot's distance away—voted 2-1 against the proposal.

Chuck Fierce, 20, a Los Angeles sophomore, thought it would create extra expense. "It also the rooms would be used enough because people would be too embarrassed to go in. The kids would still go out in cars because it's a little more private."

Universally decried was the lack of privacy in both dorms. Boothroyd set the tenor: "Try to study and the whole world comes in could turn more or less into a big orgy. What we really need is more privacy for study."

A dissenting voice was raised by Dave McGourty, a junior from Capistrano Beach. "I favor the idea. The situation now just creates tension. It would be nice to kiss a girl good night at the dorm without a bunch of people milling around. After all, it's nobody else's business."

The deciding "thumbs down" ballot was cast by Pete Boothroyd, 20, of Westchester. "I don't think your room."

Crooks Embezzle Russian Factory

MOSCOW (UPI)—The newspaper Red Star said Saturday a military accessories factory in Leningrad was converted by crooks into a private plant producing pens, folders and shaving goods.

The newspaper, the ministry of defense organ, said the racketeers "embezzled over 2 million old rubles ($220,000) while operating the Leningrad military accessories factory and actually turned his state plant into a private plant."

The newspaper said the ringleader was G. I. Provarinets who hid been production chief of the factory. Red Star said police were currently investigating and the gang would be brought to trial.

• • • •

ACCORDING to the newspaper, members of the gang infiltrated into various position in the factory "and honest people were driven out from the workshops on different pretexts."

The ring also "closely collaborated with dealers in trade circles" and groomed "salesmen" to facilitate distribution of their goods.

The newspaper said the factory, which originally produced military insignia, and emblems, turned out 52,000 fountain pens in three years whose total value was 1.2 million old rubles ($132,000).

The pens sold for 25 rubles a piece ($2.75). The price paid was divided, 15 rubles ($1.65) going to the manufacturers and 10 rubles ($1.10) going to salesmen.

• • • •

THE MEMBERS of the gang bribed the director of the factory, A. A. Sokolov, to obtain permission to manufacture pens, folders, and shaving goods, the newspaper said.

Heads of workshops were reported to have given the director regular bribes which were jokingly called "Abyssinian tax."

The illicit merchandise was never entered in the books of the factory.

The newspaper also said the gang infiltrated its members into the local party organization.

Kaye Better, Still Feels 'Pretty Punk'

Burglar Robs Home of $3,000

A bold burglar took more than $3,000 in jewelry, cash and clothing from the home of Long Beach attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey, 260 Granada Ave., police said Saturday.

The burglar broke into the home through a patio screen early Saturday morning while Ramsey and his wife, Helen, were asleep.

He entered their bedroom and took three jewel boxes, police said. From an adjoining dressing room, he stole $100 in bills and Ramsey's wallet as well as other jewel boxes, then took Ramsey's electric shaver from a bathroom.

Among items the former Long Beach city prosecutor reported missing was a briefcase containing several transcripts of court trials.

AMA Head Says Treasury Looted

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the American Medical Association charged Saturday the "the U.S. Treasury is being looted" to promote the health care for the aged plan endorsed by the Kennedy administration.

Dr. Leonard W. Larson said the American people have a right to know "how much it is costing them" and who is organizing rallies around the country to promote adoption of the program.

He said in a statement:

"Tax money is being scooped out of the Treasury and government officials and employes are being turned loose in numbers we cannot count in a massive propaganda blitz designed to pressure Congress into enacting the King-Anderson Bill for health care for the aged, a bill that millions of Americans do not want.

• • • •

"THE FACTS should be revealed about the rallies that are being held around the country to promote this bill and about the National Council of Senior Citizens, the ostensible sponsor of these rallies.

"How were these rallies organized, who is masterminding and coordinating them, who is really behind the National Council of Senior Citizens, where is this organization is getting its money and why it isn't registered as a lobbyist?"

President Kennedy is slated to address a Madison Square Garden rally tonight in New York sponsored by the Golden Ring Council of Senior Citizens, but Larson made no specific reference to the President.

Larson, a doctor from Bismarck, N. D., said:

"Hordes of government employes and officials from numerous executive departments are roaming the country at taxpayers' expense as itinerant salesmen for the King-Anderson Bill, misrepresenting the product and promising things they cannot deliver.

• • • •

"THIS GIGANTIC campaign amounts to taxation for misrepresentation.

"The cabinet has been transformed into a part-time political lobbying organization, and government employes in a four-room White House office suite and in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are working full time to flood the country with news releases, articles, radio and television spots, cartoons, booklets and advertisements plugging this proposal for government-controlled health care. The flood has reached such proportions that some newsmen say they don't even have time to open the envelopes."

GOP Looks to Ike for Party Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., expressed confidence Saturday that Republicans will find in a meeting with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Monday a key to party campaign unity.

A committee of six senators and six house members will sit down at breakfast with the former president to go over the draft of a party statement of principles to guide GOP candidates in the fall elections.

"I am confident," Laird said in a statement, "that we will bring in a statement that will set forth the basic Republican principles on which all Republican candidates can and will run this fall.

• • • •

"THIS AGAIN will demonstrate that we Republicans are the only national party. It will evidence anew that we are not simply a coalition of divergent groups, as are the Democrats. All Democrats cannot possibly run on a single statement of principles."

Laird and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, serve as co-chairmen of the drafting group.

The group, formed in March, expects to have its final statement ready for presentation to the Senate and House GOP caucuses June 7. The GOP National Committee, meeting in Seattle, Wash., a few days later, then will be asked to pass upon it.

On June 23 Eisenhower will be the principal speaker at the Republican congressional dinner in Washington, a $100-a-plate fund-raising affair. Some 3,000 Republican leaders are expected to attend.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Two Men Perish in Mexico Quake

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The second earthquake in eight days rocked Mexico City and areas along the Pacific Saturday. Two men were killed—one toppling to his death from a swaying building.

As the quake struck at 8.58 a.m.—and lasted one minute and 10 seconds—a frightened driver lost control of his truck and ran over a man in the street. The pedestrian was killed. Roy A. Blay, 50, a Canadian businessman from Goderich, Ont., was believed to have suffered a fatal heart attack due to the earthquake but a death certificate showed later he died eight minutes before the quake began.

Damage was slight in Mexico City but extensive in Acapulco, the Pacific Coast resort town, and surrounding areas. Tourists in Acapulco rushed from their hotels in panic but none was reported injured. However, 17 residents of the city were rushed to hospitals.

Retired Admiral Alan Goodrich Kirk, President Kennedy's new ambassador to Nationalist China, poses Saturday in his Washington home. He succeeds Everett Dumright.

2 A-Bombs Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Saturday set off its 12th nuclear explosion in less than a month in the Pacific and also detonated an underground blast at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site.

The underground shot was the 33rd in a series that began last September. The Pacific tests began April 25 and all explosions including Saturday's—with one exception—occurred in the atmosphere.

LEESBURG, Va. (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy was a surprise participant in the Loudoun Hunt Horse Show Saturday.

Mrs. Kennedy, accompanied by her young daughter, Caroline, came here from the Kennedy leased estate Glen Ora. President Kennedy was in New York over the weekend. Clad in riding habit, Mrs. Kennedy rode Minbreno in three classes and took third place in the Maj. Larry Lawrence Memorial Trophy event for owner-riders.

Grenade Injures 3 Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Three American servicemen and eight Vietnamese were injured Saturday night by a grenade explosion on a street before a U.S. military billet in downtown Saigon.

The bombing followed a similar incident Thursday when a grenade explosion at a sidewalk cafe frequented by U.S. servicemen injured two Germans. None of Saturday's victims was believed seriously injured.

Ikeda Faces Laos Criticism

TOKYO (Sunday) (AP)—Deployment of Japan-based U.S. planes to Thailand threatened trouble today for staunchly pro-American Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda.

With Upper House elections scheduled July 1, opposition Socialists are expected to deplore the shifting of an unannounced number of U.S. reconnaissance, transport and air rescue craft to the Laotian crisis area from Japanese bases. Sentiment throughout Japan is strong against being involved in war measures.

Admits Hurling Tots to Death

BOSTON (AP)—Police obtained two murder warrants Saturday against a 27-year-old mother who has admitted hurling her two small children to their death from a ninth floor hotel window.

However, police said they will not be served unless Mrs. Ann Peters of Worcester, an attractive brunette, is judged sane. She was sent to Boston state (mental) hospital for observation.

M'Carthy, Byrd Blast Tax Plans

prospect for the tax-credit provision.

Nevertheless, Senate Democratic whip Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., predicted Congress will approve the principal features of the tax-revision bill.

Appearing on a weekend news program with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., Sen. Humphrey said tax credit for new plant and equipment investment "will be adopted." On withholding, the senator was more cautious. He predicted Congress will approve the provision "even if the Senate does not vote for it in the Senate bill."

* * * *

HUMPHREY argued that the House passed withholding on a roll-call vote and therefore "it's not about ready to compromise it away" in conference with the Senate.

Sen. McCarthy said he shares Sen. Byrd's view that the withholding proposal is "impracticable."

Sen. Byrd said withholding would be "terribly complex," would "overtax people for extended periods and impose hardship and inconvenience on citizens as well as banks and business" and erode public confidence in the tax system.

Burglars Peel Safe, Get $900

Burglars peeled the door from a six-foot-high safe at the C. B. Lind Tire Service, 3000 Cherry Ave. to get more than $900 in cash, police said Saturday.

Officers said the thieves forced open a side door to the company office then tipped the safe onto its back, knocked off the combination lock and pried the door open with a pry bar from a tool cabinet.

'Awesome Power' Answers Red Threat

By United Press International

Communist China warned the United States Saturday of a "worse defeat than Korea" if the American build-up in Southeast Asia continued. The United States warned it would use "awesome combat power" in Southeast Asia if necessary.

In Thailand, 500 more U.S. Army and Marine combat troops landed on a flight from Hawaii. Another 500 were reported en route soon to push U.S. combat strength toward the 5,000 mark along a broad arc facing the Communist-threatened border of Laos.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, the top U. S. commander in Asia, toured the Marine encampment near the Laotian border Saturday and planned to visit the U.S. Army encampment Sunday before flying back to Saigon to take up the struggle against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

The Chinese Communist warning was broadcast both by Peiping Radio and by the Communist New China news agency. It said Red China absolutely "cannot tolerate" any new American bridgeheads in Southeast Asia bordering the China mainland.

Earlier in the week Peiping said "the Chinese people cannot remain indifferent" to American military moves in Southeast Asia. The broadcasts were strangely similar to those of Sept. 30, 1950, preceding Chinese intervention in Korea—that Red China "will not stand idly by."

The American statement of "awesome combat power" came from Gen. George H. Decker, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, in an Armed Forces Day ceremony in West Berlin. But he said he did not believe American troops in Thailand would enter Laos.

Decker said it was not clear whether the Communists in Laos had started a limited offensive or planned to try to take over the whole country.

Referring to the recent Berlin crisis, he said that the "awesome power" would be used in Europe as well as Southeast Asia if necessary.

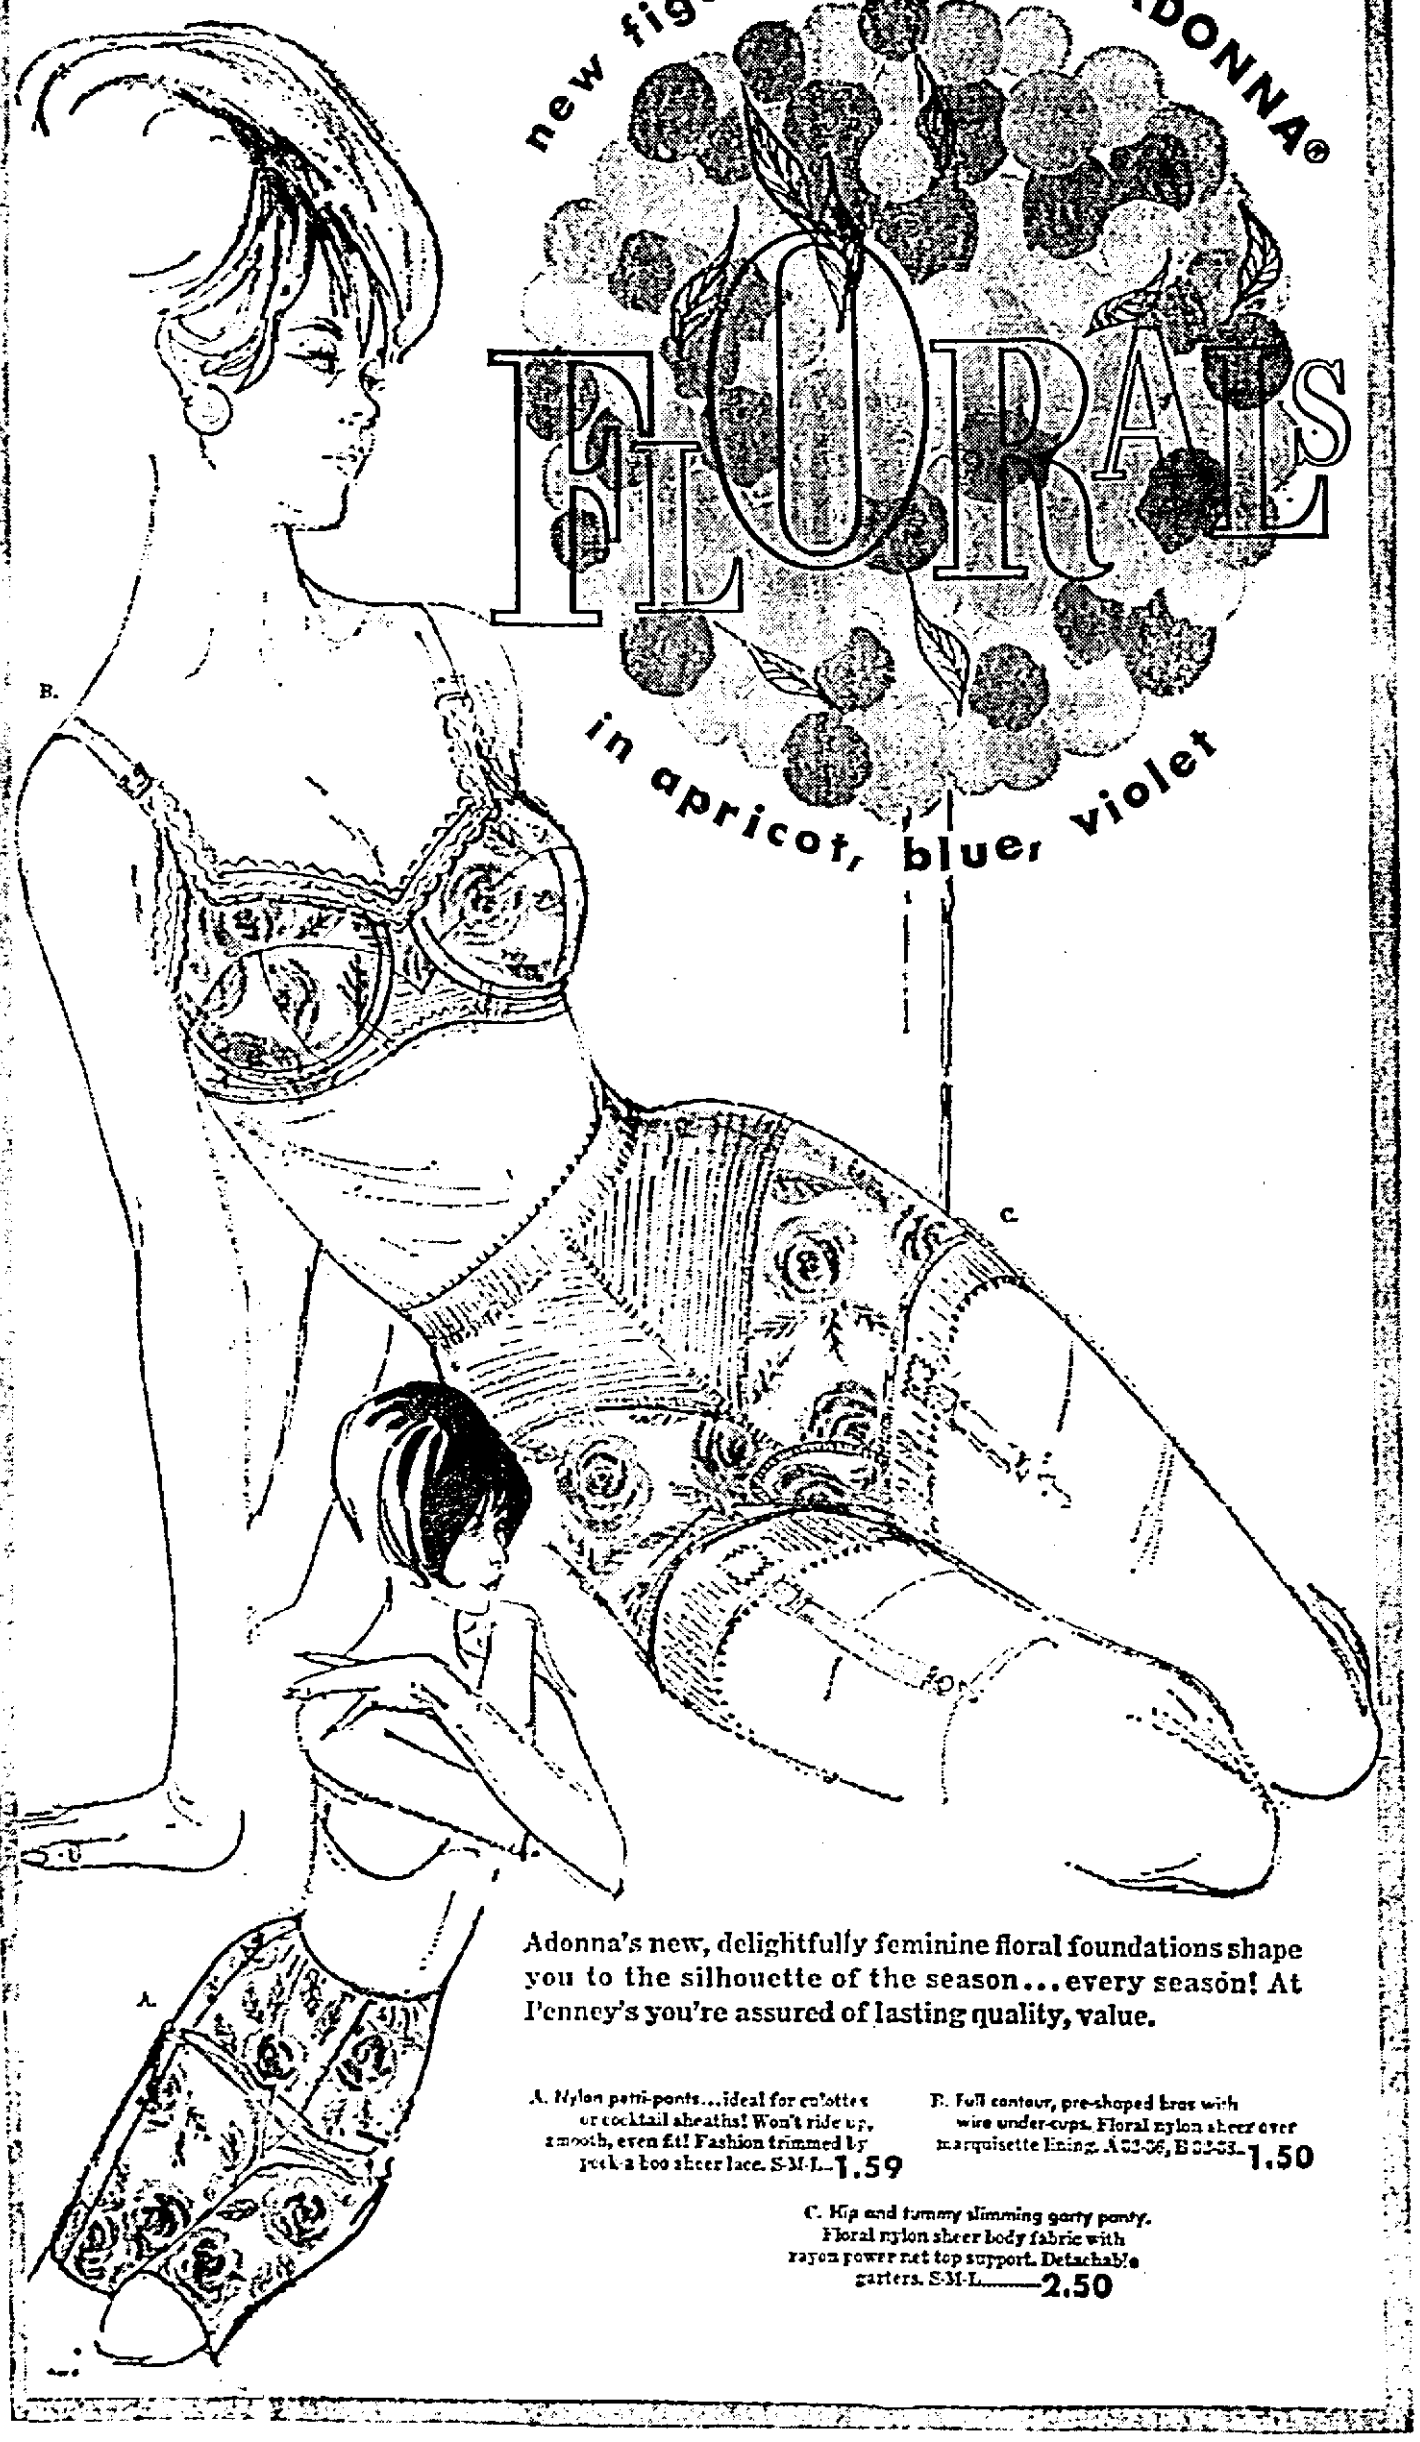

No new fighting was reported from Laos where government troops have been reported sending patrols north toward captured Nam Tha in the northwestern sector toward the borders of Red China, Thailand and Burma.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, leader of the neutralist faction in Laos, left London Saturday by plane for his headquarters on the Plain of Jars and possible meetings with the right-wing and left-wing rival princes on formation of a coalition government.

Souvanna conferred in London with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and a spokesman said afterwards that "Lord Home fully endorsed Souvanna Phouma's efforts to work for a coalition government in a unified, independent and neutral Laos."

The Mentally Ill Called Road Peril

lination each year to keep their bus permit.

California Department of Motor Vehicles does have the power to force a driver to take a medical examination before his license is evaluated—but it is used sparingly on only the most extreme cases. Reason: lawmakers never appropriated enough money for a medical evaluation of all drivers.

The authority is used to check out license applicants who look ill and those with bad driving records. But the potential traffic killer with emotional problems isn't necessarily spotted in advance.

DMV does check petitions filed in psychiatric court and acts on information from law enforcement agencies when drivers become alcoholics or narcotics addicts.

Also, doctors are compelled by the health codes to notify the state if a patient has epilepsy or some other similar chronic disorder that may cause him to black out. One barrier to reports: a doctor could lose a patient if the patient is angered by losing his driver's license.

BUT THERE IS NO WAY THAT DMV learns about more temporary ailments. And if a psychiatrist hospital discharges a patient and declares him sane, it is likely the patient will get back his driving privilege.

Meantime, DMV is trying to weed out potentially dangerous drivers.

Jim Conn, supervisor of DMV's district driver improvement section in Los Angeles, said hundreds of licenses are revoked or suspended each month in California. In a recent 30-day period, licenses were chopped off for 2,123 drivers—23 per cent of them because of physical and mental factors.

One indication of dangerous drivers with valid licenses: sometimes the situation gets so bad that a relative, neighbor or friend tips off the DMV that a driver's license should be revoked for his own protection.

IN SOME CASES, A SON TURNS in his own mother—or a wife her own husband. DMV investigates and may ask the driver to submit his medical record. If the record looks as if it may someday trigger an accident, his license is likely to be revoked.

Why aren't the medical records of all California drivers checked? One DMV official estimated the DMV budget would have to be doubled and its manpower tripled for a proper evaluation of medical records of all eight million California drivers.

Asked how many Long Beach relatives turned in their own family members in 1961 to DMV for license re-examination, DMV manager Howard R. Link acknowledged there were several.

He declined to discuss any of the specific cases for fear of causing family troubles. But the number of medical records called for by DMV still is just a trickle. One estimate for Long Beach: about 100 to 200.

Civil Rights Gains Cited by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)— Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson hailed the administration's record in civil rights Saturday but jabbed at the Senate leadership for failing to get a literacy test bill.

Addressing community leaders from across the nation at a conference on equal job opportunity, Johnson told of a long struggle when he was Senate majority leader to produce the 1960 civil rights bill.

Then, in a pointed reference to the recent action of the Senate in dropping a bill aimed at banning discriminatory literacy tests because it couldn't shut off debate, he added:

"And we didn't quit at 5 o'clock and we didn't lay off on Saturdays. We stayed right at it and we got a bill."

Johnson's successor as majority leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., kept the Senate to fairly regular hours despite a southern filibuster against the literacy bill. Mansfield said he didn't want to turn the discussion into a contest of endurance. He tried twice later to obtain a two-thirds vote to shut off debate, failed and shelved the measure for this session.

Johnson headed a list of top administration officials who pledged the full support of the government in efforts to broaden job opportunities for Negroes. Others who spoke were Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff.

JFK IRED BY LAOS STRONGMAN

U.S. Policy Is Failure in Asia Crisis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sudden crisis which swept U.S. troops into southeast Asia last week appears to have resulted in part from a failure of U.S. policy in Laos.

This has caused searching but so far informal discussion among high officials of the Kennedy administration about what went wrong and whether similar error can be avoided in future.

So far President Kennedy's angry dissatisfaction has centered on Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman in the pro-Western Royal Lao government of Premier Boun Oum.

THE WHITE House and State Department are understood to have told American representatives in the field that Phoumi's power must be curtailed—preferably by getting him to yield his various cabinet positions and confine himself to purely military matters.

Administration informants said all U.S. government agencies involved in Laos have given assurances that they have loyally supported Kennedy's policy of trying to settle the dispute through formation of a three-way coalition government. There have been suspicions, particularly in high quarters of the State Department, that some elements of the U.S. government might have been pulling against other elements and encouraging Phoumi to disregard the U.S. advice he was receiving officially.

This speculation arose because there are divisions within official Washington over whether a neutral Laos with a government of neutralists, Communists and pro-Western elements has any chance of withstanding an eventual Communist takeover.

THE GROUPS principally involved in the Laos struggle, apart from the White House, have been the State and Defense Departments and the Central Intelligence Agency. The basic problem with which they have been trying to work since 1954 arises from the fact that when Laos was created out of the wreckage of French Indo-China certain pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebel forces were left unreconciled within the country.

With the long-distance support of Russia, the more immediate encouragement of Red China and the direct help of the neighboring Communist state of North Viet Nam, the Pathet Lao developed into a spearhead of a Red campaign to take over the country.

Several years ago, during the Eisenhower Administration, the United States rejected a neutralist solution for Laos and the Boun Oum government took over as a strongly pro-Western regime. Gen. Phoumi became the central figure in the administration, reportedly with powerful backing from the CIA. As deputy premier, minister of defense and minister of the interior he has wide powers.

A YEAR AGO, President Kennedy moved U.S. sea and air forces into the Southeast Asian area, but in the face of opposition from allies like Britain and France, and non-intervention advice from some of his own officials, he decided against landing combat troops.

Kennedy decided also to support a program to make Laos neutral under a government of national union headed by neutralist Prince Souvannah Phoumi. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev subscribed to this program, including a cease-fire, when Kennedy and he met at Vienna a year ago.

The cease-fire has been violated from time to time, but a little more than two weeks ago it was shattered by a Communist assault on the Royal Lao garrison town of Nan Tha, provincial capital in northwest Laos.

The Red move produced an extraordinary reaction in Washington. Instead of raising a massive outcry against the Communists, U.S. officials told newsmen that Phoumi carried at least a large part of the responsibility.

Biggest Day Is Saddest; Fiance Dies

ROUSES POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — For Patricia Anthony of Rouses Point, Saturday was to be her big day—her wedding day.

When the prospective bridegroom and his best man hadn't arrived at the church shortly before 9 a.m., a call was put in to local police in an effort to find them.

Local authorities asked state troopers for help and were told that two bodies had been found at 8:30 a.m. by a farmer in Champlain, N. Y., about three miles away.

The dead were Arthur Mott, 31, who was to have been married to Patricia this morning and his friend, Richard Frenyea, 24, who was to have been best man.

State police said it appeared that the motorcycle the two men were riding failed to negotiate a curve, left the highway and struck a tree. A coroner estimated the men died about 11 p.m. Friday night.

Pair Die From Dope Overdose

MEXICALI, Mexico (UPI) —A San Francisco man and woman died of an apparent overdose of narcotics and their bodies were placed in a Mexicali motel, police reported Saturday.

Two other San Francisco men were being held for questioning in the Yuma, Ariz., county jail.

Authorities identified the dead as Richard Colombo, 25, and Lorraine Weber, 21.

Held were Robert Rosales, 25, and Roger Lira, 26.

• • • •

POLICE SAID they were informed that Rosales and Lira told customs officials below Yuma that the four had driven to Tijuana from San Francisco Wednesday and rented a motel room. Rosales said Colombo purchased some heroin and that all took a shot except Lira.

Rosales said he became ill and went into the bathroom. When he came out he said Colombo and Miss Weber were rolling on the floor and turning blue. He said Miss Weber died in the room.

Police said Rosales and Lira took the woman's body and Colombo in their car and drove to a spot in the desert 100 miles east of Yuma. They then discovered Colombo had died and they returned to Mexicali.

There, they rented a motel room and placed the bodies on a bed. They then again drove east and crossed the border at San Luis, below Yuma.

Food Poisoning Outbreak Noted Over 18 States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A mysterious outbreak of food poisoning which caused serious illnesses in 18 states has apparently "about run its course," a U.S. Public Health Service spokesman said.

The food poisoning was caused by a rare type of bacteria known as Salmonella Hartford. Prior to this year, no more than 20 cases of food poisoning by this particular germ had been identified in the whole history of the United States.

Since early this year, however, there have been 25 laboratory confirmed cases of salmonella Hartford poisoning, and 42 suspected cases which were not definitely confirmed by laboratory tests.

Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown will make his second campaign appearance within five days in Long Beach when he is honored by the newly formed Long Beach Democratic Community Club at an 8 to 10 p.m. reception Tuesday at the California Avenue Recreation Center, 1550 California Ave.

Gov. Brown will present achievement awards to nine out-standing students selected by the club's education committee, chaired by Dr. E. B. Bush. Awards will go to: Barbara Daggs, Evelyn Daggs, Ann V. Herrington, Deborah Hill, Brenda K. Nelson and Alice Simpson, all for scholarship; Marsha D. Mosley and Gene Washington for leadership; Romie Hargrove for citizenship.

The governor's address will follow presentation of awards.

Officers of the new club are: Everett E. Ricks Jr., president; James Bell, first vice president; Levi Howard, second vice president; Percy Anderson, treasurer; Henrietta Dixon, secretary, and Virginia Towns, recording secretary.

On the advisory board are attorneys William L. White, Edwin J. Wilson, Huey P. Shepard, doctors E. B. Bush, Charles T. Terry, Horace Rains and Elliott Robertson and William H. Harris.

The public is invited to the reception. Refreshments will be served. Brown will spend the night here at the Doric Capri Hotel, 530 E. Ocean Blvd.

RICHARDS NAMES LYMAN

State Sen. Richard Richards has appointed Long Beach attorney Willis T. Lyman to head the Richards for United States Senate Committee in this area. Richards said he became acquainted with Lyman in the South Pacific during World War II.

Lyman, a retired National Guard general, who was area chairman for Kennedy here in 1960, said the first of several local Richards headquarters has been opened at 1400 E. Wardlow Road. Lyman issued a call for "all interested citizens to join me in sending to Washington a great, dynamic voice to aid the Kennedy New Frontier program." He noted that, percentagewise, this congressional district gave Richards the best vote of any area in Los Angeles County at his last election.

GARRISON LAUDED

Capt. Charles M. Garrison, Republican candidate for Assembly in the East Long Beach 39th District, received a couple of plaudits and got in some licks of his own.

Commodore Schuyler F. Heim, USN retired, told a coffee hour group that "Garrison is a man with a program for the fundamental good of us all . . . and has demonstrated his ability to convert his program into action by legislation."

Lorne D. Middough, former assemblyman, said a Garrison vote "is a solid vote against communism"; he is a man "with no selfish purpose . . . California needs big men, men of stature, not partisan rope jumpers."

Garrison charged the state is being destroyed by excessive concentration of power and wastefulness, noting Brown's administration accounted for a 17 per cent hike in taxes while salaries were up only 8 per cent . . . "It is my avowed intention to help stop this incompetence . . ."

Factory Sales Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Factory sales of durable goods in April advanced to a record $16.4 billion despite a sharp drop in steel sales, the Commerce Department reported.

Sales of autos, household appliances, machinery and other durable rose 1 per cent from March, after allowing for seasonal fluctuations, and were one-sixth higher than in April of 1961.

Five Public Lectures During Week in L.B.

Five continuing public lectures are announced for this week by the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

Lorser Feitelson, third speaker in the series on contemporary art, will present an illustrated lecture on "Abstract Painting" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Rogers Junior High School auditorium.

Feitelson has had his own paintings exhibited in museums throughout the U.S. and is lecturer at Art Center School and chairman of exhibitions for the Los Angeles Art Association. He is widely known for his KRCA-NBC television program, "Feitelson on Art."

Dr. Richard B. Loomis of Long Beach State College will present an illustrated talk on desert amphibians and reptiles at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Rogers Junior High auditorium. This is the third program on "Plants and Animals of the Southern California Deserts."

Alexander C. G. Van Dyke, M. D., fourth speaker of the "Your Child's Health" series, will discuss "Hereditary Diseases of Children" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Mark Twain School auditorium.

35 YEARS AFTER GREAT FEAT, 'LONE EAGLE' STILL BIG FACTOR IN AVIATION

Lindbergh Likes Quiet Life Out of Public Eye

EDITOR'S NOTE—Thirty-five years ago Charles A. Lindbergh made history by flying alone from New York to Paris. The feat brought him fame, followed by searing personal tragedy. At the dawn of the space age, America now has a new hero. But yesterday's is making a far bigger contribution to modern aviation than most people suspect.

By JULES LOH
AP Newsfeature Writer

A team of experts on science and defense, known on the record as the Strategic Missile Evaluation Committee, met in a room at the Pentagon in 1954 and made a critical decision.

The committee's function was to help the government decide what direction Americas' missile program should take, and the advice it gave that day was to go ahead with development of the Atlas—the rocket John Glenn was destined to ride into space.

One of the members of that committee was Charles A. Lindbergh.

The coincidence is intriguing, in view of the inordinate parallels that have been drawn between the two aviation pioneers on every level from courage displayed to confetti thrown.

• • • •

BUT FAR MORE interesting to many is that Charles Lindbergh was in 1954 and is today—on the 35th anniversary of his storied flight from New York to Paris—actively involved in aviation. His counsel is sought at the highest levels, his schedule crowded with appointment, conferences, trips, his interest in current affairs never livelier, his circle of friends never broader.

This may surprise some who were asking, amid the tumult raised for Glenn, whatever became of Lindbergh?

The vague, general impression is that Lindbergh long ago withdrew to some secluded island, cutting himself off from a society which once had lionized him but which also had refused him a moment's peace even after the 1932 kidnaping of his son.

• • • •

SHORTLY BEFORE the kidnaper, Bruno Hauptmann, was executed in 1936 Lindbergh moved to England. He returned four years later but didn't re-emerge as a public figure his impassioned 1941 campaign to keep the United States out of World War II.

After the war Lindbergh did buy an island, two of them in fact, but he doesn't live on either. He lives solidly on the mainland in Darien, Conn., and he lives as normally as anyone else—except in one respect. He simply avoids the public eye.

He attends very few public functions. A rare exception was his recent appearance with his wife at a White House dinner in honor of Andre Malraux, French minister of culture. His telephone is unlisted. His mailbox is nameless. His business associates refuse to divulge his whereabouts to the merely curious, and his friends likewise are voluntarily protective of him.

• • • •

LINDBERGH IS in no sense secluded.

He goes about freely. He stands on the platform with the commuters from Darien, Conn., and takes the train with them to New York. He walks through Grand Central Station and window shops on Fifth Avenue and rides in taxicabs and airplanes and elevators. He stays in hotels when he's out of town, and when he's home he putters around the lawn and goes to the post office and fishes in the sound and chats with the neighbors and welcomes the friends who come to visit his children.

CHARLES A. LINDBERGH
The Lone Eagle

He doesn't wear dark glasses or false whiskers or make any contrived effort to hide his identity. He doesn't have to.

Only a handful of photographs of Lindbergh have appeared in the last 20 years. He studiously avoids photographers and, as one of his close friends explained, "Slim has developed the knack of being inconspicuous into a fine art; he's better at it than any detective."

• • • •

AND SO THE MAN once known on sight by thousands today, at 60, can stroll the streets a stranger.

Lindbergh's cultivated anonymity gives him deliverance, at last, from that unrelenting army of transom peepers he once had to flee the country to escape. But more than that, it enables him to keep his professional life free from the clutter of banquets, speeches, award presentations and such that are the inevitable inheritance of prominence.

"If I accepted all the invitations I would like to, from the people I like," Lindbergh once told Lauren D. Lyman, whose friendship dates back before the 1927 flight, "I would be busy every night for two years."

Lindbergh's schedule wouldn't permit that; it's already full.

• • • •

HE STILL IS A consultant for the Defense Department, helped select the site of the Air Academy, and according to a Pentagon spokesman "has made major contributions to the ballistic missile program." He also is aviation consultant for the Library of Congress and has been the go-between in acquiring a number of historical documents. "I would say Charles Lindbergh is one of the most active men in the country," said Marvin W. McFarland, chief of the library's Aeronautics Division.

Lindbergh's work for Pan American World Airways has, in a sense, gone full circle.

He explored the first air routes from North America to Europe for the company in 1933, some of them still in use today. Later he helped Pan-Am develop its first transoceanic clippers, and not long ago earned part of the credit for the company's pioneering switch to jet airliners.

• • • •

HE LIKES TO visit his boys on the West Coast, Jon, 29 now, in California; Land, 24, in Washington, the father of a brand new baby girl. The other three children live at home: Anne, 21; Scott, 19, Reeve, 16.

Home, for the past 16 years, has been a gracious Tudor-style house.

It is far from the most pretentious house in the posh neighborhood, but few have as much charm.

• • • •

SURELY SOMEWHERE within the paneled walls of that house are mementoes of Lindbergh's bold victory 35 years ago — the Medal of Honor, the Royal Air Cross, the Legion of Honor, the Order of Leopold, awards and decorations from 31 countries in all; the Wright Memorial Trophy, the Guggenheim Medal.

And likely he will reflect on the flight this anniversary day.

The dream was born one moon-bright night when he was flying the St. Louis to Chicago mail run. St. Louis to Chicago. Why not New York to Paris?

Others were trying it, mostly two-man teams with costly twin-engine jobs. Lindbergh was convinced the only way it could be done was by one man—a lone eagle, so to say—in a single-engine plane. Few would listen. Finally, nine St. Louis men agreed to loan him the money for a plane which Lindbergh himself-helped design. "The Spirit of St. Louis," he called it.

• • • •

IT WAS DRIZZLING over Long Island at 7:52 a.m. May 20, 1927, but the weather ahead looked favorable enough. Lindbergh slid casually into the narrow cockpit and listened to the throb of the 220-horsepower engine.

"She sounds good to me," said the mechanic.

"Well, then, I might as well go."

The monoplane, heavy with fuel, lumbered down Roosevelt Field's soggy runway, lifted slightly into the air, down again with a muddy splash, then up laboriously into the haze and out of sight.

Each step along the 3,640-mile route was carefully measured at 100-mile intervals against clock and compass; each drop of the 462-gallon fuel supply carefully calculated against each of the 5,000 pounds of gross weight.

• • • •

HE TOOK NO parachute (20 minutes extra fuel was a better safety precaution), wore lightweight boots of his own design, scissored unneeded areas from his charts. "No detail is too small to be considered," he said. So precise were his calculations that a bit of Roosevelt Field mud clinging to the wing irritated him throughout the 33½ hours. He had five sandwiches, five quarts of water. "If I get to Paris I won't need any more, and if I don't get to Paris I won't need any more either."

In his pocket he carried probably the most useless excess baggage in aviation history—letters of introduction.

At the Place de l'Opera in Paris flickering lights which had traced the flight's progress for anxious thousands suddenly spelled out, first in French, then in English:

"Lindbergh arrived Le Bourget 10:19. Landed 10:22. Official. We confirm it. We confirm it. We confirm it."

• • • •

EXCITEMENT leapt the seas.

In Paris they danced and in London they cheered and in Rome they sang and in America they danced and cheered and sang and wept.

The flight enabled Lindbergh to fulfill what he later called the first cause of his life: to preach the wonders of flying to all who would listen. "I love th sky and flying more than anything else on earth."

• • • •

HIS SECOND CAUSE was less popular but he devoted himself to it just as vigorously. He had flown the Messerschmidt and knew Germany's air strength and reported his information to the War Department. He also had surveyed the U. S. air arm for Gen. Hap Arnold, and was convinced we were weak and they were strong. He aimed to do what he could to keep his country "out of Europe's suicidal internal wars."

His speeches during the nine months preceding Pearl Harbor produced a harvest of invective and nothing more. The President called him a copperhead and the Logan, W. Va., public school took his picture off the wall and the Texas Legislature voted that he better damned sight stay away from there.

Once at war, however, Lindbergh urged his countrymen to "meet as united Americans regardless of our attitudes in the past."

• • • •

HE PARTICIPATED in Henry Ford's first tests of the B24 at Willow Run then joined United Aircraft Corp. as an engineering consultant. He was nearly killed testing for symptoms of anoxia—high altitute blackout. He went to the Pacific to test aircraft under combat conditions, increased the bomb load of the Navy Corsair, added 500 miles to the range of the P2?, flew 50 missions himself as a civilian and shot down a Jap Sonia.

Then he came home to embark on the third cause of his life: renewal of emphasis on moral values in a materialistic world.

He spelled it out more precisely in a 1954 speech when he accepted the Guggenheim Medal a year after publication of his Pulitzer Prize winning autobiography. It was his most recent public appearance and his first since 1949.

• • • •

"I THINK WE are in danger of confusing problems of long-term and of short-term survival," he said.

"Short-term survival may depend on the knowledge of nuclear physicists and the performance of supersonic aircraft, but long-term survival depends alone on the character of man.

Interchange Model to Be Exhibited

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Southland motorists are invited this week to view a traveling exhibit including a $20,000 model of the East Los Angeles interchange, sponsored by the State Division of Highways in observance of National Highway Week.

The exhibit will be shown Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Santa Ana maintenance office, 1709 E. First St., Santa Ana.

On Monday and Tuesday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., it will be at the Torrance maintenance station, 4122 W. 180th St.

• • • •

STARTING Friday, it will have a three-week stand at the California Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park, Los Angeles, daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In addition to the interchange model, the exhibit will display pictures and charts of the state freeway system as it will look in 1980, and enlarged sepia photographs of freeway construction projects in the area.

Another highlight of National Highway Week will be a luncheon Tuesday for more than 200 business and civic leaders from 11 Southland counties. It will be given on the San Diego Freeway route in the Santa Monica Mountains.

Rex M. Whitten, federal highway administrator and head of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, will speak. Robert B. Bradford, head of the California Department of Public Works, will attend.

• • • •

THE STATE Division of Highways noted that California now has 9 million motor vehicles. During 1961, these vehicles covered more than 70 billion miles.

The California freeway-expressway system, which calls for $10.5 billion in construction over a 20-year period, will by 1980 connect every city of the state whose population is more than 5,000, a spokesman said.

In District VII, which includes Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties, the Division of Highways will spend an estimated $4.3 billion on 1,342 miles of freeways by 1980.

As of today, $1.2 billion already has been spent on 335 miles of freeway in the three counties, the district office announced.

Ontario Air Show Opens Monday

One of the largest air shows in Pacific Coast history will be held Monday through June 3 at Ontario International Airport.

The show, called the International Cavalcade of Flight, is sponsored by the city of Ontario and will include eight separate shows with little duplication.

Several acres of the airport will be devoted to static displays of modern aircraft, missiles, rockets and their accessories.

Other features will include the famous Navy "Blue Angels" precision aerobatic team, the "Chuting Stars" parachute specialists, a Mercury capsule complete with a reclining astronaut in a silver space suit and 24 hours of actual flight demonstrations during the week.

State Justice M. T. Dooling Retires June 30

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Supreme Court Associate Justice Maurice T. Dooling Jr., 72, a California jurist since 1928, announced he would retire effective June 30.

Dooling, who was appointed to the supreme court by Gov. Edmund G. Brown June 1, 1960, notified Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan of his pending retirement.

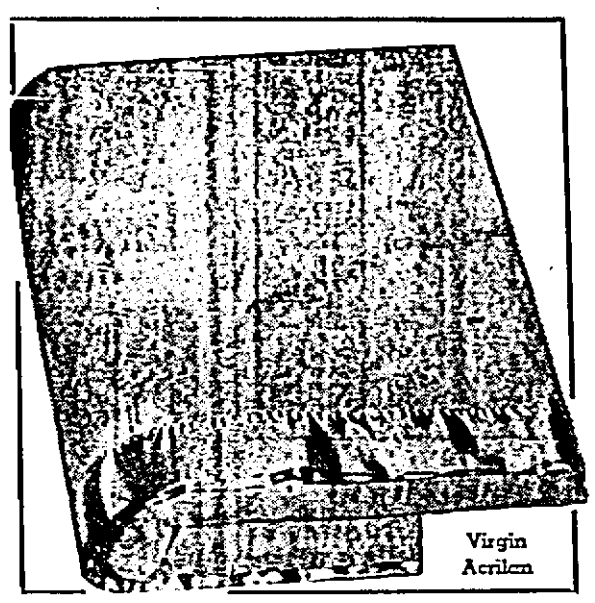

Dooling served as a San Benito County Superior Court judge from 1928 until 1945, when he became justice of the First District Court of Appeal in San Francisco.

If Brown fills Dooling's vacancy prior to Aug. 15, the new appointee will have to stand for election to a 12-year term in November.

Economic Gains by City Cited

Long Beach made gains on seven sectors of its economy in April, a monthly Chamber of Commerce economic summary, has revealed.

Banks were a double-gainer, compared to April of 1961, with debits up 15.5 per cent and clearings 7.8 per cent higher. Debits totaled $294,655,381 here.

• • • •

OTHER percentage increases, compared to April of 1961: department store sales, 12.9; power use, 9.4; help wanted ad lineage, 8.3, and petroleum production, 4.9.

Another gain was employment, where hiring reduced joblessness by 38.1 per cent.

'HUMBUDDIES' BRING MONEY

Representing the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing, the "Humbuddies" present Fred Ohlendorf (center) with a check for $300 to defray expense of sending promising music students to Arrowbear Music Camp, summer music school in the mountains founded and directed by Ohlendorf. "Humbuddies" (from left) are Elliott Kirby, John Suggett, Julius Grahnquist and Sammy Samaniego.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Woman Shot by Husband Dies

Mrs. Dorothy Burke, 45, died Saturday in Memorial Hospital of gunshot wounds inflicted by her husband, Donald, 44, who shot himself in the head. He remained in critical condition at the hospital.

DOROTHY BURKE
Slaying Victim

Police said Burke shot his wife in the leg and head with a .22 caliber rifle when she fled from their apartment at 6303 Cherry Ave. Thursday. She told officers she had told her husband she was leaving him.

After Mrs. Burke fell beside the apartment swimming pool, Burke stood next to her and fired one shot into his temple.

Mrs. Burke's body was removed to the Los Angeles County morgue for an autopsy.

Gambler Sues Poker Clubs

Francis Danesi, 46, of 21834 Nicolle Ave., Torrance, a self-styled professional gambler, is suing two Gardena poker clubs for barring him from their tables.

Danesi claims he won $130,000 playing low ball in the Monterey Club and the Rainbow Club in three years.

He wants damages based on $18,000 a year, which he says was his average annual winning before he was barred from the clubs.

Danesi claims he was barred from the clubs because he testified before a Riverside County grand jury in 1959 about bookmaking activities in a Cabazon poker club.

New Type Amusement Ride

Final tests will be made this week on a 97-foot-high "Velare Wheel," first big change in amusement ride design since the Ferris wheel.

The wheel is at the Velare Brothers Amusement Co., 3330 Lime Ave. Its inventors and operators, Curtis Velare, 81, and his brother, Elmer, 76, plan to take the wheel to the Seattle World's Fair at the end of this week.

Forgery Charge

FBI agents arrested an optometrist in Anaheim Saturday on charges he forged a check drawn on a North Dakota bank.

Edward Malcolm Bekken, 41, was arrested at the Disneyland Hotel on a warrant charging him with forging the name of his brother, Ralph, to a $791 check drawn on the Scandia-American Bank in Stanley, N.D.

3 Traffic Deaths

Two persons were killed in harbor area traffic accidents and a third died in Orange county Friday night.

Dead are:

Linda Dasko, 16, of 789 W. 15th St., San Pedro. The car in which she was riding veered off Palos Verdes Drive East near Miraleste Plaza in Rolling Hills and slammed into a tree.

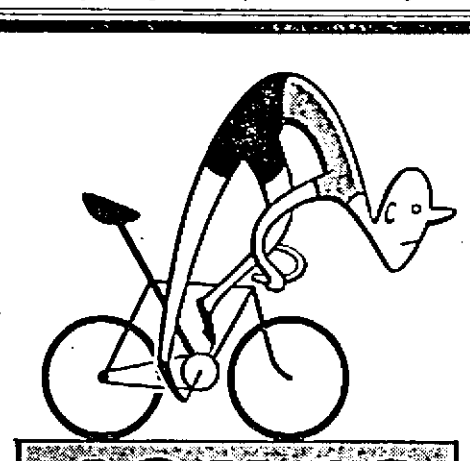

Ernie M. Bernard, 57, of 3703 Easy Ave., Long Beach was dead on arrival at Harbor General Hospital after his car hit the rear of a tank truck on Figueroa Boulevard near 108th Street.

Mrs. Mildred Shaffer, 57, of Morgantown, W. Va., was killed in a collision on the Riverside Freeway at the Grove Street off-ramp.

Writers Meet Ends

The Fourth Long Beach Writers Conference ended late Saturday with a panel discussion on television and motion pictures.

Frank B. George, supervisor of the audio-visual department of Long Beach Unified School District was moderator. Panelists were Gerry Day, writer for "Wagon Train," Robert Shaw, writer of "77 Sunset Strip," and Rod Amateur, producer of "The Love of Dobie Gillis," and Ben Benjamin, head of Famous Artists Associates.

Profits High but Not Enough Says Industry

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The business community is wrestling with a confusing profits paradox.

Businessmen concede that profits are up almost 30 per cent so far this year and may well hit record highs.

But businessmen complain earnings still are not high enough to get the country going full blast.

"Utterly fantastic," says an AFL-CIO economist who quarrels with both the facts and conclusions of this argument.

"Exactly how often," asks another labor official, "have you heard a businessman complain profits are TOO HIGH?"

* * * *

THIS IS not merely a theoretical how-high-is-up debate, insists the many businessmen joining in a "profit-squeeze" chorus.

What has happened, they say, is that competition, both here and abroad, has thwarted price increases at the same time labor costs, taxes and other costs have been climbing.

This is how, said Chairman Albert L. Nickerson of Socony Mobil Oil Co. by the way corporate profits have shrunk from 9.2 per cent of national income in 1947 to 5.4 per cent last year.

* * * *

DESPITE dollar-figure records this year, writes the First National City Bank of New York in its monthly letter, current profits average only about 6 per cent. This is dangerously low for a recession-recovery period, it says, and does little to spark boom hopes.

Nor will the current trend bring about the $56.5 billion in pre-tax earnings estimated as needed to balance the federal budget in fiscal 1963, the bank says.

Profit-erosion, businessmen contend, has eaten into money available for capital expansion.

* * * *

THIS MEANS, Chairman Roger Blough of U.S. Steel says, American plants aren't modernizing as fast as foreign competitors, thereby endangering America's past success at using production efficiency to counteract cheaper foreign labor.

It also means, says Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, that jobs at home are not being generated.

An attempt to spell out these effects in specific terms comes from William Butler, vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank and president of the National Association of Business Economists.

"You'll notice unemployment is worse in the heavy goods areas — Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis. These are the plants that would be turning out new machinery if companies were buying it."

* * * *

THERE'S another thing, he says—a paucity of the kind of new products and new industries that could give the economy a shot in the arm.

"Say someone has an automatic martini mixer ready to go," Butler says. "If he can't afford to make it, or can't count on a fair profit, he won't produce it."

An AFL-CIO economist in Washington says this whole complaint is based on faulty comparisons. Profits as a percentage of sales may be down, he says, but the flow of spendable cash is very much higher than before.

AND PROFITS, he said, are understated because of tax depreciation and other accounting changes that have taken place in the last decade.

Further, he argued, "internal funds are so extraordinarily high that report after report shows companies don't expect to have to borrow outside money."

HOW CAN THIS BE? It's very simple when you know facts. Every year we learn to USE OUR TIME BETTER. Since the cost of dentures is largely the cost of the dentist's time we have been able to KEEP PRICES DOWN. Dentists earn more now and materials cost more, but we save this by REDUCING WASTE in time.

C OF C PETTICOAT BRIGADE CAMPAIGNS

Spring Housecleaning for L.B.

By MARY ELLIS

Women have no peers when it comes to housecleaning.

And they know quite a bit about beauty and face lifting, too.

With these basic ideas in mind, a 60-woman team of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce is currently sweeping the city in an all-out campaign to give Long Beach a face lifting.

• • • •

THE PETTICOAT Brigade's committee, headed by Mrs. George P. Taubman, is recruiting men, women, civic groups, business organizations and the municipal government in an effort to make their drive an all-city, all-citizens project.

As an opening, the determined gals formed 11 survey teams armed with cameras and notebook to record the city's eyesores and beauty spots.

Then they had this week proclaimed "Paint-up, Clean-up, Fix-up Week," by Mayor Edwin W. Wade.

• • • •

THE GOALS of the drive, according to Mrs. Taubman, are a cleaner, more attractive city; more tree planting in commercial and residential areas; effective landscaping of approaches to the city, of hillslopes and parkways; and a more "litter-conscious" citizenry and general improvement of properties, both commercial and residential.

A tree planting promotion sponsored by the Downtown Long Beach Associates has already been responsible for some 250 trees being planted in the downtown area and 42 more trees are now being planted, it was pointed out.

A "Build Long Beach Better" contest is being sponsored by the Board of Realtors to stimulate interest in the rejuvenation of homes, inside and out.

• • • •

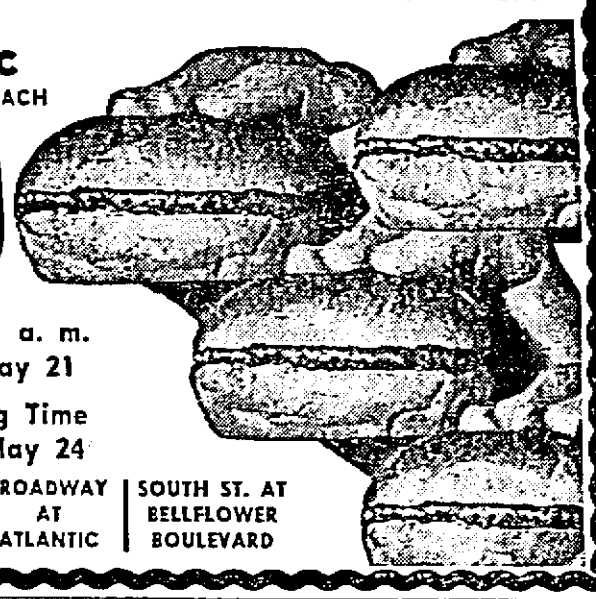

MRS. TAUBMAN pointed out that the Board of Education and Superintendent of School Douglas Newcomb have authorized and encouraged full school participation in the program.

Long Beach State College has joined in the program. Parochial and private schools will also cooperate in the drive.

Boy Scouts are distributing "Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up" posters, and the YMCA Boys Club are dressing up the YMCA Servicemen's Club Rooms and building exteriors.

PRIOR TO BEAUTY CONGRESS

L. B. Arena Will Have 5-Week Trial Run

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach's $8 million Arena, newest attraction along the shoreline, will have the advantage of a five-week trial run before opening for its first capacity-challenging event, the International Beauty Congress Aug. 15-18.

Win F. Hanssen, managing director, has announced that the construction is already well enough along to assure that the main floor section will be ready July 4 for the initial booking—a custom car Motorama continuing until July 8.

There will be other exhibits and meetings during July and early August, including a convocation of California dry cleaners and another of international china painters.

• • • •

"IF THERE ARE ANY bugs in the operation, we expect to get them out before IBC moves in," said Hanssen.

Originally scheduled for completion March 28, work on the big building was halted for several critical weeks because of a high-priority order for steel for Vandenberg Air Force Base. As a result, two tentatively-scheduled graduation ceremonies and a dog show had to be moved elsewhere.

But the construction is now in the final stages. Among activities at the building last week were:

Installation of bases and standards for the 8,768 permanent seats at loge and balcony levels was in progress and about one-fourth completed.

• • • •

A CONTRACT was awarded for the furnishing and delivery of the first installment of 2,500 movable chairs for the main floor.

Under the main floor, coils for the ice rink were being installed while negotiations were in progress to establish Long Beach as the base of a professional hockey league team.

Three elevators were undergoing tests—one in the lobby to serve the adjoining Concert Hall of the Auditorium and two in the Arena—as well as two escalators.

Glasswork for six of the 10 exterior stairwells was completed.

Plastering was three-fourths completed, air conditioning was being installed and the heating plant was made ready for use.

• • • •

A SOUND AMPLIFYING system was also under installation. Its operation will be made easier by accoustical ceiling.

Landscaping was in progress, and specifications were approved for construction of two parking lots which will increase the capacity of city-owned facilities in the immediate area to 1,500, along with 2,200 - car - space private parking.

The late touching-up details as well as parking-lot construction will continue during the trial period.

• • • •

"BUT THE WHOLE building will be ready for the beauty pageant," Hanssen asserted on the strength of assurance from the general contractor, Gust K. Newberg Co. Construction began in October, 1960.

The new building adds 50,000 square feet of main floor exhibit space to the 35,000 already available in the old Auditorium. Its interior length is 411 feet, width 360 feet and floor-to-roof height 75 feet.

And unless all the calculations are awry, it will pay back to the Tideland Oil Fund the costs of operating and maintaining it, Hanssen said.

Except for harbor facilities, the Arena is the top improvement financed from the city's tideland money.

CITY COLLEGE FRESHMAN

She Stars on Football Field With Ramettes

RITA LYNCH . . . Heads Ramettes

By ROBERT WILCOX

So you're curvy, chic and dexterous.

There's a talent scout on your trail who meets all her own specifications.

She's 18-year-old, auburn-tressed Rita Lynch, director of the 42-member Ramettes, L. A. professional football entertainment troupe.

Besides directing, Rita picks the talent, performs, handles the money and dreams up numbers for the flashy all-girl aggregation.

• • • •

IN HER SPARE time, the 5-foot-1 strutter conducts private twirling lessons (25 students) and tends to her studies (10 units) at Long Beach City College where she is a freshman dental assistant major.

Rita gravitated to the Ramettes naturally at 14—the minimum age. She had just retired after six years of baton-twirling competition and her trophy case bulged with 200 awards.

The petite high school student spun her way to assistant director in a year. This year she was appointed to the top job. She bosses the regular Saturday practice sessions at Cerritos College.

• • • •

RITA REPORTS that the Ramettes are bigger and better than ever. With 26 new twirlers, the troupe is up a round dozen from last year.

As usual about half were replaced due to age, marriage and other casualty factors. Rita sent out invitations to 50 carefully chosen prospects, settled on 26 on the basis of ability, looks and personality.

"One of my toughest jobs is telling girls they've failed to make it," she says.

• • • •

BIGGEST EVENT of the year for the troupe, who buy their own costumes and pay their own expenses, is their lone trip—to San Francisco for the 49er game.

Although Rita "wouldn't know a first down if I saw one," she cheers lustily for her stalwarts. The Ram fortunes have a definite effect on the Ramettes' performance. "Most of us 'live' the game. If we're down in the dumps we don't do as well."

The girls are a close-knit group and especially so when romance blossoms. They take pride in the fact that two of their number have married from the ranks of Ram opponents.

• • • •

ODDLY, HER twirlers are nearly impervious to a crowd of 100,000 in the Coliseum, but they're apt to be nervous in the 17,000 seat Sports Arena. "The people are so close," explains Rita.

A Poly High graduate and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynch of 4463 Goldfield Ave., Rita works for a Hollywood modeling agency and has done bit parts on television.

But her heart's with heading the Ramettes despite the perils of broken zippers and feminine temperament. Rita wants to keep her position front and center in the intricate formations until her forced retirement at 21. "Then I'd like to keep on directing," she says.

Panel to Study Needs of Elderly in L.B. Hearing

Interests and needs of Long Beach senior citizens will be investigated this week by an advisory committee created by the Legislature.

Mrs. A. M. G. Russell, chairman of the citizens advisory committee on aging, has announced a public hearing for 10 a.m. Friday in the City Council Chamber at City Hall.

This will be the second in a series of hearings scheduled for various California cities prior to the drafting of recommendations to Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Mrs. Russell said.

Also attending will be Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick of Long Beach's 44th District and State Sen. Samuel Geddes of Napa. Both are legislative members of the committee.

• • • •

EXPECTED to be heard are local officials, representatives of private organizations with programs for older people and other groups and individuals.

Major assignment of the committee is to encourage services by communities to elder citizens.

According to Mrs. Russell, testimony will be directed to three main topics:

1. What efforts are being made on a community-wide basis in Long Beach to develop needed programs and services for older persons? Are senior citizens involved or represented in these efforts?

2. Are current programs—local, state or federal—adequate to meet such known needs as income and housing, recreation and leisure interests, and health care? What additional steps need to be taken by community groups, by local, state and federal agencies and by organizations representing the aging?

• • • •

3. WHAT ARE some of the ways by which additional numbers of senior citizens can engage in community service projects? What can be done through community support to create more opportunity for part-time employment and voluntary services by retired persons?

The 12-member advisory group was created by legislative actions in 1955 and 1956. Eight are appointed by the governor and four are legislators. Most recent appointee to the committee is David Feuer, Long Beach businessman.

Sr. Citizen Programs Scheduled

Long Beach will observe Senior Citizens Week today through next Sunday with tours, open houses and special programs.

First event is an open house at Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave., today. There will be a 1:30 p.m. tour and a 2 p.m. program.

Monday will feature dedication ceremonies for a new roque court at Bixby Park, Second Street and Cherry Avenue. There also will be a picnic and 2 p.m. band concert there.

• • • •

A PARTY of 270 senior citizens will take a bus tour and harbor cruise Tuesday. On Wednesday, several downtown churches are planning special programs.

Senior citizens are being urged to visit libraries and theaters on Thursday—Education and Entertainment Day. Special services are planned to pay tribute to senior citizens at some churches Sunday.

Secretary of YMCA Quits Job

Joseph C. Bransby, general secretary of the Long Beach YMCA since 1953, has accepted a similar post with the Atlanta, Ga., YMCA, it was announced Saturday by Norbert W. Dean, president of the Y here.

Bransby's resignation takes effect on June 16. He came to Long Beach from Davenport, Iowa, where he was general Y secretary. He is a YMCA career secretary with 24 years of service.

In announcing Bransby's resignation, Dean noted that during Bransby's administration here the YMCA has grown from three to six branches with a membership increase from 3384 to the present total, 13,679.

"In 1961 alone," Dean said, "the Long Beach YMCA directed and supervised over 1300 youth clubs and organized groups involving 21,650 different persons."

• • • •

TOTAL attendance during the past year for Long Beach YMCA activities was 535,366, Dean noted.

In addition to his YMCA work, Bransby has served as vice president of the Rotary Club and has been active in civic and church affairs. He has campaigned during the past nine Community Chest drives and is assisting in the YMCA's "Buildings for Youth" fund drive.

Dean said a special selection committee, headed by Eugene Tincher, will announce Bransby's successor.

Cole, Cloyd 'Y' Program Tonight

Mrs. Florence Cole and Marvin Cloyd, both of whom have been active in Long Beach stage presentations, will present a program at 8 tonight in the Armed Services YMCA for active duty servicemen.

The program is billed as a group of satirical observations and humorous situations.

Five Programs Designed for Volunteer Workers

The first of a series of five programs designed to acquaint volunteer workers with opportunities available to them in Long Beach is scheduled for Wednesday.

Sponsored by the Community Volunteer Office, the series will be attended by more than 100 new members of the various organizations that provide volunteer workers.

Mrs. Clara Andrews, executive director of the Volunteer Office, said the public may make reservations to attend one or all of the programs by phoning her office.

The first program of the series will deal with the harbor and the history of the city. Harbor Commissioner John Davis will speak on the "History of Long Beach" and the harbor public relations director, Robert Metzger, will describe the operation of the harbor. A boat tour of the harbor will be included in the program.

• • • •

Other programs in the series are:

May 29 the subject will be city government and will include tours of the City Hall and Public Safety Building and talks on city government, civil defense and the fire department and a visit to a City Council meeting.

June 6 the subject will be youth and education and will include tours of Tucker Orthopedic School, the Children's Dental Health Center and the West Long Beach Girls Club.

Sept. 12 the subject will be Health and Welfare and will include tours of the Long Beach Day Nursery, the Health Department and Memorial Hospital.

Sept. 19, the subject will be culture and recreation and there will be tours of the Museum of Art and the Los Cerritos Ranch House.

Honor ROTC Cadets to Receive 34 Awards

More than 270 members of Long Beach high schools' Reserve Officers Training Corps will assemble on the Jordan High School athletic field Saturday at 1:30 p.m. for the first annual Long Beach ROTC awards day.

A total of 34 awards, most of them presented for the first time this year, will be given to cadets for outstanding performances during the 1961-62 school year.

Among those on hand to watch the ceremony will be a representative of Mayor Edwin W. Wade, other civic officials, officers from Long Beach area military installations and cadets' parents.

• • • •

TOP AWARDS will be superior cadet medals to be given to three students from Poly and Jordan high schools each and a principal's award to the outstanding senior cadet at each school.

Award donors include the Department of the Army, the schools' student bodies, Uptown and Downtown Kiwanis Clubs, a Poly Alumni group, Uptown and Downtown Lions Clubs, Gaviota and Western Shores chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the city's Armed Services Commission, Dr. and Mrs. Walter H. Boyd, Chamber of Commerce, Harbor-Long Beach Chapter of National Sojourners, and Arthur L. Peterson Post 27, American Legion.

The awards ceremony will be followed by a cadet review and demonstrations illustrating ROTC training and activities. Refreshments will be served.

IBC Event Benefits City of Hope

First 1962 Miss International pageant competition here will be a City of Hope benefit.

Profits from 7,000 tickets for the Aug. 15 opener go to the City of Hope Medical Center at Duarte, according to Long Beach Sponsors Club Auxiliary, City of Hope.

Opening event will feature a cast of 200 with stars of stage, screen, television, dancing revues, singers, bands and flag bearers.

• • • •

CITY OF Hope also bought out opening pageant ceremonies last year, but then first competition was not begun till a later show. This year, 52 global glamour girls face first-show competition.

Mooris Singer, sponsors auxiliary president, praised International Beauty Congress for their cooperation

Realtors Plan Varied Activities

Realtor Week, the annual affair staged by members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, begins today and will be celebrated throughout the Southland.

Members of the Long Beach Board of Realtors have scheduled many events during the week and boards in nearby cities are staging similar observations.

It is a double celebration this week for this is the 100th anniversary of the passing of the Homestead Act, whereby home ownership became possible for any American.

Stories on Realtor Week will be found in the business and realty section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram and in the 22 pages of classified advertisement you will find the listings of many of the realtors offering special Realtor Week attractive home sales.

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

THERE'S more bliss in wedded bliss than some of the cynics would have us believe. Single blessedness isn't so blessed.

That's indicated in the rather widespread complaint one hears from single adults. People of their category, they say, have a problem.

This is particularly true of single people above the early twenties, who find it difficult to make wholesome social contacts with people of the opposite sex of their age bracket and unmarried state.

And so we get to the story of a Long Beach man who decided to do something about it.

HES W. F. McPheeters, a fiftyish Long Beach Blvd. automobile dealer, who tackled the problem of the single adult as a class when he had been one, himself, for less than a year.

McPheeter's wife passed away about 10 months ago, ending some 34 years of married life.

He soon discovered a gnawing lonesomeness and a yearning for companionship of men and women of his own age. Married people of that age had their own plans and activities and he didn't seem to fit in. And he found it wasn't easy, unless one wanted to fool around bars and places like that, to find other single people of similar interests.

AFTER a discussion with recreation dept. people, who didn't offer much advice, he decided to try something through the churches.

So it happens that it was McPheeters who provided much of the drive and imagination behind a Long Beach movement known as "Christian Single Adults."

This is an interdenominational or undenominational fellowship which has just started holding programs and "socials" every Saturday night, 7:30 p.m., at the big First Baptist Church at 1000 Pine Ave. It is open to any single person, 21 or over, who is interested in social contacts and wholesome surroundings.

McPheeters insists that much credit be given to 35 representatives of various churches who have formed a steering committee for the movement.

But it was he who started it and the initial response has been good. He thinks it will be better when the word gets out here.

THE religious emphasis is not strong despite the church backing. The evening programs start with devotionals but from there on the emphasis is on pleasing entertainment and sociability.

What financing is needed will be voluntarily supplied by those interested. At present, there are no dues. Invitational tickets are being distributed around the area but even a ticket is not required for admission.

McPheeters hopes that there will be a strong response among men. At the first meeting, women far outnumbered the men, and of course, single women far outnumber single men in the community.

THE auto man points out that this is not a "lonely hearts club" sort of thing with the connotations of the matrimonial agency.

He adds, however, that establishment of a home is a worthy objective for every single person, and to the extent that the "Christian Single Adults" program brings people together to marry and establish a home, so much to the good.

The affable auto man is really in earnest about this. And indeed he may have something that will brighten the pathway for a lot of people.

They Called Him the Lone Eagle

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO this day, a boyish U. S. air mail pilot named Charles A. Lindbergh took off in a small monoplane from Roosevelt Field in New York.

Thirty-three hours, 29 minutes, and 30 seconds later, he landed at Le Bourget air field in Paris as the most celebrated American hero of the 20th century.

The nation has had many another hero since Lindbergh, but none of them has captured the imagination so completely, touched the heart so effectively, or remained in the public memory so vividly.

Why?

IT WAS MORE THAN THE personality or the courage of the man.

The magical effect of Lindbergh stems from the individual nature of his feat.

Although it would be untrue to say that he had absolutely no help, the fact remains that "Lindy" was largely responsible for the planning of his flight and entirely responsible for its execution.

With crude flight instruments, without an adequate weather report, and in a plane that weighed less than one engine of a modern jetliner, he took off for a 3,610-mile non-stop flight across an ocean.

But the main thing is this: He was alone and depended entirely on his own resources; there was no radio, no assurance from a ground session, no stylus tracing the progress of his flight.

That a lone man should undertake such a hazardous and difficult project, and succeed, made men proud of the individual human spirit.

Proud and wistful.

THIS EMOTION HAS GROWN, if anything, more poignant with the passage of years.

Society today tends to organize men into herds and to achieve goals by mass movements, "teamwork," and group assault.

Thus, no single man discovers a vaccine today; he directs a medical team that discovers it.

No single man discovers a lost city; he is chairman of a board of explorers.

Even though John Glenn, the astronaut, performed an act of great personal heroism, one cannot quite forget the thousands of other men who worked with him to make his flight a success.

MANY PERSONS GO THROUGH life without any real personal distinction at all. Everything they do is done with somebody else. Every achievement is shared. They are lost in the crowd.

More and more the pressures of numbers, social attitude, and political theory squeeze individuals into anonymity. Except in a few of the arts, even the most talented cannot point to an accomplishment and say, without qualification:

"I did that myself."

Lindy can. His day is gone, never to return. But the tribute his deed paid to individual man, distinguished from the faceless man of "the organization," lingers in our memory like a bright light seen long after it has flickered out.

We Send Troops 8000 Miles to Thailand but Ignore Cuba

WASHINGTON—It's a little hard to understand why the United States is sending 5,000 troops into Thailand—nearly eight thousand miles away—to help keep the Communists from extending into that country the hold they already have next door in Laos, while nothing is being done about rescuing Cuba, only 90 miles away from our shores.

President Kennedy says the American troops were sent into Thailand "to put us in a position to fulfill our obligations" under the treaty of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization," often referred to as "SEATO," and that other member countries will send troops, too. But if a regional association like this can take action so far away from the United States, it may be asked:

LAWRENCE

"Why isn't the Organization of American States being persuaded to send troops into Cuba to rid the island of the Communist rule there?

Surely, eliminating the menace of communism in Cuba would seem to be all-important to the security of the United States and of the nations to the south of us. It appears to be generally agreed that Fidel Castro really doesn't control Cuba but that alongside of him are a set of aides and advisers trained in Moscow who continually carry on hostile activities toward other Latin-American countries.

In the last meeting of the Organization of American States, the plan was for economic sanctions against the Communist regime in Cuba. Little has been heard since as to what the Washington government is doing to mobilize Latin-American governments behind a plan to drive the Communists out of Cuba.

This country has a very extensive aid program, known as the "Alliance for Progress," which is to cost the taxpayers of the United States many billions of dollars in the next few years. It doesn't seem sensible to be giving money to any Latin-American government which is so short-sighted as to fail to see the danger involved in letting the Communists operate from Cuba as a base.

Unquestionably the Kennedy administration can, if it likes, put pressure on the Latin-American governments to get some kind of sanction from the Organization of American States for military steps in Cuba.

As a matter of fact, the United States need not wait for the consent of the other states any more than it did in Thailand. The Southeast Asia Treaty, for instance, unlike the NATO pact, provides that, when there is danger of aggression in the area, each member shall be governed by its own "constitutional processes." This is but another way of saying that each country shall make its own decision.

The United States is in a similar positions as a member of the Organzation of American States. It may ask for the co-operation of the other members, but it can make its own decision to protect any Latin-American country that has been invaded by a foreign power or where there has been evidence of subversive activities which threaten the political independence of the people.

There is abundant evidence in connection with the Communist operations in Latin America that the Moscow government has infiltrated many parts of the hemisphere and exercises direct control of the government and the national economy of Cuba. Hence, the right under an existing international agreement to take action in Cuba is clear.

* * * *

SO THERE no longer is any doubt but that the United States is using military force to check Communist-inspired operation in Southeast Asia and that other members of SEATO have formally recognized America's action and may send their own troops as well.

The SEATO precedent gives support now to a similar movement of American troops into Cuba or surrounding areas. The purpose would be to cut off all operations by Communist-led forces based in Cuba and aimed at any other country of this hemisphere. Sending American troops to Thailand certainly opens up the question of why the same kind of action in respect to Cuba isn't also justified.

OUR JUNE 5 PRIMARY

Three Unopposed in Ballot for 44th Party Nominations

(First in a series on candidates and ballot measures to be voted on in the California primary election June 5. Today: State Assembly, 44th District. Term, two years. Salary, $6,000).

THREE UNOPPOSED candidates of California's three qualified parties comprise the field in the June 5 primary nominations for assemblyman in the West Long Beach-Lakewood 44th Assembly District.

Joseph M. Kennick, Democrat, incumbent, seeks his third two-year term in the 80-member state lawmaking body. Wilbur R. (Bill) Richardson is the lone Republican candidate, and William Jay Scalf is the Prohibition party candidate. Lack of party opposition means the same three men will be on November's general election ballot and that the June 5 primary will be merely a popularity vote prelude to that showdown.

The 44th A. D. has new shape and numbers as a result of the 1961 state reapportionment. It took the City of Lakewood away from the other Long Beach A. D.—the 39th (formerly 70th)—and added a western segment bordered by Avalon Blvd. The reapportionment corrected a population inequity which was more than two-to-one out of balance. Party registration gives a 62 per cent to 38 per cent Democratic margin over Republicans. There are only 102 registered Prohibitionists in the 44th.

KENNICK'S BILLS raised old age grants from $95 to $100 a month and grants to the blind, both with cost of living escalators; rewrote with State Sen. Arnold juvenile court laws, the first revision in 47 years; provided an additional municipal court judge for Long Beach. He coauthored bills for increased narcotics penalties, to remove sales tax from prescription drugs, to label hazardous substances. In his second term he was named chairman of the Manufacturing, Oil and Mining Industries Committee. He received a Metropolitan Water District citation for "distinguished and courageous service." Before election he served 24 years as superintendent of the Long Beach Juvenile Department.

RICHARDSON, a Republican, lives at 3711 Poppy St., has been a public school teacher, (now in the Los Alamitos District), for nine years. He, as the other two candidates, has campaigned very little due to the fact of no primary opposition. He has degrees from Long Beach City College, Brigham Young University and his Master's from Long Beach State. He is a member of the Military Order of the Purple Heart. He has scored the Democrats for "unnecessary expense of the taxpayers' monies in the field of education" . . . and textbook selection and printing at the state level, "choice dictated from Sacramento." He would abolish the State Printing Office, making savings available to local boards to select books best suited to their district's needs.

SCALF, PROHIBITIONIST, 4354 Conquista Ave., Lakewood, is an elementary school teacher who expects to receive his B. A. in Education in June from Long Beach State. His response to the League of Women Voters questionnaire, from which this series will quote on numerous candidates, notes he is active in the Church of the Nazarene and has had little time for civic activities while earning his degree and working full time to support his family. He is for stronger narcotics laws, more freedom in this fight for law enforcers. His special interests include education, anti-communism, mass transit, old age aid and water.

PUBLIC FORUM

Defeatist Thinking Results in Defeat

EDITOR:

My letter in the Forum supporting the position taken by the editorial, "Dear Dr. Spock Should Stick to Child Care," drew fire from a Mr. Robert Greengard. Mr. Greengard gives us a lesson in biology in an attempt to prove there are no (or very few) absolute final truths.

Greengard succeeds in displaying an unfortunate philosophy of negativism, an attitude which says, in effect, "Nothing good can come of anything." This aura of defeatism permeates his writing, as though his world with its many, many problems, was just too complex for him to face.

* * * *

MOST OF US are fully aware there are indeed truths, but I'm sure Mr. Greengard would not be satisfied with such things simply stated. He would much prefer to flounder off into that grey morass of confusion and despair where everything is relative. For instance, if I said the earth was round, he could prove to me that it was covered with humps and depressions.

There certainly must be a place in our free society for this brand of thinking, but I resubmit that the minds of those men charged with our national security are not the proper repositories for a negative viewpoint.

Defeatist thinking results in defeat. I would remind Mr. Greengard that because of positive thinking and positive action on the part of the United States, Nazi Germany did not conquer the world.

Loyalty Oath Critics Illogical

EDITOR:

Let's look at those that oppose, as insulting, loyalty oaths for students who want money from their government to further their education. Why would anyone oppose loyalty oaths in this specific instance when they so readily sanction every public official from dog-catcher to president taking an oath to support and defend the Constitution of the United States? The anti-loyalty oath crowd does not consider it insulting to compel a boy who is drafted into the armed services to swear allegiance to the United States and to swear to defend it against all enemies, foreign and domestic, with his life if need be.

Somehow we hear no complaint from these so-called liberals when a person joining the church of his choice is required to most solemnly swear adherence to the tenets of that particular faith. They still feel it is perfectly proper when two persons are united in wedlock, in a most sacred ceremony to take vows of dedication and loyalty to each other.

Does it not seem passing strange that this great furore has arisen over the swearing of loyalty to this great country of ours and disclaiming Communist party membership when a student is asking for something from his government and not inquiring as to what he can do for it?

We Should Help Chinese Refugees

EDITOR:

Many thousands of Chinese people are seeking refuge outside Red China but are being refused.

Now would seem to be the time for America to share her surpluses of wheat and to offer land and money to these deserving, downtrodden people.

Here is our chance to show these people how sweet freedom is.

Languages in the News

by Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Sprayregen

If you have memorized our capsuled Italian each day this week, you know quite an extensive vocabulary of basic Italian phrases.

Here are the most important words for you to remember when making requests:

Please—Per piacere—pehr p'yah-CHEH-reh.

Give me . . . —mi dia . . . —mee DEE-ah . . .

Bring me . . . —mi porti . . . —mee, FOHR-tee . . .

Show me . . . —mi mostri . . . mee MOH-stree . . .

Go left.—Vada a sinistra —VAH-dah ah see-NEE-strah.

Go right.—Vada a destra —VAH-dah ah DEH-strah.

Straight ahead.—Sempre diritto—SEHM-preh dee-REET-toh.

Stop here.—Fermi qui—FEHR-mee kwee.

Wait a minute.—Aspetti un momento—ah-SPEHT-tee oon moh-MEHN-to.

Come here.—Venga qui—VEHN-gah kwee.

Go away.—Vada via—VAH-dah VEE-ah.

Memorize these questions by reading the phonetics aloud several times. Next we will present a vocabulary in German.

Till then Arrivederci!—(ahr-ree-veh-DEHR-chee).—"Goodbye!"

House-Senate Tilt Upsets Schedule

By the I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—A fascinating game of musical non-chairs is being played at the Capitol and is raising hob with the congressional schedule. Major appropriations bills are stalled while members of the House and Senate appropriations committees haggle over where they are to meet in conference on differences in bills that have been passed. The House members are in revolt. They refuse to continue any longer the 100-year-old custom of meeting in a Senate conference room. The Senators adamantly refuse to cross over to the House. On the surface, it appears to be a battle of pride and prestige, but much more is involved in the deadlock. Whoever is chairman of the conference exercises a vast control over the settlement of controversial items. In the past, the chairman has always been a senator, because the meetings were on the Senate side of the Capitol. House members jealously maintain the two bodies are co-equal. They want alternating chairmen. Thus the battle is over which house will have the upper hand in the deliberations through its chairman, rather than the prestige of sitting on one side of the Capitol or the other. Unless the deadlock is broken by June 30, some government departments won't have any operating funds!

THE PRICE OF POLITICAL friendship sometimes involves personal risks as Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-F-L, Minn.) discovered when he went to Florida to help former Sen. Claude Pepper campaign for a seat in the House of Representatives. Shortly before Humphrey and Pepper were to address a rally from the bed of a truck, Miami police were tipped that a bomb had been planted beneath it. Humphrey went on as scheduled after a search was conducted which failed to turn up any explosives. Pepper won handily, avoiding a runoff against his primary opponent, by garnering 47 votes more than half those cast in the four-candidate contest. He later credited Humphrey's campaigning and the medical care to the aged issue as the chief ingredients in his triumph.

Rocky Running for President?

WASHINGTON — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York has been touring the Rocky Mountain States with all the vigor of a man who is running for President.

PEARSON

He says, officially, that he is only a candidate for governor of New York, that he wants to talk about 1962, not 1964. But his actions belie his words.

The governor is shaking hands and making speeches with the charm and enthusiasm of a man who wants to push John F. Kennedy out of the White House, not as one worried about being re-elected governor of New York.

Furthermore, Rockefeller is advocating a policy that out-Kennedys Kennedy. What he has to say about medical aid for the aged makes cold shivers run up and down the backs of Goldwater members of the GOP. He says that the Kennedy plan for medical care does not go far enough, that many who won't be qualified for medical care under Kennedy should be able to get it.

Rockefeller made it clear that he would even accept support from Jimmy Hoffa. Asked specifically about Hoffa, who has become a major issue in the debate between Gov. Pat Brown and Richard Nixon in California, Rockefeller replied: "I am not going to refuse the support of anyone who believes in my policies."

Rockefeller criticized the steel companies for hiking the price of steel, endorsed Kennedy's plan for tax-withholding on dividends, and OK'd American entrance into the common market. He even said that in the new atomic age no nation could exist without giving up some of its sovereignty.

Some Republicans recalled the day in 1960 when Rocky went on tour to roll up votes for the GOP nomination and when Len Hall, then chairman of the Republican National Committee planted pro-Nixon hecklers in his crowd. Today Len Hall is in no position to organize against Rockefeller, but some Rocky Mountain Republicans who listened in amazement wished he was.

One Republican who came to the GOP Rockefeller banquet in Cheyenne hoping to get some ammunition to defeat Democratic Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming, departed grumbling.

"We might just as well have had McGee as our guest speaker," he said. "He would have cost us less."

OREGON'S bristle browed Sen. Wayne Morse is bucking up against the quiet opposition of Senate leaders in his campaign to ban cocktail parties from Capitol Hill.

Lobbyists often pick up the tabs for these parties, offering free food and drink to lure members of Congress to drop by for a friendly chat about some favorite legislation.

Most lobbyists throw their little soirees in the hotels around Capitol Hill, which do a booming business entertaining congressmen. But a few lobbyists with good connections have learned that they can get rooms right in the capitol building by arranging for them through a senator or congressman.

These public rooms not only are more convenient but can be charged to the taxpayers. Thus the taxpayers help subsidize the lobbying which, more often than not, is against their best interests.

Morse is now looked upon by many colleagues as a social pariah for trying to put an end to this handy source of free booze. They now refer to all alcoholic beverages consumed under the capitol dome as "Morse water."

JFK Builds Red Roadblock in Asia

By Harry Wilson Sharpe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy threw a formidable military roadblock across the Communist gateway to Southeast Asia last week.

It was a calculated risk, depending on how Red China and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev reacted. But congressional leaders and U. S. Allies recognized it as imperative.

• • • •

ON THE President's orders, U.S. combat Marines and war planes landed in pro-Western Thailand — with Thailand's ready consent — to augment U.S. troops already guarding the strategic kingdom from Communist rebels overrunning neighboring Laos.

An eventual 5,000-man buildup armed with deadly equipment was envisioned. Britain, New Zealand, Australia and Pakistan, which have vital interests at stake, planned to send in token forces.

Kennedy hoped the maneuver would lead to another cease fire and political stability in strife-torn Laos where rival factions have been unable to form a peaceful coalition government.

But he had no plans to send American troops into Laos unless the Communists forced his hand. His primary concern was the safety of Thailand which lies athwart the Communist-coveted road to the Asiatic rice bowl.

Khrushchev who last year agreed to an international truce team and a cease-fire in Laos, apparently recognized that Kennedy meant business. He instructed the Soviet ambassador here to say Russia agrees on th necessity of another cease-fire and a peaceful political settlement.

• • • •

BUT HE ALSO declared in a speech at Obnova, Bulgaria, that it was "only a question of time" until the American troops would be driven from Thailand. He said Kennedy's action was "stupidity" and that it was time the U.S. gave up its role of "international policeman."

It was the first time U.S. troops had been ordered ashore in an emergency since President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent 7,000 men to protect Lebanon from outside aggression in 1958.

At a nationally televised press conference, Kennedy said he was counting on the three rival princes of Laos to reach a political agreement which would avert "a shooting war in the jungles of Asia."

He said the U.S. troop movement expressed "our desire to stabilize the situation." He said it was a defensive act, wholly consistent with the United Nations charter. He consulted Democratic and Republican congressional leaders before issuing the landing order.

Secretary of state Dean Rusk said the Asian crisis could be ended quickly if Moscow "would leave these countries alone."

IN OTHER news spheres the President said in answer to caustic criticism from French President Charles de Gaulle that the free nations of Europe must decide for themselves whether they will form a strong political union or a loosely-knit confederation. De Gaulle opposes any political union that would supersede national governments.

He also is determined France will have her own, nuclear defensive force outside the West's NATO defense alliance.

Kennedy said that was De Gaulle's right. But he also said that as long as the United States bears the major military and economic burden of NATO this nation must share in the progress and decisions in Europe. He said the Communist threat to Western freedom was basically indivisible, as is the Western deterrent to that threat.

On the home front, the President disclosed that 76 FBI agents and the Internal Revenue Bureau are digging into the financial manipulations of Texas boy-wonder Billie Sol Estes who had close contacts in the Department of Agriculture and Congress.

Four department officials accused of off-record dealings with the now disgraced financier have either resigned or been fired. Kennedy pledged further that any other federal employe found guilty of such improprieties would be disciplined immediately.

Estes has been indicted on charges of fraud in grain-storage and cotton-acreage allocation programs. Senate and House committees also are cranking up for a major bi-partisan investigations. Estes will be called to testify.

The President, mindful of the political implications, noted that Estes' operations pre-dated his inauguration. And he staunchly defended the actions of Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman in the case. Republicans had demanded Freeman resign, charging he had been lax.

"The government," Kennedy said, "is staying right on Mr. Estes' tail."

Elsewhere in the news, a parachute problem at Cape Canaveral delayed until Tuesday America's second orbital flight — the space voyage of astronaut M. Scott Carpenter.

The United States was reported considering the launching of an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile armed with a nuclear warhead for detonation in the Pacific atomic testing area near Christmas Island, 3,000 miles from the California launching.

Khrushchev attacked the current U.S. tests in the Pacific and said Russia would resume tests. He set no date.

Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was arrested here and released on bond for later jury trial on charges he beat a union aide "like a man beserk." The aide, Samuel Baron, field director of the union's warehouse division, displayed black eyes and a face gash in court when Hoffa was arraigned. Hoffa pleaded innocent.

He also was indicted by a Nashville, Tenn., federal grand jury on charges of accepting illegal payments from a Michigan trucking company between 1949 and 1958.

The Senate bowed to a long Southern filibuster and killed Kennedy's bill to outlaw literacy tests as a voting requirement in federal elections.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, predicted the federation would open a drive for a 35-hour work week with no cut in pay unless the jobless problem is solved.

Military Might Goes on Display

—Staff Photos

ARMED FORCES DAY EVENTS in the Long Beach area included a parade of military might in Torrance Saturday, followed by a visit of Navy Undersecretary Paul B. Fay Jr. to the Long Beach Naval Base. Passing reviewing stand (left) is a marching unit from the 47th Artillery Brigade, Fort MacArthur, participating with Army armored units (center) and other groups from all services. Undersecretary Fay (extreme right) acted as grand marshal of the parade before meeting with Adm. Kenneth L. Veth, commander of Long Beach Naval Base, at a luncheon in the base's Allen Center Officers Club.

Scan Pomona Project

POMONA (UPI)—The question of whether private money can be successfully used to develop downtown areas will be the subject of a forum May 29, in Pomona.

Pomona has attracted nationwide attention by building a downtown pedestrian mall entirely financed by private enterprise without use of public funds.

Heading the list of panelists will be world famous artist Millard Sheets, creator of the Pomona Mall; Dr. Robert Bernard, president of Claremont University College; A. T. Richardson, president of the Pomona Transportation Center and publisher of the Pomona Progress-Bulletin, and local city officials.

News director Bill McMillan of radio station KRLA will moderate the forum. The radio station will broadcast the forum Sunday evening.

'Mutiny' Kin Sees Bounty's Homeland

PLYMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—Fletcher Christian, whose great-great-great-grandfather led the famous mutiny on the Bounty, had his first look last week at the land of his forebearers.

Christian, 64, is on a world tour as a guest of The Netherlands liner Willem Ruys, which calls from time to time at Pitcairn Island. There, Christian heads the small colony descended from the Bounty mutineers.

Offensive Effigy to Be Ousted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Saturday that the manager of a wax museum in St. Augustine, Fl., has agreed to destroy immediate a figure of the Prophet Mohammed. There have been objections it offended perosns of the Mohammedan faith.

Angier Biddle Duke, chief of protocol in the State Department, wrote Mrs. Lucie Talbott, museum manager, that ambassadors of Moslem nations in Washington regarded the figure of Mohammed "as a desecration."

A STATE Department spokesman, explaining the Duke letter, said the Mohammedan religion "has an abhorrence of images, especially images of Mohammed."

Press Officer Francis W. Tully Jr. made this announcement:

"Mrs. Talbott of Potters Wax Museum in St. Augustine, Fla., has agreed to the immediate destruction of the figure of the Prophet Mohammed from the museum's collection.

"Mrs. Talbott has informed the department that she did not wish to offend anyone and that in fact her intention has been simply to provide exhibits that would tend to increase understanding between peoples of different countries."

Diplomat's Wife Considered 'Spy'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The wife of veteran diplomat Robert M. McClintock, now U.S. Ambassador to Argentina, once was suspected by Finnish officials of being a spy, it was revealed Saturday.

The Finns called the Chilean-born Mrs. McClintock "the beautiful creole."

The incident was laughed off by McClintock's boss at that time.

Mrs. McClintock, the former Elena Barrios, is the daughter of a former finance minister of Chile.

The fact that she was once suspected of being a spy was disclosed when the State Department released a volume of diplomatic papers which includes documents relating to U.S.-Finnish relations in 1942.

Among the papers was a telegram sent by the U.S. ministers to Helsinki, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, to secretary of State Cordell Hull on July 18, 1942.

Schoenfeld informed Hull that Swiss Minister Karl Egger had told him that morning "that Finish official circles are obsessed by thought that the American Legation is center of extensive espionage activity in Finland."

Egger added that particular anxiety was felt there as to possible espionage activities of Mrs. McClintock who, he said, is described as "the beautiful creole" and whose visits to Stockholm from time to time have been subject of anxious comment in this relation."

Mrs. McClintock's husband at that time was second secretary of the U.S. Legation in Helsinki.

Schoenfeld explained in his cable that "Mrs. McClintock's trips to Stockholm have of course been innocuous and have been undertaken either with their child during periods of air activity here or with her husband on courier trips."

Finland in 1942 was at war with the Soviet Union, and the capital was the target of Soviet bomber planes.

Schoenfeld concluded his telegram by observing.

"Finnish credulity in this matter is measure of characteristic provincialism."

Kennedys After Him, Says Hoffa

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Teamsters president James R. Hoffa said Saturday an indictment charging him with illegally collecting more than $1 million for an employer stems from a long-standing grudge by President Kennedy and his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

"The taxpayers' money is being used to pay for Bobby Kennedy's foolishness," Hoffa said. "And to pay for the continuation of a vendetta against me."

He said the federal action was just another example of the administration harassing him and the teamsters.

• • • •

"WITH BILLIE Sol Estes, Laos and widespread unemployment as a consequence of administration policies, you would think they (the administration) would find something more important to do than to pick on us," he said.

The Teamsters chief was indicted by a federal grand jury in Nashville, Tenn., Friday.

As described in a statement by Robert Kennedy, the indictment accused Hoffa of conspiring with Commercial Carriers, Inc., a nationwide automoblie transport company, to set up a truck rental operation through which illegal payments were made from 1949 to 1958.

• • • •

HOFFA and the late Owen (Bert) Brennan, former Teamster vice president who died a year ago, were named in one count, and Hoffa and Commercial Carriers were named in a second count.

Kennedy said Commercial, whose headquarters are in Detroit, paid Hoffa and Brennan a total of $1,008,057 in violation of the Taft-Hartley ban on payments by employers to employe representatives. The provision forbids any such payment except for wages or other specified reasons.

Hoffa said his association with the trucking company was not a violation of the law. He said various governmental agencies had been checking his connection with the company for 16 years and none ever found a violation.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Anne Bancroft Finds Herself

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Anne Bancroft marveled out loud the other rainy afternoon at all the years she has given to playing Helen Keller's famous battered and bruised teacher, Annie Sullivan.

"They've asked me how old I was when I started working on the role. Well I was 27," Miss Bancroft said across the coffee table in her brownstone down in Greenwich Village.

"And in September," she said, "I'm going to be 31. Patty Duke is a woman now. She was just a baby with dolls version of the story now, basking in the predictions that it'll win next year's Oscar. She must rush off to film festivals in Spain, or greet a student from HilsinskiAIS — o girl student from Helsinki who's playing "Miracle Worker" twice a week there, talk to people like me who have great curiosity about her.

• • • •

"HOW did it happen," I actress—and the next day you were just a pretty fair movie acress—and the next day you were some kind of a sensation?"

"Arrived"—is that what you mean?" Anne was thinking over the question.

She admitted that she "arrived" when she played Gittel Mosca in "Two for the Seesaw"—after several years of undistinguished picture emoting—and she added, "If I'd played the part of Gittel a year before, I couldn't have done it as well."

"I went into analysis, divorced my husband, gave up Hollywood and came back to New York, and went back to school."

"The analysis is still on?"

"Still is, STILL IS. God in Heaven."

"I found out how miserable I was. I was blaming everybody else for my troubles. I didn't know that sometimes it was my fault. . . ."

"Yes," Anne added, "I was living for the wrong reasons."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Economists say that in 1963 the average American will earn twice as much as an Englishman, three times as much as a Frenchman—and half as much as he needs.

HOLLYWOOD NICE GIRL

Actress Dolores Hart, a Blushing Success, Still Turns Red Quickly

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dolores Hart is the only actress I know who blushes.

When I first met her in 1957, she was fresh out of convent school and her blushing was understandable.

In the five years since, she has compiled quite a bit of movie and broadway success—but she still blushes. It's remarkable.

"I shall never deny the effects of chemistry in my life," she answers when pressed for a reason of her natural technicolor.

• • • •

CERTAIN PEOPLE make her blush more than others. Tony Franciosa is one. About three years ago she made a movie with him but when she sees him even today, she gets all flustered.

"I just have to tell him that he shakes me up. I just can't talk to him without turning six shades of red. I don't know what there is about him that makes me behave so."

Known as one of Hollywood's nice girls, Dolores almost had her spotless reputation tarnished in London a few months ago. She was saved by a blush.

• • • •

"IT SEEMS funny now but was a moment of tragedy at the time. I was shooting 'Lisa' in London. In it, as a Jewish concentration camp refugee, I wear drab clothes — trench coat, beret and the rest.

"I came back to my hotel in the west end one night and absent-mindedly decided to take a walk around the block still wearing my 'Lisa' costume."

"As I walked, I suddenly realized that two Bobbies were following me. I started to walk faster but they caught me and asked for identification. I had none. I told them who I was and that I was staying at the Dorchester, which is a pretty ritzy hotel.

• • • •

"THEY LOOKED at my shabby dress and I could see that my story wasn't going over. Then I realized that they were about to arrest me.

"They started to take me to Scotland Yard and then I blushed through my makeup.

"One of the Bobbies said: 'Miss, you must be telling the truth because in 25 years, I never knew one of the girls to blush.' They let me go."

"I got in this business by being as direct and honest as I knew how. I intend to stay in it the same way," she says. "I never try to put on an act."

• • • •

SHE DOESN'T go around bemoaning the fact that she is always cast as a good girl.

"I believe the good girl is harder to portray on the screen than the bad girl, and, of course, much harder to live.

"I consider it a challenge and I like it when movies show that the so-called good girl in reality has a lot more guts than her opposite."

After acting in high school dramas, Dolores won a drama scholarship at Marymount College.

• • • •

"EVERYTHING after that seemed to fall in place. As a Marymount freshman, I went to a dance at Loyola University, an all-male school.

"There I met a young felow who asked me if I would read for the title role in 'Joan of Lorraine' that the Loyola drama group was putting on.

"Almost in the same breath, he said he would write producers in Hollywood to come and see the play. There might be a contract.

"I said: 'Wait a minute, boy, that line's been used before.'

"But I did the part on Nov. 19, 1956 and Hal Wallis got one of the first letters.

"Wallis didn't come to see me but he telephoned my mother for me to come and see him. I walked into his tremendous office and promptly broke into this horrible multi-colored blush.

"It broke the ice somehow and I still swear the only reason he ever signed me was because he was so startled to see a potential actress blush."

She's still under contract to Wallis—and still blushing.

HER FACE IS RED

The look of embarrassment on Dolores Hart's face came from nature, not stage practice. The 23-year-old Hollywood film actress is distinguished by the fact that not only can she blush, but she can help blushing. Says it's chemistry.

NO 'PRODUCER' WANTED

Welk Refuses Screen Offers

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lawrence Welk, one of television's biggest stars, is being sought for a movie role, but the champagne music maker has refused screen offers.

"We've had some pressure for the past two or three years to do a movie," Welk revealed "But I think it has been to use our name to make money. We would want it to be for the entertainment value."

Welk's 12-year career on television has brought him monetary rewards and professional respect. He wouldn't risk all that on one movie produced with just boxoffice receipts in mind.

Welk brews ideas for his popular champagne music from a large office suite located in a beautiful building in which he's financially interested.

• • • •

"I'VE TURNED down all the movie offers that have come along," said Welk, who appeared in a few short musical feature films years ago.

"The wrong movie, played against us, could be unfavorable. We're in television and we've found that when an artist goes into another field it hurts his main job if he doesn't do well.

'GLASS MENAGERIE'

LBCC Drama Truly Superior

The little animals in Laura Wingfield's glass collection break easily and demand the most delicate care in handling. The same is true of Tennessee Williams'. "The Glass Menagerie." The slightest shock can shatter its power to sustain an illusion.

Thanks to a production superior in every detail, the Long Beach City College version of the play this weekend achieved and intensified "the truth in the pleasant guise of illusion." Under the firm and insightful direction of J. L. White, who also designed the set and lighting, a small but excellent cast brought the Wingfield family and the gentleman caller brilliantly to life.

"The Glass Menagerie" was Williams' first important success, and remains his most appealing if not most powerful play. Although even in it we find a fascination with the misfit in society, Williams had not yet graduated to sadism or cannibalism. Amanda Windfield is at worst only a minor monster.

• • • •

AMANDA'S trouble, like that of so many of the characters in the Faulknerian "decaying South" tradition, arises from her inability to give up the past or to find anything but misery in the present. She loses a husband to long distance, drives a son to the sea, and adds psychological to physical crippling of her shy daughter, all because she was, as she remembered it, once the belle of the Delta, with 17 gentleman callers all at the same time.

Amanda is a complex character, combining obtuseness with a kind of animal cunning, all overlaid with charm, charm, charm. Played wrong, she would be either just honey chile cute on the one hand or aging bitch nasty on the other. Either would ruin the play.

Marlene Silverstein, who plays the part, not only does not ruin it, but she enlarges and enriches it. In timing, in intonation, in gesture she is perfect, so that her southern accent never sounds false and every action she performs seems to grow naturally out of her understanding of what Amanda is.

• • • •

IN NAGGING at Tom, in reassuring Laura, in entertaining the gentleman caller, she is different people, and each one just right, each one a recognizable part of Amanda. In every way here is a remarkable and admirable performance.

The rest of the cast are strong, too. Susan Knoblock sustains the fragility of Laura very well, without making her uninteresting. Laura's brief glow of hope in response to the attentions of the caller provides the emotional high point of the play, and Miss Knoblock creates it with great economy of means.

Alan Ross is Tom, Amanda's son and the narrator of the play. As the necessarily practical one in the family he makes a good foil for the mother and daughter. Ross' performance adds just the amount of contrast necessary for the play.

• • • •

VAUGHN Von Merwald plays the gentleman caller. He is appropriately outgoing and affable in bringing Laura part way out of her shell.

The set is simple but highly functional. Usually dimly lighted, it aids considerably in creating the proper sense of illusion.

Taking it altogether, "The Glass Menagerie" is probably the best effort of LBCC in the last five years. It undoubtedly is the best of this year, and one of the best anywhere in town.

ROBERT C. WYLDER

Shinn Sued by Swaffield for $400,000

Aircraft builder Clifford L. Shinn and his Shinn Industries Inc. at Orange County Airport are defendants in a libel suit for more than $400,000, filed in Orange County Superior Court by Robert M. Swaffield of Long Beach.

Swaffield, former chairman of the board of Shinn Engineering, Inc., claimed that he was libeled by a letter he said Shinn wrote to Josiah M. Scott and other Shinn financial backers in Delaware.

• • • •

THE LETTER accused him of incompetence and a lack of managerial ability, among other things, Swaffield said.

Within a month after the alleged letter was written, he was discharged Feb. 13, Swaffield told the court. He asked $250,000 punitive damages, $100,000 for loss of his business reputation, $50,000 for mental distress, and $35,000 for loss of income.

Sen. Engle Suggests Pacific Common Mart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said that many of the problems between Mexico and the United States could be ironed out with a Pacific Common Market.

He said the Pacific Community has a great potential for development of its own Common Market, comparable to, but less formal, than the European market.

BEN MARTIN
CNPA Head

Publishers Assn. Picks Ben Martin

Ben D. Martin, 39, former secretary of the Bellflower Chamber of Commerce and employe of The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, has been named general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers, Association.

He was appointed by unanimous vote of the CNPA board of directors to succeed the late John B. Long, who died March 15 at age 67.

Long held the post for more than 34 years.

Martin was assistant general manager for three years prior to his appointment as acting general manager in March.

• • • •

MARTIN, a resident of Loomis, Calif., said he would maintain his main office in Sacramento, where his wife, Carmela, is women's editor of the Sacramento Bee. The new general manager also said he would supervise offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Both Martin and his wife formerly were members of the regional news staff of The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram. He was secretary to the California Highway Commission before taking the CNPA post.

The appointment was announced by CNPA President Ralph H. Turner, publisher of the Temple City Times, at the organization's meeting at Richardson Springs, near Chico.

Romanian Reds Seek New Members

VIENNA (AP) — Romania's ruling Communist Party has launched a campaign to strengthen its ranks by mass admissions of new members. Radio Bucharest has announced a decision of the central committee "to invite more farmers and intellectuals to join the party." It ordered waiting periods for party candidates cut short. Latest official statistics gave party membership of 800,000 out of a population of 18,403,000.

AT OJAI

Festival Concert Charms

By RACHEL MORTON

OJAI—Saturday morning's concert of the Ojai Music Festival was held in the Nordhoff auditorium before a capacity audience and was a program of chamber music and song.

There is such a lovely Old World atmosphere in the informal gatherings outside the auditorium under the old trees before the morning concerts begin. The weather was perfect and festival habitues for many seasons greated one another happily.

Except for two Mozart numbers, the music was by contemporary composers. The most beautiful music came at the end with a Quintet for Winds and Piano by Mozart. The quintet was composed of virtuoso players, Leo Smit, piano; Bert Gassman, oboe; Gunther Schuller, horn; Norman Herzberg, bassoon and Richard Dufallo, clarinet.

• • • •

THE WORK was given a memorable performance.

There was a beautiful intermingling of the instruments. The slow movement was lovely beyond words, each of the players taking bits of solo and weaving together in a velvet legato that was exquisite. The allegro was full of joyous ripples with Smit underlying it all with perfect piano coordination.

Leo Smit was the hardest-working musician of the morning. In the Fantasy No. 2 for Piano Four Rands by Mozart, he and Natalie Limonick combined in well matched artistry and tonal loveliness the fascinating music of Mozart at his best.

Smit then became the very capable accompanist for Marni Nixon, soprano, who sang songs by Bartok, Milhaud, Hindemith, and Schoenberg. Miss Nixon has a sweet lyrical voice with a plaintive tone. She is a splendid musician and seemed quite capable of encompassing all the hurdles of modern composition.

• • • •

MOST DRAMATIC of the songs was the "Ballad of Jane Grey" by Schoenberg, a really powerful and intriguing number which displayed her voice to its best advantage.

Four very sharp pieces by Berg for clarinet and piano were played by Richard Dufallo, clarinetist and Leo Smit, piano. Dufallo is one of the finest clarinetists today. His tone is of gorgeous color and he played with great artistry. The music was descriptive and gripping and held the audience.

The cellist, Howard Colf, with Leo Smit at the piano, played "Three (even smaller) Small Pieces for cello and piano by Weben. The title should have been, "Three Fragments for Cello and Piano," if they were meant to be humorous, they achieved their goal, for laughter was the only response of the audience. Lasting a minute or less each, the sparsity of notes was also conspicuous. How can one judge music with no notes and cello playing with no playing?

Smashing Victory for Washington

Washington Crosses Finish Line Followed by British Columbia and California

Husky Crew Cracks Record; State Settles for 4th Place

By DAVE TAYLOR

Washington University's eight oar-swinging Huskies swooped across the finish line to snatch the Western Intercollegiate Rowing Championship crown by half a boat length before 4,000 screaming fans at Long Beach Marine Stadium Saturday.

Setting a new 6-minute 11.8-second 2000 meter Marine Stadium course record, Washington led the crews of the Universities of British Columbia and California across the line as Long Beach State College's upstart "giant-killers" were trampled by three of the mightiest Goliaths in the sport.

In the final sprint for the Ky Ebright varsity championship cup, UBC followed Washington under the wire in 6:15 flat, leaving third place to California in 6:10.6. LBSC was fourth with 6:26.2, Stanford fifth in 6:27 and UCLA sixth in 6:34.

With a spectacular display of physical stamina, the crews matched Washington's 44-stroke start pull-for-pull. At 700 meters the pace leveled off to about 38 strokes, with the Huskies taking a slight lead. But it was still anyone's race.

THEN THE DISTANCE BEGAN to tell, and from there on it was a bow-to-bow standoff duel between the the two-time defending IRA Champion Huskies and the 1960 Olympic runner-up British Columbia Thunderbirds.

They traded the lead down the stretch until the last 200 meters when Washington edged out front to gain its one-half a boat length ahead of the Columbians, with California nipping at the Thunderbirds' tail feathers.

Coach Fil Leanderson's Huskies gave notice of their intentions for settling the issue of the day as early as the second varsity elimination heat when they first broke their own 6:17 Marine Stadium course record set in 1933. The Washington eight won the heat over UBC, Stanford, Oregon and USC by clocking 6:14.5.

In all, the 1933 record was broken four times Saturday in what Ky Ebright—"grandfather of West Coast crew racing"—termed "the finest crew rowing exhibition ever staged on the Pacific Coast." Washington broke their own 1933 mark thrice, and UBC made four, cracking the record with their 6:15 runner-up dash in the Ebright sprint.

BUT THE EBRIGHT VARSITY championship win was only half the victory for the oarsmen from Washington Saturday. Taking up the cudgel in the junior varsity, Frank Read Trophy championship sprint, the Huskies thumped UBC, California, UCLA, LBSC and Loyola with a finishing time of 6:16.

Outside collegiate competition, the Lake Washington Rowing Club won every event in which they contended—Senior Singles quarter mile, Senior Singles 2000 meters, Junior Doubles, Senior Four, Junior Singles, Junior Four and Senior Doubles.

"We're mighty happy about the way things stacked up today," said Washington coach Leanderson as his Ebright champion varsity oarsmen threw their Coxwain, Grant Allen, in the drink with a victory whoop that drowned the steady buzz of TV cameras.

"I don't know that the boys rowed their best race of the season today, but they were up to the occasion. We're mighty happy—you bet we are, but now we've got plenty of work to do for the IRA 'cause that's where we're going next."

The IRA national intercollegiate competition is slated for New York in June.

For LBSC coach Bill Lockyer, his 49ers were still

Stan Cracks Hit Mark, Cards Win

By GEORGE LEDERER

Two restaurant owners will be setting 'em on the house today by remote control.

For patrons of Ray's Coffee Shop in St. Petersburg, Fla., it'll be free coffee. For clients of Stan and Biggie's Restaurant in St. Louis, it should be something more elaborate. Steaks, perhaps.

The celebrants are Cardinals' Stan (The Man) Musial, who stroked his long-awaited 3,431st National League hit, and Ray Sadecki, a winner over the Dodgers for the first time by an 8-1 count Saturday night.

• • • •

A LADIES night turnout of 50,103 gave Musial a standing ovation after he set his 40th league record with a single to right field in the ninth inning. Of Polish ancestry, the 41-year-old Musial picked on Ron Perranoski, a fellow landsman, for the hit that wiped out Hall of Famer Hans Wagner's 45-year-old record.

Hitless in 16 trips against the Dodgers this year, Musial lined a Perranoski curve ball in front of Frank Howard to start a superfluous three-run round for the Redbirds. It was only the second hit for The Man in his last 25 times up.

Umpire Dusty Boggess called time and presented the ball to Musial, who left for a pinch-runner after absorbing cheers for three minutes. Musial's record hit came on his 10,297th time at bat. Wagner, who retired in 1917, batted 10,427 times.

• • • •

SADECKI, still in diapers when Musial collected his first major league hit in 1940, spaced six hits in conquering the Dodgers for the first time in five lifetime starts. He has made it a custom to treat his patrons to free coffee after he wins. This year, however, the java has been running like molasses. This was his second win to square his season record.

Don Drysdale (5-3) was the loser as the Dodger streak of eight series victories came to an end. Phil Ortega, recalled from Spokane Friday night, and Perranoski finished, making it a total of 31 pitchers who have worked in the Dodgers' last eight games.

Seraphs Tumble Red Sox

By ROSS NEWHAN
L. P-T Staff Writer

BOSTON—Besides books and movies, they have now banned the bunt in Boston.

Manager Mike "Pinky" Higgins, roundly criticized by the Boston press for sacrificing in a key spot of a game with the New York Yankees three days ago, attempted to smooth public relations by flashing the hit sign in obvious, late-inning bunting situations Saturday in a game with the Angels. The strategy again backfired, turning Pinky's face red.

Manager Bill Rigney, meanwhile, did call for the sacrifice in the 10th inning and walked away with a 6-5 victory when Bobby Rodgers followed Dean Chance's perfect bunt, advancing Joe Koppe who had walked, with a single.

• • • •

IT WAS A big win for the Angels—their second straight in Fenway Park where they triumphed only twice in nine games last year. By handing Boston its fourth straight defeat, the Angels climbed above the .500 mark and moved back into the first division, three games off the pace.

"This was a big one," agreed Rigney in a clubhouse filled with World Series atmosphere. "I've never seen our bench as alive as it was was today. They wanted this one bad. With Kenny (McBride, 2-3) and Bo (Belinsky, 5-1) going tomorrow we've got a good crack at a sweep. I wouldn't mind carrying that into Yankee Stadium."

The victory was the Angels' third in five games on the current road trip and brought

Greek Money Wins Preakness by Nose

By RAY AYRES

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Greek Money survived a torrid stretch battle and a foul claim to win the $188,300 Preakness Stakes Saturday and jockey Manny Ycaza, who claimed the foul against him, was suspended indefinitely for "unfair tactics."

Greek Money charged home a nose in front of Ridan in one of the most dramatic finishes in the history of the Maryland classic.

Ycaza then protested that Greek Money bumped Ridan and the stewards studied the films of the race to determine the merit of his claim. They found none.

• • • •

BUT WHEN the day's racing was over, the stewards reviewed the pictures. And there, right at the finish line, was Ycaza, leaning over in the saddle with his elbow planted in front of jockey Johnny Rotz on Greek Money.

"We are suspending Manuel Ycaza for a frivolous claim of foul in the Preakness and for unfair riding tactics just before the finish," said steward Joseph F. Flanagan. "Just before the finish, Ycaza leaned far over and put his elbow right in front of Rotz. He was practically in Rotz's saddle."

Ycaza had been invited to attend the review of the films by the stewards but he did not show up. They acted immediately because the Pimlico meeting ended Saturday.

• • • •

GREEK MONEY and Ridan battled all alone, for there was a big gap of five and one-half lengths back to Roman Line, who finished third in the field of 11.

Decidedly, record-breaking winner of the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago, started a big move from far back in the field on the final bend but he had no punch in the stretch and trailed home a poor eighth.

Jaipur, who wound up a co-favorite with Ridan, also ran out of gas in the home lane and finished even farther back in 10th place.

This was the third win in four races this year for Greek Money, who carried the blue and gold silks of Donald P. Ross' Brandywine Stable. But in his previous races this year, Greek Money had not run against standout horses.

• • • •

HE REMAINED in the East while Decidedly lowered Whirlaway's Kentucky Derby record by a full second, but he was ready for the touring Triple Crown hopefuls Saturday at old Pimlico.

Greek Money battled his way to the front with an eighth of a mile to go in the mile and three-sixteenths race. He dug in courageously to stay there, for Ridan refused to give up and fought back desperately.

Lady Luck rode with Rotz.

By ERNIE MASON

Fred W. Hooper is one Floridan who can't be sorry his thoroughbreds left the land of the fountain of youth for California, the land of opportunity.

His aptly-named Winonly and a properly-named outsider called Crazy Kid, staged a scintillating finish to the richest sprint in Hollywood Park history here Saturday with the former finally getting up to score a spectacular neck victory in the final few strides.

Winonly, who in his first start of the season accounted for the Hollywood Premiere Handicap, picked up the lion's share of the $56,050 Los Angeles Handicap as Bill Harmatz bulled him down the middle of the stretch to pick up the flying Crazy Kid at the wire and pump another $33,550 into the Hooper Stable till.

• • • •

WINONLY was clocked in a speedy 1:21⅘ for the seven furlongs and as third choice in the field of 10 with the

HURTUBISE CRASHES, UNHURT

L.B. Car Qualifies at 146.4

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Ten drivers braved 90 degree heat and qualified Saturday for the 500-Mile Speedway auto race, but former record holder Jim Hurtubise crashed and walked away unhurt in one of seven accidents.

Only two positions remain to be filled today, the final day for time trials for the 33-car Memorial Day classic.

State police estimated about 75,000 fans watched the speed trials and spins in scorching heat as the track surface soared to a record 141 degrees.

Veteran Gene Hartley of Indianapolis was the day's fastest qualifier at an average clip of 146.968 miles per hour for the 10-mile test. Nobody came close to the record average of 150.370 mph that won the pole position last Saturday for Parnelli Jones, the California comet.

• • • •

SECOND TO Harley Saturday was veteran Eddie Sachs of Coopersburg, Pa., who qualified his Dean Autolite Special of Long Beach, Calif., at 146.431—a mile an hour slower than the speed that gave him the pole position last year.

The field now averages 147.254 mph, compared with last year's overall average of 145.302.

Hurtubise, a stocky, 28-year-old speedster from Lennox, Calif., who had just completed his first of four qualifying laps, was rolling along at an average speed of better than 147 mph when disaster struck. He lost control and hit the wall twice, going into the southeast turn on his second qualifying lap and the car was bent up so badly it cannot be repaired for final time trials.

Hurtubise, who set qualifying records as a rookie two years ago, was driving the same roadster in which he led the early part of last year's race and in which he also crashed May 10, the day before qualifications opened.

Saturday's qualifiers in order of their speeds:

Rookie Chuck Rodee, Indianapolis, 146.967; rookie Allen Crowe, Springfield, Ill., 146.831; former 500 winner Jim Rathmann, Melbourne, Fla., 146.610; Jack Turner, Seattle, Wash., 146.469; Paul Goldsmith, St. Clair Shores, Mich., 146.437; Eddie Sachs, Coopersburg, Pa., 146.431; rookie Ronnie Duman, Dearborn, Mich., 145.908; and rookie Bruce Jacobi, Salem, Ind., 144.939.

CLAY STOPS DANIELS IN 7TH ON CUTS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Young Cassius Clay of Louisville stopped Billy Daniels of New York on cuts in the seventh round of a battle of unbeaten heavyweights at St. Nicholas Arena Saturday night.

Referee Mark Conn halted the contest at 2:21 of the seventh of the television fight because of a nasty cut over Daniels' left eye.

Dr. Sam Swetnick had visited Daniels' corner after the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds.

Richardson's 69 Sets Pace in City

By JERRY WYNN

Qualifying brings shakes to most golfers, but not rock-steady John Richardson.

The broad-shouldered State Amateur champion from Lakewood fired a three-under par 69 at Recreation Park Saturday to take the first round lead in qualifying for the 38th Long Beach City Championship.

There were only six sub-par rounds produced by a field of 160 as a pestiferous wind sent most scores soaring. In fact, some of the better players will have to revert to form in the final 18 at Skylinks today or face elimination from the match play field.

Among the sub-par shooters, there is a three-way tie at 70 among Larry Griggs Jr., Chuck Dotsch and unheralded Howard Coleman. At 71 came Dennis Murphy and Bill McCormick. Notable among four at par 72 is Bob Carson, 15-year-old Wilson High sophomore.

Bill Wright, the 1960 United States Public Links champion from Seattle and the first Negro to win a national golf title, is in contention at 74.

• • • •

THE RANKS of Saturday's high scorers is headed by defending champion Dick Clover, who shot a 79 with a triple bogey-8 on the 14th and a double bogey-6 on the 18th. However, he is exempt from the trials.

Other eye-openers were an 80 by Southern California Public Links finalist Eddie Major, 82s by Pete Kramer, and Don Winger and 83s by Don Kelley, Mike Fedderly and Gene Brunstetter.

Brunstetter, a City semifinalist last year, hit three balls out of bounds to take an 11 on the easy 297-yard 13th. Fedderly hit two balls out on the par-three 12th and another on the 13th to go 8-6. Bob Wagner, a Poly golfer, took a 10 on the 12th, stood 14 over par after 12 holes and did not turn in a card.

Richardson's Card

RICHARDSON breezed through his round by hitting 17 greens in regulation figures and missing the other by only four feet. It was his failure to sink birdie putts that kept his score as high as 69.

On the front nine, he took three putts on the sixth and seventh holes for bogies and birdied the ninth by blasting from a trap to within four feet of the pin.

Blazing home in 32, Richardson birdied the 13th, 14th, 15th and 17th on putts of 4, 8, 20, and 10 feet.

"Those 19 putts on the front nine slowed me," he said. "Otherwise, I played very well. There was some wind, but it didn't bother me."

L. B. Diners Left Gasping

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . Bill Nicholas, Coliseum and Sports Arena boss, left 250 diners gasping at last week's first annual awards banquet at L. B. State College. Unwittingly, Nicholas delivered slaps to this city on a half-dozen occasions.

. . . In explaining problems of the Coliseum and Sports Arena, Nicholas stated: ". . . but you people wouldn't know about that here. This is a small town, not like Los Angeles." Of course not like Los Angeles, sir, but a half-million population isn't exactly in the village bracket.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

. . . Then, Nicholas firmly supported the Western Hockey League rule prohibiting more than one franchise to exist within a 50-mile radius. This evoked a wave of gasps from the audience, most of which is firmly supporting a franchise here within the next season or two.

. . . Nicholas' point was that Los Angeles already has too many sports attractions—and needs no more. (I'll agree that TOO MANY teams are utilizing the Coliseum, Sports Arena and even Chavez Ravine, but that's no concern of the soon-to-be-completed LONG BEACH ARENA, is it Mr. Nichols? We don't think so.)

. . . Nicholas frosted the cake by informing listeners that nobody yet had given proper credit to the one organization most responsible for bringing the Dodgers to Southern California — the Coliseum Commission! This came as a surprise to this writer and, I feel certain, to Dodger executives, who paid a pretty penny for use of the Coliseum . . . and got a lot of "lip" as a receipt.

. . . What actually is going on there days relative to Long Beach's bid for a hockey franchise? Well, a final decision on whether or not this city lands a franchise will be made by the WHL within two weeks. The main stumbling block remains Dan Reeves, owner of the L. A. Blades, who has met with L. B. officials but is still not certain that his franchise would prosper if another club was situated only 25 miles away. (I'm glad Dan'l showed more courage some 15 years ago when he transported the Rams from Cleveland to L. A. But I guess age mellows us all.)

EXPECT AN ANNOUNCEMENT within 48 hours regarding Long Beach's franchise in the American Basketball League. Art Edwards, the franchise holder, plans to tie up any loose ends Monday—and immediately thereafter will reveal names of the people who will operate the club.

. . . At this point, the Long Beach entry has access to some fine basketball names, including some who performed last season with the rival NBA. Thanks to some excellent behind-the-scenes work by a few local men, the lure of Southern California has been extended to a number of well-known cagers throughout the U. S.

. . . To the many people who have asked how my old sparring partner, Bobbo Kelley, is progressing, here's Dr. Bob Woods' Saturday report: "Bob suffered a massive heart atack, but is holding his own. He'll be in the hospital at least a month, but there is no reason why he won't be able to continue normal broadcasting duties . . . if all continues well." Bobbo is at Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood . . . and certainly would appreciate fan mail from the Long Beach area!

. . . If all continues well, as Doc Woods claims, Bobbo probably will be restricted to Ram radio broadcasts this fall. His radio sponsors previously had insisted that he refrain from any TV announcing of Ram games. At the moment, Tom Harmon and Gil Stratton are running 1-2 for the Ram telecasting spot.

BILL LOCKYER, Long Beach State crew coach, couldn't be blamed for jumping into Marine Stadium's waters himself after what happened just a few days before Saturday's big intercollegiate regatta. His No. 6 man, two-year veteran Dick Neel, came down with measles and had to be replaced by a jayvee rower. Neel's illness necessitated three position changes for Lockyer. "Losing Neel was like the Yankees losing Roger Maris," moaned the thin man. (Maybe worse. The Yanks have a stronger bench than Lockyer.)

. . . While addressing the Long Beach Lions Friday, Dodger tub-thumper Red Patterson was asked (1) how many balls the Dodgers used during a game and (2) why Dodger Stadium had no screen behind home plate like other parks. "We use at least six dozen baseballs," said Red, "sometimes many more because of lack of that screen. We decided to sacrifice baseballs for fan enjoyment. Without that screen, the fans can see better. Likewise, they've got to be alert at all times."

. . . Even though Vin Scully brought down the house with his favorite anecdote, which unfortunately can't be printed, Patterson produced the afternoon's big stunner when asked his opinion of Frank Howard. "Howard HAS to play every day to be effective," replied Patterson. "He'll never be a star until he gets into the daily lineup." (I wonder if anybody carried the word to Walter Alston?)

Mays Supplies Power for McCormick, 10-2

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Southpaw Mike McCormick returned to winning form and Willie Mays snapped out of a batting slump with four hits Saturday to help the San Francisco Giants bomb the Houston Colts, 10-2.

McCormick, relegated to the brief appearances since losing his only 1962 start April 17, got his first win although retiring for a pinch-hitter after hurling eight innings. He walked only two batters and fanned five while scattering nine hits.

McCormick's task was made easier by three tremendous home runs that produced five tallies in the seventh inning to put the game out of sight. Mays and Orlando Cepeda each hit his 11th homer and catcher Ed Bailey blasted his eighth as the Giants carved out a 9-0 lead.

• • • •

MAYS, who went into the game batting only .262, knocked in the first Giant run in the four-run third inning with a double. He singled in his next time at bat and then in the seventh added his homer, a 360-foot shot over the rightfield fence. In the eighth he singled again, driving in his third run, as the Giants scored their final run.

The Colts picked up their runs in the eighth inning on a single by Jim Pendleton, a triple by Bob Aspromonte and a pinch-hit single by Jim Busby.

Mets Score Four in 8th to Shock Braves, 6-5

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The New York Mets pulled from behind with a four-run uprising in the eighth inning and edged the Milwaukee Braves 6-5 Saturday with Frank Thomas supplying long ball power.

Thomas, sold by the Braves for $150,000 last winter, hit his 10th homer in the second and then launched the decisive rally with a triple. He also collected a single.

Baffled for seven innings by rookie righthander Cecil Butler, the Mets put together four straight singles and a sacrifice fly after Thomas' triple. Butler gave way to veteran Lew Burdette who was charged with his fourth straight loss. Burdette has not won a game this season.

Cubs Halted by Phillies' Mahaffey

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Art Mahaffey, mired in a five-game losing streak, hit his first major league homer with one on Saturday and it provided the margin of victory as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Chicago Cubs, 7-5.

Mahaffey, working in 93-degree heat, the hottest May 19 in Philadelphia history, went the distance for the third time this season, but he had to get Ernie Banks on a fly ball with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth to win.

Santa Clara Takes First CIBA Crown

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Santa Clara won its first California Intercollegiate Baseball Association title since the league was formed in 1927, downing Stanford 8-4 and 4-2.

Trojans Split Two With Golden Bears

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — California edged Southern California 4-3 in an extra eighth inning of the second game of California Intercollegiate Baseball Association doubleheader Saturday and the loss dropped the Trojans out of a CIBA title or title tie for the first time in 12 years. Troy copped the opener, 3-0.

LONG BEACH NIGHT AT DODGER PARK FRIDAY

A deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday has been set for special game and bus tickets for Long Beach Night at Dodger Stadium this coming Friday.

Tickets ($2.50) and bus, roundtrip, ($1.25) information may be obtained at Downtown Long Beach Associates, 601 Pacific Ave. (HE 5-7377), the Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave. (HE 6-1251) and Board of Realtors, 3744 Long Beach Blvd. (GA 4-8687).

The Dodgers will play the New York Mets Friday night. A first-ball throwing ceremony will include vice-mayor Bert Bond, Dr. Orville Cole, George Trammell and Barbara Fiske, Long Beach's Miss Dodger entrant.

Buses will leave Friday night from the Chamber of Commerce and also from the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St., at 6:30.

Sadecki Stifles Dodgers, Musial Smashes Mark

None has gone the route since Drysdale defeated Houston, May 10.

• • • •

THREE Dodger errors made four Cardinal runs unearned. Willie Davis over-ran a single by Curt Flood and bobbled the ball again to give the Cards an extra run in a four-run fourth inning.

An error by Wally Moon set up a gift run in the fifth and led Drysdale to his early bath. Two of the three ninth-inning runs were unearned, the result of Maury Wills' throwing error.

After routing six successive lefthanders and winning eight of 11 against southpaws, the Dodgers were all but handcuffed by the fast-working Sadecki. They were able to capitalize on two of five walks to score in the second inning.

Walks to Doug Camilli and Moon set up a run-scoring single by Larry Burright, his 12th RBI in 12 starts. There after, only one Dodger reached third base.

Drysdale ran into his fourth-inning difficulty just as he did against Houston Tuesday night. Singles by Ken Boyer and Bill White and a walk to Carl Sawatski filled the bases with none out.

• • • •

THE COUNT on Julio Gotay was 3-0 when manager Walter Alston came to the mound to calm his tempermamental pitcher. Drysdale had complained bitterly to plate umpire Vinnie Smith on the ball-3 call.

Alston's psychology worked momentary wonders as Gotay went down swinging, but Drsydale was on his own during the remainder of the inning. Doug Clemens' single brought home a pair and Flood's single, together with Willie's error, made it 4-1.

Alston plans some changes this afternoon when 19-year-old Joe Moeller (2-3) pitches against veteran lefthander Curt Simmons (5-1) in the series windup. John Roseboro returns to do the catching. Lee Walls will be at first base and Andy Carey at third.

BITS AND DATA—It was 8:27 and the middle of the second inning before the stragglers had found parking spaces . . . A portion of the Dodger bullpen made its headquarters in the press box . . . Johnny Podres and Pete Richert, both injured, were the visitors . . . Phil Ortega arrives from Spokane and will wear uniform No. 17 . . . Fashion Show, staged by Gloria Carpenter's Dodger Dollies, preceded the game.

Dodgers lead NL in stolen bases (41), triples (16), bases on balls received (149) and the pitching staff leads the majors in strikeouts (268) . . . Burright has hit safely in nine of 11 games since he became the regular second baseman, May 8 . . . A foul ball hit by Tommy Davis in the third inning knocked the telephone off the table in Gene Autry's private booth, adjacent to the press box . . . With the count 2-0 on Frank Howard and Dodgers at second and third, Sadecki changed his mind and decided to walk Howard intentionally . . . The strategy worked as Doug Camilli bounced into an inning-ending double play.

OREGON HURDLE STAR SETS NCAA RECORD

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—The talented Oregon track squad, getting a record performance from collegiate champion hurler Jerry Tarr, was an easy winner in the Far West track and field championships Saturday.

Tarr raced over the 120-yard high hurdles in 13.3 seconds, a new collegiate mark. The old record, 13.5, was set by USC's Dick Attlesey in 1950.

One timer, Met Heatton, clocked Tarr at 13.2—the world standard held jointly by Lee Calhoun of the United States and Martin Lauer of Germany.

Tarr returned later to win the 440-yard intermediate hurdles in 53 seconds.

Another flashy Oregon speedster, Harry Jerome, won the 100-yard dash against a five-mile headwind in 9.5 seconds and later was first in the 220-yard dash.

SPAHN, CRAIG FINED FOR 'BEANBALL' DUEL

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Neither would admit it, but pitchers Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves and Roger Craig of the New York Mets were each lighter today by $50 for an alleged "beanball match" Friday night.

Spahn conceded it was only the second fine in his long illustrious career, the first being a $5 charge for violating the fraternization rule. But he wouldn't say if he was dusting some of the Mets too closely with his pitches.

Craig wouldn't admit anything either, but he was point-blank in his accusation against Spahn. "Sure, he threw at me," Craig said.

Umpire Ed Sudol issued a warning against both pitchers in the fourth—after Craig had made Spahn hit the dirt. This meant an automatic $50 fine for each, and suspension if it happened again.

Spahn won his 313th game in the process.

WYNN

Man to Man

TARZAN

By JERRY WYNN

He'll find no Janes lingering in the eucalyptus trees nor crocodiles lumbering out of the tules, but Tarzan is coming to Recreation Park.

Johnny Weissmuller, often imitated but never equaled in his original role of Tarzan, will be Long Beach bound soon to play in the World Entertainment Golf Championship, June 9-10.

Renowned for his athletic feats as a swimmer—he once held 67 national records—Weissmuller also is one of the finest golfers in show business. He serves as a member of the tournament committee for the big L. B. event.

Why is golf so popular among entertainment figures, John?

"It is because they have so much time to spend between pictures and assignments, and it takes time to play golf well. I used to make one Tarzan picture a year, and it would take about four months. That left me plenty of time for golf."

You tied for first place with Bob Sterling in the tournament four years ago. Do you consider yourself a contender this year?

"No, I haven't been playing well. I've been doing a lot of swimming for a new show, and my game has suffered. I shoot to only a nine handicap now. I once carried a two handicap at Lakeside."

Who do you rate as the tourney favorites?

"Bob Wilkie, Bob Sterling and Randy Scott are the best players. How well they are playing now depends if they are working on a picture. If they are, they don't have time to play often.

If Bing Crosby and Bob Hope played a match today, on whom would you wager?

"They are pretty close, but I think Bing would win. Bob just learned to play about 10 years ago while Bing has always played, and he's good."

You have played in many tournaments with the pros. Which tourney is your favorite?

"I like the Crosby the best, but I don't like the weather. Everyone wishes they'd move it to Palm Springs or some place down here. But it's always a lot of fun and I play in it every year."

Have you a favorite pro?

"No, I know most of them, and they're all nice guys. I used to play with Porky Oliver in the Crosby, and he was the greatest. I remember one year, he got onto the beach on the eighth hole and took a 10. He yelled up to me, 'call those elephants, Tarzan, I can't get out of here.'"

What was your greatest thrill as a competitor?

"I've made five holes-in-one in golf and held 67 swimming records, only two that haven't been broken. But nothing can match the thrill of winning in the Olympic Games. I won five Gold Medals, and each time it was the greatest feeling to go up to the stand while the band played the Star Spangled Banner."

What was your reaction to the furor caused when a member of the Downey school board ruled that Tarzan books were unfit for children?

"It was ridiculous. If he would have read the books, he would have found out that I was married to Jane by her father. It was in Tarzan and the Ape-Man."

Do you ever still hear the old call of the jungle, and yearn to be Tarzan again?

"I had a lot of fun playing Tarzan, and think it was a good show for the kids. My three boys still watch the old reruns on television. When they see something that is outdated, they turn to me and say, 'boy, you're square, daddio.' Imagine that, me Tarzan."

BOB HOPE, CROSBY BOYS ENTER L.B. 'STARS' GOLF

Bob Hope will take the Road to Long Beach to play in the World Entertainment Golf Championship at Recreation Park, June 9-10.

One of the world's most famous persons and one of golf's most ardent boosters, Hope will be returning to the scene of his famous World War II charity golf matches with Bing Crosby.

It is not known whether Crosby will be able to play in the tournament this year, but his sons, Phil and Lindsay, have joined the field.

Other motion picture and television stars already entered are Gordon MacRae, Fred MacMurray, Jim Backus, Lawrence Welk, Ricky Nelson, Johnny Weismuller, Howard Keel, Fred Waring, Dennis O'Keefe and Andy Williams.

The tournament is sponsored by Golf Life Magazine in association with the City of Long Beach with proceeds to benefit the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Tickets, priced at $3 for both days or $2 daily, now are on sale at Recreation Park, Skyfinks and Lakewood golf shops, and will be available at other locations shortly.

PALO ALTO, Calif.—Dave Archbald, who ran 46.9 in the Coliseum Relays Friday night, came back with a 46.8 for the 440 to lead Cal's frosh team in the Northern California invitational track meet.

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Anthony Watson paced the U. of Oklahoma to its second straight Big Eight championship by winning the 100 in 9.4, the 220 in 20.9 and the broad jump at 25-8¼. . . . None were meet records due to the wind.

WEST POINT, N.Y.—Dick Plymale, Army's sophomore pole vaulter, cleared 15 feet, 6¼ inches in a dual meet which saw Manhattan College defeat Army, 77-47.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Former world high jump champion John Thomas of Boston U. broke a 10-year-old point scoring record as BU and Boston College tied for first place in the New England championships. . . . Thomas totaled 18 points.

THE VICTOR EXCLAIMS . . .

Coaching Won for Varsity

By JEROME HALL

In an upset that will take its place in football's archives of important events, the USC varsity team—under superb direction from five sports writers and a radio announcer — Saturday exploded the theory that a college team can't beat a professional team.

From the point of view of one of the victorious coaches, it was a magnificent contest.

The 100,000 or so who could have purchased tickets missed something. The 4,630 who cheered the Trojan varsity to its 21-10 triumph over the pro-studded Alumni team in the Coliseum saw a splendid come-from-behind performance.

"I was very satisfied," said John McKay, who is the USC head coach on every day except this one. "I thought we (the varsity) played very well."

Well? It was scintillating.

Coaching, obviously, is the all-important thing in football.

Last year, with the regular USC coaching staff, running things, the varsity was over-run, 31-6, by an Alumni team of similar quality.

Which means that with sportswriters doing the coaching, the net improvement was 36 points.

All this without star fullback Ben Wilson, who stayed on the sidelines due to a knee ailment. And without baseballing Willie Brown, too.

Actually, it was remarkably simple. In the first half we let the Alumni have the ball and we practiced defense. The only touchdown the Alums got all day was an accident.

In the second half, we decided to practice offense as well as defense, so we scored three touchdowns and we allowed the Alumni team nothing.

It all went exactly according to game plan.

The strategy employed by the alumni team's coaches was not without its surprises, however. We didn't expect, for instance, that they would try for a 55-yard field goal with a 25-yard kicker.

When QB Pete Beathard passed 14 yards to former Poly High star Harvey Crow for the touchdown that made it 21-10 with eight minutes to go, the game was plainly under control, so we went into our alternate containment variation plan.

No problems.

Perhaps there should be a mention of appreciation to Mr. McKay, who handled the play-calling and substitutions and defenses.

But everything else the sportswriters did.

THE LOSER COMPLAINS . . .

The Officials Were to Blame!

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Like Liz Taylor, I had another loser.

As you will read at length in Jerome Hall's thesis on this page, his USC Varsity squad edged my Alumni club, 21-10.

In defense, I'd like to say three things:

1. A coach can't win without the horses.

2. Saturday's officials will never work another game in my conference again.

3. My quarterback should be investigated. The gamblers got to him and the bum took the points!

Adding insult to injury, my Alumni squad scored its only touchdown when I wasn't there. Along with out other coaches (Tom Harmon, George T. Davis and Jim Murray), I sneaked into the parade tunnel of the Coliseum during the second quarter to view the Preakness on TV.

During that absence, using THEIR plays, our boys climaxed a brilliant march with a 40-yard scoring pass play. My only explanation is that the Varsity was watching the Preakness at that time, too.

The first quarter was a coaching masterpiece. Our defensive team didn't take the field for even one play in that quarter, yet when the gun sounded we were behind, 7-3. (Read THAT over again and let it slide along your tongue.)

In post-game interviews some smart-aleck reporter wondered if the Alum coaching staff would be hung in effigy. Another asked the asinine question, "What was the turning point?"

Without giving me time to consider a proper answer, one of my overpaid rookies named Arnett snickered this retort: "The turning point was when our coaches showed up."

Some balm was received, however, when a kid called McKeever paid homage to his coaches with these words:

"They were nuts . . . or had guts. Imagine going for the yardage on fourth and two on the 40 . . . and making it!"

(After offering this play to Gillman and Waterfield for years, we had to use it, didn't we?)

Anyway, Arnett and Lindon Crow may have pressed their luck too far. They'd better not make a mistake all next season with the Rams.

Their Saturday coaches devised a can't miss "center eligible" play . . . and those two bums refused to call it all afternoon.

No wonder the Rams are anchored deep in the second division with unimaginative drones like that!

SPIKERS TOPPLE ONLY ONE CIF MARK

By DOUG IVES

It was a dandy day for record-breaking in the CIF track and field semis at Compton High Saturday, but despite the wealth of talent the records proved too elusive.

A warm sun and virtually no wind had fans buzzing in anticipation of a record-shattering day, but the meet was almost over before the host school cracked the one and only CIF standard in the Bee 660 relay.

It was a fine meet, nonetheless. Forrest Beaty was up to snuff, the 880 heats were close and exciting, and the Moore League put on another good show, qualifying 25.

Beaty just missed tying the CIF 100 mark with a 9.6 clocking, loafed through the 220 and then gave Glendale Hoover a win in its 880 relay heat with a finishing 220 of 20.8.

Millikan's George Davis won his half-mile heat from Harvard's Jon Peck and Muir's Dennis Breckow zipped to a 1:53.9 to beat Hoover's Tom Blanchard in the other.

Davis took an early lead, slowed up a bit enabling Peck to draw even with 400 yards to go and then fought off the boy with the famous father to win by a stride. Both did 1:54.3.

Poly's muscular Jeff Smith was the standout among Moore Leaguers, however. He threw the iron ball a lifetime best of 59-5¼ for a second-place finish in the shot.

Wilson's John Yancy won the broad jump at 23-3½ and was a surprise winner in 20 flat in his low hurdles heat. Poly's Marv Motley also made it in the broad jump.

Millikan's Paul Reynolds got off slow and finished fourth to Yancy but the Ram ace had his moment of glory earlier with a sizzling 14.3 high-hurdle win.

Poly's George Alford won his 100 in 9.8 but barely qualified in the 440, stumbling home second in 49.8.

Downey milers Bob Goodson and Ed Lindley finished second, losing their leads on the final turn, but qualified along with Millikan pole vaulter Alan Shomaker and Wilson 220 man Dan Ryan.

In Bees, Poly's James Miles qualified in both hurdle races, Wilson's Terry Thorpe (22-9½) made it in the broad jump, Poly's Earl McCullough (6-1) in the high jump and Downey's Clarence Cregar in the 1320 (3:11.2).

Only Moore League Cees to qualify were Jordan's Fred Bristow (1320) and Mike Shott (low hurdles). Lakewood's John Williams (high jump) and Poly's Ron Sommer (660). Poly qualified relay teams in all divisions.

Biggest disappointment was when Centennial dropped the baton in the varsity 880 relay and ruined its chances of defending its CIF title. Muir topped qualifiers in all divisions.

The finals are Friday night at Mt. San Antonio College.

Thornton Shatters JC Mile Mark

By KEN PIVERNETZ

The fastest junior college mile in history highlighted the Southern California JC track and field finals Saturday night at Cerritos College as four new meet records were set and Cerritos won the team title with 47 4/5 points.

El Camino freshman Mike Thornton won a wire-to-wire duel from Fullerton's Jan Underwood in the record time of 4:08.4, breaking the old mark of 4:09 set by Harry McCalla of Fullerton last year.

Thornton tried to run away from the field at the outset of the race and only Underwood was able to keep up with him. He never managed to get closer than within two strides of the ex-Torrance prep star. Then Underwood made his big move with 220 yards to go and Thornton simply picked up the pace. They both were 50 yards ahead of the third-place finisher.

Thornton's unofficial lap times were 60.5, 2.03.6 and 3.07.5.

LONG BEACH City College's bright spot was the first event to end. Dennis Wynn continued his late-season rush to win the shotput with an all-time personal best of 55-8¼, though it fell short of the meet record. Teammate Bill Pace was second at 55-6¾.

The showdown between the Vikings' Tim Russell and Dave Morris of Pasadena was finally decided with the result all Morris.

Morris had it all the way to win the 100 in 9.5 and came back to overtake Russell with 50 yards to go and hold him off at 21.0 in the 220. They'll vie again in the state meet next Saturday night at Modesto.

NEVADA SHADES LBSC SPIKERS; DEE SPARKLES

SANTA BARBARA—Dee Andrews' heroics weren't enough as Long Beach State College was shaded by University of Nevada, 47¼-45½, Saturday in the NCAA district 8 regional track championships.

Andrews won the 220 lows (23.5) and finished second in the broad jump (22-11), hop step, jump (44-1) and 120 highs (14.6), but it was in the latter event that State lost the meet.

Dee held a slight lead over teammate Gary Patterson going into the sixth hurdle. But Patterson tripped and fell against Andrews. Somehow Dee kept from spilling and scrambled back to finish second. The loss meant the difference in the end.

Long Beach's other victories were recorded by Bill Cooper and Darryl Taylor, marking the first time and LBSC squad had won three events in the regionals.

Taylor bettered his school mark with a 4:16.4 clocking in the mile while Cooper posted a varsity record when he won the hammer throw at 163-4.

Other after scoring went like this: Jim MacDougall tied for second in the pole vault (14-6) and placed third in hop-step-jump (43-4). Dave Ito was 4th in hammer, 153-8. Jim Richardson finished fourth in 440 (49.3) and third in 220 (21.6). Mike Clark recorded his all-time best in javelin (204-6) to place 4th. Steve Tarley finished fourth in mile (4:21.9) and Patterson wound up third in lows (24.1).

San Bernardino's Tom Hester failed in his bid for a CIF low hurdles mark, running 18.8. The standard is 18.5.

Bernard Zwick of Rosemead got off a mighty heave of 60 feet to win the shotput and Larry Sapp of Bonito was a double winner in the sprints.

Baby Pin League Stung by Losses

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: The six surviving owners of the National Bowling League's rocky first season insist they are ready to go again next year and are presently striving to get at least two more cities to round out an eight-team loop.

The six teams set for a second year are Detroit, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Fort Worth, Dallas, Fresno and New York. Detroit won the first championship in a rolloff with Minneapolis-St. Paul.

All of the teams, including four which folded during the season, suffered huge losses . . . but these were softened somewhat by a $100,000 "contribution" from one of the big bowling equipment manufacturers.

While the owners themselves are sold on another season, they likely will have a tough time selling the leading bowlers on another trip.

ED LUBANSKI
Thunderbird Captain

"We kept going on promises the past season," says Ed Lubanski, one of the nation's top-ranked bowlers and captain of the champion Detroit Thunderbirds. "The league is going to have an awfully rough time getting most of the bowlers to come back. They'll be able to fill the teams, of course, but I'm talking about the 'name' performers."

Instead of salaries next year, the owners want the bowlers to compete for cash prizes (some put the total as high as $250,000). However, the bowlers are not elated over this prospect. "We heard all about fabulous prize money like that this year, but we didn't get it. They'll have to put the money in front of us before we'll believe it," says Lubanski.

The owners are in favor of a shortened 16-week schedule next year beginning in January. The dates, however, will coincide with the winter tour of the Professional Bowlers Association that has far overshadowed the NBL this year.

In fact, Lubanski says that an unofficial poll he took of bowlers in the National Bowling League, most of the leading performers indicate they will not come back next season. Instead, they'll go on the PBA tour.

THERE HAS BEEN FEVERISH activity in National Basketball Assn. circles the past few days, indicating that the loop has been thoroughly shaken up by Jerry Lucas signing with the Cleveland Pipers of the rival ABL.

Up to now, the NBA has been quite smug in its attitude towards the fledgling league, but now realizes that it must take immediate counter action to keep the ABL from getting a more firm foothold in the sports picture.

The Lucas signing has now assured the ABL of at least regional television . . . and quite possibly a National TV contract.

Officials of the Cleveland club admit that if they had not been successful in signing Lucas, they probably would have folded the club. Although the Pipers won first ABL title last year, the operation lost $170,000 . . . and the league as a whole lost upwards of a million dollars.

Lucas is the first real "box office" star the new league has been able to sign.

As a result, a series of counter-moves is expected shortly by the NBA to meet the new threat.

SINCE WE'RE MENTIONING financial losses, the official "red ink" deficit of the San Diego Chargers last season was $302,000 . . . bringing Barron Hilton's two-year loss to approximately one and one-quarter million dollars.

He again is expressing the hope of breaking even next year, but the club budget is so high that it is a bit of a longshot chance of cracking the "nut." . . .

Eddie Arcaro, who retired recently, has long called himself "the best hangover rider in history," and says "I finally aged right along with the whiskey in me." . . .

And when Eddie's close friend, comic Joe E. Lewis, heard he was retiring, Joe said "so the little chump is finally retiring after 31 years. If the bum had retired 31 years ago I'd be a billionaire today!"

MOST OF THE COUNTRY'S TOP POOL hustlers are currently engaged in a three-week U. S. Open one-pocket championship in San Francisco. . . .

Among the participants are the Knoxville Bear, Pittsburgh Marv, Connecticut Johnny, etc. . . .

First prize is only $1,000, but the boys will be playing for big money because of the large side bets. One fellow called "Hundred" will bet $100 on any shot you care to name. . . .

Incidentally, they're calling the San Francisco baseball stadium "Stick Park" these days because "the wind blew out the candle!"

Rodgers' Hit Beats Bosox in 10th, 6-5

their over-all road record to 8-5. Last year the Cherubs captured only 24 games away from Wrigley Field and after 13 road contests were 1-12.

SATURDAY'S heroes were many and the complexion of the game changed as often as the weather which was a radiant 96 degrees at post time and a forboding electrical storm when Rodgers sliced a Chet Nichols's fast ball into the dark of rightfield some three hours later.

The early heat wore down starters Ted Bowsfield and Earl Wilson and before it was over Rigney had used four pictures and Higgins three. Wilson, a giant righthander from San Diego, yielded a fourth-inning home run to Billy Moran (3) and a two-run blast by Leon Wagner (11) in the sixth before giving way to another king-size package, 6-6 Dick Radatz in the seventh.

The homer by long gone Leon was a 400-footer and placed the Angels' atlas again atop the A.L. standings in that money category.

• • • •

WHILE THE Angels were playing long ball with Wilson's serves, Boston was also blitzing Bowsfield. A homer by catcher Bob Tillman, in his first official at-bat, nullified Moran's wallop and, in the fourth, Pete Runnels' single following a walk and infield out made it 2-1.

After Wagner's poke put the Seraphs ahead 3-2, a triple by Carl Yastrzemski and Tillman's deep fly in the bottom of the sixth knotted matters and when Bowsie walked Frank Malzone, out walked Rigney and in walked Tom Morgan.

A throwing error by Joe Koppe on a double-play ball didn't exactly bring a smile to Morgan's face and Carroll Hardy, the ex-San Francisco 49er, then ended a string of 19 and one-third scoreless innings by Angel relievers by slamming his second home run of the campaign, putting Boston ahead 5-3.

• • • •

RADATZ, A former Michigan State baseball and basketball star, entered the game with a 0.92 ERA and the Angels saw why when he retired them in order in the seventh. But as the lightning and thunder began to rumble in the eighth, so did the Angels.

A walk and double by Tom Burgess put the tying runs in scoring position and Felix Torres, who doesn't speak English, let his bat talk for two runs with a single to center. Nichols then appeared on the scene and looked like a million dollars until the 10th.

• • • •

CHANCE yielded a leadoff single to Malzone in the eighth and opened the ninth by passing Nichols. Both times, however, Higgins let his next batter swing away and both times Chance went on to retire the side in order.

ANGEL OF DAY

LEON WAGNER cracked two-run homer to take AL lead away from Al Kaline. Angels won, 6-5.

Yankees Cool Off Twins on Terry's Three-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Terry cooled off the sizzling Minnesota Twins with a three-hitter Saturday and the New York Yankees squeezed out a 2-1 victory without hospitalized Mickey Mantle.

With the thermometer bouncing around the 99 degree mark, Terry mowed down the Twins and struck out seven en route to his fifth victory.

Harmon Killebrew, the home run star of Friday night's victory by the Twins, provided their only run with his seventh homer, a drive into the left field stands in the fourth.

• • • •

WITH Mantle out of action probably for three weeks, due to a severly torn muscle in his right thigh, the Yanks played rookie Joe Pepitone in center field. However, Pepitone went hitless as did Roger Maris, who returned to the starting lineup after being limited to pinch hitting duty in the last two games because of a strained muscle.

Maris made a game-saving catch of Bernie Allen's fly to deep right in the eighth, leaning back into the stands to grab the ball.

Bunning Cracks HR, Protects Tiger Win

CLEVELAND (AP)—Detroit's Jim Bunning turned in a neat relief job and smacked a home run as the Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 9-3 Saturday.

Bunning, who replaced starter Don Mossi in the eighth inning with one out, protected Detroit's 4-3 lead by striking out the next two men and retiring five in a row.

The Tigers broke open a tight game in the ninth with a five-run rally highlighted by Bunning's solo blast off reliever Frank Funk, the third Cleveland hurler. Four of the runs were unearned as the Indians made four errors in the ninth.

Orioles Pelt Chisox With HR Barrage

CHICAGO (AP)—Home runs by Jim Gentile, John Powell and Charley Lau powered Baltimore to an 11-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Gentile and Powell connected for three-run blasts, both featuring 5-run rallies. Gentile's homer came in the first and helped chase rookie right-hander Joel Horlen who made the start for the Sox but couldn't get anybody out.

Dick Hall, who relieved Barber in the fourth received credit for the victory.

Bass Scores Relief Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kansas City's Norm Bass came out of the bullpen Saturday to pitch one-run ball for 6 1/3 innings and beat Washington, 8-4.

Bass, who had lost five times without a win in starting roles this season, relieved Art Ditmar with the A's trailing, 3-0, in the third inning. Striking out five, Bass gave up six hits.

SAN DIEGO JC NINE CLAIMS TITLE FORFEIT

San Diego City College, 7-2 victors over Palomar Junior College Friday, claimed the Southern California junior college baseball championship by forfeit Saturday.

Athletic director Merrill Douglas claimed victory because the other two teams entered, Orange Coast and Cerritos junior colleges, failed to appear for their first-round game at Beeson Field here Friday.

He said the schools played instead at Orange Coast, with the host team winning 6-5 in 13 innings.

The schools asked San Diego City College earlier this week for permission to play at a site other than Beeson Field. Permission was denied. The plea was then taken to Al Revis, baseball representative on the State Athletic Committee. He approved their request.

Collins Slips Into 4-Way Tie

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Bill Collins fell into the first four-way tie for first place in the seven-year history of the $20,000 Hot Springs Invitational Open golf tournament here Saturday after 54 holes.

Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., breezed in with a five-under par 67, the lowest round of the day, and Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark., and Kel Nagle of Sidney, Australia, managed 70s. They tied Collins of Miami, Fla., at 205.

Collins slipped back to par 72 in the third round of play. Bobby Nichols, Tex., and Art Wall were in second at 206. Nichols and Wall shot identical 72s.

SUNNYSLOPE MISS broke in a tangle but soon straightened out, forged to front while between horses in first furlong then gave way rounding far turn, came again under strong handling in stretch to get up in last sixteenth. FAIREST OF ALL took command on far turn, weakened in last sixteenth under pressure. DELTA MISS was in close quarters leaving the starting gate and had to take up sharply, closed a wide gap in last quarter. ROYAL ARM had speed from stretch, held on gamely. AMERICAN JET gave an even performance, was forced wide on far turn. MOOLAH MISS gave way after showing good early speed although on extreme outside. SPORTY BOY gave an even performance. Winonly Nips Longshot in Hollypark Feature crowd of 49,121, returned $9.20, $7 and $6 across the board.

The largest crowd of the season was momentarily stunned as hard-trying Rudy Campas brought Crazy Kid on again in mid-stretch to take command and the 50-1 shot looked like a winner with 50 yards to go. But Harmatz had pinpointed his final surge with Winonly and the southern invader got there in time.

Crazy Kid led for most of the first five furlongs, cutting out a blistering pace as Campas took him to the quarter in 21 4/5 seconds and the half-mile mark in 44 seconds flat.

• • • •

HARMATZ was closest to the Vista Hermosa Stable longshot in the run down the backstretch but as the first two swung slightly wide entering the stretch, Alex Maese moved up confidently with Olden Times of the favored Rex Ellsworth entry.

Olden Times forged to a half-length lead with three-sixteenths of a mile remaining and it appeared that with highweighted Four-And-Twenty unable to muster a serious threat, his arch-foe had the race in the bag. But Olden Times, unraced since early March, apparently was in need of the race as he tired badly in the final furlong and finally finished fourth.

"MEET THE REST OF OUR SALES STAFF"
(Part of them were introduced last Sunday)

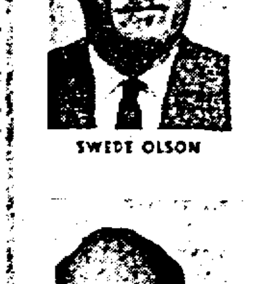

All salesmen are not alike. Salesmen differ even more than new cars, but, like all people, they are influenced by environment and working conditions. One of the modern day scourges in the automobile business is the "High Pressure" salesman. Because of company policies and pay schedules, his only drive is, sell the car and get his commission.

Our sales force at Oscar Gregory Chevrolet whom you see here are salaried sales advisors. This new policy we adopted means that your trained sales representatives will help you in the wisest choice in "your Chevy" selection, and advise you on financing, service and insurance on your new car purchase.

FISHIN' AROUND

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

With the May cold snap finished and possibly no more weather of that nature in sight, it stands to reason that ocean fishing should pick up tremendously in the next few days.

A few hardy souls, not caring whether the wind blew or not, showed up at the landings Friday. Pierpoint's Liberty and Islander rewarded their passengers with 24 yellowtail at Catalina Island, in addition to big catches of kelp bass and bonito. The Sea Angler tried Rocky Point, upcoast from here, and got limits of large barracuda for its half-dozen passengers.

Today should tell us what's in store for the week. Both Pacific and Pierpoint have booked sailings to San Clemente Island, Catalina, Rocky Point and, of course, the offshore banks, Horsheshoe Kelp and Huntington Flats.

Statistics bear out the fact that fishing at Catalina Island usually picks up in late May, runs in high gear through June, then slows down for the rest of the season. Any good skipper, however, can always pick up kelp bass and enormous rockfish at Catalina regardless of the month of the year.

IF YOU ARE THINKING about trying the Salton Sea for corvina, think in terms of mudsuckers—if you can find them—because that still remains the number-one bait for big fish at the Sea. And remember that six corvina is the limit, daily and in possession.

This season is one of those utterly fantastic fishing periods in which the corvina are biting day and night. Fishing is allowed 24 hours a day, so a person can go to an air-conditioned room at the North Shore Yacht Club, hole up through the hot daylight period, then fish all night.

The corvina are hungry and they'll take anything offered—flies, jigs, live bait, spoons and flashers fished right on the bottom, and, of course, live bait, plus all kinds of frozen baits, sardines, tomcod and big shrimp.

Clifford Matthews, DFG warden at the Sea, also points out that the gulf croaker is a good eating fish and that it is quite prevalent in the Sea. There is no limit on that fish, which differs from the corvina in that it has a squared-off tail rather than a rounded one, a sharper spine on the anal fin and no canine teeth.

"Another good fish is the sargo," Matthews said. "He's scrappy, good eating, weighs three or four pounds, takes shrimp, worms and cut bait. The sargo has a dark blue stripe in front of the dorsal fin and the limit is 10."

IT ISN'T OFTEN THAT ANY PART of this column is turned over to a politician. Through the years FISHIN' AROUND has tried to stay out of politics except in a few instances where pending legislation would help or hamper the outdoors. There are other departments where you may read all the politics you wish.

Today, however, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel makes this column in a big way. He has just pushed his S1988 through the Senate by unanimous vote. The bill creates legislation to preserve the boundaries of the Tulelake Wildlife Refuge and thereby saves 100,000 acres for the migratory waterfowl on the Pacific Flyway.

The refuge, which embraces Tule and Klamath Lakes and the surrounding country, at one time contained between 500,000 and 700,000 acres, but agricultural and homesteading interests nibbled at it until fewer than 100,000 acres were left and even that area was in imminent danger.

S1988 defines the boundaries and prevents anybody from gobbling up the rest of the refuge, which the ducks and geese use for resting, nesting and even breeding. Kuchel hopes that his friends in the House of Representatives will give the bill a quick ride to victory at this session. Sportsmen have a real friend in Tom Kuchel!

THIS IS THE TRADITIONAL SUNDAY for boat parades at the yacht clubs. Actually, it's hard to understand why the clubs say it officially opens the boating season when the ocean is full of boats most of the year 'round.

At any rate, there'll be a parade of boats in Alamitos Bay from noon to dark today. It should be of much interest to spectators, particularly the picture-snappers.

Commodore Bill Hardcastle says that at least 150 boats flying the Long Beach Yacht Club colors will parade through part of Alamitos Bay, then past Basins 1, 2, 3 and 4 and finally the LBYC itself. There should be everything in the parade from 50-foot cruisers to sabots and small outboards.

Down Newport way, NHYC will have its opening-day ceremony with an annual fleet inspection and awards to the best-maintained craft. Commodore Dick Steele is going all-out for pomp, with a band and speakers (no politicians).

King Harbor Yacht Club at Redondo Beach started its season with a two-day regatta that winds up late this afternoon. Also, South Shore Sailing Club is ending a two-day regatta for multihulled yachts.

SOFTBALL CUTIES VIE HERE TONIGHT

The California Cuties, a softball team made up entirely of men dressed in women's clothing, will invade Long Beach tonight for an 8:15 engagement with the B-M Meats Club at Park Ave. Field.

The Cuties, originally from Compton, are in their 15th year of competition. They feature some of the top softball players in this area—no matter what their attire.

Lakers in Softball Charity Tilt Thursday

The Lakers will turn to softball Thursday night when they face the Lakewood Majors at Mayfair Park in a benefit game for the Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Rod Hundley will manage the Lakers, and play either shortstop or catcher. Frank Selvy will pitch, Rudy LaRusso play third base, Ray Felix first base, and Wayne Yates and Tom Hawkins outfield.

Lakewood, Amerine 2nd in Gym Finals

Lakewood High finished second and so did its top performer, Jim Amerine, in the CIF gymnastic finals at El Rancho High Friday night.

Baldwin Park won the team title and had the top over-all gymnast. Amerine had three seconds and a third. Skip Mercier of Poly was second in tumbling.

United Plays Harbor

Long Beach United soccer team plays Harbor Soccer Club today at Pan American Park. Kickoff is 2:30 p.m.

ARE YOU HUNTING FOR A JOB OR CHASING A WILD GOOSE?

If you're looking for a job, you naturally want to find something that fits your talent and experience. The business of making a living doesn't have room for wild goose chases.

That's why it makes sense to do your job hunting through professional placement agency. They take the time and trouble to evaluate your skills, and find the right job for you among the many opportunities on their lists. They know where real opportunities exist, and they won't waste your time with unrealistic job leads.

Agencies who are members of the California Employment Agencies Association are bound by a code of professional ethics to assure you of capable, courteous, honorable service.

For V.I.P. treatment, place yourself with a professional employment agency. Last year they found more than 350,000 jobs for applicants. They know how to help you.

Income Properties—Trade

The better buys are at our fingertips. It is a pleasure for us to show them to you personally and discuss how creative speculators would enhance their value. Many peoples rate growth can be greatly accelerated through trading or mortgaging their assets without decreasing their safety margin.

One property we are selling is typical of many in that there are many ways it can be purchased: 20 units only 4 years old, but poorly kept and in FORECLOSURE.

Six Conveniently Located Offices to Serve You

LOS ALTOS

THREE BEDROOMS AND JUST $16,500 — Big wide 64-ft. frontage with back yard large enough for addition plus pool or just room to romp. Choicest area just 2 blocks north of State College. First time in print. Call HA 9-5924 — Key at 3010 Woodruff Ave.

"DOUGLAS SPECIAL" — Custom built 2-bedroom and paneled den (or 3 bedroom), double fireplace, 220 in kitchen and garage, 2 air conditioners, 2 baths with 2 separate showers. Large pie-shaped lot. Price $18,950! Call HA 5-1214 or come to 4100 Bellflower Blvd.

CUSTOM BUILT! $18,950! — You read right! This lovely 2-bedroom and den home with its 2 baths, fireplace, 2 air conditioners and other extras is an exceptional value at this price and conveniently located, too! Large lot adds to already big value, one only so you better hurry! We may never get another like it, yes, terms to suit you! Call GE 4-7426 — key at Hwy. 101 and Anaheim.

ATTN.: HANDY MAN. PLEASE BUY ME! — I'm a lovely 2-bedroom and den home on a nice corner near the Broadway. I have a fireplace, carpets, drapes, 1¾ baths, double garage, etc. All I need is a little paint and a few repairs. I'm only $2800 down, vacant and available. Call GE 3-7493 — key at 2060 Bellflower Blvd.

PLAZA AREA

FAMILY ROOM PLUS 3 BEDROOMS — Just $17,500. Beautiful divided residential street close to St. Cornelius, Millikan Hi, Marshall Jr. Hi and elementary. Vacant and just listed so be first to call HA 9-5924—Key at 3010 Woodruff.

A CORNER FOR EVERYBODY — 2 Bedrooms—3 bedrooms—3 bedrooms and family room—2 bedrooms and den—all on lovely corners. From $950 to $2800 dn. Any of these can be easily added on to. Call GE 3-7493 — key at 2060 Bellflower Blvd.

ROSSMOOR

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — In Rossmoor the name "Golden Estates" describes the most wanted modern and we challenge you to find another at $26,950. Just $5600 to existing loan includes carpets, drapes, huge alum. covered patio. Be first to call HA 1-1211 — Key at 5549 Woodruff Ave.

"HARVARD" MODEL, OWNER TRANSFERRED —All the "extras"—covered patio, sprinklers, planters, block fence, refrig.-freezer. Price reduced to $26,500, which makes this the most outstanding 4-bedroom model available in Rossmoor. Call HA 5-1214 or come to 4100 Bellflower Blvd.

IT'S A "GOTTA GO" — Husband transferred back east and family anxious to join him. If you fail to see this lovely carpeted Plymouth 3 and den home, you're hurting yourself! Asking $26,900, excellent location, see it!! Call GE 4-7426 — key at Hwy. 101 and Anaheim.

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP— THE KEY TO FREEDOM!

Display it Proudly
It's a Grand Old Flag . . .

The Morrill Act of 1862 granted public lands for the support of State institutions of higher education. Those who are close to the land today . . . urban and rural home owners and the Realtors who serve them . . . are no less dedicated to the support of a high level of excellence in our schools. Home ownership is a source of national strength as are the schools that, now as in past, follow the establishment of homes.

Set Wide Observance Here for Realtor Week

Long Beach Board Joins in Nation-Wide Program

Realtors of the Long Beach district today begin celebration of national Realtor Week which will run through Saturday.

Under the motto "Homestead and Home — Foundation of the Nation," they will join with some 70,000 other realtors across the nation, seeking through this means to emphasize their services and to make clearer the distinction between realtor and others in the real estate business. Realtors are members of local constituent boards of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of the largest trade and professional organizations in the country.

"A realtor," explains James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, "subscribes to a well-established code of professional ethics enforced through the local board. It obligates us to keep the interests of both buyer and seller uppermost in mind during a transaction."

* * * *

THE TERM realtor was adopted by NAREB in 1916, and its exclusive right to the ownership of the term for use by its members only has been established by numerous court cases over the years. It is registered as a collective mark (similar to trademark) in the United States Patent Office.

For Realtor Week, the following events are scheduled by the Long Beach Board of Realtors:

Tuesday has been designated as Civic Official Day. Civic leaders of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill and Seal Beach will be honored at the Tuesday morning breakfast meeting to be held at the Crown Cafeteria. At this time first copies of the new U.S. postage stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Homestead Act will be presented to these officials.

THE EVENING of Tuesday the Long Beach membership committee, under the chairmanship of Realtor Ralph Saffle, has invited a group of broker licensees to be their guests at a dinner to be held at the Elks Club. Herbert Lakey, past president of the California Real Estate Association, will be the guest speaker and he will endeavor to acquaint these licensees with significance of the term "Realtor" and stimulate their interest in becoming Realtor members of the local Board.

Wednesday, Long Beach City College officials will be guests of the Board at a luncheon to be held at the Elks Club, and will be presented with color prints of a specially commissioned landscape painting in oil by one of the country's foremost wildlife artists — Robert W. Hines.

Saturday will be "Open House" at the Board office—3747 Long Beach Blvd. The Board office will be open to the public to better acquaint them with the activities and meaning of organized real estate. A film, "The House Hunters," will be shown be the office will be open between the hours of 12:00 noon to 4:00 p.m.

In addition to the above, the Long Beach Board will display appropriate literature and plaques in local banks. A Realtors' Window Display Contest will be held and the Build Long Beach Better Contest which is designed to stimulate interest in the rehabilitation of sub-standard and deteriorated dwellings — home improvement and beautification.

Insurance Broker Is Realty Speaker

John Lokey will be the speaker for the North Long Beach Real Estate Club at its weekly breakfast meeting Thursday at Mayo's Restaurant. "How Insurance Ties In With Real Estate" will be his subject. Lokey, an insurance broker 12 years, is located at 1420 E. Artesia Blvd.

BOOSTERS FOR DOWN TOWN

Swinging down Pine Avenue are four leaders of the Downtown Long Beach Associates who will direct the promotional activities of the area the coming year. From left to right are Roy M. Showalter, treasurer; Joseph Shuff, president; Gus Lueking, vice president, and Jack Merrick, secretary.

Civic Officials Day at Realtor Meeting

Civic officials will be honored at the breakfast meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors Tuesday at the Crown Cafeteria, Reg F. Dupuy, program chairman announced.

This is an annual feature during Realtor Week and city officials of Long Beach, Signal Hill, Lakewood and Seal Beach will attend.

Speaker will be Larry Hoag, a director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and president of the Downey Chamber of Commerce. He will discuss "Homestead and Home—and the Realtor."

* * * *

FIRST copies in Long Beach of the new postage stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Homestead Act will be presented the civic and city leaders at the breakfast, announced Max Livoni. The Homestead Act made it possible for thousands of citizens to establish homes and farms on public lands.

James A. Edmonds, the board president, said all Realtors will be asked to renew the Realtor's Pledge at the meeting. The pledge is:

"I am a Realtor—I pledge myself:

To protect the individual right of real estate ownership and to widen the opportunity to enjoy it;

To be honorable and honest in all dealings.

To seek better to represent my clients by building my knowledge and competence;

To act fairly towards all in the spirit of the Golden Rule;

To serve well my community, and through it my country;

To observe the Realtor's code of ethics and conform my conduct to its lofty ideals."

Plans Store in Lakewood

Mullen & Bluett, Inc. men's and women's specialty chain, will open a new unit in the Lakewood Shopping Center early this fall, it was announced by Maurice Mandel, vice president and general manager. He also stated that Mullen & Bluett has renewed for 15 years the lease on the premises occupied at Sixth & Broadway, which Mandel described as "the best location in Downtown Los Angeles."

He pointed out that the Lakewood Shopping Center store represents the first move in Mullen & Bluett's expansion program made public on March 29 by Timely Clothes, Inc., owner of Mullen & Bluett.

Mortgage Firm to Incorporate

Articles of incorporation for Insured Mortgage Co., capitalized at $500,000 to engage in real estate loan brokering, have been filed with Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan.

Directors are Melvin L. Mould, 2918 Del Amo Blvd., Lakewood; L. G. Toner, 10462 Dewey St., Garden Grove, and E. Tennyson Moore, 5610 El Parque, Long Beach.

Joseph Shuff Head of L.B. Associates

Joseph Shuff, manager of Walker's Department Store has been elected president of the Downtown Long Beach Associates, the 19th president in the succession of prominent businessmen to hold the position. Shuff has been vice president the past year, and chairman of one of the most successful membership drives in the history of DLBA. He has been the general manager of Walker's the past two years.

Shuff was elected along with three officers and will be at the helm of a board of directors numbering 30, all of whom will be installed at the 26th annual meeting which will be held June 5, in the International Ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel.

* * * *

LARRY COLLINS SR. was selected as the installing officer.

New vice president is Gus Lueking, who previously has been a director of DLBA 22 years, and was president in 1941-42. He was been manager of Florsheim Shoe Store in Long Beach the past 30 years.

Slated to serve as secretary for the coming year is Jack Merrick, owner of T. F. Merrick Co., a real estate and appraisal business in Long Beach since 1930.

Merrick has been a DLBA board member a number of years and has been active with the local realty board and Chamber of Commerce.

Newly elected treasurer is Roy H. Showalter, vice president and manager of the Security First National Bank at First and Pine Ave. Showalter has been in the Long Beach Branch since 1960 and has already become very active in Rotary as well as in a number of civic organizations.

Vito Romans will continue in the capacity of executive director, which he has held the past seven years.

To Key Post in State Group

Robert M. Kripp, a principal in the firm of Adams, Morgan, Latham, Kripp & Wright, Long Beach architects and engineers, will be installed Friday as a vice-president of the California Society of Professional Engineers. The installation will be the annual meeting of the society to be held in Berkeley.

Moonshine Jars Given to School

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP)—An elementary school science teacher has found an ample free supply of glass containers for class experiments.

The sheriff's office gives Mrs. H. B. Swilley an assortment of jugs and jars which it confiscates in raids on moonshine whisky operations.

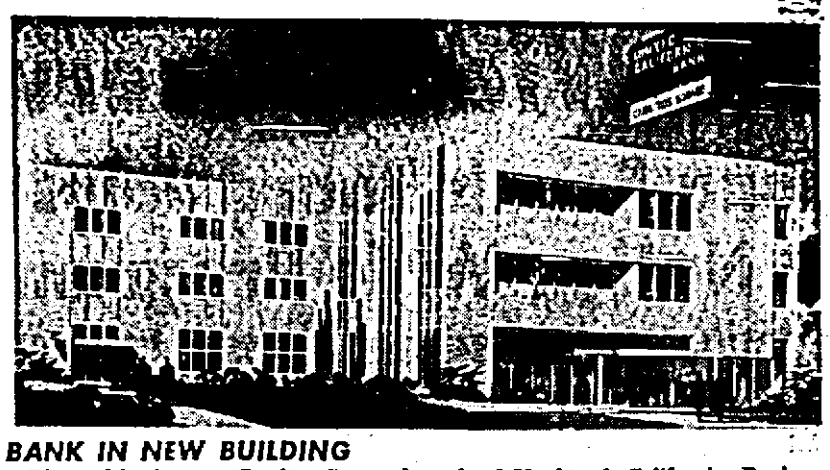

Audubon Failed as Merchant

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—The famous naturalist, John James Audubon, was co-owner of a general store here in the early 19th Century.

He roamed the Kentucky hillsides sketching pictures of wildlife for several years, before bankruptcy caused him and his family to move.

Big Producer

CHICAGO (UPI)—A discovery well on the offshore field of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) in the Persian Gulf has produced oil at rates up to 35,000 barrels a day.

BANK IN NEW BUILDING

Pictured is the new Cerritos Square branch of United California Bank, which occupies the lower floor of this building at 4210 Long Beach Blvd. Official opening took place Friday when it was announced that night depository service, safe deposit facilities and complete banking services are available. The leasing agent for the premises is Coldwell Banker and Co., and the owner, C. J. Bonner. Parking area will serve 150 cars.

Deadline Near for Some Vets to Buy Homes Under GI Terms

Deadline for many World War II veterans to purchase a home under the GI Bill of Rights is only two months away, Don Hermanson, sales manager of Brentwood Gardens, warns.

"The bill starts to 'run out' July 25," Hermanson said, "at which time many World War II veterans will no longer be able to buy a home on no-down payment and at 5¼% interest."

More than 800 veterans have taken advantage of their home purchase eligibility at Brentwood Gardens, 2000-home planned community being developed by Larwin Co., an affiliate of Larwin Group, which includes the world's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

* * * *

HERMANSON SAID the reasons given by veterans who buy at Brentwood Gardens are: Location, terms and value.

The development, he noted, is 20 minutes from major employment areas in Los Angeles and Orange County, in addition to being approximately 10 minutes from major recreation.

The 18-hole championship Los Alamitos Golf Course is across the street from the development's newest unit.

Financing terms at the project enable veterans to move in for only $1 total cost, Hermanson added. Monthly payments start at $89 which include principal and interest. Loans carry 5¼% interest and each buyer receives a grant deed to his property.

Brentwood Gardens residences are available in four basic floor plans and 20 exterior elevations, including ranch, Hawaiian, provincial, contemporary and traditional.

* * * *

FLOOR PLANS provide popular central entry halls and include three or four bedrooms, or three bedrooms and family room or den, two baths and oversized two-car garage.

Features include built-in gas range and oven, built-in TV antennas, disposal, double sink, ceramic tile counter tops, walk-in bedroom closets, custom wallpaper and aluminum sliding glass doors.

To reach Brentwood Gardens, go east on Carson to Knott Avenue.

IN BRENTWOOD GARDENS

Here is shown the spacious living room in one of model homes in Brentwood Gardens, 2,000-home planned community near Buena Park. Floor plans also incorporate popular central entry halls.

Two Month Rental Free in Apartment

Anaheim's newest apartments, the Lincoln Arms, just off Lincoln Blvd. between Knott and Western Ave. on Westchester are now open.

According to Richard L. Sinclair, president of the developing firm, a special offer of two months free rent will be given to all those leasing apartments with the special offer in effect for a limited time only.

The new apartment complex of 423 one and one-bedroom apartments in 11 buildings, feature separate adult, family, and bachelor sections, professionally selected drapes and carpeting, TV and phone outlets, laundry room with washers and dryers, mammoth walk-in closets, O'Keefe and Merritt built-in range and oven, a snack bar and separate big dining area in apartments ranging up to 900 square feet in area.

* * * *

A NEW CONCEPT in apartments is being inaugurated by Lincoln Arms. A unique plan developed by the company allows renters to purchase the furnishings displayed in any one of the 10 model apartments, as a group, for far less money than normal because Lincoln Arms pays half the retail value. As an example: Sinclair said: renters would pay only $70 for a $90 apartment under this plan.

Not only will our renters pay less for their rent and their furniture under our "own-your-own furniture" plan, Sinclair said, they will also save money on their utilities because we pay for both gas and water.

SUN RAY ESTATES WILMINGTON

Offer Many New Designs in Garden Park Estates

"Why go further? You can find what you want right here!"

This, as value-conscious home shoppers attending Garden Park Estates' grand opening, is a fitting maxim for the new unit of handsome one and two-story homes, spokesmen point out.

Latest addition to this planned "city within a city" at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway, the all-new unit presents not only a widely diverse selection of contemporary and conventional elevations, but an exceptionally wide range of plans specifically designed to meet the spatial needs of large families and small.

• • • •

THERE ARE two-bath plans with two bedrooms and a convertible den for retired couples or those without children; three and four-bedroom plans with family room and dining areas, and the new two-story residences with five spacious bedrooms for today's larger families.

These, the spokesman said, are not "split-level" homes, they are actually two-story dwellings. Expertly designed for the maximum of gracious communal living and individual privacy, each two-story home has two bedrooms, a bath and the master bedroom with a fireplace on the second floor. Downstairs, there is an inviting entry hall with stately stairway, and in one separate wing (a center hallway conveniently divides these areas) there are two bedrooms, and in the other, the spacious living room with its hospitable fireplace, the dining area, and the appliance-equipped kitchen. The second bath is convenient to all.

• • • •

THE HOMES are fully priced from $17,800. "Four way" financing offers veterans terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $89.50 including principal and interest, or Cal-Vet loans. Non-veteran financing includes conventional loans and choice of 30 or 35-year FHA loans.

Furnished models are reached by driving east on Seventh St. to Knott Ave. and Garden Park Estates' new unit.

IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES

Today's grand opening officially presents Garden Park Estates' new unit of one and two-story luxury homes. Exteriors are diverse and distinctive, and the range of plans keyed to meet the needs of families of virtually every size.

To L.B. Office of Paper Firm

Robert A. Campbell has been appointed manager of Blake, Moffitt & Towne's Long Beach division, according to H. P. Westler, president of this Pacific Coast paper distributor. Campbell advances from an executive position on the company's headquarters staff in San Francisco. He succeeds Jack P. Rogers who has resigned.

Campbell started as a salesman in San Bernardino in 1953. Five years later, he was promoted to sales manager of the San Bernardino Division. In 1961, after a brief assignment to a staff position at the company's southern regional headquarters in Los Angeles, he was appointed to the San Francisco headquarters staff.

Sees Ample Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospective home buyers will continue to find ample mortgage funds available through the rest of 1962, says the president of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

J. Stanley Baughman, the association president, said he based his forecast on a nationwide survey conducted by the agency's field offices and on an analysis of the association's quarterly report.

"A number of favorable factors are at work for prospective home buyers," Baughman said. One of these factors, he said, was the action of the Federal Reserve Board in raising the maximum interest rates commercial banks can pay.

• • • •

THIS, HE SAID, "has increased time and savings deposits substantially, thereby creating the happy situation of these banks seeking additional investment outlets. Mortgages, as a result, have become increasingly more attractive to them."

Former Timekeeper Webb Prexy

A man who "hired on" 24 years ago as a $25-per-week timekeeper has stepped up to the presidency of the Del E. Webb Corp. of Phoenix and Los Angeles, whose 1961 building activities exceeded $100 million in volume.

He is 49-year-old L. C. Jacobson of Phoenix, executive vice president and, with Founder Del E. Webb, the only man ever to share ownership of the Webb Co. until it became publicly held 15 months ago.

L. C. JACOBSON
Started at $25 Weekly

Builder Webb, 62, while announcing Jacobson's ascendency to the presidency at the annual stockholders' meeting in Town Hall of the Webb-developed Sun City retirement community near Phoenix, left little doubt he will continue actively in Webb Corp. operations as chief executive officer and chairman of the board.

• • • •

"RETIREMENT," he declared, "is something I haven't even thought about."

Webb reported 1961 showed a substantial increase in earnings, with gross revenue of $67,100,718 and net earnings of $2,835,908 or 50 cents a share on average shares outstanding. The company also performed $13,221,000 in construction work for its own properties and subsidiaries, and its estimated share of joint venture construction was $25,400,000 boosting 1961 activities over the $100 million mark.

In becoming president of the construction and land development firm he has helped build to major proportions in two decades, Jacobson assumed direction of more than $200 million in projects currently underway or on the planning boards, as well as Webb-owned properties such as shopping centers, hotels, office buildings and other businesses.

Tidewater Tightens Marketing Budget

Tidewater Oil Co. plans plans capital expenditures of $81 million in 1962.

The 1961 capital expenditures totalled $101 million, of which approximately $15 million was spent for the purchase of an interest in certain California oil and gas properties of Honolulu Oil Corp. and a half interest in its undeveloped acreage in Alaska, president George F. Getty II said.

Getty said the 1962 budget reflected a "general tightening up" of marketing expenditures, while providing funds to maintain the modern marketing facilities program begun by Tidewater during its expansion launched in 1954.

Flying A service station construction will be concentrated in areas where Tidewater enjoys its most favorable delivery costs, Getty said. Continued attention will also be focused on modernization of existing stations.

Getty noted that the 1962 plans indicated Tidewater's generally optimistic outlook for the oil industry's future.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Co. announced that Union Pacific Railroad has ordered 12 G-E U25B diesel-electric locomotives.

The order is the second placed by Union Pacific for the 2500-horsepower locomotives. The railroad took delivery of four U25B's last August, and by early April of this year the units had operated over a total of 94,000 miles—a naverage of 12,200 miles per month.

• • • •

MARKET BASKET reported earnings for the fiscal year ended March 3, 1962 of $1,413,188 or $1.51 a share compared to $2,011,973 or $2.18 a share, adjusted for a 3% stock dividend, for the previous fiscal year. Sales rose to a record high of $119,183,184 from $104,511,854. The company continued to maintain a strong working capital position of $6,183,202 with cash of $4,117,968 and no bank borrowings.

President Neal D. Ramsey attributed the decline in earnings to the recent amount of write offs due to 10 new store openings during the year, general softness in the economy during the early part of last year and a downward revision in the retail price structure.

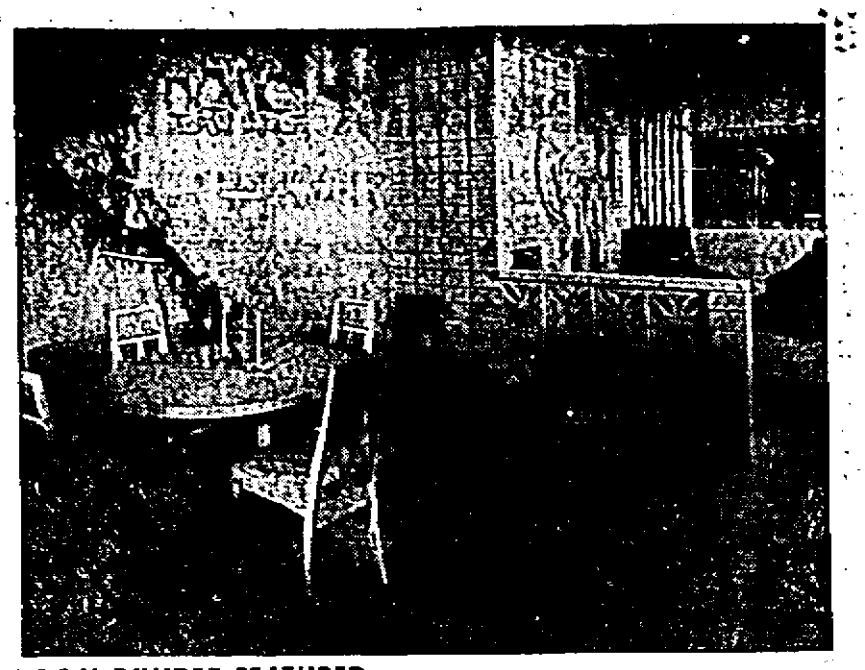

Ramsey stated he was optimistic regarding the current outlook as he felt there was a discernible improvement in general business conditions in Southern California. He believes that the number of newly opened stores will contribute to expanded operating profits during the current year.

• • • •

ROGER M. LAVERTY SR., president and chairman of the Board announced that Thriftimart, Inc. earned $2,030,147 during its 53-week fiscal year ended March 31, 1962. This compares with total profit of $1,791,521 for the previous 52-week year ended March 25, '61. Earnings of $1.80 per share were the same for both years. This past year average shares outstanding totaled 1,126,368 compared to average shares outstanding for the previous year of 999,307.

Sales for the year reached a record high of $209,065,322, an increase of $30,124,335 or 16.83% over sales of the preceding 52-week year which totaled $178,940,987.

During the 1961-62 fiscal year, Thriftimart expanded its retail organization by acquisition of the MORE membership department stores through a newly formed, wholly-owned subsidiary, and the opening of six new supermarkets in its food chain.

Quality Features in Sunshine Home

LOCATION IS APPEALING

Huntington Beach Sunshine homes are ideally located in one of the finest south coast resort areas offering easy access to beaches, golf courses, boating, and deep sea fishing.

A number of quality features, including wall-to-wall carpet and built-ins in the kitchen are attracting home buyers at Huntington Beach Sunshine homes, units 1 and 2, according to Stan Rossi, executive sales manager for S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers.

Locted in the fastest growing section of Orange County, near beaches, golf courses, boating and deep sea fishing and close to schools and shopping centers, Huntington Beach Sunshine homes offer the home buyer a choice of several attractive elevations and floor plans and may be purchased with no down payment in unit 1 and only $95 down in unit 2, stated Rossi.

• • • •

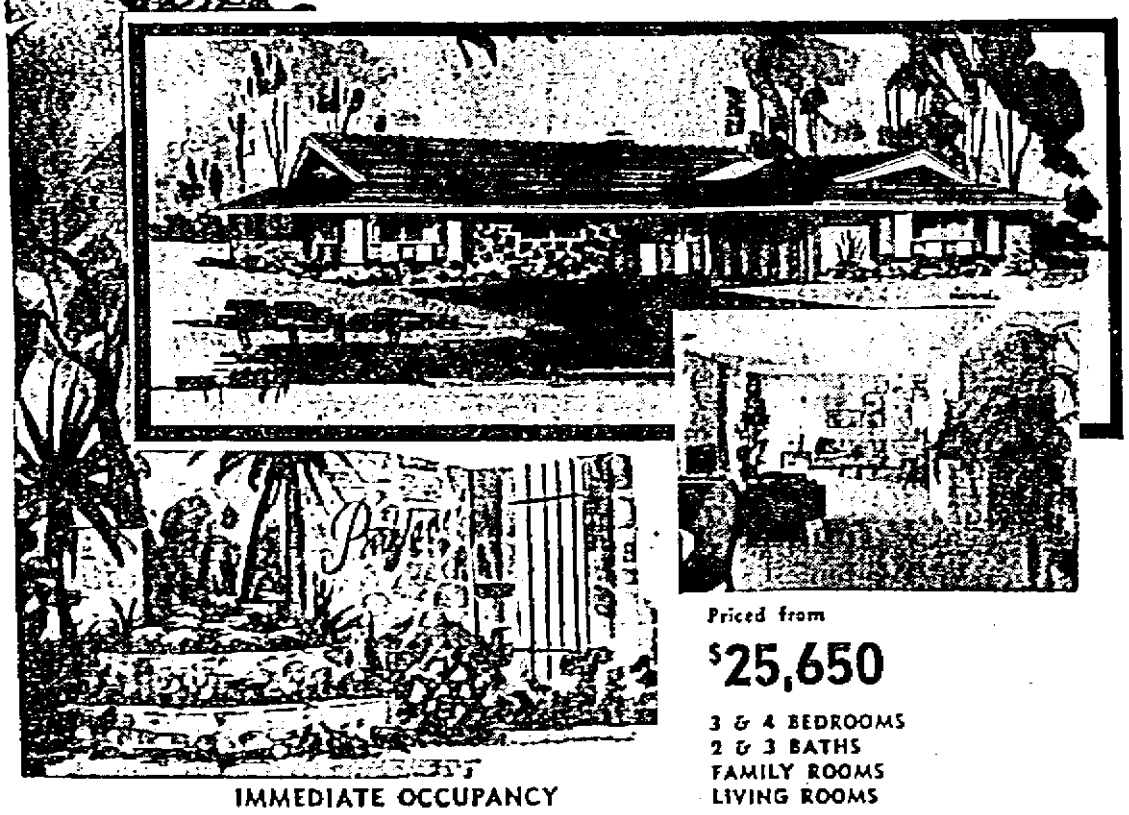

OFFERING THE HOME buyer a choice of three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and large two-car garage, these homes feature forced air heat, metal sliding windows with screens, ample closet space and all-copper plumbing. The compact kitchens have built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, vinyl tile, Fabricon counter tops, and natural finish cabinets. There are floor to ceiling folding wardrobe doors.

Furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Unit 1 Huntington Beach Sunshine homes may be inspected on Heil Ave. just off Golden West St. Unit 2 homes may be seen on Golden West St. and Smeltzer.

Big Advance Sale on New Unit

Over 30 homes have been sold in Lakewood Manor before model homes have been completed, reports Ray K. Cherry, president of Hadley-Cherry, developers of the 360-home community in Lakewood.

Sales agents Walker & Lee are still processing over 150 reservations which were made before the project got under way.

Current plans are for the furnished model homes to be open the first week in June. The model homes, being furnished and decorated by Bill Luther, will be a showplace of new decorating and furnishing ideas, according to builder Cherry.

Located in Lakewood at South St. and Palo Verde, Lakewood Manor offers spacious three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes. There is a proposed park in the planning stage and a protective concrete block wall surrounding the entire development.

Lakewood Manor homes are now selling for from $18,750 to $19,250. Information may be obtained by calling Walker & Lee.

MODELS READY SOON
Hadley-Cherry, developers of Lakewood Manor, report over 30 homes have been sold in the unit being built at South Street and Palo Verde. Model homes, such as this, will be ready shortly.

Sites Now Selling in Rancho Carrillo

All 72 ranch-size sites developed from a portion of historic Rancho Carrillo near San Juan Capistrano will be sold within 30 to 60 days, predicted developers Richard Beamish and Ronald Diggins. "The interest shown at our preliminary opening was far greater than we anticipated. Ten sites were sold the first weekend alone," Diggins said.

Three-acre rancho sites, access roads, equestrian trails and a multitude of recreational facilities are highlights of Rancho Carrillo, which is in a rolling mesa above San Juan Capistrano.

The sites are priced between $6,900 and $9,999.

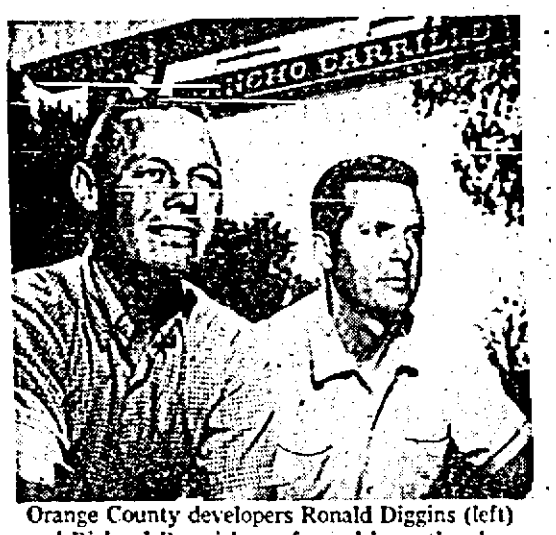

* * * *

RECENT DISCOVERY of abundant well water has spurred development of the historic rancho which is off the Ortega Hwy. (74), eight miles east of San Juan Capistrano.

Each rancho in the tree-rimmed valley is available for outright ownership, Diggins added.

Out of the coastal fog zone but still cooled by ocean breezes, Rancho Carrillo is 2,200 feet high and actually in the Cleveland National Forest.

The Rancho Carrillo sales office is on Ortega Hwy. across from the mission in San Juan Capistrano. Phone number is GYpsy 3-1131. The main Rancho office is located at 365 Newport Blvd., Newport Beach.

Orange County developers Ronald Diggins (left) and Richard Beamish are framed beneath colorful entrance to Rancho Carrillo. They predict all 72 ranch-size lots on a portion of the historic rancho will be sold quickly.

DESIGN WINNERS
Howard Savage and Don McNab of Long Beach have won national honors from Alcoa Aluminum for outstanding achievement in designs with aluminum. They won the award on table and desk accessories.

Win National Award on Aluminum Design

Two young Long Beach men have been selected by the Alcoa Aluminum Industrial Designs Awards jury as recipients of National awards recognizing outstanding achievement in designs with aluminum.

Don McNab and Howard Savage of the Long Beach firm of Savage-McNab-Wilson & Associates will receive a sculptured aluminum stabile as a tangible symbol of the award at the next regional meeting of the Industrial Designer's Institute.

McNab and Savage won the award on a line of home and office table and desk accessories produced for Peter Pepper Products, Palos Verdes Estates.

Savage and McNab formed their present organization in January, 1959, following three years of association with another group, while all were attending Long Beach State College.

* * * *

A SEPARATE organization, Geometrics, Inc., is owned by McNab and Savage. It was organized in January, 1961, to manufacture certain items.

Much of the experience of the firm is in graphic design. Their work on the 1960-61 annual report for the City of Costa Mesa is currently receiving national recognition. At present, the firm is in the process of developing a series of items that will round out the decorative accessories line now manufactured by Geometrics, Inc.

The accessory line includes a range of boxes—cigarette, card, all-purpose—and companion lighters. All were designed to employ standard aluminum extrusions as the body, some with sections of aluminum extrusions as decorative inlay in hardwood tops.

REALTOR WEEK AFFAIR

Copies of Painting Will Be Presented

Color prints of a specially commissioned landscape painting by one of the country's foremost wildlife artists will be presented to Long Beach City College officials when the Long Beach Board of Realtors honor these local educators at a luncheon Wednesday at the Elks Club.

James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the board, said that the occasion will be "Education Day," one of the high lights of Realtor Week.

The painting entitled "Under All Is the Land," is the work of Robert W. Hines, artist-illustrator on the staff of the U.S. Department of the Interior. Praised by critics for the skilled technique it displays as well as for its content, the painting depicts the grandeur of wooded mountain slopes and fertile valleys. He painted "Under All is the Land" for the Department of the Interior which is currently engaged in commemorating the centennial of the Homestead Act and related legislation in cooperation with NAREB and other national civic groups.

* * * *

"I THINK it is particularly appropriate that we should honor Long Beach City College and the men who head it by presenting them with prints of this outstanding painting," Edmonds said. "Land, with which Realtors are particularly concerned, has in a very literal sense been the foundation of public schools in our country since the turn of the nineteenth century. It was then that Congress marked one section in each township out of public lands for the support of schools. And the Morrill Act of 1862 granted public lands for the support of state institutions of higher education. Those who are close to the land today—urban and rural home owners and the Realtors who serve them—are no less dedicated to the support of a high level of excellence in our schools. Home ownership is a source of national strength as are the schools that, now as in the past, follow the establishment of homes."

Guests of the board, each of whom will receive a color print of the painting include: Dr. George E. Dotson, president of Long Beach City College; C. N. Patterson, dean of Business and Technology Division; Dr. Wiley D. Garner, Dr. Keith James, and Dick Jones.

Bolsa Park Is Introducing Big Five-Bedroom Home Near Beach

"To answer the needs of growing families, Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach is unveiling a new five-bedroom plan," announced sales director Ernie Merrill.

"Pricing will be fully $3,000 below any other five-bedroom plan in the area," he added. "Early buyers may select the lot on which their five-bedroom home will be built, a privilege we can offer only for a limited time as the new third unit gets underway."

The new Bolsa Park five-bedroom plan has direct bathroom access from the rear of the house, permitting owners to move straight from pool area to shower. The master bedroom suite occupies a separate, private wing of the home, with large wardrobe and walk-in closet included.

• • • •

BESIDES THE five-bedroom plan, Bolsa Park offers four-bedroom homes priced from $19,600, and three-bedroom models from $19,250. The pricing includes dishwasher, shake roof, and Palos Verdes stone fireplace.

Ceilings and walls in the Bolsa Park homes are of lath and plaster. Special decorator tiles highlight the ceramic tile central bath, with shower over tub, and the separate ceramic tile shower in master bath. Also included is a ceramic tile kitchen with breakfast bar.

Bolsa Park homes may be purchased with VA no-down-payment terms, 35-year FHA financing with 5¼ interest, and 6% conventional financing.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh Street east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

LUXURY IN HOME
This living-dining area of a Bolsa Park home shows how the builder has provided luxury setting in all models. A five-bedroom model is now being offered.

Little Concern Being Shown Over Increased Foreclosures

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More people lost their houses through mortgage foreclosures in 1961 than at any time since the waning days of the great depression of the 1930s.

Moreover, the 73,074 foreclosures on non-farm properties (including some small business real estate) marked a startling increase of nearly 22,000 from 1961.

The total of 75,556 foreclosures was the highest since the 1940s.

The increase from 1960 was the largest one-year rise since 1932. In that year foreclosures totaled 248,700, about 3½ times last year's volume, and on a much smaller base of home ownership.

• • • •

IN 1933 TOTAL foreclosures crept up to 252,400. Then began a decline which progressed steadily but slowly. By 1939, the total was down only to 100,410. This was allowing for differences in the number of home-owners, roughly double the 1961 level.

It is these favorable comparisons with the pre-World War II years which government officials use to support a professed — and probably real—lack of worry about recent foreclosure levels.

An industry source was also unperturbed. "We don't look at the situation as serious," commented Dave Gillogly, an economist at the National Association of Home Builders. "And it's certainly not ominous. It's the aftermath of the recession, continuing high unemployment and poor credit checks."

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS claim that the rate of foreclosures is low. In 1961, according to a preliminary estimate by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, it was 3.6 per 1,000 non-farm mortgaged homes. There were 20.2 million such homes last year, 19.4 million in 1960.

"That 3.6 is a very, very low rate," one official said. He stressed that view rather than the big jump from the 1960 rate of 2.65. The post-war low was in 1952, when there were 18,135 foreclosures.

There are no signs that government officials are worried about the rise in foreclosures when viewed against the total volume of housing activity.

ON YORBA LINDA BOULEVARD
Here is one of the models of homes in Carlyle Square in Orange County on Yorba Linda Boulevard, which will be seen in grand opening today.

Home Sales Start in Carlyle Square

Grand opening of Carlyle Square, 98-home development, will be held today, developers Arthur B. Moody and Glen E. McCloud announced.

"We are proud to invite the public and home buyers to the Carlyle Square grand opening to inspect our four furnished models and the entire development," the builders said.

Carlyle Square homes are located on Yorba Linda Blvd., at the corner of Prospect. The three- and four-bedroom homes feature large living rooms, family rooms and two baths, two-car garages, and are priced from $23,900 up with down payments as low as $1,400.

Among one of the first features, which will be noticed by the ladies, are the full length mirrored wardrobe doors in the master bedrooms.

• • • •

THE COLORFUL kitchens are finished with hardwood cabinets and equipped with such features as O'Keefe & Merritt gas ranges and two fully automatic ovens and dishwashers, also Nutone built-in blender-mixers and disposals.

All the homes have slate and marble tile entry halls, AM and FM intercom systems, marble pullmans in all baths, and tub and stall showers.

Carlyle Square homes can be reached from Orangethorpe, north on Linda Vista, east on Yorba Linda Blvd., to Prospect. Visitors may also reach the development via Imperial Highway.

Rural Charm Close to Downtown

Proof of the popularity of Montgomery Park's spacious homes offering the combination of rural charm and "downtown" living convenience is that the first unit was sold out in only six weeks and second unit is now ready to go.

On Harbor Blvd. just south of Bolsa Ave., within the city limits of Santa Ana, the development offers three different "family engineered" floor plans priced from $15,950. For just $395 a non-veteran can live in an area with all metropolitan facilities such as schools, churches, modern shopping marts.

• • • •

"THE LOCATION, low purchase price, plus the fact that the homes have three and four bedrooms, nine exteriors to choose from, hardwood floors, and two-car garages, plus front landscaping and fences are the reasons for the fantastic appeal of these homes," said sales manager Dick Murray of Farrow Real Estate.

"Easy financing is another big feature nowadays when we can offer homes to vets with no down payments and keep monthly payments to as little as $88.35 including principal and interest," he added.

Montgomery Park has many extras such as kitchens with built-in Wedgewood-Holly ranges and 21-inch ovens, waste disposals, forced air heating, glass lined water heaters, sliding glass doors, custom cabinets with deluxe hardware, and acoustic finish ceilings.

$150,000 in Gifts In Three Years

In three years, the Flying A dealers of the harbor area have awarded their customers $150,000 in free Cadillacs, Fords and additional gifts.

The Flying A gasoline service stations are continuing to make new friends and customers with this program. The next give-away will be July 17th.

SEAHAVEN HOME
Rich ash paneling, the charm of the wood-burning fireplace and the spaciousness of the living room promise fun and contented family living for the owner of this Seahaven Home by Deane Brothers. Seahaven Homes are custom-designed for beach living and are in Huntington Beach.

Anaheim Plant Is Expanding

Construction is under way for a new 30,000 square foot manufacturing facility for Astrodata, Inc. on a four-acre site in Anaheim.

Civic, industrial and business leaders attended the groundbreaking ceremony, which took place adjacent to Astrodata's present location at 240 East Palais Road.

Since the inception in August of 1958 when the payroll consisted of three people, Astrodata has had a remarkable growth, according to Wallace E. Rianda, president. Astrodata presently employs 375 local people.

Astrodata's contribution to the country's space efforts include pre-flight checkout equipment for the Atlas missile at both Cape Canaveral and Vandenberg Air Force Base, several projects on the Minuteman program, and timing instrumentation has been supplied the entire Pacific Missile Range.

Low Prices for Homes Near Beach

Eager home seekers have been getting their own "sneak preview" of Seahaven Homes, a development of 540 homes, in Huntington Beach, according to Paul Rowland, of Walker-Lee, Inc., agents for the Deane Brothers development.

Rowland explained: "We literally furnished and landscaped the models around and through homeseekers and even before our preview showing many homes had been sold."

• • • •

THE HOMES offer a "triple first" to the home buyer. (1) A quality home is offered veterans at the low price of $59 to move in and a monthly payment of only $89 a month and this includes taxes, insurance, principal and interest or FHA minimum down payment and $95 a month including everything. (2) This is the first time a home of this price and quality has been offered with all-electric kitchens. (3) This is the first time buyers have been offered quality beach homes for less than it would cost to rent a comparable home.

Seahaven offers two, three and four bedroom models, each with a choice of three exteriors from as low as $13,950. From Hwy. 101, take Beach Blvd. two miles to Adams and turn right to see the homes.

Warns About Home Repair Racketeers

With the spring home repair and improvement season once more at hand, Long Beach area home owners were warned by James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, to beware of racketeers operating in this field.

"The eagerness of many home owners to repair residences or to take advantage of the favorable spring weather in making additions or improvements is commendable," Edmonds explained. "As realtors know, home maintenance is an essential factor in conserving property and neighborhood values and standards. And as long as our home owners contract with our many established, reputable repair and maintenance firms for services and products, results will be good. Unfortunately however, spring always brings a return of fly-by-night operators. It is against this latter group that home owners should be on guard.

According to the Long Beach board president, home improvement rackets flourish in a wide range of services and products — landscaping, shrubbery, house sidings, patio construction, to name just a few.

• • • •

WHILE THERE IS NO hard and fast rule that may be used by home owners in distinguishing between the claims made by the racketeers and reputable firms, Edmonds cited steps that have been developed by the Federal Trade Commission from its experience in investigating home improvement frauds. These are:

1. Before signing up for any offered service or product, get comparable cost estimates from at least one competing firm. Reputable merchants are quite willing to have this done.

2. Obtain names and addresses of previous customers from the soliciting firms and contact these customers.

3. Make sure that the firm has a place of business.

4. If the product or service is said to be guaranteed, find out exactly what is guaranteed, any conditions that are attached to the guarantee, and who will make good on it if necessary and where he can be located.

5. Be doubly suspicious and ask many more questions if the price is a great deal lower than the going price in the area.

Homes by Henry Cox Prove Very Popular

Park Estates in south Santa Ana, and Lifetime Homes in Tustin, both developments by Henry C. Cox, are proving to be extremely popular with the public.

The big, five, four and three-bedroom, two-bath homes, with a two-story, four-bedroom plan available at Park Estates, contain the newest in home improvements and innovations: Frigidaire Flair all-electric range and oven; ingenious, patented, rearrangable and removable wall panels; hardwood cabinets in both kitchen and baths, finished inside and out; separate dining area, living room and a big kitchen with acres of counterspace, and up to 60 different exterior-interior arrangements available at Park Estates.

Minimum down payments at both developments is $1000. Lifetime Homes are priced from $20,200; Park Estates Homes full prices stop at $22,500, both developments have been inspected and insured by FHA for 30-year loans at 5¼% interest. They represent the 67th and 69th Orange County developments of Henry C. Cox, and have been personally designed and built by him.

Model homes at both Park Estates and Lifetime Homes are open for inspection from 9 to 6 daily. To see Park Estates homes, drive south on either Bristol or Harbor to West Warner Ave. (formerly Delhi Road). Park Estates are located on the corner of Raitt St. and West Warner a half mile west of Bristol.

Lifetime Homes are located between Newport and Tustin Ave. on McFadden St. just off the Santa Ana Freeway. Bert Elstad is executive sales agent.

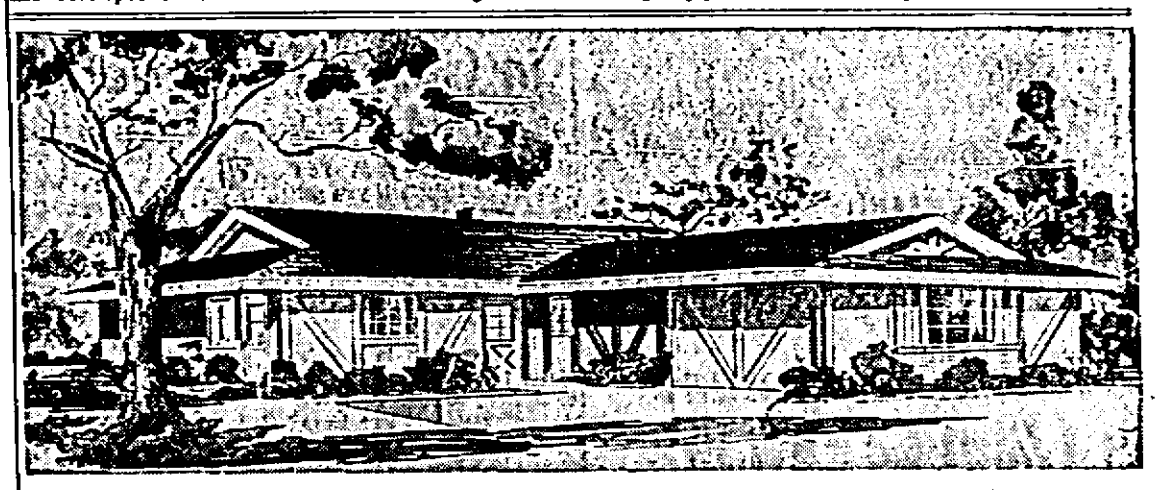

OFFERED ON $1,000 DOWN

Park Estates homes in south Santa Ana offer the purchaser a choice of 60 different exterior-interior arrangements. The five, four and three-bedroom, two-bath, one and two-story homes sell from $1,000 down with full prices stopping at $22,550. Here is the interior of one model.

Stock Donated to Church Fund

LEVITA, Tex. (UPI)—The Methodist Church of Levita has developed a new twist on the well-established Lord's Acre program.

Instead of setting aside a certain amount of acreage for the church, members are alloting a pig, cow or several chickens to it. Proceeds from the sale of the stock will go to the church.

China Reds Lack Simple Farm Tools

TOKYO (UPI)—Bad weather and bungling bureaucracy are not the only causes of Red China's severe food shortages.

An authoritative Communist Chinese publication has disclosed that the 500 million peasants in the people's communes are handicapped by an acute shortage of basic farming implements.

"The rural areas require most urgently at present," said an article in the Ta Kung Pao newspaper, "drainage and irrigation machines, small farming implements and articles for use in everyday life."

• • • •

THE ARTICLE, recently received here, said there was a shortage of such basic implements as hoes, picks, shovels, pails and even baskets and other crude items made of bamboo. The Ta Kung Pao newspaper, an authoritative daily, deals mainly with economic news.

"The need for such farming implements and articles as pick-axes, rakes, grass sickles and rainwear, one piece of which is required by each person, is also quite urgent," the paper said, "for these articles directly affect the rate of attendance of laborers at work in the fields."

The paper also said the peasants "urgently need" such home items as "iron pots, china bowls, pot lids, soup pots and earthen ware for use in everyday life..."

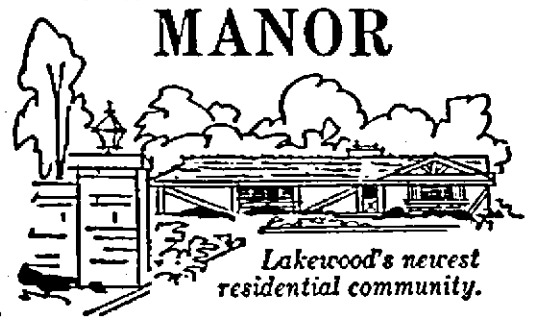

• • • •

ONE OF THE most serious shortages is in the area of drainage and irrigation machines, the paper said.

"The wear and tear of drainage and irrigation machines has been especially severe because drought struck in the past few years in succession..."

The article lamented that "comparatively little attention" has been given to the production and supply of these articles. It also implied that the quality left much to be desired.

Tax Tattlers Get $777 on Average

NEW YORK (UPI) — Informers helped the government recover $12 million in federal taxes, penalties and interest during the year ended June 30, 1961, according to Commerce Clearing House.

CCH also reported each of the 706 informers whose stories checked out received an average reward of $777. Claims for rewards were filed by 4,145 informers, but 3,439 were rejected because they were not proved.

LAW IN THE NEWS

Protect Own Rights in Case of Accident

Summer travel is at hand, so before you crank up for that trip, consider what to do to prevent trouble if you get in an accident. For an accident can happen to any of us, and you may become too confused. So here's what you do to obey the law and protect your rights:

1. Always stop in a safe place. Never drive away — even from a little bump — without seeing if any harm has been done. If the mishap occurs on a highway at night, set out some signal to warn others. If the accident is serious, notify law enforcement officers. Stay there until they come.

2. Injuries. If anyone is seriously injured and needs medical care, get a doctor or call an ambulance at once. Meanwhile make the person as comfortable as you can; but never move him in any way that may add to his injuries.

3. Write down the license number of the other car(s). Show the other driver(s) your license and check his. The law calls for such an exchange. Check the registration slip in the car(s) and get the names and address(es) of the registration owner(s).

4. Write down the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of everybody involved. Those in your own, as well as those in the other car(s).

• • • •

5. GET NAMES, addresses, and telephone numbers of other witnesses at the scene. Ask them if they saw any part of the accident. Write all these facts down. Get names of anyone, witness or not, (as some witnesses initially claim not to be a witness). If names are not obtainable, jot down the auto license numbers of probable witnesses.

6. Write out notes of your observations of the accident to refresh your own memory. Do this in as full detail as you can and as soon as you can after the event. Diagram the accident to show how it took place. Note weather and road conditions, time of day, skid marks, street lights at night, crosswalks, speed estimates, sequence of events, and other important facts.

7. Be factual if you are reasonably certain of details. For example, when the time comes to talk, be prepared to say actually what happened, such as (if true): "I was slowing down from approximately 25 miles per hour," rather than "I was not speeding." On the other hand, do not guess as to time intervals, distance measurement, or speed factors if you don't know them. If you are dazed, whatever the reason, so that your mind is not clear, do not make statements to anyone as to how the accident occurred. A basic rule is to avoid positive, specific statements as to dates, times, distances, etc., unless you have a basis for being positive. Go straight to a hospital or get medical attention. In any event, call your attorney before you make any general comment on the accident, accept blame, or sign any paper, an admission, release, or whatever. If anyone falsely accuses you of wrongdoing, deny it promptly.

• • • •

8. REPORT ACCIDENT and any resulting personal injury at once to the nearest patrol when anyone is hurt or killed, or damage to property exceeds $100.

9. To comply with the Financial Responsibility Law you must, within 15 days after an accident which involves death, personal injury, or property damage in excess of $100, report to the Department of Motor Vehicles. When you report, show that your insurance covers you up to $5,000 for property damage, or $10,000 for one, or $20,000 for two persons injured or dead.

Lacking insurance, you can put up cash or a bond for the same amounts, or show that you have made an out-of-court settlement.

10. See a doctor at once if you feel any after effects at all.

11. If you carry car insurance, and you certainly should, notify your agent or insurance company at once.

12. Consult your attorney. Keep his name, address, and telephone number in your wallet or glove compartment, along with the names of your doctor and your family, and business associates.

13. If the car you hit is unattended, leave a slip of paper under the wiper blade with your name, address, and car license on it.

Parklane Luxury Homes in Grand Opening

Parklane Luxury Homes, located in the heart of Santa Ana, will hold their grand opening of their second unit today it was announced by the developer, Mark Andrews.

The Parklane development of 113 homes, representing an estimated $3,000,000 investment, is located on Santiago one mile north of 17th St. in Santa Ana and is accessible of the Santa Ana freeway from all points.

Andrews, who has built other major apartment developments and tracts throughout Santa Ana and Orange County, states that his main objective in designing Parklane, was to incorporate into these plans all the luxurious features of a mansion at a figure more people could afford.

The three and four-bedroom Parklane Homes sell from $25,600 and up and feature all-electric kitchens, intercoms, hi-fi, pool sized lots, large garages and are planned on winding streets for beauty of the development.

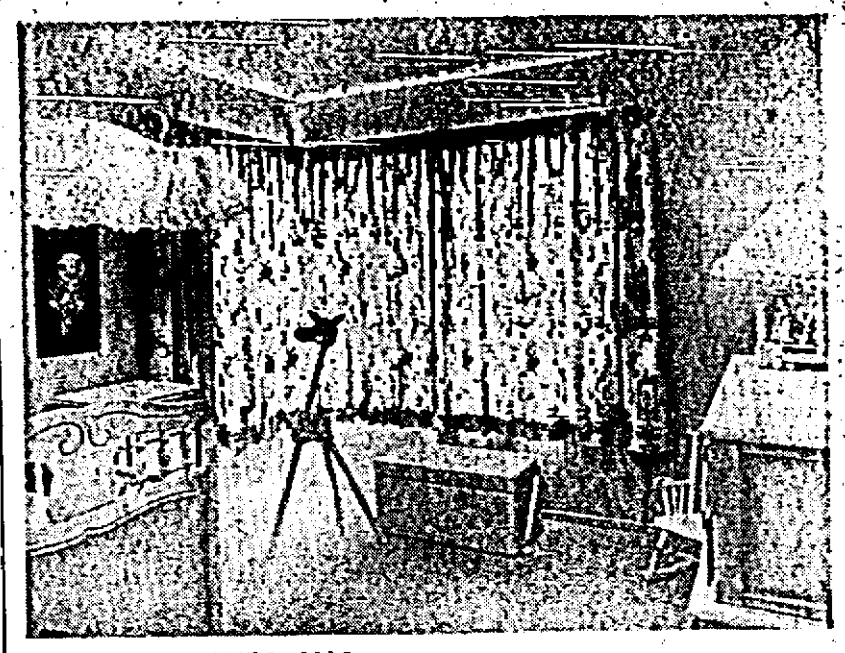

• • • •

Cabinets are of natural walnut, birch, ash and maple. Fireplaces and planters are of natural Palos Verdes stone, driftwood stone from Arizona, used brick and painted block.

Furnished models are open for daily showing from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., according to Ray Trizinsky, sales manager.

Parklane Homes are reached off the Santa Ana Freeway on 17th Street, east to Santiago Street, one mile north to models.

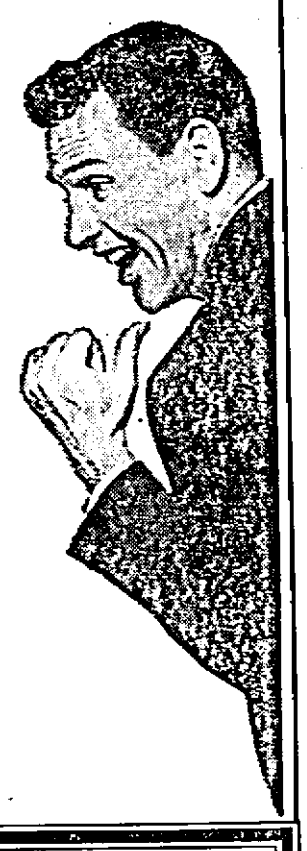

OFFERED IN SANTA ANA

Parklane Luxury Homes in Santa Ana, a Mark Andrews development, will hold the grand opening of the second unit today. Pictured is a child's room of one of the furnished models. The homes are located on Santiago Street one mile north of 17th Street in Santa Ana.

FATHER OF THE YEAR

Each year at this time the Independent, Press-Telegram chooses the "Father of the Year" . . . chosen from the nominations written in to us by our readers. Undoubtedly among your family or friends you know of an outstanding father . . . tell us about him! He will be awarded many valuable prizes if he is chosen

FATHER OF THE YEAR

It's easy . . . fun . . . rewarding. Here's all you do! Simply nominate (in 100 words or less) a man you know deserving of the title "Father of the Year." The nominee does not have to be a resident of Long Beach, but may reside anywhere in the trade territory served by this newspaper. Persons making nominations need not be a relative of the man they would have honored. Entries have been received for scoutmaster, ministers, school teachers and merchants who are doing youth work. The entry should give the reasons why, in the writer's opinion, the nominee deserves the honor, listing some actual instances where the man has done outstanding work.

Neatness of the writing or spelling will have no bearing on the decision by the judges. Deadline for submitting a nominee in the contest is midnight, Friday, June 1st. This will give the judges ample time to check all entries. Entries should be submitted in 100 words or less to the:

"Father of the Year Contest"
Independent, Press-Telegram,
604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

There will be a special section in the Sunday Independent, Press-Telegram announcing the winner with his picture on the cover. This will appear Sunday, June 10, a week ahead of Father's Day. In the special section will be advertisements and stories on special gifts and gift suggestions to honor Dad.

SELLING FROM $16,500

Spacious living areas are one of many features of the three and four-bedroom, two-bath Huntington Village homes. Selling from $16,500 and $195 down, plus costs, the homes are open daily for inspection.

New Floor Plans, Designs Now in Huntington Village Homes

Homebuyers are offered a variety of six brand new "wife-saver" floor plans and 21 new beautiful designs at Huntington Village, a Balanced Power residential development by the Doyle and Shields Construction Co.

Three or four-bedroom, family room and two-bath homes are available, priced from $16,500, according to Dan Mytinger, sales manager of the firm. Only $195 down is needed, plus costs, includes deed and title insurance for both home and land. There are no due dates and no balloon payments. Cal-Vet Financing is also available.

Among the outstanding features of this Balanced Power development are the kitchens, which feature modern gas built-in Whirlpool RCA range and oven and ample cabinet and counter space.

• • • •

PROSPECTIVE BUYERS will find many advantages at Huntington Village, Mytinger pointed out. Among these are: wall-to-wall carpeting in living room, hallways and master bedroom, wood burning fireplace, two car garages and central forced air heat.

A grade school, on full-day sessions, is located within the Huntington Village community of some 900 homes and a high school is in the preliminary stages of construction immediately adjacent to the development. A newly opened shopping center is located within walking distance.

From Long Beach, drive east on Seventh Street to Highway 39 (Beach Blvd.). Turn south on Beach to Edinger (Smeltzer), turn right on Edinger to Springdale, then left on Springdale a short distance to the furnished model homes open daily.

Wilmington Sun Ray Homes Have Appeal

Offering three-bedroom and a family room, two-bath homes in the heart of the harbor area, Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington is attracting many buyers.

Included in the cost, which starts from $18,900, the homes provide wall-to-wall carpeting throughout and many built-ins including a range and oven. The buyer has a choice of Hotpoint electric or O'Keefe & Merritt gas appliances in the kitchen.

• • • •

FROM LONG BEACH visitors to Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington may drive west on Pacific Coast Hwy. to Avalon. Turn right to "Q" St. Then right to models.

Among other features available are oak parquet floors in family room, natural wood cabinets, hood with fan and light over the built-in range; vinyl tile in kitchen, baths and on service porch. American Standard plumbing fixtures, forced-air gas heating, ceiling insulation, sliding aluminum windows and sliding glass doors.

Veterans need only $195 to move in.

Report Sales Heavy in Huntington Hills

Although peak sales at "Sea View" Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach have greatly reduced the number of homes, buyers acting promptly will still find a highly individual and diverse selection of attractive, luxury residences, according to W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co.

Some of the recent sales activity, McCaffrey said, is due to the fact that certain groups of World War II veterans whose GI privileges are scheduled to expire July 25, are anxious to take advantage of Huntington Hills' $88 "move-in." However, he added, with the favorable 35-year FHA loans for non-veterans, veteran and non-veteran purchasers are about equally divided. There are also good conventional loans and full prices are from just $17,500.

MANY OF the homes are ready for occupancy, including two "special" dwellings which, complete with pool and patio, are each priced at $20,990.

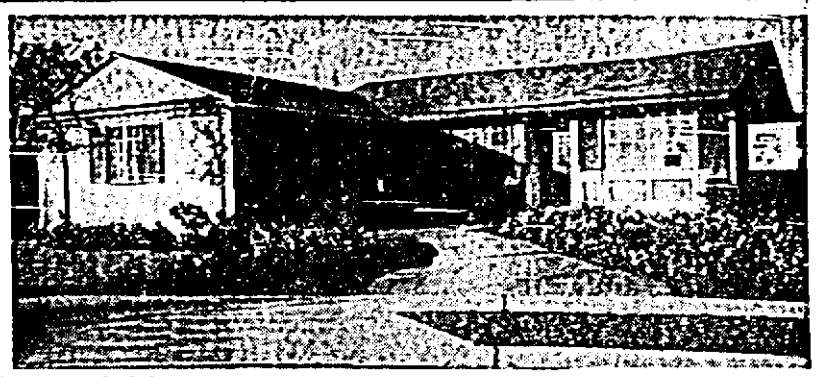

Buyers have choice of many different exterior designs, and there are large-family plans with three or four bedrooms, two baths and a family room. All of the homes have fireplaces, gleaming hardwood floors and acoustic-type ceilings, natural mahogany wood paneling throughout and thermostatically controlled forced air heating.

From Long Beach, Huntington Hills is reached by driving south on Pacific Coast Hwy. to Huntington Beach. Turn left at Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) and follow the directional signs two miles to the property.

HUNTINGTON HILLS HOME

Attractive dining nook shown is just off the appliance-equipped kitchen in one of the furnished models at "Sea View" Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach.

X-RAY HOME AT STARDUST

This model Stardust Home is an "X-Ray" model, containing many cutaways to show construction methods.

Vet Needs Only $1 Down on Stardust X-Ray Home

New VA terms featuring minimal $1 down payments and no other move-in costs are drawing cards of veterans to Stardust Homes in Huntington Beach, said Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder.

Also offered to veterans is two months' free rent. Some buyers will be able to move in by the end of the present school term.

On view at the development is the Stardust "X-Ray House," a model home incorporating 53 separate displays to satisfy homebuyers' curiousity about construction. Special cutaways permit viewers to look through the ceiling, walls and floor. Other exhibits show consecutive stages in the building process, while cutaway models demonstrate internal workings of such products as the water heater, forced-air furnace and garbage disposal.

• • • •

BESIDES the VA $1 down terms, Stardust offers 35-year, 5½ per cent FHA terms. Pricing is from $16,600.

Now debuting at Stardust are popular four-bedroom models with "Jack and Jill" expandable bedrooms. These may be closed off by night to give children separate sleeping quarters, and opened together by day for more play room and easier cleaning.

Rated at eight minutes from Pacific beaches, the three or four-bedroom Stardust homes offer oak flooring throughout. Other highlights then left to models include: Large family room, built-in Gaffers & Sattler colored gas range with 20-inch oven, natural finish kitchen cabinets, sunken living room, gas forced-air heating with new overhead "no draft" diffuser, fireplace, all exterior decoration and trim of redwood, utility room, and oversized two-car garage.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving east on Seventh Street, turning right on Bolsa Chica and continuing south two miles to Bolsa Avenue, then left to models.

New Type Home Loan Offered

NEW YORK (AP)—The First National City Bank has introduced a new type of home financing in which the buyer gets a mortgage commitment before he purchases the house.

The plan allows the customer to obtain advance approval of a mortgage loan. Then he can take up to 90 days to find the house he wants. After that the bank completes the financing details.

The bank said it will commit in advance for mortgages up to 75 per cent of appraised value with up to 20 years to pay.

NEW CHAPEL FOR MORTUARY

Extensive construction is under way at the Sheelar-McFadyen Mortuary, 1952 Long Beach Blvd., Mrs. Louise Dixon, president, announced. The $100,000 project will include construction of this new chapel, seating 200 persons, being built on the parking lot. The mortuary has purchased the building to the north and will use that property for parking. The existing main structure will be modernized when the new chapel is completed.

Offering Fine Home in P remium Locale

Dutch Haven's new unit 20, successfully previewed recently at Huntington Beach, is continuing to attract record crowds with its sales-building combination of attractively styled homes, premium location and moderate prices.

An official of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, said that a large percentage of unit 20's immediate success can be attributed to the fact that Dutch Haven fulfills a popular demand for near-the-beach property, priced within the budget of the average family and offering title to land with each purchase.

• • • •

SITUATED ON Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica, this is the 20th Dutch Haven community opened in Southern California.

The homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at the newly authorized 5¼ per cent interest rate are also available.

Monthly payments begin at $79.63, including principal and interest.

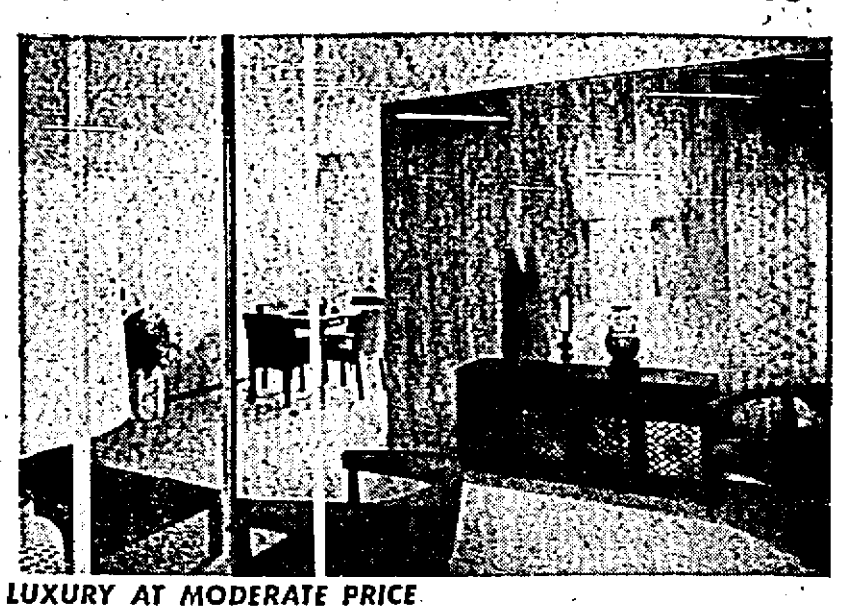

• • • •

IMPROVEMENTS such as street lighting, sidewalks, streets, curbs and utilities are covered in the original cost. There are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments.

"American Home Series" residences are being featured exclusively at unit 20. Buyers have a choice of award-winning floor plans. There are 16 exterior elevations available.

Custom features include complete frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

APPEALING INTERIOR

Two Patios, One at Entrance, in Popular Golden West Model

Both a front entranceway patio and a secluded side patio are included in the popular "600-Plan" at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice-president of McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction.

The well-liked plan includes a formal living room for entertaining guests while children play in the large separate family room. Adjoining the modern built-in kitchen is a spacious dining area.

The three bedrooms are grouped in a separate sleeping area apart from the rest of the house.

• • • •

THE LARGE SIDE PATIO in this plan includes ample room for a pool, and the garage converts easily to a poolside cabana simply by lifting up the rear "boat door." The pool area has direct access to the master bedroom.

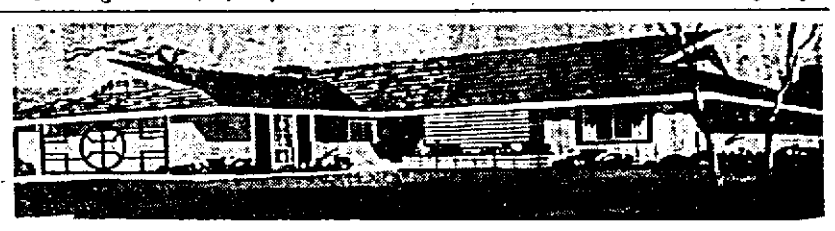

Immediate occupancy is available on most of the plans and elevations at Golden West. There are 22 exteriors.

Offered with three or four bedrooms, family room, two baths, and two-car garage, the homes may be purchased with FHA, conventional, or VA no-down-payment terms. The 35-year, 5¼% FHA terms offer down payments from $800, while conventional down payments range from $695. Pricing is from $17,800.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached via Seventh St. east to Golden West St., then right (south) to models.

ANOTHER MACCO REALTY CO. DEVELOPMENT

Great Comeback Being Made by Bituminous Coal Industry

The bituminous coal industry has staged one of the most remarkable economic comebacks of our time, writes an industry expert in "The Exchange Magazine."

Coal has been through a life-and-death struggle with rival fuels for years, notes Joseph P. Routh, chairman and chief executive officer of the Pittston Co., in the New York Stock Exchange publication. But the reports of its death, he adds with a Mark Twain touch, have been greatly exaggerated.

Through more efficient management and by substituting automation for the pick and shovel, the soft coal industry has been able to hold down prices and become competitive in both the domestic and export markets.

• • • •

ILLUSTRATING this point is Moss No. 3, a mine opened by Pittston in southern Virginia in 1958. Its complex drilling and cutting apparatus, conveyor belts, processing plant and Cape Canaveral-like pushbutton control room give Moss No. 3 the look of a modern manufacturing plant, not a traditional coal mine.

And the mine's 30-year producing expectancy justifies the $50 million investment in methods and machinery that gives an extraction rate of 35 tons per man day—compared with 14 tons per man day for the industry as a whole and 1½ tons per man day in Europe.

• • • •

MOSS NO. 3 helps explain why today the coal industry can produce more at lower costs than 10 years ago. Coal prices at the mine have dropped from a 1952 average of $4.90 a ton to an average of $4.65 in 1961, despite a $6 per day increase in wages during the period.

This mine also helps explain why American coal can be shipped to Germany, France and England and sold at $2 to $4 a ton less than the coal produced in those countries.

Among problems still vexing his industry, Routh notes, is the fact that transportation costs in some instances run as high as the cost of the coal itself. But so-called slurry pipelines, several of which have been developed already, may provide an answer. In this system, coal is pulverized, mixed in a 70-30 ratio with water, and pumped like a liquid through pipes to destination.

Pacific Sands Selling Rapidly With Unit 4 Now Being Offered

Pacific Sands, residential community in Huntington Beach, just one minute from the ocean, has completely captivated viewers, according to Bill Cheney, vice president of Walker-Lee, Inc., sales agents.

"Seventy per cent of the value-packed Pacific Sands Homes, custom designed for beach living, have already been sold and at the rate sales are going the fourth unit which is now open, will be sold out in the very near future," Cheney explained.

Home seekers with a zest for California beach living are delighted with the advantages offered. The homes, said to be priced as much as $5,000 less than the present market, are available in 26 models ranging from two to four bedrooms with multiple baths, priced from $13,500 to $19,950 for the 1700 square foot two-story model.

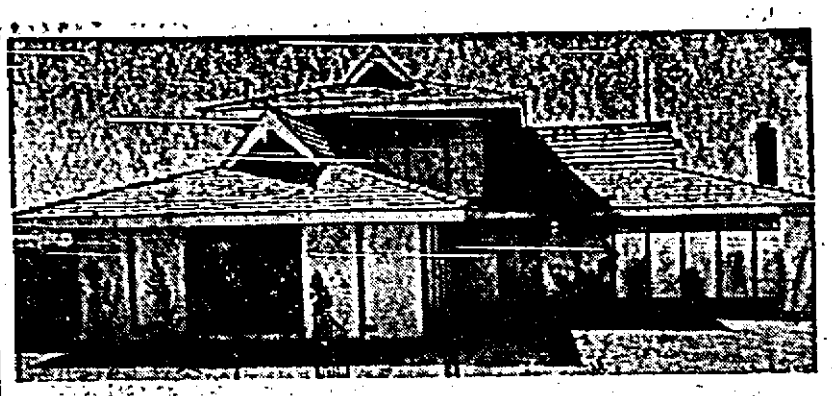

* * * *

THE HOMES offer luxury items such as mahogany paneling in the living room, wall-to-wall carpeting, sliding glass doors, birch cabinets in the kitchen; two-car garages, some with boat doors.

"THE MOST outstanding and eagerly awaited feature of these homes," Cheney continued, "is the Pacific Sands Cabana Club and Community Recreational Area. For a limited time, there is no initiation fee to first-time Pacific Sands buyers. The Cabana Club, which will open in early July, will feature an Olympic-size swimming pool, tennis courts, children's playground, shuffleboard, cookout facilities and a spacious clubhouse."

Pacific Sands is a co-development by Deane Brothers and M. J. Brock and Sons, Inc., builders of thousands of quality homes throughout the West in addition to millions of dollars worth of commercial and industrial developments.

The homes are located on Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39), just north of Pacific Coast Hwy.

TWO-LEVEL HOME

Luxury beach living is featured at a low price in Pacific Sands deluxe two-story model by Deane Brothers. This model features three bedrooms plus den and two baths.

Earnings Show Gain

The general improvement in business conditions this year over those of early 1961 has produced more traffic for Southern Pacific and resulted in better first quarter earnings, announced Nebhut L. Smith, Long Beach district freight and passenger agent after receiving a report from D. J. Russell, SP president.

First quarter rail revenues for the system totalled $190,363,000—up $14,970,000.

Net income of SP and its subsidiaries for the three month period was $17,733,000—equivalent to 65 cents a share, compared to 55 cents a share a year ago.

TRAFFIC GAINS were registered in nearly every category of freight, Russell said. Leading increases were in shipments of automobiles and parts, lumber and plywood, iron and steel manufactures, ores and concentrates, and canned goods. Last year's very heavy movement of steel pipe for gas line construction on the West Coast was not duplicated and this traffic showed a decline.

Russell said that Southern Pacific this year will invest about $93 million in capital improvements

Warns on Hiring of Teeners

SAN FRANCISCO—Employers, teen-agers, and their parents are reminded by Regional Director Frank J. Muench of the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Public Contracts Divisions, that the Fair Labor Standards Act restricts certain jobs for youngsters under 18.

"With the increase in the country's teen-age population," Muench said, "more youngsters than ever before will be competing for summertime employment in a tight job market. It is important that they understand the provisions of the Federal child-labor law."

The Act sets a 16-year minimum age for general employment and an 18-year age minimum for jobs which have been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. It applies to employment in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce.

* * * *

MUENCH SAID that the best way for employers to protect themselves against unintentionally hiring an underage child is to require an age certificate showing that the young worker is old enough for the job. It will serve as proof of age for purposes of the law.

Manager of Zodys Joins Hartfields

Richard H. Wolfe, vice president and general manager of Zodys Department Stores, has been appointed a vice president of Hartfield Store, Inc., Leo Hartfield, president of Hartfield Stores, Inc., announced.

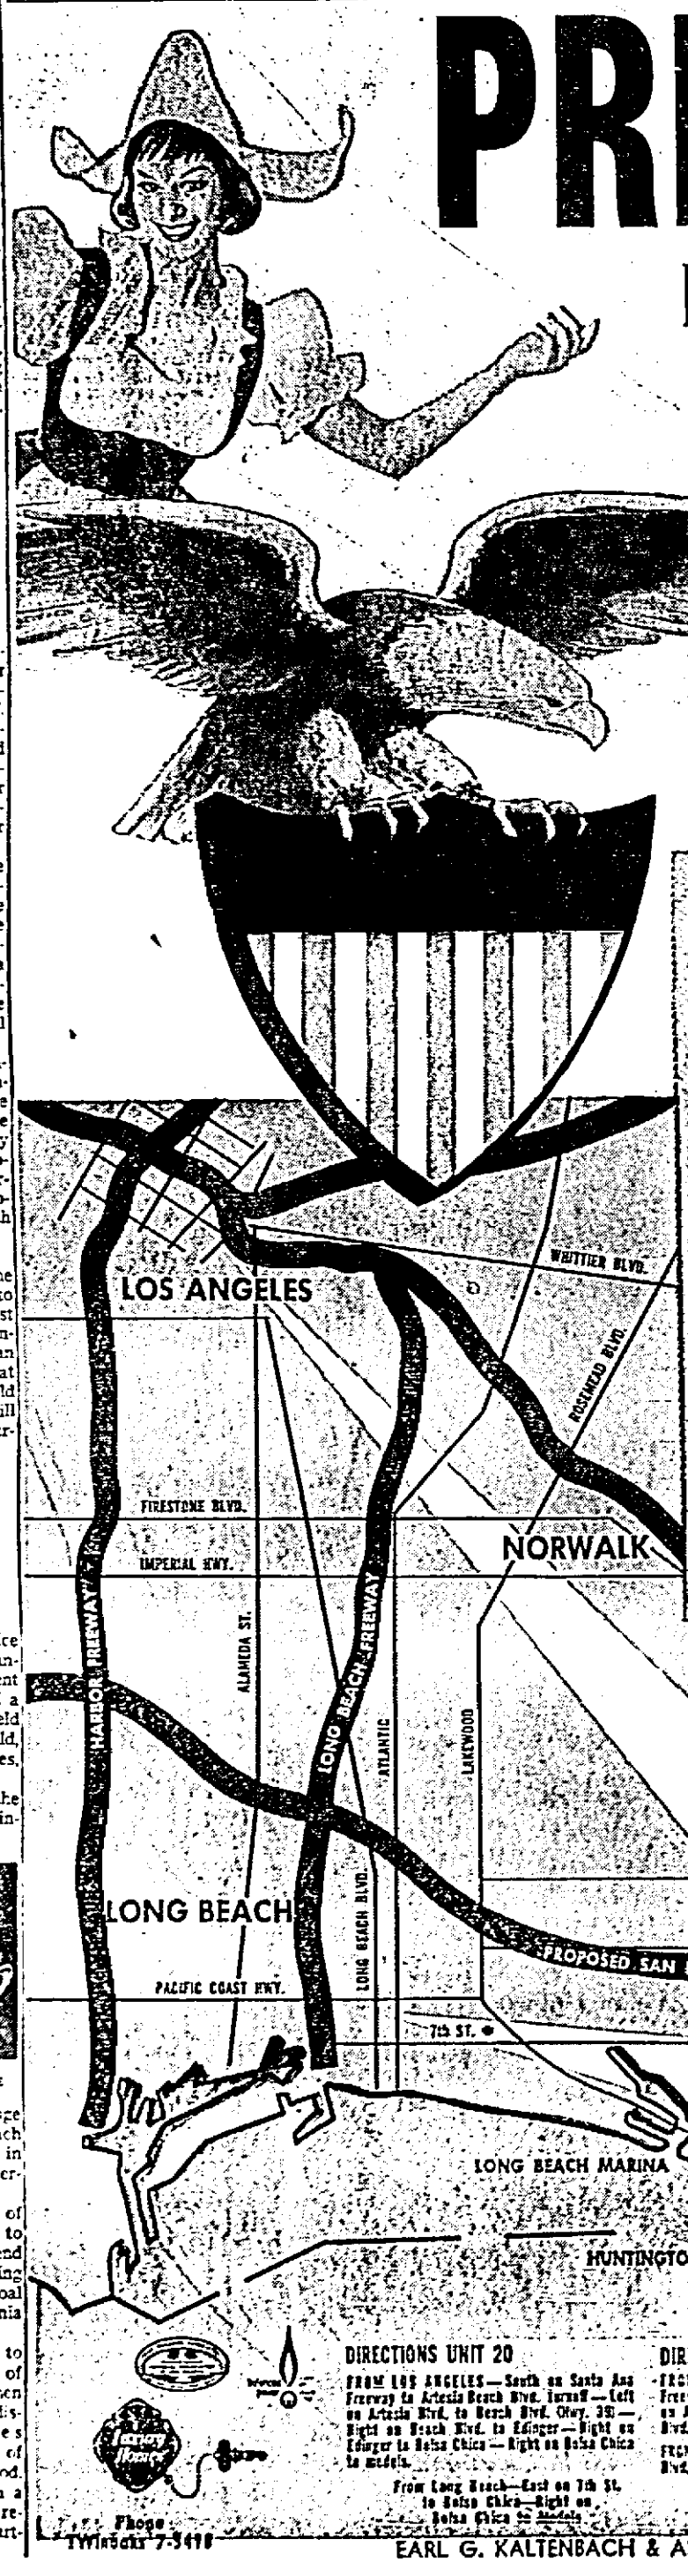

Wolfe, who has headed the Zodys operation since its inception in early 1960 has spearheaded the rapid growth of the chain of discount stores in Southern California to its present status, Hartfield said. "Zodys is now operating at four locations in Garden Grove, Orange County; in the Redondo Beach and Long Beach areas, and in Northridge in the San Fernando Valley.

R. W. WOLFE

"Under the leadership of Wolfe, we are planning to open six more stores the end of this year and are looking forward to our ultimate goal of 36 stores in the California area.

"We are very pleased to announce the promotion of Wolfe at this time when Zodys chain of quality discount department stores stands on the threshold of its greatest growth period, which will place Zodys in a dominant position in the retail field in California," Hartfield concluded.

The New 'West Side Story'

Girls Club Is Scene of Real Life Drama

By Mary Ellis

GIRLS LET OFF STEAM doing rock 'n' roll, one of favorite pastimes at Assistance League Girls Club West.

Today's teenagers, often referred to as the Cool Generation, are invariably the subject for heated discussions wherever adults congregate.

Critics have called the 12-to-20 set indifferent and distressingly bland, have branded them with such contemporary jargon as beatnik, hot-rodder, delinquent, no-goodnik.

On the other extreme, apologists maintain that today's teenagers are more vital than ever before and vigorously defend them as self-assured individualists.

But those who take time to look more closely, who care enough to survey the problems, the goals and the aspirations of today's youth, have a more realistic approach.

They believe in the future of American youth—and they're doing something about it.

* * * *

ONE SUCH group is Long Beach's Assistance League, an organization of active, civic-minded women who have made youth of the city their principal philanthrophy.

They have surveyed local trouble spots and studied the city's recreational and cultural needs.

They've taken into consideration the gifted and the dull, the privileged and the underprivileged, the ambitious and the lazy, the bright-eyed scholar and the bewildered delinquent.

Result: They've come up with a realistic, action-packed program geared directly to the wants and needs of local teenage girls.

* * * *

CURRENT FACILITIES include the Assistance League Girls Club West, operated in a modern, league-built structure at 3640 Santa Fe, for Stephens Junior High Girls. . . . also the Assistance League Girls Club North, housed in a bungalow leased from the Board of Education on the Lindbergh Junior High campus.

Newest is a similar club, operated by Rick Rackers, junior auxiliary to the league, one day a week in the gym at Franklin Junior High.

Most all-encompassing of the centers is the club on the West Side, one of Long Beach's most crowded areas, where a cross-section of nationalities, races and creeds mingle together in a workaday world and where, like in many such areas, juvenile delinquency looms as an ever-present problem.

A modern, sprawling building in the heart of housing projects and crowded living conditions, the club provides wholesome, character-building after-school activities (3:30 to 5 p.m.) five days a week.

Through the summer months, the facility opens its doors from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with an expanded program of classes and recreational activities.

* * * *

HERE GIRLS of all races and creeds can rock 'n roll or listen to records, bake cookies or whip up a new dress, learn ceramics or how to play the piano, take part in dramatic productions or learn the social graces.

They can wham a volleyball or try for baskets, learn the latest hair styles and what-to-wear-when, also how to apply make-up, how to walk, how to stand and how to sit.

Two libraries provide adequate reference materials, also a quiet atmosphere for study . . . and a patio, equipped with fire ring and sports equipment, is an up-to-date haven for outdoor recreation.

But most important: the club provides a wholesome atmosphere for companionship — an essential ingredient of most teenage activities.

For among today's youth, even television watching involves joint staring with a companion nearby. Togetherness appeals; singleness does not.

* * * *

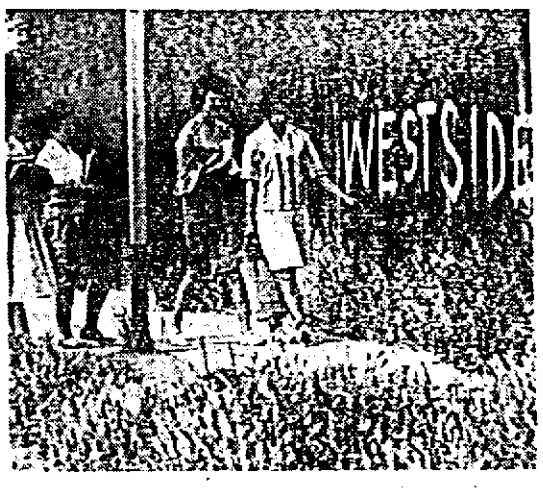

THEREIN LIES the social impact of clubs such as these, according to Capt. Paul Landsdowne, commanding officer for the juvenile division, Long Beach Police Department.

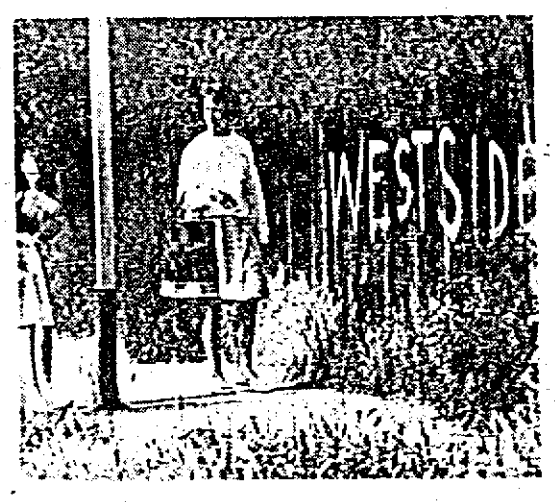

Noting that 5,055 boys and girls were handled by his department last year (a decrease of 1,244 from 1960), he said:

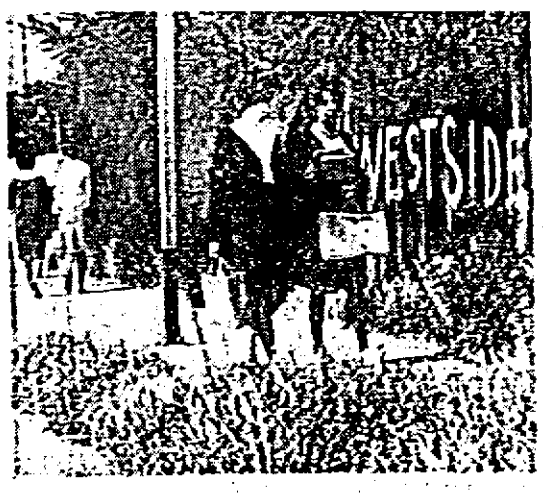

"The No. 1 control for young people in this, or any, community should be the home. Second to that is the influence filled by schools, churches, also facilities made available by such organizations as the Assistance League.

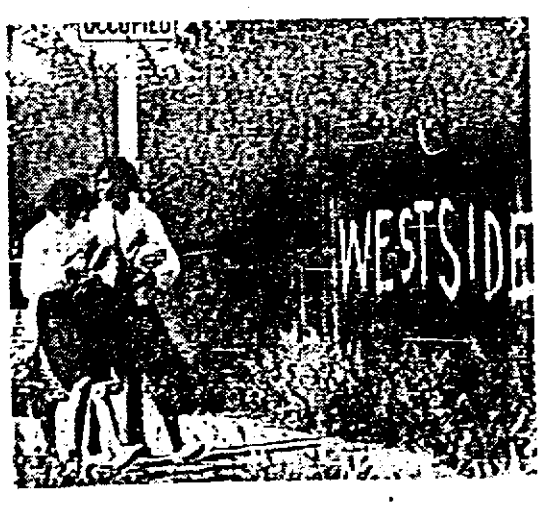

"These fill a void in the day-to-day activities of teenagers that families often are not able to do. In this environment, teenagers can mingle with their peers, with whom they're more comfortable,

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

JUSTICE prevailed at Long Beach Lawyers' Wives annual awards luncheon Tuesday.

I mean they clip-clopped along at a no-fooling-around speed, gave guests something to hear and all looked so pretty. If that isn't justice, what is?

"Justice prevailed"

George England, who just happens, dear friends, to be director of Legal Aid and Lawyer Reference Services for the State of Bar of California, had some amazingly uncomplicated and straight forward (for a lawyer) things to say.

Without mincing words he advised the many attorneys present that it was time the profession began building a better rapport with the public. Mr. and Mrs. John Q. have gotten in a habit, he said, of asking anybody BUT an attorney for legal advice.

Probably, he conjectured, because people tend to regard a lawyer as too rarefied or too expensive to consult on simple matters. He scored this as faulty thinking and suggested it was up to the profession, generally, to change it.

Interesting, I thought, was his description of a movement afoot in the East to begin legal insurance. The policy would cover attorneys' fees and court costs in same way any insurance protects the policy holders.

Another intriguing idea advanced, now being plunked for in many states, is that of having annual legal check-ups, similar to medical checks. You don't THINK there's anything wrong with your affairs . . . but are you SURE?

Head table-ites present in the big crowd were Jane and Bill Began, Norma and Max Wisot, Dorothy and Jim Baker, Barbara (in a coat of many fabulous colors) and Jack Miller and, of course, Ruth Grisham, presiding for her final meeting, and husband, Jack.

• • • •

THE WEATHER was the only unpleasant guest at Sue Buell's luncheon Tuesday when she entertained for her Medical Auxiliary outgoing board as well as the incomers. Dedicated Californians insisted on dining outdoors, as originally planned, steadfastly ignoring goosebumps while making with sunny smiles.

YOU JUST Never Know Dep't: Cute Betty Seal, our featured mama for last Sunday's Mother's Day cover page, had quite an unnerving day, as it turned out.

"Some meowma's"

Seems she spent the entire holiday, HER holiday, tending to the wants of a batch of infant kittens abandoned by their OWN mother. Mrs. Pussycat chose this particular time to prove she's emancipated. What a meownumental meownstrosity!

• • • •

JACK BENNY and his perennial 39 would never stand a chance in this crowd. Ruth Todd and Betty Buffum were so sneaky with their surprise gimmick for a dinner party last Saturday even their co-hosting husbands, "Mac" and Bob, didn't catch on.

It was a 49er frolic in honor of all the men guests, each of whom will or has celebrated his 49th birthday this year.

The over-the-hill affair began with cocktails at the Buffums', concluded with dinner at the Todds'. Bidden (ho, boy, listing 'em really is dirty pool) were Lee and Dorothy Wiltse, Bill and Jane Rhorer, Odie and Lois Wright, Hugh and Frieda Prichard and Dan and Carol Langston.

Grabbing at straws, the men spent the night comparing birthdates to ascertain who was the youngest present. Turned out to be Hugh . . . his 49th isn't until way next December. "Junior" acted pretty smug about it, too.

AND SPEAKING of Dorothy Wiltse, as I did a mo' ago, what could be more delightful than shedding 13 pounds in a matter of minutes, as she did. Monday they clipped away the head-to-hip body cast she has been cocooned in all these past many weeks. She couldn't appreciate her torso moreso than she has since then.

CHRISTMAS will begin in July and extend through August for Ann and Charles Gillespie. Main gift under their tree is from Uncle Sam. Unc' has signed Tony Gillespie's release papers.

Tony and Vivian with Charles IV (he'll be six months old when he arrives) will return from service abroad on the S.S. America to visit for five weeks. In September they'll go to Berkeley where Tony will enroll in the Hastings College of Law and Vivian will keep house the American way after four years of the European way. Even so, Ann says it will be nice to have them just 500 miles away instead of 5,000.

UNDER GIDDY hats there were lots of thinking heads Wednesday up at Ambassador Hotel when members of the Children's Home Society of California gathered for annual state meeting.

Marilyn Graham, a state director for the past 15 years (Doug was secretary-treasurer of the statewide adoption agency before that) led the local parade in attendance.

Sandlarks of Long Beach present were Gloria Grandle, "Jimmie" Nutter, Mary Jane Walker, Barbara London, Maria Stevens and Lorena Farnham. Lamplighters, the other local guild to the society, sent Pat Steen, Ellen Jacobson and Joni Bezusko.

EVEN ALTHOUGH Edison Company was the big cheese, the lionized concern spotlighted during annual Chef of the Week banquet Tuesday . . . the 500 balloons used in decorations, it was pointed out, still had to be blown up by GAS. And so, tongue-in-cheek, with all manner of gags and spoofs, the fun-filled night progressed.

"Lionized"

For a first hand look I asked I, P-T food editor Mildred Flanary to give us a Millie's-Eye View from her hostess advantage at head table.

Proving again that birds of a feather do flock, she recalled noting five judges sitting together in one corner and six medics congregated at a table in another. What tickled Millie was that Judges Percy Hight, Martin De Vries, Maurice Sparling, Beach Vasey and Charlie Smith each wore his identical chef's cap with individualistic, rakish tilt.

The MDs . . . Tom Noble Johnny Cottrell, Francis Settle, Harold Neibling, Ken Berkaw and George Paap were equally rugged individuals in their approach to the chef's hat angle most becoming to them. They all looked about as un-chefish as Lily Dache.

Right here I want to sneak in a little praise for I, P-T boss-man Dan Ridder, night's emcee, who zipped through his chores with to-the-point hilarity, and Harold Quinton, guest speaker and chairman of the board for Edison, who took exactly three and one-half minutes to deliver the night's main speech! People in the know said they were great.

Roaring Twenties Bazaar Scheduled by St. Cornelius

Flappers and frosh, gangsters and molls all will be present when St. Cornelius Church puts on its two-day Roaring Twenties bazaar here next week.

The event will take place Saturday at 10 a.m. and Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the Church, Bellflower Avenue and Wardlow Road.

Money will be used to supplement the parish building fund.

According to Jack O'Neil, chairman, booths and games will be geared to the heyday of jazz and bootleggers, day of jazz.

ONE OF the biggest attractions will be the "Soupy Sales" booth where participants can pretend they are keystone comics and pop someone with a pie.

Local talent will be featured in a "Roaring Twenties Review" performing continuously both days.

A variety of food booths, specializing in homemade pies and cakes, tacos and sno-cones, also will be featured along with a doll booth and "ladies choice" booth offering handmade items.

An auction also will take place both days. Music will be provided by the Municipal Band during the 1:30 p.m. children's parade Saturday. Prizes will be offered both for children and adult costuming. Jo Burke is co-chairman of event.

Back in the '40s, bobby socks were as much a symbol of American schoolgirl as dirty saddle shoes.

SHEER NONSENSE?

Bobby Soxers Rock Budget in Nylons

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Long Beach bobby soxers aren't living up to their name.

As most will remember, the term "bobby soxer" came into everyday usage in the '40s because of the schoolgirl craze for white anklets, or bobby socks.

And although the term's still popularly applied to any adolescent girl, the fashionable fact is that today's teen-age legs are twisting around the clock—not in bobby socks, but—in nylon stockings.

ACCORDING to a national survey by Seventeen magazine, 46.1 per cent of America's teen-age girls now wear stockings daily—winter, spring and fall. And more than 76 per cent always wear them for dates and parties.

So when your chic chick gives you that age-old clack, "but, mother, everybody's wearing them," you can believe her.

The teenage stocking habit is by no means confined to metropolitan areas. A spot check of a midwestern high school disclosed that virtually 100 per cent of the coeds consider stocking de riguer for the classroom.

Ditto, Long Beach.

Out of a cross section of local junior high and high school coeds interviewed, all but one—a rugged bobby sox individualist in the 11th grade—said they wear stockings to school regularly.

AND, HEAVEN help the working mother (father, too), even some sixth graders are stepping out in sheer hose. Of course, they do not wear them as frequently as their big sisters, but then that could be due to circumstances beyond their control.

Namely, mother!

In the local survey, junior high and high school girls reported they wear anywhere from four pair a week to "one pair every two weeks." The latter "because mother says I have to take care of them if I wear nylons."

Of course, there's mixed feelings among the mothers. Some welcome the trend to neater dress, saying "it's all for the good," while others, wryily eyeing the budget, look back nostalgically on bobby sox days.

WHAT'S AT THE ROOT of the junior-miss swing to stockings?

There's no single answer. But fashion, of course, has a lot to do with it.

Rolled-down bobby socks, dirty saddle shoes and baggy sweaters fitted in with the scheme of things a generation ago when the all-American-girl look was one of country-style casualness—often dishevelment.

Clothes have changed, and so have the girls.

The modern teen-ager dates earlier, wears make-up earlier and is a veteran on the dance floor before she goes to junior high. A young sophisticate in the truest sense, she dresses the part from her lacquered coif down to her sheer nylons.

AS FAR AS the wearing of hosiery to school is concerned, "dress-up days" have been a major factor in developing the trend.

These are days when boys are asked to have on jackets and ties, and girls are expected to be in stockings, very often "heels."

And once a girl sees what stockings do for her legs, she doesn't wait for an invitation to wear them on special occasions. Before long, she's wearing them as a matter of course.

And hosiery manufacturers are playing right into the girls hands—or gams. They're offering styles proportioned to fit slender teen legs. More than a dozen brands are now on the market—virtually all of them seamless. For that's how the teen-agers like them. Only about one girl in 10, it seems, wears full-fashioned hosiery.

According to a national study, America's 10,250,000 teen-agers of feminine gender are buying $190,000,000 worth of hosiery a year. They usually have about five pairs of stockings on hand, purchase 22.8 pairs over a 12-month period and pay an average of $1.09 per pair.

As one mother put it: "I don't mind footing the bill—as long as Susie is as smart in the classroom as she looks."

The look of today—teenage legs in nylons—a neater appearance but a drain on family budget.

Haunted by Hurts of a Now Dead Love

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I was in love with a young psychiatrist once. For almost two years we succeeded in hurting each other. We were both very jealous and, in fact, so jealous we deliberately hurt each other.

One night he up and married another girl and I still believe he did it spitefully.

I was hurt badly but I wouldn't let him know it—or my pride wouldn't.

Occasionally I get the horrible wish to break up that marriage. I know I could have done it one way or another. But he married a nice girl and so instead of hurting her, too, I left town.

For a while, seeing other fellows, I forgot my doctor fixation. But lately the craving to see him again and, yes, hurt him again, is returning. Today especially he has been at the back of my mind and unless I get help fast I believe I'll head back at the old game.—SPITE

DEAR SPITE:

You go back now and you'll likely make a fool of yourself. You might just find yourself in something too big to run from again.

He wrote finis to your relationship when he gave his wedding vows to another. You'd do better to write finis to your heart and convince it the game is over before you get kayo'd publicly. Please don't try to hurt yourself further.—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

A terrible thing has happened to my marriage even before it has got started.

You see, the friends of my fiance are planning to give him a bachelor dinner on the night before we are to be married. My father insists that he wants to join the party.

My fiance says that this isn't proper; that it's strictly a get-together of his old friends; and, furthermore, he isn't issuing the invitations.

My father says that if he isn't invited, he won't attend the wedding, and won't let my mother do so either and he'll curse us till his dying day. You see, he's Irish and pretty hard to handle. Dear me, what am I going to do? —ALMOST A BRIDE

DEAR ALMOST:

Your father's just a silly old man who, in his heart, I suspect, really hates to see his daughter leave home. Why don't you talk to your priest and ask him to knock some sense in his head? Of all things, the father of the bride trying to take over his son-in-law's bachelor dinner! They'd laugh him off the streets in Galway.—M. M.

WHISPER TO J. K.: I wouldn't think of buying elevator shoes. If she loves you enough to accept your ring, she surely won't mind your being shorter than she. —M. M.

FESTIVAL REPEATED FORMER MISTAKES

By RACHEL MORTON
I.P.T. Music Critic

The second Long Beach Music Festival has drawn to a close and I wish I might report that it was an unqualified success. But, unfortunately, apparently no lessons were learned from the mistakes of last year so they were repeated again this year.

Except for the outstanding concerts which we would have had anyway, spring festival or not—namely, the Community Concert Association's concert, the Organists' Guild concert, the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra concert with the Schola Cantorum and the Long Beach Municipal Band concert—the rest of the festival was a Long Beach State College affair. This is not truly representative of a large city's music festival.

• • • •

LONG BEACH is fast growing up culturally, but is still adolescent. To whet her interest and cultivate her taste for the best, our music festival should have had great names of box office value and stimulating events of real note. Two such names we had: Eileen Farrell, soprano, and John Browning, pianist, and the Pacific String Quartet; but the festival as such did not bring them to us.

In order to have great concerts, there must be money spent. If a lack of money was the problem, more arduous labor, with someone at the head who knows box office values, would be the answer. The Community Concerts people hustled and got 4,000 subscriptions last year right here in Long Beach.

• • • •

FREE CONCERTS, like everything else that is free, lose value. The free festival concerts given at State College were poorly attended for the most part and attended mostly by State College personnel.

Of what interest to the average concert-goer, especially in Long Beach, are concerts of original compositions, however meritorious? Or free lectures on contemporary music? In the future the festival concerts should charge admission fees and fees should entitle one to concerts by great artists. It would be better to have a four-day festival of exceptional talent than to have eight events, some of which drew little interest.

• • • •

NEXT YEAR let our music festival boast some world-famous names for at least three paid concerts. We might even have an opera night. What an innovation that would be for Long Beach!

I am sure if outstanding attractions of world-famous celebrities were announced for next year's festival the people would get behind the venture generously.

LADYKILLERS
Scene from "The Ladykillers," starring Alec Guiness and Peter Sellers, one of the offerings on Long Beach Film Society's summer series.

To Show Comedy Classics

Long Beach Film Society has spiced its summer series, which begins June 2, with masterpieces of comedy.

All showings will be at 7 and 9 p.m. on Saturday evenings at Long Beach State College Little Theater and each feature will be preceded by an international short subject.

First film will be "La Grande Illusion," directed by Jean Renoir and starring Eric Von Stroheim, Pierre Fresnay and Jean Gabin. At the Brussell's 1958 World Fair it was voted one of the top five films ever made.

• • • •

OTHER FEATURES will be "Smiles of a Summer Night," directed by Ingmar Bergman, June 16; "The Ladykillers," with Alec Guiness and Peter Sellers, June 30; "Ball of Fat," from Russia, and "Madame Husson's Rosebush," with Fernandel, July 26; Jean Cocteau's "Beauty and the Beast," Aug. 11; and "Pather Panchali," one of a trio from India, Aug. 28.

• • • •

SUBSCRIBERS to the modestly-priced series receive a bonus: an invitation to the day-long International Film Festival at State College July 7.

Complete information may be obtained by writing to the Film Society, P.O. Box 8091.

Children Invited to Spring Art Festival

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

This is the second and final day for Crestwood Street School's Spring Art Festival, and the sponsors extend a special welcome to children. The grounds, at 1946 Crestwood St., San Pedro, will open at noon and close at 5 p.m.

In addition to exhibits and demonstrations by professional artists, there will be a special children's corner where youngsters will be given smocks, easels and paint pots and can create their own masterpieces.

Mrs. Dale Brent Sexton of the Artists Co-op Gallery will do a portrait; James Hesler, South Bay artist and teacher, will do charcoal sketches of visitors; and Robert Neathery, also of Artists Co-op, will do caricatures.

Of particular interest to children will be Mrs. Leslie Stone's demonstration; she will paint the portrait of a live clown model. The artist is a member of San Pedro Art Association and was the recent recipient of a Woman-of-the-Year award from San Pedro Chamber of Commerce.

Mario de la Cruz of Long Beach will show how he paints to music.

• • • •

ENTRIES for Long Beach Art Association's membership show will be received at the Villa Riveria Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd., on May 28 from 1 to 8 p.m. The exhibit will open June 3.

Pictures to be hung in the front gallery will be chosen by Marlyn Prior.

A simultaneous show of paintings by children under 10 years of age will hang in the Little Gallery. Members are asked to submit their children's paintings, or they may sponsor the entry of another youngster.

• • • •

THE BOOK FAIR in Westwood Village, Weyburn and Broxton will have a month-long "Clothes Line" art exhibit and sale, beginning June 1. Amateur and student artists will enter oils, watercolors, drawings and sculptures. All works will be made available for sale at prices established by the artists themselves.

Work submitted for display must be at the Book Fair not later than Saturday at 6 p.m. Robert Klonsky, 10953 Weyburn Ave., Los Angeles 24, will supply further information.

• • • •

LAGUNA BEACH School of Art and Design, a division of Laguna Beach Art Association, has scheduled its summer session from July 9 through Aug. 31. Members of the faculty will include Mario Cooper, Sergei Bongart, Leonard Edmondson, Sueo Serisawa and Merlin Enabnit. A brochure may be obtained by writing to P.O. Box 216, Laguna Beach.

At the gallery during May is an exhibit by 13 men, "Paintings by Artists of the Walt Disney Studios." Also on view is the First International Exhibit of Photographic Art, sponsored by the Orange Empire Association of Camera Clubs.

• • • •

Fullerton Junior College, 321 E. Chapman Ave., will continue its spring student exhibition through June 7. Hours are Mondays through Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Wednesdays, 7 to 9 p.m.

• • • •

FOR 38 YEARS Pasadena Society of Artists has held annual competitive exhibits of work by members. This year's show will hang at Pasadena Art Museum through June 20.

Furs Unclaimed From Storage To Be Sold!

Unheard-of Prices on New and Used Mink

Here is the story of these furs. Furriers from time to time get "stuck" with furs unclaimed or uncalled for from storage. Benjamin Furs has been consigned a large group of new and used furs which will be almost "given away" to Long Beach area buyers.

Imagine buying a Fur Stole for only $15 and up. Many of these furs are expensive furs and are being sold for "practically nothing." These used furs really look like new but must be labeled "second-hand used." Fur origin unknown. If you want to buy a real $15 and up (plus tax) bargain in a fur, you'd better come early. New fur products labeled to show country of origin of imported furs. Also, many fine quality fur COATS, JACKETS, SCARFS, AND STOLES go at ridiculous giveaway prices.

These furs on sale at

IN ONE-MAN SHOW
Bronze from Europa Series is included in retrospective exhibit of Reuben Nakian's sculptures and drawings, on view for the first time in this country at Los Angeles County Museum.

'Monumental Drive' in Rodia, Nakian Works

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Happenstance alone could not have brought about the juxtaposition of the two artists having one-man shows at Los Angeles County Museum from now until June 24. Reuben Nakian was born in 1897 in New York of Turkish-American parents. Simon Rodia was born in Southern Italy around 1880, and came here as a lad. While Nakian studied and worked with leading artists from 1912 on, and Rodia was a humble, untutored tile-setter, there are many qualities which the intellectual sculpture and the weird Watts Towers share.

Both works are infused with passion and a drive to achieve the utterly monumental. Both works capture a Baroque enlacement of space and light. Neither could succeed without magnificent mastery of hardware technique.

• • • •

THE RODIA show is all photographic, displayed against a wandering background painted in the primitive colors of the tile and glass used by Rodia to ornament and reinforce his concrete enclosed steel structures. Photographic blow-ups of the Watts Towers pilasters are placed around the wall. Most charming of all are the photos of the humble environment of the Watts community with the neighborhood children enjoying the fantastic wonderland Rodia created.

• • • •

NAKIAN'S work has just come from the Biennale in Sao Paulo, Brazil, where it won an international award. It is composed of 20 ink drawings, further developed in terra cotta sketches with 10 completed pieces in bronze or welded steel. The largest of these, "The Rape of Lucrece" is over 12 feet long and is displayed to advantage against a wall 16 feet high. Constructed of rods and sheets of steel, its magnificence is awe-inspiring. The works in bronze are rich and give a sense of ever evolving.

• • • •

FROM LONG BEACH, it is easy to go to the County Museum via the intersection of Willowbrook and 107th St. to visit the Watts Towers. While Nakian's work is the result of deep intellectual commitment and knowledge and Rodia's apparently came from some tremendous instinctual drive, both are the statements of brave spirits which rise in protest above the commonplace.

'Pinafore' Added to Greek Bill

A new approach and new staging for the perennial Gilbert and Sullivan operetta favorite, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be brought to the Greek Theater, Los Angeles, when Sir Tyrone Guthrie's current sensation of the London theater season is flown complete from England for seven performances, July 16, through 22.

"Pinafore" is the third production scheduled to premiere for the Greek Theater this season. The others are Balanchine's lavish full-length ballet, "Midsummer Night's Dream," July 2 to 8, by the New York City Ballet, and presentation of the entire Comedie Francaise from Paris in "The Would-be Gentleman," Aug. 17 to 25.

Also to play in the Greek Theater are Victor Borge, June 27 to 29; the New York City Ballet in repertoire, July 9 to 14; Danny Kaye, July 23 to Aug. 4; Nat King Cole, Aug. 6 to 15; Maurice Chevalier, Aug. 27 to Sept. 2; Andy Williams and Al Hirt, Sept. 3 to 8; and Johnny Mathis, with the Roberto Iglesias Ballet Espanol, Sept. 10 to 16.

Visitor From New Zealand to Present Recital Tuesday

Lenora Owsley of Auckland, New Zealand, interrupted her practice at the organ in First Congregational Church to make a few observations — all complimentary — about her stay in Long Beach.

She will play her premiere performance in the United States Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the sanctuary at Third Street and Cedar Avenue, under sponsorship of the church music committee.

The slender, brown-haired, blue-eyed organist is the houseguest of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Connor, 1501 Hackett Ave.

• • • •

"I HAVE been so pleasantly surprised at the interest people here show in organ music," she said.

"Perhaps it is the great number of long-play recordings available that has whetted interest. But the average listener is more interested than his counterpart in New Zealand.

"There are more organists, too, and your American Guild of Organists is larger than our organ assembly."

• • • •

MISS OWSLEY, who has performed and studied in Europe, Great Britain and Hawaii, named the two best organs on which she has played: the one in Westminster Cathedral, London, and that at First Congregational Church.

She began piano study when she was 3 and organ study at 16. The only musician of her sex to attain concert standard in New Zealand on both organ and piano, she is official organist at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Auckland, and has broadcast many recitals for the New Zealand Broadcasting Service.

• • • •

SHE IS A Fellow of Trinity College, London, where she obtained the gold medal for both associate and licentiate diplomas, and is a licentiate of the London Royal Schools of Music.

Before leaving for her home July 9, the visitor will attend the AGO national convention in Pasadena July 2 to 6 and will play a convention recital July 3 at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Long Beach.

Orchestral Bill Varied

"Symphony in A," written by three-time Pulitzer Prize winner Douglas Moore, will be the program opener for the Long Beach State College Symphony Orchestra today.

The presentation, for which there is no admission charge, will be at 8:15 p.m. in the Little Theater. Dr. Robert Tyndall, associate professor of music, will be soloist in "Concerto for Bassoon and Orchestra," by Mozart. Dr. Bertram C. McGarrity will direct the orchestra.

Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" will provide variation in the program which will conclude with "Cappriccio Espagnol" by Rimsky-Korsakov, conducted by Richard Williams, a senior majoring in music.

On Stage---

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 5021 E. Anaheim St., "Third Best Sport," 7:45 p.m. Thursday; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

CORINTHIAN THEATER (Morgan Hall), 835 Locust Ave., "Damn Yankees," 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturdays.

MAGNOLIA THEATER, 3108 Magnolia Ave., "The Seven Year Itch," 8:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday, 8 p.m. Sunday.

OFF-BROADWAY THEATER, 221 Lime Ave., "The World of Suzie Wong," 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Sunday Showcase, 8 p.m. Three original one-act plays.

QUIVERA PLAYHOUSE, 2236 S. Pacific Ave., San Pedro, "No Exit," 8:30 p.m., Friday, Saturday, Sunday.

Sidewalks Move

Hollywood Bowl soon will have two moving sidewalks to convey patrons to upper reaches of the amphitheater. They will be in operation in time for the opening of the 41st season of Symphonies Under the Stars July 3.

BTD Band to Perform

Public concerts are scheduled Monday and Tuesday by the Business and Technology Division Band of Long Beach City College. Both admission-free performances begin at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

The program will include marches, concert band numbers and show tunes. Mrs. Eileen Gallagher, organist at St. Barnabas Church, will be the piano soloist in Richard Addinsell's "Warsaw Concerto."

Directed by Earl P. Thomas, the BTD Band was formed a year ago and now has more than 70 members.

'Evenings at Eight' to Offer Final Bill

Final "Evenings at Eight" offering of the season will be the Long Beach City College Festival of Music at 6 p.m. Friday in the college auditorium. Admission will be by season ticket or by general admission tickets available at the box office.

LBCC musical organizations taking part in the concert will include the Schola Cantorum and the College Choir, directed by Wayne B. Gard; the College-Community Orchestra, directed by Gaylord Browne; and the Concert Band, directed by Richard L. Jones.

Numbers will include a joint choral-orchestral performance of Borodin's "Polovetzian Dances," excerpts from Bernstein's "West Side Story," and a work with the cryptic title, "Illustrated History of Concert Band Music, 1500-1984."

AVAILABLE ONLY to those attending the Friday night program will be the advance sale of 1962-63 season tickets. No additional public sale will be held until late September.

The coming "Evenings at Eight" season will present the Whiskeyhill Singers, actress Cornelia Otis Skinner, guitarist Carlos Montoya, Hal Holbrook in "Mark Twain Tonight," and City College drama and music productions.

The annual "Extra" program, available to season subscribers at special rates, will bring the Shankar Hindu Dancers to Long Beach on Oct. 23 from their extended engagement at the Seattle World's Fair.

Spring Brides Say Vows

Gladys Anne Brake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Washington Brake, Lake City S. C., became the bride of Capt. Robert Joseph Brun, U. S. Air Force, at a recent ceremony in Saint Philomena's Catholic Church, Lake City, S. C.

The bride, wearing a gown of Chantilly lace and peau-de-soie, was attended by Mrs. Carroll Francis Godwin as matron of honor.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Gaylord L. Fisher, Long Beach, and Joseph A. Brun Sr., Long Beach, was attended by his brother, Joseph Anthony Brun Jr.

Ushers were Daniel Walter Brake, the bride's brother, and Capts. Robert Beretta, John Hagemeister and Jacob Turner Tutterow.

The new Mrs. Brun attended Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C., and Palmer College, Charleston, S. C., where she was a member of Alpha Iota.

The bridegroom attended Compton Junior and Long Beach City Colleges. He was commissioned in the U. S. Air Force in 1955 and recently completed Squadron Officer School.

Shaevitz-Cicourel

Long Beach Elks Lodge was setting for the recent wedding of Carol Lee Cicourel and Murray Shaevitz.

The new Mrs. Shaevitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Cicourel, Los Alamitos, wore a silk organza gown and carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

She was attended by Eileen Geller as maid of honor and Betty Hoffer, Iris Freitag and Candy Matlow as bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaevitz, 4559 Atlantic Ave., chose his brother, Jerry Shaevitz, as best man. Dean Gold was ring bearer and Mark Cicourel, Bob Schenkman and Merwin Goldsmith were ushers.

The bride, a Wilson High alumna, attended Long Beach City College, where she was a member of Entre Nous, and was graduated from dental assistants school. The bridegroom was graduated from Poly High and UCLA, where he was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Mu. He is a member of the Elks.

Clark-Mapes

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Clark will reside in Long Beach upon return from a honeymoon in Canada.

The wedding ceremony uniting them was held recently in St. John's Lutheran Church here.

The bride, the former Beverly Mapes, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil L. Mapes, 211 E. Plymouth St. For the nuptial rite, she wore a Cahill gown of Chantilly lace and carried a bouquet of white roses atop a white Bible.

Her sister, Ardis Campbell, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara Mapes and Donna Ackerman.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Svacina, 767 Termino Ave., is a member of the Long Beach Police Department.

He was attended by Richard Post as best man. Completing the wedding party were Daryl Mapes and James Probish, ushers, and Kenneth Mapes and Stephen Mapes, nephews of the bride, junior ushers.

Tall, Slender? Lucky You!

By WILMA HASTINGS

You tall, slender girls are most fortunate indeed, for you have great leeway in clothing selection!

In your case, we may even want to select clothes which cut the height somewhat. Don't misunderstand — I mean the illusion. Your height is an established fact, so we can take great liberties with it.

Here a combination of colors may be worn and the dropped shoulder or deep sleeve in any proportion will give a lovely effect.

Pleated skirts, flared skirts and bloused fullness at the waist, ALL can be worn and worn well by the tall, slender girl. However, her clothes always must maintain the look of harmonious combination—what is commonly called the well-put-together look.

For the tall, slender figure, the over-all effect must be a harmonious blend of color, texture and body lines which are long and well-defined. This is the look which emphasizes the shoulder line, rounded bust, minimized waist, rounded hips and trim ankles.

• • • •

UNLESS THE costume is well cut and has a generous look without appearing too large, the effect will be skimpy and have a cheap look regardless of cost!

To point out the importance of the well-defined line, let me tell you what I call the opposite look—I call it the "blob" silhouette. It's nondescript from top to bottom. There is no hint of any thought being given to a well-balanced figure, proud carriage or a well-coordinated costume.

The taller woman will choose hats to complement the appearance and the shape either will have bulk to the crown or brim or both. The hat MUST balance the figure. Here again let me show you the incorrect and the correct way for a tall, slender girl to look.

• • • •

WRONG: Hair brushed up toward the crown, a pillbox hat, V-neck dress on a naturally long neck. The lines of her dress are long and slinky and she wears high-heeled clogs. She carries a small purse and wears little, short gloves.

RIGHT: Hair styled softly with fullness to achieve a pleasing balance. Her hat is bulky to help balance her height. She wears a suit of rough-textured wool, silk or cotton and the length of her jacket falls just below the large part of the hips. Armholes are "easy" and the back blouses softly at the waistline. She wears a smart chiffon scarf inside the neckline of her suit which buttons high and is accented with a small, youthful collar. Her earrings are larger than average. Her shoes are basic opera pumps and match her bag, which is large and bulky. Her eight-button gloves crush above her wrists, or to the length of her three-quarter-length sleeves.

Now, can you visualize the difference?

• • • •

MOVING ON to campus wear, the casual look of complete simplicity is correct for campus. Matching sweaters and skirts also are ideal for the overweight girl. That all-in-one look always removes inches where they should be removed and gives the illusion of more height.

The two-tone look is effective, too. That is, two shades of the same color. But learn to be discriminating in blending colors, because with the classic look achieved through sweaters and skirts, it is the COLOR interest which can set the look apart from average.

Girls, DO wear tailored blouses and DO refrain from wearing the thin, frilly type. If you tuck your sweater or blouse inside the skirt, wear a belt which blends well with the color and texture of the fabric. This, however, is far more becoming to the tall, slender girl.

Choose your school dresses with care and avoid the too-dressy look. Remember that tailored look for campus always gets the compliments and prompts admiration.

Remember also that there is no substitute for cleanliness and neatness, so keep your clothes in perfect condition. I do believe there's no more thrilling sight than a truly feminine teenager.

• • • •

AND ELABORATING on something I mentioned previously, there's nothing LESS feminine than a short bra with bare skin showing between the girdle and bra through a cotton dress or blouse. This is another reason I recommend the waist-length bra which comes down over top of the girdle.

If the top of your dress is sheer, although lined to cover the bustline, by all means wear a strapless bra so that no straps will show through the sheer bodice. With a boat necked dress which covers the shoulders, if you MUST wear a bra with straps, put keepers in the shoulder seams of the dress to hold (and hide) the straps in place.

The underpinnings are just as important to the finished look as the clothes which go on top!

Coats, shoes and bags will be covered in my article tomorrow.

New Jobs for Two Business Women

Among Career Women

Anna Gruber

Eva Hastings

Pilot Club

Anna Louise Gruber was installed president of Pilot Club International of Long Beach in recent ceremonies in Lafayette Hotel's Panorama Room.

A native of Indiana, Mrs. Gruber is a long-time employe of the federal government, currently serving in special procurement and acting as realty assistant for the Southwest Regional Office which is responsible for all Immigration activities in the southwestern states and Hawaii.

Installed with the new president were Eva Miner, Myrna Russell, Katherine Ring, Ruth Clark, Helen Gordon, Virginia Linabury, Lorene Yett, Hope Case, Mary Lou Sipprelle, Ruth Tay and Antoinette Oster.

Dental Assistants

Harbor District Dental Assistants Society will seat Mrs. Eva Hastings as president during a 7:30 p.m. ceremony Monday in Petroleum Club. Her employer, Dr. Earl Wallace, will be installing officer.

Other new officers are Birchie Fair (Dr. H. E. Haberman), president-elect; Dorothy Sass (Dr. W. Bryant); Florence Cole (Dr. S. D. Challis); Vida Senters (Long Beach Business College); Evlyn Parsons, (Dr. Charles Ridgeway).

Mrs. Hastings has held every office in the society as well as state board posts. In July she will attend an international dental congress in Europe where she will conduct a clinic.

Soroptimist Club

Presentation of scholarships to three Long Beach City College students will high light the noon luncheon meeting Friday of Soroptimist Club of Long Beach in Red Velvet Room.

Receiving a boost toward earning their B.A. degrees at Long Beach State College will be Carolyn Marie Older, Beatrice Ann Lucas and Mrs. Violet Oaklander. They will be introduced by Marion Darlington Farrell and the awards will be presented by Lola Stanley.

Ives BPW

Margaret Ives Business and Professional Women's Club of Long Beach will have a legislative dinner meeting Monday at Alfred's. Republican candidates for the state assembly, George Deukmejian, Capt. Charles Garrison, James A. Hayes and Alvin G. Miller, 39th District, and Wilbur Richardson, 44th District, will be presented in a panel discussion by Amanda Rhode, legislative chairman. Relatives and friends of members are welcome and may make reservations with Gladys Taylor. William Steck will provide musical entertainment.

Operating Nurses

Long Beach Association of Operating Room Nurses will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Gardena Hospital, 1155 W. Redondo Ave., Gardena. Dr. Nathan Kaplan will speak on "hip nailing" and a demonstration of the new drape for use in hip nailing will be given.

Executives' Secretaries

Long Beach Chapter of Executives' Secretaries, Inc., will follow its open dinner meeting Monday at the Hawaiian Restaurant with a tour of the new Movieland Wax Museum in Buena Park conducted by the museum president, Allen H. Parkinson.

Job or More School Will Enrich Summer

By RICHMOND BARBOUR

What will your teen-agers be doing in July and August? Loafing around, and getting into trouble? I hope not. Idle teen-age hands really are the devil's workshop. Better start planning their summers now.

If possible, they should work. They need the experience. They need to earn money doing a regular job under a boss who is not too easy on them. They need the fun of spending part of the money, and of saving part of it. They need to learn to take orders, work hard and stick with unpleasant tasks. Maturity comes that way.

• • • •

BUT JOBS will be scarce, as usual. Many types of work are illegal for teen-agers. Many employees dislike the red tape involved in hiring them. Some unions oppose their employment. Fewer than half of the teen-agers who want work will get it.

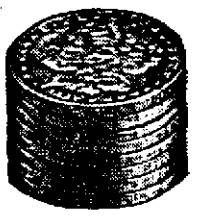

Then what? If your kids aren't working, send them to summer school. Thousands of high schools now offer regular summer sessions. Your children could go back and improve bad grades. They could take enrichment courses such as music, art, literature or creative writing. Or they could enroll in skill courses they haven't time to take during the school year—typing, for example. Or auto shop or driver training. There are many possibilities.

• • • •

I'VE A word of caution about summer school. Pupils are not required to attend. Teachers are not obligated to keep them there. In most summer schools students who cause trouble are kicked out, pronto. Warn your offspring that they have to behave themselves in their summer classes.

L.B. Museum Association Invites Public to Meeting

Long Beach Museum Association will follow its annual meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in Long Beach Museum of Art with a celebration honoring retiring and new association officers. The officers will be feted at Restalrig, former residence of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Buffum.

The meeting at the museum is open to the public. Mrs. James Kresl, retiring president, will introduce chairmen who will report on the group's activities.

Following a talk by Frederick Black, museum director, entitled "No Little Plans," there will be election of new officers.

The association is comprised of more than 200 members, 63 of whom joined this year. In addition there are more than 50 members in "Friends," the group's auxiliary.

• • • •

THE PURPOSE of the Association is to promote and advance the welfare of Long Beach Museum of Art. All persons interested in membership are invited to attend meetings.

The group takes bus excursions to museums and galleries in the Los Angeles area which are arranged by Dallas Conklin, Mrs. David Moseley and Frende Combs.

Don Raney, first vice president, has filed incorporation papers and worked out details for the receipt of tax-deductible gifts for museum use. Two substantial cash awards were given by the group for the Long Beach Museum's annual juried show.

STUDENT BODY ELECTIONS LOOM ON BOTH CAMPUSES

Liberal Arts

Fall semester student body elections and the scholarship-benefit faculty variety show are major events this week at the Long Beach City College Liberal Arts Division.

Candidates for ASB president in Friday's elections are Gary Downey (Progressive), Mike Jewell (Independent) and Bill White (United Collegiate). Vying for the AMS presidency are Bob Hill of the Progressives and Jim Soukup of United. In the nonpartisan race for the top AWS position are Pat Dolphin and Mary Fryar. Other slate candidates and independents will compete for a dozen additional student body, AMS and AWS offices.

"Prof-O-Naughts of 1962," the annual fund-raising faculty show, goes into orbit at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the auditorium. Plot involves contrasting scenes on the college campus and on a distant planet, Pinkus Number Ten. Proceeds will finance LAD Faculty Club scholarships for high school seniors in the Long Beach area. Tickets are on sale at the AWS office, and the usual capacity-plus student audience is expected.

• • • •

FINAL preparations are now being made for the semesterly banquets held by various organizations on the Carson Street campus. Included will be affairs honoring musical groups, publications staffs, spring sports teams, AWS, AMS and the incoming and outgoing members of the ASB Cabinet. Several awards will be presented to students for outstanding academic achievement and service to the school.

Correction: The "straight A" students mentioned in last week's "Voice of the Vikings" were from the LAD campus, not BTD.

—MARY CALLOS

Business, Technology

Campaigning for fall semester offices will also be a major activity this week on the Business and Technology Division campus. Contestants for the ASB Council, the AWS Board and Prom Queen will be presented at a Candidates' Assembly scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday. Polls will be open Tuesday and Wednesday for evening students and on Thursday for day students.

Winner of the Prom Queen balloting, and her two princesses, will remain top secret until the start of the Plantation Ball, or spring prom, at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Lafayette Hotel's Cavalier Room. Also to be announced during the prom are the six winners of the Hollingworth Award, highest honor of the BTD student body.

Paul Bazaar and his orchestra will provide the music. Coronation ceremonies will be conducted by ASB president Fred Ashley, vice president Ken Kilfoyl and prom committee chairman Kathy Altman.

And don't forget the BTD Band concerts at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the gymnasium (no admission charge). Still another BTD musical group, the new Women's Chorus, will make its debut with director Earl Thomas at the Wednesday election assembly.

Alumnae Install Officers

Mrs. Hugh Osmera will be installed president of Long Beach Alumnae Chapter, Kappa Delta Sorority, Monday at 7 p.m. in Victor Hugo Restaurant.

Others taking office will be Mmes. R. C. Wedemeyer, Joseph Ribal, J. Albert Brown and S. B. Conger.

Mmes Conger, Al Stack, George Gardiner and Miss Nancy Haach will welcome new members to the chapter.

Kappa Delta Sorority's national philanthropy is aid to crippled children. A $1,000 award, administered by the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, is presented annually by the sorority.

At the 1961 convention, Kappa Delta increased the award. Two awards were presented at the recent convention and beginning next year three awards will be given.

• • • •

RECENT AWARDS went to Dr. Robert C. Mellors and Dr. James B. Wray for outstanding orthopedic research. Mrs. Herbert E. Mueler, Kappa Delta National Panhellenic Conference delegate, made the presentations.

Dr. Mellors, Hospital for Special Surgery, New York, was awarded for his research in rheumatoid arthritis and cellular origin of rheumatoid factors.

Dr. Wray, Department of Surgery, State University of New York, Syracuse, was awarded for research on vascular phenomena associated with fracture.

MRS. JUNE GRAFF, executive director of the club and a long-time worker in girls activities, noted that membership in the club (currently 180 girls) crosses all barriers—racial, social and economic.

"It's a real pleasure to work with youngsters who seemingly have no prejudices," she said.

"Many of them, starved for attention, find a measure of fulfillment for their personality needs here."

Mrs. Marvin Clark, last year's Assistance league chairman for the girls clubs, noted that the centers "not only help a great deal generally—but specifically, as well."

She cited the case of one girl of Oriental heritage who, from the club, went on to high school to become a yell leader and subsequently president of her senior class, who later made fine marks in college and was elected homecoming queen by the student body.

Still another: an insecure girl with untold problems at home discovered new talents in the club's fun-with-clay class. One of her designs, a sitting horse, was entered by the club's instructor in the state ceramics contest.

• • • •

THE GIRLS CLUBS, a program started during the war years with Mrs. Thomas E. Noble, Assistance League life member, as first chairman, are fulfilling a great need in the community.

In addition to daytime club facilities, the Assistance League provides a program of camperships and scholarships, plus boy-girl dances once a month during the school year and one-night-a-week programs during the summer months.

As Capt. Landsdowne puts it: "We must face the fact that we have delinquency in Long Beach. And we have a lot of it.

"The busier we keep our youth, day in and day out, with instructive programs—the better opportunity for them to develop into mature self-reliant adults.

"We want no movie version of the 'West Side Story' here."

Reunion Highlights Visit to L.B.

Three sisters who had not been together for 39 years have spent the past six weeks in a happy reunion here.

Mrs. David Rew and Mr. Rew of Monifeith, Scotland, have been houseguests of her sister and brother-in-law, Mrs. Robert Young and Mr. Young, 2698 Baltic Ave. The third sister is Mrs. James Young of Lynwood. Mrs. Young had not seen Mrs. Rew since she left Scotland 27 years ago.

Highlight of the visit was celebration of the Rews' 25th wedding anniversary at a party in Los Angeles. Many Long Beach residents who had visited the couple in Scotland, as well as other Scottish friends, attended.

Both Mrs. Robert Young and Mrs. James Young are well-known in Scottish circles, being members and past chief daughters of Lady McDonald Lodge, Daughters of Scotia, in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Rew will leave by plane Saturday for Scotland.

Two Clubs Schedule Installation Meetings

Two clubs will install presidents and boards Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Murray Wheeler will succeed Mrs. Sol Ashkenaze as president of Los Altos Women's Club in a ceremony beginning at 8 p.m. in Whaley Park Clubhouse.

She will be inducted by Mrs. Walter Cooper who also will install Mmes. Dudley Shelnutt, Alvin Maddy, Henry Relation, Walter Pierce, Francis Long, Charles McCleary, Gene Barnes, Bill Hayden and Verne Rasmussen.

Mrs. Ashkenaze will present a scholarship for Long Beach State College to Robert Wise, Millikan High School student.

• • • •

AT 7:30 P.M. in the Garden Room, Third Street and Alamitos Avenue, Mrs. Joseph Coigdarripe will be reinstalled as president of Agassiz Nature Club.

Serving with her will be Misses Ruth H. Kirkland, Margaret Heigele, Curry Bell and Mrs. Bessie Pullen.

Mrs. Pearl Baker, chairman, will present motion pictures, "Land Sinking in Long Beach," and "Glamour Fish of Hawaii."

East Opens Diamonds

Today's hand represents an experiment. I made it up and put it in play in a strong duplicate game. Every East player opened one diamond and nine South players arrived at four spades.

All Wests opened the queen of diamonds. Five South players covered with the king and four of them went down.

It seems that four East players were smart enough to figure that the second diamond trick would keep. Each one led the four of clubs. It made no difference which club South used to win the trick. West dropped the six spot. Then East grabbed the first spade and laid down the club ace. West completed his echo with the deuce and then ruffed East's eight.

WHEN South ducked the first diamond every West player continued the suit and let South make his contract except for one South who ducked and went down.

He was the victim of a tremendous defensive play by East. East said to himself: "My partner surely has five diamonds and South surely does not want me on lead. I wonder why?"

After that soliloquy East played the ace of diamonds and led that low club to knock over South's applecart.

The One Thing He Doesn't 'Baby Along' Is His Cooking

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I-P-T Food Editor

He came — he saw — and he returned to his world of kiddies, quite certain that pediatrics offers a far smoother world than "cooking." Chef of the Week, Dr. Kenneth A. Berkaw, made his debut at the Chef of the Week Banquet last Tuesday night.

The doctor started out in Michigan and "stayed-put" until he had mastered grammar and high school . . . had received his A.B. degree from that city's Wayne University, and his medical degree from the University of Michigan School of Medicine.

Dr. Kenneth A. Berkaw

Chef of the Week

In fact, Berkaw, served his first year internship at Harper Hospital — his junior residency in Pediatrics at Children's Hospital, and his second year residency in Pediatrics at Henry Ford Hospital, without ever leaving Detroit.

• • • •

THEN World War II happened and he went into the Army with the rank of captain. As medical officer, head of communicable diseases, he spent 10 months in North Africa, and eight months in Italy. Transferred to Germany with a corps of engineers, he spent 18 months as "bridge" surgeon. When the Jerrys blew up a bridge, his men repaired it, and he repaired them.

Returning to the States, he practiced pediatrics at Birmingham, Mich., for two years before coming to Long Beach in 1948. After all those years, he suddenly decided he didn't like Detroit's snow.

His war years eventually led to one of the most rewarding experiences of his life. He sponsored a French boy to this country, whom he had met in Constantine, Algeria. This lad now is head of the translation department ARAMCO (Arabic American Oil Co.), after having learned Arabic from an enlisted man in Monterey.

Head of Pediatrics at Harriman Jones Clinic Hospital, Berkaw now is attending babies of young mothers whom he had attended as children.

• • • •

IMMEDIATE past president of the staff of Community Hospital, Berkaw still serves as chairman of the pediatrics department at that hospital. A fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Berkaw is certified by the American Board of Pediatrics. He presently is chairman of the policy committee, Long Beach Children's Clinic, and "prexied" the Long Beach Pediatrics Society in 1952.

His love of children was inspired by his work with boys at camps in Northern Michigan. Each summer from the time he was 16 until he was through school, he served as both counselor and director.

Mrs. Berkaw is equally well versed in the medical world, having been a nurse at the Harper Hospital when her husband was a first year intern. They have a daughter, Susan Maria 15, and a son, Robert Alan, 13.

Gardening and finding time to spend at their Palm Springs ranch are intermingled with dancing lessons and his bouts on water skis. He finds the latter a bit difficult, being more in the water than out.

Our "chef's" favorite food is Shrimp Curry, and here's how he does it:

SHRIMP CURRY

- 2 lbs. cleaned raw shrimp
- 2 tblsp. fat or cooking oil
- 1 tblsp. curry powder
- 2 whole cloves
- 2 tsp. salt
- few grains pepper
- 1 tsp. Accent
- ½ lemon, grated peel and juice
- 4 cups boiling water
- ½ cup finely diced onion
- 1 cup diced tart apples
- 3 tblsp. butter or margarine
- ½ cup flour
- 1 cup cold water
- ½ cup seedless raisins
- 3 cups cooked rice

Cook shrimp in hot fat or oil until pink; drain off fat. Add seasonings, lemon peel and juice to boiling water; reduce heat to simmering. Cook onion and apples in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine until soft but not brown; add to water and seasonings. Blend remaining butter or margarine with flour; add cold water slowly to form a smooth paste; add to sauce. Stir smooth over low heat. Add prepared shrimp and raisins; simmer 10 minutes. Serve with hot rice and accompany with shredded coconut, raisins, chutney and macadamia nuts. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Note to Girl Watchers: There's a "shift" to the relaxed look in swimwear this season. But don't despair. There are still plenty of swimsuits that fit sleek and slim as a girl's suntan. Example: the red knit maillot as shown on Southland's cover, a Jane Ford design for Peter Pan's California Group, featuring corded straps and deep plunge back. Zipperless, it's closed with brass buttons. Making the biggest splash in fashion history, new beachwear has oceans of style, no weight—but lots of shape! For more bare facts about the shapes swimwear will take this season, turn to Page 7.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

A-frame plan makes this greenhouse easy to build.

By Bill Meyerriecks

USING Filon translucent fiberglass in place of ordinary window glass makes building a greenhouse much easier for the amateur gardener-do-it-yourselfer.

Filon is shatterproof and hailproof and produces a glare-free, shadow-free light evenly diffused over the growing area. Heat loss in winter is mimimized and sun heat in summer is reduced.

The plastic panels are utilized on a simple A-frame skeleton to produce a compact greenhouse complete with a 7-foot potting bench along one end.

The Sketchbook plan tells you exactly what materials are required and clearly explains each step in construction.

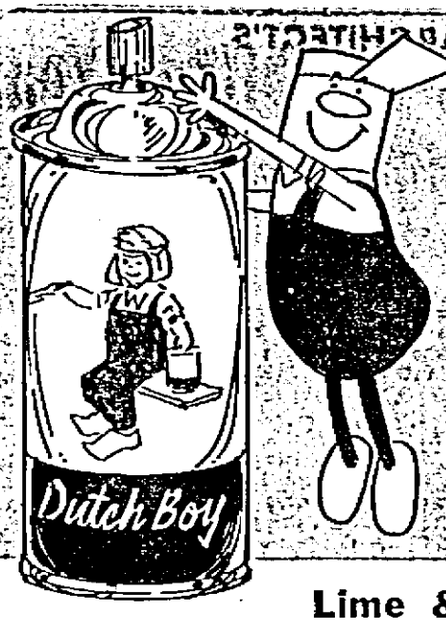

TO OBTAIN PLAN, specify Greenhouse Plan S-57 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Colonial Dough Box

Dough boxes had a utilitarian place in colonial days, and their value today is decorative. If you haven't a true antique, you can easily make a dough box like that shown above with NBC-TV's Sybil Collier. Use a full-sized pattern and you'll have no trouble. Send 75 cents for Colonial Dough Box Pattern No. 280 to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. And don't forget to include your name and address, too.

Books That Turn Back Years

By Helen L. Gillum

Books, some of them very old, are a large part of the life of John J. Frisch, shown in corner of his library.

ALTHOUGH not exactly an antique collector in the usual sense of the word, John J. Frisch, of 4777 Daisy Ave., can be justifiably proud of certain collectors' items which he owns, if for no other reason than that they are directly related to his hobbies of literature, music and art. Among his thousands of carefully cataloged books, phonograph records, sheet music, player piano rolls, paintings and etchings (from "the latest thing out" to the "very old"), he can quickly locate an original player-piano roll, the melody of which was composed and recorded by Grieg; a complete 11-volume first-edition of Dr. Samuel Johnson; a worm-eaten, pigskin-bound book from the 16th century, and other noteworthy artistic memorabilia.

At last count, Frisch, a former Poly High School teacher, owned 7,306 books. A most interesting one is a thick, pigskin-bound copy of the Justinian Code, nearly 400 years old, which Frisch found in a secondhand book store in Chicago long ago. Printed completely in Latin, this volume is so ancient that the exact date was difficult, even for Frisch, with many years of languages to his credit, to decipher. However, the name of the Dutch printer, Louis Elzevir, who established a printery in Leyden in 1580, is plainly legible on the flyleaf.

THE TITLE of this old book was burned into the cover with a hot iron. Fragments of leather thongs still cling to the covers. One purpose of such thongs was to bind the pages tightly together, to prevent them from absorbing beer spilled on the tables where students gathered for discussion and camaraderie over the common beverage of the times. At least one voracious bookworm dined well on this ponderous volume of Emperor Justinian's laws, as evidenced by the "tunnel" eaten completely through the book.

The eleven volumes of Samuel Johnson were, according to Frisch, "another lucky find while browsing through a used-bookstore." The calfskin bound books were published in 1787, three years after Johnson's death. Frisch was so fortunate as to purchase this complete works of the great English man of letters for a fraction of its actual value.

While Frisch plays his white grand piano with aplomb, he also enjoys demonstrating to guests the capabilities of his modern Ampico electric reproducing piano. From among 930 player piano rolls on his shelves, he might select "Erotik," Opus 43, No. 5, composed and recorded by the great Norwegian composer, Edvard Grieg. A pleasantly melodious tune reminding of the past, it also points up the fact that player pianos go back "quite a spell" since Grieg's greatest achievements occurred in the last half of the 19th century. In fact, musical history reveals that mechanical pianos were made as early as 1842.

Frisch owns many excellent reproductions of great paintings, and many good original paintings and etchings. He has arranged on one wall in his home a number of original etchings by the Swedish artist, Anders Zorn. One of these, of Zorn and his wife, is dated 1890.

New wrap around styling in stretch knit; by Rose Marie Reid.

Skimmers for Swimmers

...Stunners for Sunners

Sweet caresses for curves in Marina Del Mar's "Sea Leaves"—gently rounded in front; deeply scooped in back. Weighs only ounces, yet practices art of figure persuasion.

By Mary Ellis
Independent Press Telegram Fashion Editor

"Skimmer" is the latest word for today's fashionable swimmer.

Body-consciousness has made such a big splash in the dress world that swimwear designers have followed suit with a loose, slow-fit silhouette that suggests—without flaunting—the curves beneath.

Of course, bikinis are still adding to the seascope (also see-scope), but more modest two-piece sunner-stunners are better sellers.

THE EVER-POPULAR maillot, this season all shape and no weight, often are cut in new wrap-around styling from cloudlike stretch fabrics that move easily without confining or restricting the figure.

Other 1962isms: Legs cut higher in front for a new long-stemmed look . . . skirted or pleated styling—sometimes the skirt a mere flounce at the hemline, other times completely encircling the hips . . . bloused and belted styles, usually done in conjunction with slim, snug-fitting trunks.

TRUE, THE GREAT "shift" is to the relaxed look. But don't think for a minute the figure isn't revealed.

It's much in evidence, but more subtly. And for flawless figures, there are still many of the sleek suits that fit like a girl's suntan.

As any member of the GWS (Girl Watchers Society) would say:

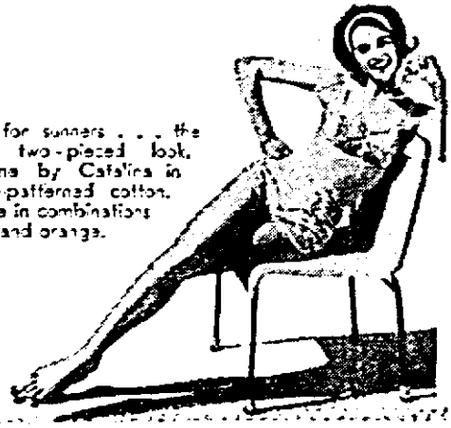

Oh buoy!

Polka-dot bikini, imported from France by Peter Pan. Lightly wired bra can be worn strapless; maillot-cut pant has shirred elastic panels that adjust for more or less exposure.

New "skimmer" silhouette, here done by Elissabeth Stewart. Body lines are classic princess, ending in multi-knife pleats. Of double knit jersey; may be lightly sashed.

Stunner for sunners . . . the popular two-pieced look, here done by Catalina in primitive-patterned cotton. Available in combinations of aqua and orange.

Long Beach men find old axiom reversed on Pacific Paradise

In Tahiti It's Pleasure Before Business

Office Hours, Tahiti Style: John Curtis of Long Beach and Dr. Hal Cross of Encino try to concentrate on business with isle secretary Vaia Benet.

By Lee Craig

TWO SOUTHLAND MEN, in Tahiti recently to wrap up plans for a new resort hotel there, made an appointment to talk over the $1 million deal with an important Tahitian businessman.

After a hot, dusty hour's drive in a rented car, they showed up at the Tahitian's office in Papeete at the appointed hour.

He wasn't there. Nor did he return that afternoon. The mystified Americans returned to their hotel 30 miles outside town.

NEXT DAY, the Tahitian turned up at their hotel bungalow with a present for them: two large albacore.

"The fish were running," he explained simply.

To a Tahitian, this makes sense. The typical Polynesian attitude toward business is that it's a fine hobby to follow between fishing and swimming or parties.

Most American businessmen, however, forced to cope with this insouciancy would shortly litter the ground around them with handfuls of hair and stamped-flat hats.

FORTUNATELY, these two—John Curtis, of a Long Beach advertising firm, and Dr. Hal Cross, an Encino dentist—had been warned that the usual axiom of "business before pleasure" is reversed in Tahiti.

All of the downtown offices and most of the shops in Tahiti open about 8:30 or 9 a. m. and close about 11:30, when the motor scooter and bicycle traffic becomes heavy as everyone scurries home for a siesta.

Most of the offices and shops open again about 2 p. m., and close for good at 5, when the streets again become flooded with scooters and bicycles and a few cars.

FOR AMERICANS in Tahiti for business purposes, there's a language problem unless they can speak French or Tahitian and, in some cases, Chinese.

Cross and Curtis overcame the lingual barrier by hiring a Tahitian girl, Vaia Benet, as secretary and interpreter. By coincidence, she also happens to be one of the island's most beautiful girls.

Even lovely Vaia, however, couldn't help them break through the island philosophy of Timi, a gigantic, happy-go-lucky former Tahitian police officer who uses stone-age tools to carve out authentic tikis from wood imported from the Marquesas.

The two Southlanders wanted to make a deal with Timi to import the tikis to Southern California. But Timi saw right away that this would involve more work and fewer parties for him.

FURTHERMORE, he had no established price list, since he usually charged whatever he felt suitable at the time. However, he amiably agreed to work out a schedule of prices and send it to them.

Vaia, besides being a secretary, is one of Tahiti's most beautiful girls.

Of course, it never arrived.

Cross and Curtis plan to be on hand when their hotel is under construction, after hearing what happened to another builder near Papeete.

Tahitian workmen, assigned to build a swimming pool near a new hotel, did a very competent job. Feature of their tile and flagstone masterpiece was a large concrete structure supporting the diving board. Only one criticism could be made.

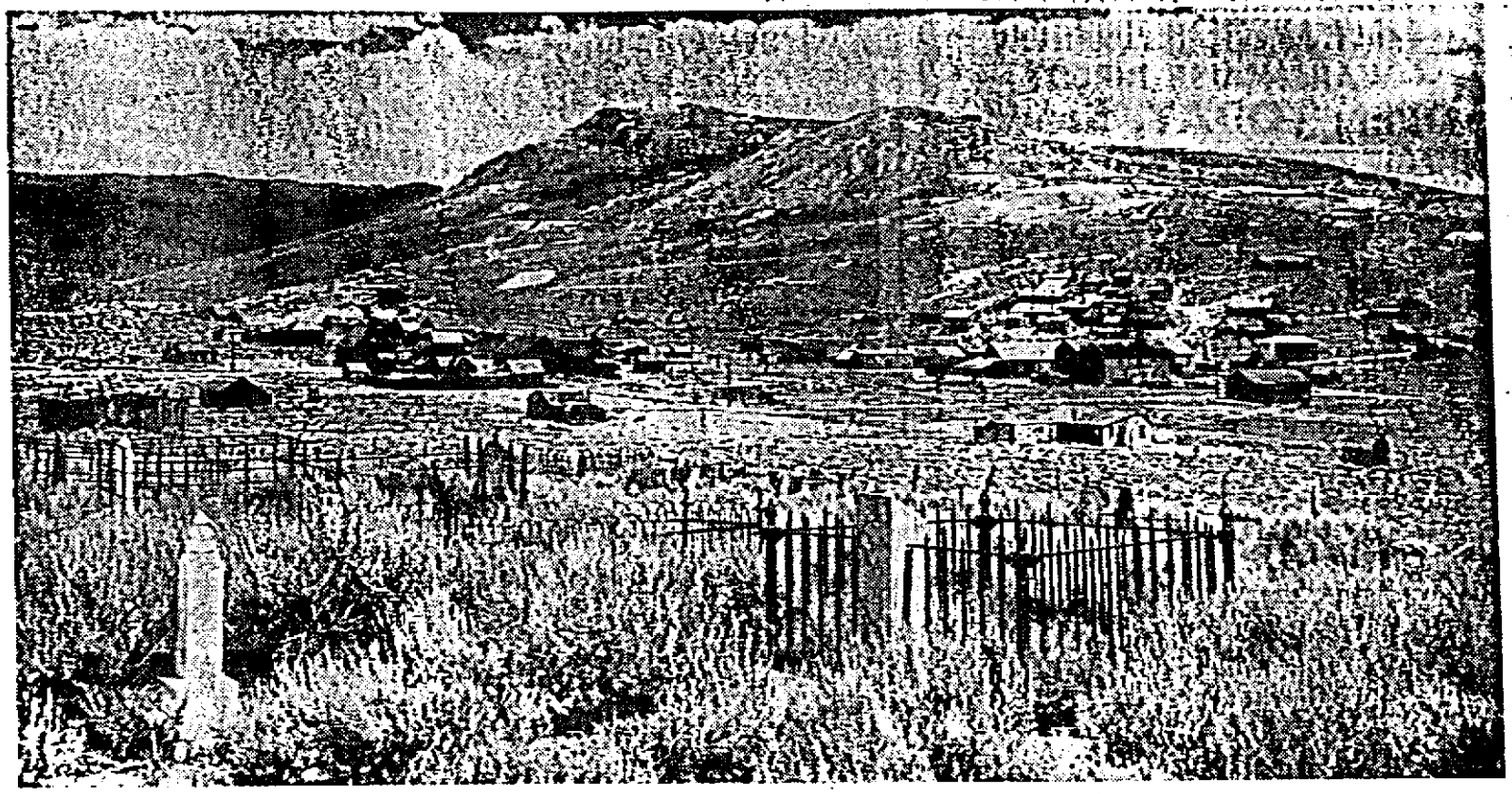

They had built the diving platform at the shallow end.

Making tikis for export trade might involve too much work and too little time for fun, Timi, a huge former Tahiti policeman, told Cross and Curtis.

Idyllic settings are everywhere in the South Pacific isles. This is area along waterfront of hotel outside Papeete where Cross and Curtis stayed.

Ravaged by fire and the elements, Bodie still can muster approximately 100 buildings; but it is a ghost town in purest sense.

BODIE:
Town With No Future

By Frank L. Remington

BODIE'S HOROSCOPE contains nothing. Once a bonanza town where more than 12,000 persons lived and delved for wealth in its hillside mines, Bodie is a true ghost town today. It is weather-beaten, lonely and deserted—just as the miners left it, except for the ravages of time.

From its beginning in 1859, through its heyday to its death spasms, Bodie saw and lived a lot of life. Today, except for the whistling wind, and occasional sightseers, the streets of Bodie are quiet. On a hillside, a graveyard overlooks the town.

Located high in eastern California's High Sierra, Bodie stands near the Nevada border. It can best be reached by a good dirt road running east from U. S. Hwy. 395. During the 13-mile drive to Bodie, there are few signs of life except solitary shepherds and their flocks.

MOST WESTERN ghost towns have been commercialized and cluttered with souvenir shops, hot dog stands and paved roads—but not Bodie. It's an authentic memento of the rip-roaring mining days when people lived with but one thought: Get rich quick.

In 1859, William S. Body discovered gold and the miners who built a town on the site of his "strike" named it after him. But the man who painted the first sign on a livery stable in the community misspelled the name—and it has remained "Bodie" to this day.

Bodie came to life slowly. It was some 20 years before miners struck a bonanza with the fabulous Fortuna vein. In 1878, the real stampede to Bodie began. The mines yielded gold bullion at the rate of $400,000 a month. It is estimated that altogether the Bodie mines produced a total of $80,000,000.

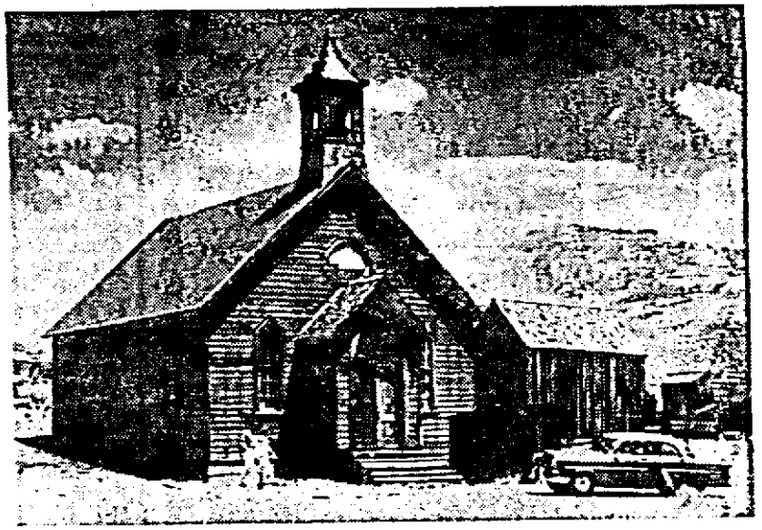

Life was difficult in Bodie, which sprawls between high mountains on a treeless, rocky, 8,300-foot-high plateau. Winter winds punish it severely and deep snow practically isolates it from the outside. In the old days food, supplies and all else had to be brought in by sleighs. In the summer, a burning sun blisters the town.

MANY MINERS struck it rich during the boom, but by 1833, the bonanza slackened. Bodie's miners began drifting away and by 1890 the population was down to 2,000. By the turn of the century there were only 1,500 hardy souls left. Some of the mines were still producing in the present century. The consolidated Bodie and Standard mines operated until the late 1920s. Since then, the last miners departed and the town was left to the elements.

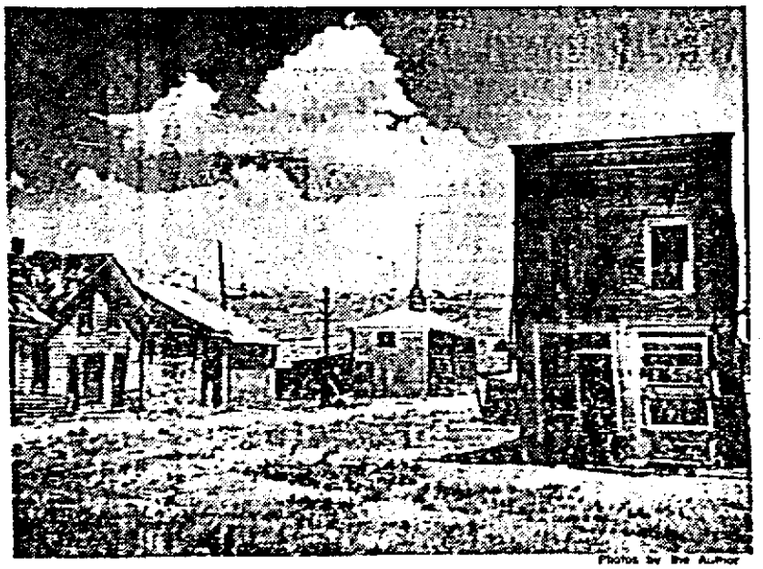

Despite the elements and two disastrous fires in 1892 and 1932, about 100 buildings still exist in Bodie. The 1932 fire destroyed half the business district, including the bank, of which only the scarred vault remains.

The church, schoolhouse and fire station are still standing. So is the Miners' Union Hall, which is now a museum displaying hundreds of items little-known today but common in the boom days of Bodie. They include iron snowshoes for horses, early-day mining equipment,

Despite Bodie's rough and ready ways and convenient morals, some of its residents had time for worship and erected a church, which still stands.

Many Bodie buildings are as unstable on their foundations as some of the miners were after Saturday night carousing. Bodie's school is in background.

California's Division of Highways is constantly at work in research and development aimed at traffic safety on freeways. Here is cable-fence barrier on northern freeway.

Barriers Cut Freeway Head-Ons

By Paul Wallace
Independent, Press-Telegram Staff Writer

HEAD-ON freeway collisions virtually have been eliminated by erection of barriers between opposing lanes, a State Division of Highways study indicates.

But while the experimental center fences have cut freeway fatalities in the process of preventing head-on crashes, they have increased the number of injury accidents, preliminary results of the study show.

Nevertheless, going on the proposition that the fatality column is the important one, the division is planning to install barriers on all the busier freeway stretches where most of the head-ons occur.

Highway engineers have carefully documented fence experiments on sections of the Santa Ana Freeway and the Nimitz Freeway near Oakland.

Two types of barriers were built. One is chain-link fencing with steel cables stretched along it parallel with the ground. The other is a steel beam run along above the ground on stout wood posts.

THE ENGINEERS started their experiment by instigating special reports on the two sections of freeway (on the Santa Ana, between the Long Beach Freeway and Buhman Ave.) on all accidents for a year.

Then the barriers were erected and similar records were kept for another year. The comparison showed:

Before the barriers, 49 head-on crashes in which cars jumped the dividing strip were recorded. After the barriers, only two crashes resulted from cars jumping the barrier.

There were 12 fatal accidents before the barriers went up, and eight after.

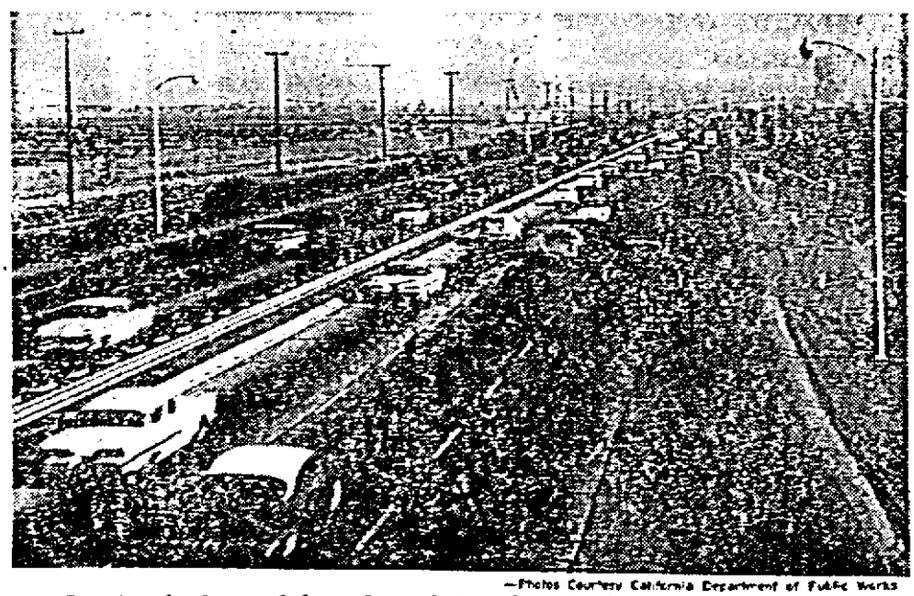

Injury accidents increased about 33 per cent (up from 152 to 202) after the barriers appeared, and all accidents jumped a roughly corresponding amount.

THE MAIN GUESS concerning reasons for the increase in accidents is that, without barriers, many vehicles may have crossed onto the center dividing strip but got back in time to avoid a collision with oncoming traffic.

A comparison of the respective efficiency of the beam and cable barriers brought the cable-type out on top. It is planned as the standard barrier to be put into service.

The accident rate increase, after the test barriers were

Beam-type barrier guards lanes of opposite travel on this freeway section. The accompanying article gives findings to date on the two types of median safeguards.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Do you have genealogy data on SADLER?—M. S., Downey.

M. S.: SADLER meant "saddle maker," referring to a skilled artisan who made saddles for the horses of knights and barons in 13th century England. Beautifully decorated saddles were the pride of warriors at that time. The Sadler family became noblemen and established a manorial estate in Hertfordshire. An ancestor, Sir Ralph Sadler, a distinguished statesmen, was Knight Banneret to King Henry VIII. His coat-of-arms, which the family still bears, had a rampant lion on a red and blue shield. Libeaus Sadler, one of this lineage, baptized the baby who grew up to be Capt. John Smith, founder of Virginia. Ann Sadler was the wife of John Harvard who established Harvard University in 1636.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the relationship between DONALDSON, MacDONALD and DONELSON?—E.D., Torrance; B.D., Long Beach.

E.D., B.D.: DONALDSON and DONELSON are septs or divisions of the famous Scotch clan MacDONALD. The mutual ancestors of these families were rival brothers who raced with each other in small galley ships for Scotland from their native Ireland. When they neared shore, one brother, seeing his competitor was winning the race, cut off his own left hand and threw it ashore saying, "My flesh and my blood are ashore ahead of you." The land won by this means was the Hebrides Island, 2,900 square miles in area off the west Scotch coast. The MacDonald title "Lords of the Isles," referred to their island estates. MacDonald means "Sons of World-ruler." The ancient armorial emblems of the MacDonalds are a red hand for the crest, symbolizing the hand thrown ashore in the legend, and a black galley ship representing the craft that won the race from Ireland.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give the background of BAY.—M.F., Downey.

M.F.: BAY is an old English name indicating "Man with reddish-brown hair." Thirteenth century records list ancestors, Walter Le Bay of Cambridge and Nicholas Le Bay of Bedfordshire.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you analyze BYERLEE.—Mrs. R.B., Wilmington.

R.B.: BYERLEE is a variation of the English surname Byerly, taken from an old locality description. A "Byrely" was a "cattle-shed meadow," a grazing field landmarked by an outstandingly large barn or shed. Byrne-ley was the site of this family's home. The Byerly coat-of-arms has a red cross with the end of each arm crossed again, centered on a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain ESTES. — D.E., Lakewood; E., Compton.

D.E., E.: ESTES is from a 7th century Italian suburb called "Este" mean "in the east." This was an ancient popular resort where wealthy Roman citizens stayed to escape summer heat. The Marquises of Liguria took this town name as their surname in the 1300s. In 1461 an Estes descendant left Italy, settling in the English county of Kent. Among subsequent generations was Robert Estes of Dover, whose son Matthew, born in 1645, came to America in 1670, settling in New Hampshire. The Estes coat-of-arms has three gold fleurs-de-lis on a red and silver bordered blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background of POLLARD.—A.P., Downey.

A.P.: POLLARD was recorded in England over seven centuries ago. This surname originated as a nickname. A "Pollard" was a rebellious individual who cut his hair short in the days when most men wore it shoulder length. An early listing shows Stephen, Son of Pollard, in Kent, 1273. The Pollard coat-of-arms has a black chevron between three red seashells on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you give the origin of BLUE. —E.S., Paramount.

E.S.: BLUE is traced to the early English word "Blew" describing a type of blue woolen cloth. This family's founder was a weaver and seller of this specific blue material. Another source of Blue was the old French meaning of this word, "Pale complexion." London marriage records for 1608 list the wedding of Thomas Blue.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like your analysis of HAWK and HAWKS.—G.C., Mrs. E. H., Long Beach.

G.C., E.H.: HAWK and HAWKS represent an early English nickname for a man who had the keen vision of a soaring hawk. However, these names could also indicate descendants of an owner of an inn identified by a trademark sign picturing a hawk.

Thomas, Adam and John Hawke were Yorkshire taxpayers in 1379. The Hawke shield from Cornwall has six diagonal alternating blue and gold stripes covering the background, placed below a horizontal stripe at the top of the shield. The Hawkes or Hawks shield is similar, a blue background crossed by three diagonal gold stripes placed below a ermine horizontal band.

Reminiscent of a Pompeiian garden is the approach to the Huntington Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Golden. Right, above, full view of exterior. —Photos by Joe R singer.

Purple carpeting of the living room is a dramatic background for sectional couch and coffee table in white. Checkered wall has an unusual impact.

Southland Home

Portal to Smart Styling

By Stella George

RURAL IN setting but smart as today in styling, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Golden, 16707 Graham St., Huntington Beach, is a one-of-its-kind, planned by the Goldens.

A wide, semi-circular driveway outlines a front garden and sweeps up to the entry of this hillside development. A view of a nearby golf course is a feature of the location.

The approach to the dwelling, through a double gate, is reminiscent of a Pompeiian garden or courtyard with a walkway to the front door flanked on either side with large plants set in clean white gravel. The effect is one of enchantment and luxury.

THE ENTRANCE hall of the home leads to the kitchen and living room and extends around to the bedrooms on the right. Purple carpeting is used dramatically. The living room is probably twice the average size, and the feeling of tremendous space is emphasized with extra high ceilings and widely spaced beams running both ways.

The fireplace at the far end of the room reaches to the ceiling and is wide and handsome in design. Walls are panelled in squares from floor to ceiling, with three-quarter drapes leaving the glass exposed above.

The long sectional couch is white, very effective against the purple carpeting. The low coffee table in front of the couch is also white. An outsized hassock in front of the fireplace divides into four separate seating units.

On either side of the fireplace the paneling opens to reveal built-in units. On one side the space is used for a completely equipped bar, ready and available for entertaining.

THE MODERN, compact and functional kitchen adjoins the dinette which doubles, with no effort, as a dining room. The glass-topped table is edged with white filigreed aluminum as are the matching chairs. This particular type of dining room set has a dainty, graceful, and elegant quality of its own.

On one side of the room, a built-in china cupboard is nested against the wall. Glass doors display the treasured pieces within, at the same time keeping them dust free. The entire wall facing the patio is glass.

The bedrooms were treated as carefully as the rest of the home. Adjoining the master bedroom, where a colorful spread provides the color accent, is a built-in dressing table with mirrored wall above. Nearby are ample closets with more built-ins taking the place of furniture pieces.

THE SITE is large enough to accommodate a spacious patio and garden and an outsized swimming pool that runs diagonally across the far end of the lot. The whole area represents California living at its best.

Every feature of the home, large and small, is noteworthy. For example, the tile used in the kitchen and dinette is an unusual gold-flecked white, with a large black border lending a carpeted effect. A guest book on a tiny, built-in table in the entrance hall bids guests welcome. Each room seems to complement the other, and no detail was overlooked as being too unimportant.

An out-sized pool runs diagonally across the large site. Space is ample for a large patio and garden.

More Psychiatry Study Urged

By Ben Zinser

Independent, Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

PSYCHOTHERAPY (communication with a patient) appears to have little beneficial effect on some conditions such as child and adolescent delinquency.

The observation is that of Dr. Hugh A. Storrow of the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

Dr. Storrow, a former Long Beach resident, reports in the Southern Medical Journal that conventional psychotherapeutic techniques leave a lot to be desired, and that more effort and money should be devoted to psychiatric research.

Already, he says, new psychiatric techniques show promise and should be checked out. Eight out of 10 neurotics are being helped, he says, by a technique in which the therapist insists on changes in behavior. In addition, the psychiatrist focuses more on current problems than on earlier difficulties.

ANOTHER CAUSE of hay fever has been discovered: airborne algae.

Two Texas doctors reported the newly implicated culprit to a meeting of the American College of Allergists.

The doctors began their research after two other scientists informed them that algae, a water contaminant, can be blown about by the wind.

They studied four strains of green algae and performed skin tests with them on 120 allergic children. Ninety-eight of the youngsters showed positive reactions to the tests.

So the doctors now believe that algae, when airborne, can act as molds and pollen do to cause hay fever.

A patient recently developed a ringing in the ear after using a new electric shaver. Was the noise from the razor responsible?

Very unlikely, says a consultant to the AMA Journal, Dr. Aram Glorig Jr.

Dr. Glorig says that the intensity of sound from a razor at close range would produce a hearing loss in the high frequencies only under the following condition: Exposure of 50 minutes or more a day for 10 or more years.

FOR WHAT is believed the first time, health officials have found rabies in the flying squirrel.

Health officers isolated rabies virus from a flying squirrel captured in Pinellas County, Fla., according to Public Health Reports.

The creature was captured one afternoon by three boys fishing in a canal north of St. Petersburg. It fell to the ground under a tree, and two of the boys were bitten while handling the animal.

His Gun Wears Indian Magic

By Betty Hardesty

O. J. (JACK) PINNELL'S Wild-West six-shooter was used as a five-shooter by its first owner, the outlaw Bill McWhorter. That was because it had no trigger and one shell chamber was kept as a "safety" when the gun was fully loaded. "Bill thumbed it," Pinnell explains as he points out how the "rearing Colt" trademark was worn off the left side of the gun's grip by the outlaw's thumb slipping down as he fired.

Jack tells story after true story about the Old West while he shows his gun at his home, 233 Covina Ave. Now a retired police sergeant, he cherishes this 85-year-old, single-action Colt "Peacemaker" .45-caliber and its hand-made, leather holster. The belt, 3½ inches wide, folded double and sewn at the top edge, has cartridge loops and a large, flat, iron buckle. The holster, decorated with concha buttons and leather thongs, also carries a hunting knife in a scabbard fastened to it.

"This is the way it was when my dad first got it way back in 1884," Jack relates, "when he was a cowhand on a Texas ranch."

WILEY E. PINNELL, Jack's father, was born in 1856 on the banks of the Stanislaw River in Tulare County. When he was 25 he took charge of driving 3,000 sheep to Texas, from May to December by way of Death Valley, Wyoming and New Mexico.

When the sheep were sold, one of the Mexican herders attempted to rob the owner but succeeded only in killing him. Thus out of work, Wiley stayed at Tascosa, Texas, where he acquired the nickname of 'California" and before long, a new boss. "California," seeing a couple of fellows "double up" on a cowman in a poker game, stepped in to stop it. The grateful cowman was the boss of the LIT Cattle Co. and gave Wiley Pinnell a job which he kept for three years.

In 1881, the outfit hired a new hand, Bill McWhorter, a wanted murderer. Three different times, Texas Rangers raided the outfit in search of the outlaw but he never bedded down in camp," Jack explains.

During a long cattle drive to Dodge City for shipment, McWhorter told Wiley how he saved a sick and starving Indian tribe by shooting game for them. It was for this kindness that the medicine-man had put a spell on the Colt Peacemaker "so no man carrying it could be killed."

Nevertheless, the outlaw lost patience with his gun when one day he fired five shots into the head of a steer and only broke its jaw. The next day when he thumbed five shots at a flock of turkeys without hitting one, he asked to borrow "Cal's" gun. Killing one immediately, he wanted to trade for keeps, sat down, took off the trigger and put it on the "Peacemaker," keeping his weapon triggerless.

AFTER THE DRIVE, Wiley went back to California, married and settled down as a blacksmith. The gun, however, continued to shoot its way through a series of violent episodes in the hands of the notorious outlaw, Jim McKinney, who got it from a bartender friend of Wiley's. With this gun, McKinney killed his best friend and kidnaped a 16-year-old boy to drive him from Porterville to Visalia. After acquiring a horse and saddle, he disappeared only to be apprehended later in Bakersfield.

This was when two Kern County deputies having shot a horseman they believed to be McKinney, followed a man who came to a drug store for carbolic acid solution to clean a wound. McKinney was "forted up" in a Chinese Joss House and in the gun battle he killed officer Bill Tibbett, father of Lawrence Tibbett, the opera singer, and another lawman.

A blast of buckshot fired by Bert Tibbett sheared off the outlaw's walrus mustache, another killed him. "McKinney was using a rifle," as Jack Pinnell tells it, "and had laid aside the gun which, by Indian medicine, gave immunity to its wearer." When Wiley Pinnell took his "Peacemaker" home he told his growing sons many stories about it. Thus Jack ac-

Casserole in the Mood of Spring

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

THIS TIME of year, clever is the homemaker who rations her indoor time to give her more outdoor time by having simple, prepare-in-a-jiffy lunches. Such is Spring Asparagus Delight, a casserole of cooked asparagus, hard cooked eggs and cheese and topped with herb-seasoned crumbs of bite-sized, toasted corn cereal. Cook the asparagus and eggs at dinnertime the night before and season the crumbs, but don't add them until the casserole is ready for the oven.

Herb-seasoned corn crumbs are so good that you'll want to keep them in the refrigerator at all times for quick casseroles and for coating fish and chops. Use marjoram part of the time and thyme or basil other times. The combination of cooked vegetables, leftover or otherwise, condensed soup and bite-sized, toasted corn cereal crumbs will be one of the best of rationing tools all summer long.

For the rest of the menu: franks on buns, relishes and strawberry ice cream with cookies. If there are teen-agers in the family, they might be interested in grilling the outside for extra flavor.

Made with asparagus, hard-cooked eggs, cream of celery soup, herb-seasoned crumbs, Spring Asparagus Delight is a pleasing casserole. Serve with franks and relishes.

Spring Asparagus Delight

1 can (10½ oz.) cream of celery soup
½ cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
¼ teaspoon and ¼ teaspoon ground marjoram
2 cups cooked cut green asparagus (save 2 tablespoons cooking liquid)
3 hard cooked eggs, sliced
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1½ cups bite-sized toasted corn cereal crushed to 1 cup

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees). Butter a 1-quart or 5 individual casseroles. Blend together soup, cheese, ¼ teaspoon marjoram and asparagus liquid. Carefully mix in asparagus and eggs. Pour into casserole. Combine butter and ¼ teaspoon marjoram. Add cereal crumbs. Stir to coat evenly. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake 40 minutes or until bubbly. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

NUT TORTE wins $5 for Mrs. Elsie Rodman for the best recipe submitted this week. The recipe:

Nut Torte

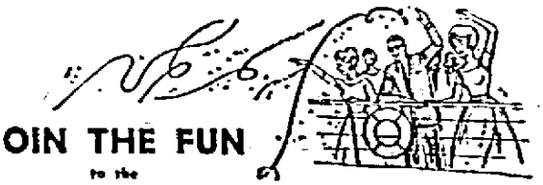

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1½ cups sifted flour
3 egg yolks
½ tsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. lemon rind

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead until rolling consistency. Roll dough between wax paper to fit 8x12 shallow baking pan. Brush lightly with slightly beaten egg white. Bake in 375 degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove from oven and cool. Spread with thin layer of apricot preserves.

6 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
2 cups ground walnuts
2 tblsp. flour
1 tsp. vanilla
6 egg whites beaten stiff

Beat egg whites until stiff, set aside. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon color. Add walnuts and flour, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread over apricot mixture. Bake in 375 degree oven for about 15 minutes or until light brown. Cut in 2-inch squares.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the women. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram Southland Magazine, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12.

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"What it will cost us to ship a car home from England and the tax and how you do it. . . ."

FIRST, you don't pay any British tax when you buy the car. As long as you get it out of the country within a year. (British tax is about half the cost!)

You pay American Customs duty at 8½ per cent on the value. If you've driven the car, it's second-hand. You don't pay as much as for a new car. So drive it 100 miles.

Shipping costs depend on size—but roughly $200 should do it. The place where you buy the car should make all shipping arrangements. And make it early. Space gets pretty tight toward August when all the tourists are heading home.

"We hear it's difficult to get tickets to the Folies Bergere in Paris. . . ."

It does get filled up in the summer season. Forty per cent of the business is American. (In my opinion, this show is plenty overrated — they make so much money they're not trying anymore).

The concierge at your hotel (tip five francs) will probably come up with a pair.

If you don't make it, see the Casino de Paris. Same thing. Semi-nudes in big production scenes. The Lido night club has an excellent show for the cost of one bottle of champagne.

And Naturistes and Chez Eve in Place Pigalle are more close up. Add your check yourself. The waiters flunked math.

"If you could suggest some place in America, not too hot in the summer, for a vacation?"

I am high on Grand Teton National Park in the cool, high Rockies. Price ranges from $20 in the plush lodges to a few dollars a day in half tent, half cabin camps where you can rent cots, cook on open fires and fish the lakes or the Snake River. Information booklets from Cerwin Organization, Phelan Building, San Francisco.

Farm Vacations, 500 Fifth Ave., New York City. (50 cents) lists all kinds of places, from dude ranches to working farms that take guests.

"You wrote about a place to get caviar in Hong Kong."

That was the Parisian Grill. Refugees were bringing it down from Harbin — they weren't allowed to take out money and caviar was negotiable. But no more. It comes in from Iran and the price has gone up to New York rates.

You can get Sydney Rock oysters there, though. Flown in alive from Australia.

Puerto Rico: Land of Paradoxes

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO

COLUMBUS discovered this unbelievably beautiful Caribbean paradise in 1493. In 1962, it will be rediscovered by 400,000 Americans who will scarcely believe what they see.

For Puerto Rico, only about 6 hours out of Los Angeles International Airport aboard a Delta Air Lines' swift 880 Convair, is, indeed, a land of gratifying paradoxes.

Just a little more than a decade ago, Puerto Rico was called the "poorhouse of the Caribbean." There was virtually no industry. Agriculture was practically the only source of wealth, and sugar cane was the main crop.

Average per capita income was so low ($121 a year) that Puerto Ricans were swarming to the United States at the rate of 60,000 a year.

FOMENTO: Then the United States decided it was time to "do something," and inaugurated "Operation Bootstrap" (called Fomento down here) under the Economic Development Administration.

In only a few years, Fomento had harnessed rivers and streams to provide pure water supplies and electrical power for farm and home, factory and office. It added thermal power stations to hydroelectric systems, built a network of modern highways, airports, and made the harbors more accessible to the ships plying the Atlantic-Caribbean sea lanes.

Carolyn Martin

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Martin of 5103 Monlaco Road, Miss Carolyn J. Martin has graduated as a United Air Lines hostess and now is serving aboard Mainliners flying from Washington, D.C. Miss Martin is a graduate of Millikan High School and attended Long Beach State and La Verne College.

Slums, once the shame of neglect by the American government, have almost completely disappeared. In their place, vast FHA housing developments dot the island and continue to spread.

But Fomento's main job has been to stimulate private investment, and in a way that it will make private enterprise "not a sacred cow but a productive and contented one."

BY USING government funds to help private enterprise, Fomento not only has raised the per capita income to more than $600 a year, but has made Puerto Rico a model of what can be done in underdeveloped countries. Virtually every Central and South American country has sent officials and delegations here to see and study how the remarkable transition was accomplished.

Migration out of Puerto Rico has dwindled to less than 15,000 annually, and many natives in the exodus of a few years ago are returning to the island.

New industry is the reason why most Puerto Ricans, now working and living under vastly improved conditions, hold up their heads and say proudly that they are Americans.

A total of 153 new manufacturing plants were recruited in the first nine months of fiscal 1962 alone, providing 10,000 more jobs. The Commonwealth's government economists are confident that the gross national product in the current fiscal year will reach the level of $2 billion, a rise of 9 per cent over a year ago and one of the highest growth rates in the world.

THIS MEANS significant increases, too, in bank deposits, government revenues, wage and salary payments, construction activity and electric energy production.

Puerto Rico, as a result, has become one of the best customers in the world for U.S.-made products — more than $763 million a year, of which $75 million comes from the Far West states.

Remarkable? Everyone who comes to see, thinks so, when it is remembered that this extraordinary progress was made in the face of the worst conditions of poverty in the world.

It is important to remember, too, that it was all done by democratic methods in close association with the United States, but by initiative of the Puerto Ricans themselves.

Puerto Rico, you may or may not know, is a self-governing commonwealth, officially proclaimed so July 25, 1952. Its 2,350,000 people are American citizens, and its government resembles that of California and other states. However, it has no voting representation in Congress and its citizens do not vote for President. In keeping with the principle of "no taxation without representation," it is Master spy and counterfeit traitor in World War II is role played by William Holden, shown in scene from the film.

The World for His Stage

IF EVER William Shakespeare's observation that "All the world's a stage," had any meaning in the 20th century, it certainly would apply to a globe-circling actor named William Holden.

One of the screen's foremost stars, Holden has literally made the world his stage by appearing in more productions filmed in more foreign lands than any other actor in or out of Hollywood.

In June he'll be on his way to Paris to join co-star Audrey Hepburn in Paramount's "Together in Paris." In recent years his motion picture portrayals have taken him to such diverse locales as the historic shores of England, the parched African veldt, the sweltering jungles of Ceylon and the teeming British Crown Colony of Hong Kong.

With Paramount's forthcoming Technicolor adventure and suspense film, "The Counterfeit Traitor," Holden once again packs his bags to enact the sort of tension-filled role that has become his stamp. This time his travels take him through Germany, Denmark and Sweden in a World War II saga which recounts the true exploits of one of the Allies' most important espionage agents.

While Holden readily admits that making films abroad has its pleasures and advantages, enough unpredictable inconveniences occur to make anyone, tourist or professional, absolutely miserable.

"IN BERLIN," says Holden, "my hotel accommodations were first-rate. Unfortunately, my window overlooked the Berlin Zoo which had a prized seal who insisted on marking reveille in the middle of the night. I had entertained the thought of presenting my wife with a seal coat before we left."

Holden believes the inconveniences are totally insignificant if a picture can achieve a certain amount of authenticity and excitement. Today, that excitement can no longer be generated exclusively on a Hollywood sound stage. If the picture is about Paris, film it on the Champs Elysee; if about London, shoot it in Piccadilly; if it's about New York, make it there and if it's about a spy inside war-torn Europe, make it in Europe.

Strife-ridden Germany is the setting for "The Counterfeit Traitor." Holden portrays American-born Eric Erickson, who became a Swedish citizen and ultimately a master spy for the Allies. In this capacity, Erickson was able to obtain valuable oil secrets from the Nazis which enabled American and British bombers to locate and destroy gasoline refineries. This curtailed the fuel supply to the Luftwaffe and shortened the war by many months.

More than 53 different locations were used. In Berlin, scenes were filmed along the banks of the River Spree which separates East and West Berlin and in front of No. 116 Kurfurstendam, which was Adolph Eichmann's headquarters during the height of the Nazi regime.

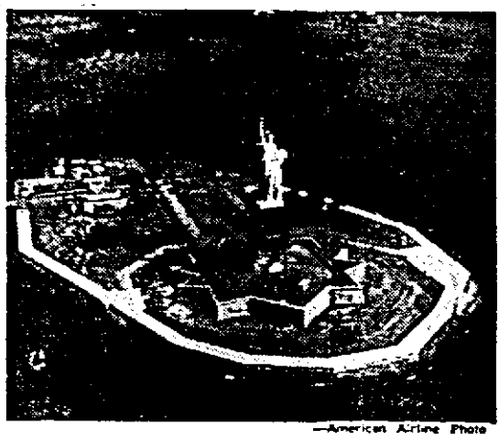

IN HAMBURG, the company filmed scenes along numerous streets, at the Jung Oil Refineries and along Herbertstrasse, its famed waterfront, red-light district. Additional segments were filmed in and around Copenhagen and Stockholm.

"It was an amazing experience," says Holden. "Shooting in three countries and in dozens of different locales required the same amount of logistical support as a major military campaign. Air transports took us from city to city where we picked up actors, technical crew and equipment. This film took more precision planning than anything within recent memory."

Of course, many things were left to chance. One of them was the weather.

"Since we weren't filming in sunny California, we were subject to the whims of the rain gods all the time. But this was just the sort of thing we used. Instead of waiting for the weather to clear, we filmed in the rain. What we didn't bargain for was the severe winter of 1960-61. Our production ground to a halt and we had to return to Stockholm last summer to finish the picture."

"The Counterfeit Traitor" is a Perlberg-Seaton Technicolor production for Paramount release. The film also stars Lilli Palmer and Hugh Griffith. It was produced by William Perlberg and directed by George Seaton from his own screen play.

Liberty Walkway Proposed

Because Liberty Island and its famous statue are only 200 yards off the New Jersey shore, a congressman from that state wants a causeway built so that visitors to the island can walk there. At present, visitors must go to downtown Manhattan and take a ferry. An exit at Jersey City on the New Jersey turnpike is convenient for motorists, the solon states. He'd also want a national park established on the shoreline, shown here in background.

Puerto Rico

not subject to U.S. federal income taxes.

BUT WHAT ABOUT tourist accommodations? A little more than a decade ago Puerto Rico had 507 hotel rooms, less than 65,000 visitors a year, and an annual tourism income of $7 million.

During the past year, Puerto Rico's hotel accommodations totaled more than 3,500 rooms, 343,000 tourists who spent $54 million.

This year will see hotel accommodations expanded by another 2,000 rooms through investments of more than $58 million.

Many of the bigger hostelries, such as Laurance Rockefeller's Dorado Beach Hotel, have been more than 92 per cent full since last October.

More and more vacationists from the West Coast are arriving on the island, and still more are expected with the Delta Air Lines' new one-stop (New Orleans) service from Los Angeles, inaugurated May 2, four times weekly.

DISTANCE FROM Los Angles to San Juan—via Delta's sleek 880 Convairs — is 3,586 miles. We flew the 1,671-mile lap to Moisant International Airport, New Orleans, in three hours; the remaining 1,785 miles in three hours, five minutes and seven seconds. All wonderfully smooth sailing, deliciously different meals, and service out of this world.

(Next week, more about life on Puerto Rico — its hotels, sports, night life, and the people themselves.)

You Ask, We Answer

By Hoslin

Q. Does a person always become unconscious when hypnotized? N. B.

A. No. There are various stages or degrees of hypnosis, which may be grouped as light, medium and deep stages. In the light stage, which is adequate for most medical purposes, the patient is completely relaxed but entirely aware of what is going on. Even a patient in deep hypnosis knows what is happening about him, and can remember these occurrences when hypnotized later and asked about them.

Q. Does a copyright protect the subject matter of a published factual article, so that nobody else can write on the same topic? M. S.

A. No. An idea, fact or topic cannot in itself be protected by copyright. A copyright protects the way in which the subject is presented, but not the subject matter itself. Copyright covers the relationship of words, sentences, paragraphs, etc., to each other, and the choice of language.

Q. How long does it take concrete to dry out completely? C. C.

A. Very little concrete ever dries completely, except possibly concrete in the interior of an artificially heated building. Even in this case, some residual moisture remains in the concrete, depending on the temperature and humidity of the surrounding air. Concrete exposed to normal outdoor conditions is wetted from time to time and therefore contains a larger amount of moisture.

Q. Is there a specific difference between a tree and a shrub? D. R.

A. There is no clear-cut distinction. A plant that reaches a height of 10 or 15 feet and is inclined to develop a single stem or trunk is likely to be called a tree, whereas a plant of the same height that has several branches coming from the root is generally called a shrub. Plants that are less than 8 feet high at maturity are usually classed as shrubs, and those which grow to 20 feet or more are ordinarily called trees.

Busiest Airport

Frankfurt's airport is the busiest in Germany, reports the German Tourist Office. Some 2,570,000 passengers passed through the terminal in 1961, or 18.3 per cent more than the previous year. Almost 10,000 landings were clocked.

Candid Observations on Life

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

INTRODUCING conversation "by the backstairs of his own writing," Clifton Fadiman offers his candid observations and considered judgments on life and the multitudinous things which make it what it is in "ENTER, CONVERSING," a collection of 32 essays (World, $5).

Here are a few of his conversational thoughts:

On celebrities: "As a general thing intellectuals make poorish celebrities—they don't seem to have the brains for it."

On satellites: "Are satellites the issue of a basic scientific curiosity? Or is this attempt to communicate with the nonhumanity of outer space merely a confession of our failure to communicate with each other, a cry of despair that we pretend is a shout of triumph?"

On travel: "Travel, though a minor art, is still an art and should be undertaken in the spirit of the artist. Each traveler-artist has a style proper to himself."

On life: "For most men, life is a search for the proper manila folder in which to get themselves filed."

"Gold! We leapt from our benches. Gold! We scrambl'd from our stools. Gold! We wheeled in the furrow, fired with the faith of fools. Fearless, unfounded, unfitted, far from the night and the cold, Heard we the clarion summons, followed the master-lure—GOLD!"

WITH Robert Service's famous lines, Lowell Thomas Jr. opens his latest book, "THE TRAIL OF '98: An Anthology of the Klondike" (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $3.95).

Although most of the men who followed the lure of gold to the Klondike were a rough-and-tumble lot, the Yukon also attracted an unusual number of first-rate writers in addition to Service, including the novelists Jack London and Rex Beach, William Ogilvie, who became first commissioner of the region, and T. A. Rickard, the geologist. Selections from their writings are included, giving a cross section of life in the remote camps and lusty boom towns.

FOR THE DOMESTICATED male who has everything, on Father's Day give him "MAN IN APRON" with cartoons by Terence Parkes of Punch fame. This pocket-sized funny manual is dedicated to man's way of doing things from setting the table with a magnet to carry the silverware to using a power sander to ice the cake. It convulsed England and the continent and is currently undermining American woman's confidence in man as a kitchen helpmate (Stephen Green Press, $1).

"THE TENTH YEAR OF THE SHIP" by Norman Lewis (Harcourt, Brace & World, $4.50) tells how the coming of civilization ruined the land baron on an island paradise.

With steamer service came union trouble, a peasant rebellion, new tractors, tourists, a cannery and adultery.

There are so many sideplots involving the family and other holdings of rich and powerful Don Flavio Tur that a reader almost needs a chart to keep track of the happenings.

But the book makes a magnificent case that progress and freedom do not always breed good things—sometimes they just cause more breeding.

"THE WORLD OF ICE" by James Dyson (Knopf, $6.95) is the story of the ice age in which we still are living—the last half-million years or so. It is the story of ice sheets in Antarctica, Greenland and the Arctic islands; of streams of ice in high mountains all over the world; of icebergs; of pack ice and ice islands drifting over the Polar seas, and of frozen ground beneath the land. More than that, it tells how ice has affected mankind in the past, and how it will continue to do so in the future. It is illustrated with 83 photographs and several charts and drawings.

AUTHOR GERALD GREEN has a hilarious rib-tickler in "THE PORTOFINO P.T.A." (Scribner's, $3.95).

Green recounts the misadventures when he, his wife and three children chucked their split level, suburban

Cactus Unlimited

By Adelaide K. Roeslein

THERE'S a disease about called cactusitis. Don't worry. It isn't fatal. In fact, it's lots of fun.

From the early 30s, until his death on October 5, 1957, cactusities has been responsible for providing a good livelihood for Howard Gates of Norco. Neighbors who knew him well say that Gates was not only very seriously inflicted with cactusitis himself, but that he transformed many otherwise perfectly "normal" individuals into cactomaniacs, which is just another word for cactus collectors.

Gates became afflicted with "cactusitis" in 1929 when he attended a cactus show in Pasadena. By 1930, he had become so seriously addicted that he was making many exploring trips to find new specimens to add to his collection. His main field of exploration was Mexico and Lower California, but on three trips he even traveled as far south as the Guatemalan border. When all this began to get rather expensive, he started his "Cactus Gardens" to help finance his exploring trips. But his venture grew until finally his annual sales ran into millions of dollars. On his 15-acre farm at 2514 Hillside Ave. in Norco, just north of Corona, Gates grew his cactus and shipped it all over the world. He discovered more than 20 different types of hitherto unknown varieties of cactus, and developed a number himself, some of which are named after him. His friends came to call him "The King of Cactus Growers."

Because of rugged conditions in which cacti grow in their native areas, culture at home is far from exhausting hobby.

Desert areas are a source of materials for some "cactomaniacs" but others prefer just to buy plants for their hobby.

CACTI grow in all sorts of shapes—some so outlandish and ugly that they are beautiful. Some grow in such grotesquely achitectural shapes that they give you the feeling that you are not "growing" the plant, but "building" it.

Cactus seed is expensive, and since there is no regular source of seed, most cactus enthusiasts must collect their own. Gates' seed room boasts of thousands of dollars worth of seed, most of which he collected himself.

Since the cactus fruit has a habit of exploding when ripe and throwing the seed in all directions, he developed a plastic cone which he placed over ripening fruit to catch the seeds.

Seeds are planted first in flats, and, after sprouting, are transplanted several times before they are considered large enough and strong enough to be sold.

Gates Cactus, Inc., is still being carried on at the same address, but his son, the Rev. Morgan Gates, is now president of the enterprise. However, he lives in Torrance where other interests keep him busy, and he visits the Cactus Gardens about once every week or two. He has an able staff there to carry on the business and to discuss the various species with the thousands of people who visit the cactus gardens every year.

GRADE CARD

TV vs. Reading

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

WHAT EFFECT does TV have on the reading habits of American youngsters?

There's little agreement among the experts on that one.

For example, Ralph S. Graber, an English instructor at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., said not long ago that he has noticed TV's adverse influence in the papers of his students.

"With increased television viewing, the student hears many new words and expressions which he has never seen in print," said Graber. "Since he does very little reading, he has no idea that he is using the wrong word, for he has never seen the expression in print and thus has no knowledge of the correct word."

On the other hand, the Robert Palmer Corp., sales training and industrial relations publishers of Santa Barbara, recently reported that between 1947 and 1957, when TV viewing was emerging as a popular pastime, the sale of juvenile books increased 400 per cent.

The corporation's report said:

"Television's success depends upon attracting large numbers of people. It touches many subjects, rarely covering any in real detail. Thus, instead of taking the place of reading, TV has encouraged it."

It seems clear to us that a sensible diet of television can increase a child's understanding of words and ideas and the world around him.

But if taken in excessive doses, it blocks out other sources of education. Obviously, the child who spends every spare minute watching TV has no time for reading books or engaging in any other activity.

IN SHORT, TV is one of those things which, if taken in moderation, can do no harm and may do good.

A mother called us recently and complained that her son is lagging in school. She correctly attributed his poor progress to the fact that he neglects his homework. Instead, he watches television for hours every evening.

Here we have simply a question of discipline. In a case such as this, the answer is quite clear:

Require that homework be done and checked before the TV set is turned on. And if you want to encourage your child to spend more time on reading, post a TV-watching schedule which thrusts upon the child some time that needs to be used. Then make the books available, and observe the pleasing results.

(If you wish assistance in helping your child to do good work in school, mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in this "Grade Card" column.)

installed, was substantially greater on the beam sections over the cable ones, the survey shows.

In the case of the Santa Ana Freeway experiment, total accidents increased slightly after the cable barrier was installed but injury accidents on that stretch did not go up materially.

On the beam-barrier section, the injury accident rate jumped 53 per cent. (Engineers, however, noted that all the increase did not appear to have been caused by the barrier.)

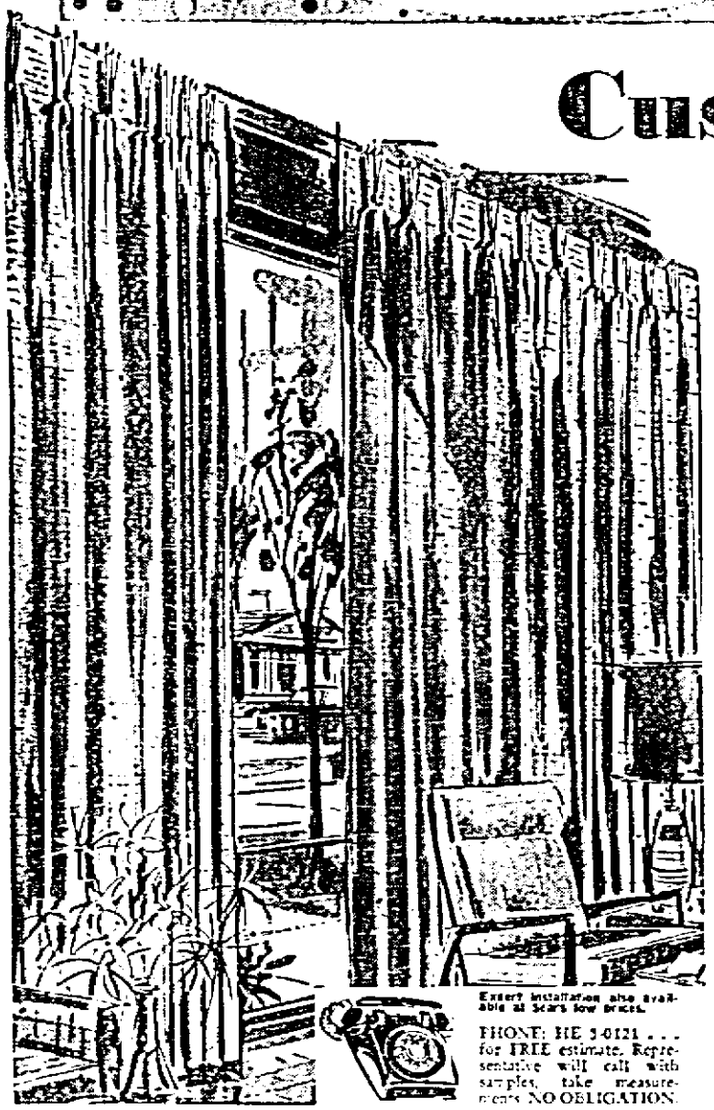

ENGINEERS ALSO have found that impact tests on the two kinds of barriers indicate crashes into the cable-type should result in fewer and less severe injuries than into the unyielding beam.

Initial cost of the cable barrier also is substantially lower than the beam type although it was found to require more in maintenance costs. The maintenance, however, was more than offset by the initial saving.

Pinnell has this photo of his father's blacksmith shop in California's 1890s. His father, Wiley, acquired McWhorter's gun in a trade on a Texas drive to Dodge City.

Magic Gun

quired a keen interest in Western history as well as a special love for that gun.

Jack was raised on a ranch in Madera County where he learned about horses and guns from the time he could walk. In World War I, he shod horses and boxed for extra cash. He boxed from the age of 19 and lost only seven fights out of 200 in 19 years. Spider Kelly said of Jack, "He had the hardest right cross I ever saw in the ring."

With a background like this, it was natural for Jack to go into the police force when he returned to Bakersfield, then his family's home. Of course, he carried his old Peacemaker which protected him in many gun battles on the force. He recounts how, on the sixth day of his police service, he engaged in a 300-yard distance running battle with an Italian murderer whom he hit five times out of six shots.

On the night of Sept. 23, 1917 (Jack remembers dates well), when he and his partner were fired-on, one bullet struck his partner's arm, another went through Jack's left coat pocket. However, true to its reputation, the old Wild West six-shooter found its mark in the doperunner. "That guy also smuggled Chinese into U.S. and drowned them when chased by a Coast Guard boat," adds Jack. But that's another story.

Brown Lawn Spots

Lawns develop brown spots for a variety of reasons—from compaction or fertilizer burn, from fungus or sod webworm.

If you have this trouble with your lawn, first try by your own appraisal to determine if soil is compacted, and if you decide it is, use a spiker or corer to remedy the trouble.

If compaction doesn't seem likely, ask your nurseryman for a spray to kill sod webworms. Chances are good that one or another of these remedies will work.

Fuchsia Reward

Constant moisture and frequent feeding is rewarded with prolific bloom on fuchsias. Use a spray when watering and give the leaves a shower as well as the roots.

Members of the California Association of Nurserymen suggest mulching around fuchsias with steer manure or peat moss as a moisture conserving measure. Use a two or three-inch mulch.

As for feeding, liquid fish or a soluble commercial fertilizer enables you to do the job without having to scratch around the near-surface roots.

She's a Big Girl Now

When the earth shifts from its axis the results are cataclysmic. This is the situation in "The Day the Earth Caught Fire," and brings former Walt Disney child actress, Janet Munro (above), before the camera as a full-fledged dramatic actress. She plays the feminine lead opposite Leo McKern and Edward Judd in the Val Guest film, English produced and Universal released.

Book Reviews

Long Island home life for a fling at Portofino, Italy.

Green, intent on going continental because a blonde model called him a square, is both a clever and able writer. And, unlike many authors who try to be amusing, Green knows how to be funny.

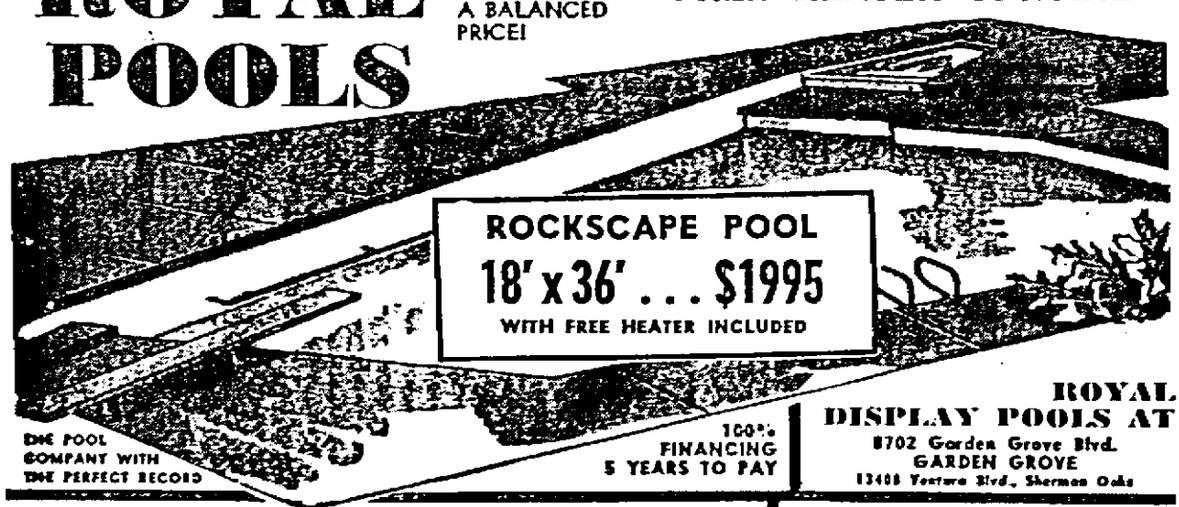

Despite the title, there's just one thing missing: No P-T.A. in Portofino.

TWO EXCELLENT books on photography do much to make the subject of interest to a wide range of readers. "TOTAL PICTURE CONTROL" by Andreas Feininger (Crown, $7.50) tells by word and picture many important ways to make better pictures. Some of the topics: which camera is best for photographing a specific subject; what type of lens to use; how to control contrast and color, which filters to use and what various kinds will do; how to achieve best depth results; how to create impressions of motion, action, danger and speed; how to provide a picture with scale and how to improve composition. "THE AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER'S HANDBOOK" by Aaron Sussman is the sixth revised edition published by Thomas Y. Crowell Co. ($5.95). It contains late information about new cameras and equipment and recent data about developing, color slides and films, projectors, black and white films, low-light exposure meters, latest advances in modern photography, such as the light value scale, films of foreign countries, new film speed and developer combinations.

Fusion in New Pottery

DESIGNS of Japan and America combine in new pottery imports this season. The condiment set utilizes cherrywood, bamboo and porcelain for its oriental-western effect. The tea pot makes use of a bamboo handle while the cup and saucer combines color in the cup, a white porcelain dish and a bamboo holder.

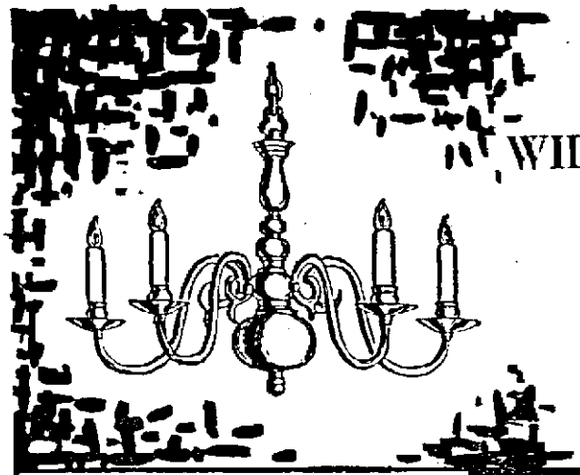

Condiment set, $5. Tea pot (for 8 cups) $6. In colors, $6.50, pumpkin, charcoal, black, mink, orange, green, teal blue. Cup and saucer (charcoal cup) $26.40 a dozen.

Freeman-Lederman, a California partnership, was the first giftware manufacturer to conceive of these contemporary designs to be made in Japan.

The giftware is sold in department stores throughout the United States and Canada.

Japanese and American design is combined in condiment and tea sets which are new among imports this season.

Lucky Adam: Eve Didn't Drive

By J. D. Ritchie

YOU don't hear as much talk about women drivers as you used to. In fact, there hasn't been a new women driver joke in nearly two years. The American male has apparently come to accept lady drivers with the same resignation he has come to accept women politicians, sonic booms, and fallout. They are one of the hazards to be endured in this highly complex civilization. It's all part of the big drive to grant equal rights and stamp out the double standard. This has been going on since Eve put the bite on Adam with an apple.

Recorded somewhere can probably be found the name of the first man to undertake to teach a woman to drive a car. It was most likely his wife. No doubt this pioneer really felt he was doing the world a favor. He's in the same category in my book as the football player who intercepts a pass and runs the wrong way for a touchdown. He thinks he's doing great, but his teammates aren't nearly as appreciative as he anticipated.

Most women (I said "most," mind you, not "all") are inept at operating motor vehicles. I can offer this generalization from years of hazardously close observation. I maintain that woman's psychological make-up is 91 and 4 one-hundredths per cent of the trouble. Technically and scientifically, women have progressed a relatively short distance since time began. A great percentage of them wouldn't even know which end of a wheelbarrow to push.

THERE ARE exceptions, of course. An 87-year-old lady in Sacramento was taught to drive by her husband early last spring. Later on, she went back east and came in sixth in the Memorial Day race. This, however, is a very isolated case.

Wives who have not learned to drive before their marriage seem most immune to acquiring this skill. Being a married man, I do not have an explanation for this.

About a year after we were married, my young bride dropped a subtle hint that she'd like to learn to drive. At first, I was all for the idea. She could do the Saturday shopping; leaving me free for a round of golf. She acquired a learner's permit and we set out on our maiden voyage, my beloved at the helm.

All went pretty, smoothly. We drove across only two sidewalks (neither of which contained pedestrians), and made only one left turn from a right-hand lane. When we got back home, my wife turned into the driveway, holding well off the curbing. I was about to congratulate her when she parked the car in our one-car garage—crosswise. I still don't have the slightest idea how she got the car into the garage in that position. I also didn't have the slightest idea how I would get it out. She smiled sweetly and said, "Thank you, it looks like driving will be a lot of fun."

MY NEIGHBOR came over and helped me knock out the garage wall. After that, I went to bed with a sick headache. It was a week before I felt strong enough to face another training session.

My father was a brave, patient man. Although he taught my mother to drive with some degree of expertness, he never was able to break her of the habit of relying on her female intuition when dashing out of side streets. She would pull up to the stop sign, stop, and without looking either direction, roar out into whatever traffic was unfortunate enough to be passing. She never had an accident that I know of, but she sometimes would frighten a Greyhound bus on to the courthouse lawn in our home town.

I followed a woman driver for six blocks the other day. Her arm was out the window, bent about 45 degrees at the elbow, wrist turned downward, and forefinger pointing straight up. About the only thing I could interpret from this signal was that the window was open. At the end of six blocks, she pulled over to the curb and touched up her lipstick. A woman's hands can be beautifully expressive, unless she happens to be driving the car ahead of you.

Most women can't keep the hand signals straight. Is it up for right and down for left? Or, down for stop and out for right? They seldom think it's too important, anyway. After all, any fool can tell which way they are turning just by watching.

WOMEN seldom know much about the components of the horseless carriage, either. Most of them think you cool an engine by stripping the gears. I overheard my mother tell my wife that you determine the horsepower of an engine by counting the plugs.

Last month my car started acting more contrary than usual. It jumped, stuttered, and made an earful of odd noises. Being something of a Saturday afternoon mechanic, I decided to take the case and save myself a costly repair bill.

After I had been draped across the fender for about an hour, checking first one thing and another, my wife came out.

"Found the trouble yet?"

"No," I wiped grease from my hand onto my face.

"It's probably the spark plug wires," she said matter-of-factly, not coming within 10 feet of the engine.

"That is undoubtedly the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard," I snorted. 'Nothing ever goes wrong with spark plug wires."

She gave me the old if-you-know-so-much-why-aren't-you-rich look and went back into the house.

I worked on the car for another two hours; at the end of which time it refused to run at all. I gave up and called a mechanic.

After he had repaired the car and had it running smoothly once more, I asked him what had been ailing the critter.

"The distributor, eh?"

"Naw," he said, cleaning his hands on my steering wheel. "The insulation on your spark plug wires was shot."

He collected $23.35 and left.

A FEW YEARS ago, a statistician employed by one of the large automobile insurance companies stated that, per capita, women drivers had far fewer accidents than men. Immediately upon publishing these findings, he was shouted down by a multitude of fellow statisticians. They claimed he did not take a typical cross-section of the driving American public.

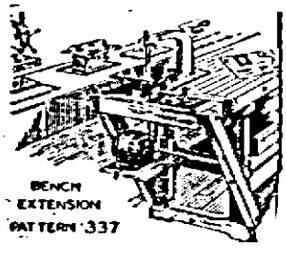

If I recall correctly, the uproar created by all this prompted Congress to appoint a committee to investigate the matter. Naturally, nothing of interest came of this.

As I said, that was some time ago. Nowadays, you don't hear as much about....

Gets in the Act

Inspired by the American example, Germany has begun to establish a system of nature preserves. Twelve national parks have been opened since 1956 and 22 more are projected. Largest of these recreation areas, reports the German Tourist Office, is the 400,000-acre Pfaelzer Wald in the Rhineland Palatinate. The fourteen parks in existence cover 2,664 square miles, or 2.7 per cent of West Germany's area.

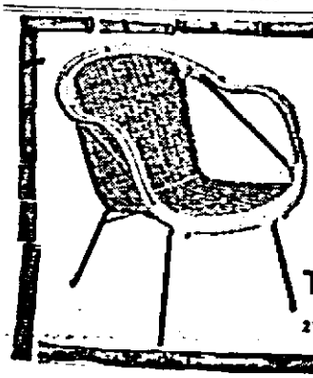

You Make It

One motor for all of your power tools may be mounted with this bench extension so that the weight of the motor regulates the pulley tension for each tool. Pattern 337, which gives construction details and directions for its use, is 35c. It is also in the Woodworkers Packet No. 56 with a work bench and tool cabinet patterns and a chart of wood joints—all for $1. Beauty is brought into colorful focus on silk in self-taught art by Mrs. Gerald (Shirley Lynn) Lindekugel.

Formula for Variety

By Walter Finch

SHIRLEY LYNN has found the magic formula for zest, enthusiasm—and a varied career.

Depending on the hour of the day, she is likely to be found in any of three different roles.

First, she is Mrs. Gerald R. Lindekugel, the attractive wife of a design engineer, and at home at 2221 Iroquois Ave.

Second, she is executive secretary to J. G. Scharer, vice president of marketing at Star-Kist Foods, Inc.

And last but not least, she is a busy artist.

Shirley, known both at work and among many of her friends and fellow artists as Shirley Lynn, (many persons find difficulty in pronouncing Lindekugel), personalizes her art under "Originals by Lynn." She is fast gaining recognition for both her beautiful paintings on silk and her artifical floral arrangements.

ALTHOUGH she studied oil paintings, specializing in portraiture, for several years, she taught herself how to paint on silk. Seemingly, the application of the silk to a proper backing, the type of paint to use, the kind of brushes and other processes are regarded as top secret.

Try as she did, no one would give her any information on "how to" when she first tried her hand at this rather difficult type of painting. She did research, read books and tried different techniques and approaches until she hit on a workable formula. She paints with Japanese brushes and uses special concentrated media.

The silk paintings are done for individual order only and are painted in the size, color scheme and subject matter wanted on a custom basis. She uses nature as her inspiration and then her creative ability and brush take over. She does not paint abstracts. Her silk paintings, which seem to incorporate a blending of the Occidental and Oriental, are painted to enhance any type of decor, contemporary, provincial, modern or Oriental. She also paints for several interior decorators, both here and in Beverly Hills. Some of her paintings have been bought by art galleries.

SEVERAL local photographers use her artificial floral arrangments when taking formal wedding portraits in their studies. Her driftwood and manzanita creations seem to be unlimited. In her home she has lamps made from driftwood—and bowls and containers made from discarded phonograph records.

Shirley is working on sketches and designs to be used by a Christmas card manufacturer in 1963.

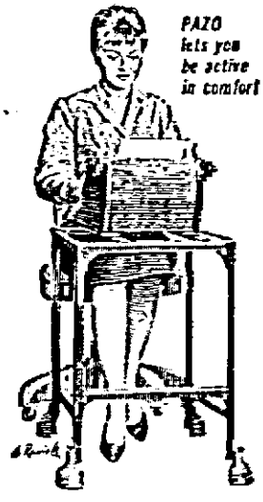

In her spare time she studies Japanese—she wants to know what she is inscribing when she incorporates Japanese written characters in her paintings.

Someone forgot to tell Shirley Lynn there are only 24 hours in a day.

We're not Magicians!

You may think we are . . .
when you see how fresh and vibrant your wall-to-wall carpeting and upholstery look after they have been cleaned by us . . . but our only magic is our professional and technical know-how.

CAMERA ANGLES

'Fun, Friends and Photos'

Poster advertising class he conducts is looked over by Carroll McGhee, City Recreation Dept. instructor.

By Marie Swenson

"ONE RULE" McGHEE is no polaroid playboy.

He will shoot from the hip, or any other angle, to get a candid picture with human interest.

His free adult camera class, which meets Monday evenings all year around at Silverado Park Recreation Hall, 31st Street and Santa Fe Avenue, has caught the spirit of Carroll McGhee's technique, along with his exhortation: "In this class, the one and only rule I have is that you get along with each other."

"Fun, Friends, and Photos" is the class motto, combining pleasure with the business of learning photography, based on McGhee's philosophy that, in this age, not only recreation but physical and mental activity are needed.

It was no easy jump from a deathbed verdict to a developing tank, because McGhee, a former square dance caller, photographer and magazine editor, knew the emptiness of inactivity, following two near-fatal operations.

A DESIRE to help others find release from frustration and physical handicaps, bore fruit when Long Beach Recreation Department officials, Duane George and Bob Van Antwerp, approached him to initiate a free photography class with a new twist.

His grass roots sociability and cracker barrel approach attracted visitors by word of mouth and, since its inception in May 1961, the class has grown from three to 125 members.

People from all walks of life meet informally to share ideas and techniques, talk shop, and participate eagerly when they shoot models, from movie chimps to show cuties, who drop in for a pose and a pot of coffee.

UNFETTERED by hard and fast rules of a confined, traditional classroom, nor marks of excellence or failure, professionals and beginners have one goal—to learn how to use their cameras effectively, from the old-fashioned box Brownie to the modern miniature.

Cameracade field trips include coverage of civic events, sports spectaculars, skin-diving feats, theater openings, hobby and flower shows, square and smooth dance exhibitions, art and camera centers.

Once a month, an "International Night" dinner, cooked by women class members, honors different nationalities composing its membership.

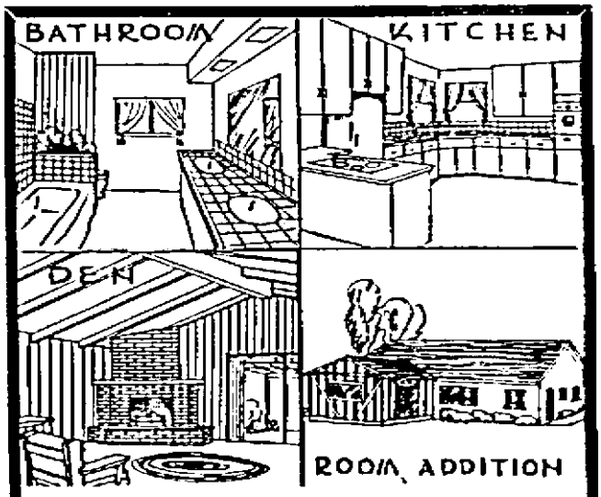

Silverado class turns lens on many subjects, from models in studio type sessions to trips far afield.

Spring Is for the Birds

Most gaily dressed of the falcons are sparrow hawks. They make interesting pets.

By Eleanor A. Price

ONE OF the many good things about spring is the abundance of young wild birds twittering in the garden. Occasionally you may find one that is injured or abandoned, and you will want to protect it. You are asking for a lot of work, for young birds are always hungry, but do what you can for it.

Put the bird in a box or wire cage with bedding of soft cloth or leaves. Keep it in a safe place out of drafts. You may need to seek advice from a bird fancier or veterinarian.

Some birds are grain and fruit eaters, others need meat such as tiny slivers of raw beef, chopped mealworms, and insects. All seem to enjoy small pieces of hard boiled egg yolk, baby chick mash moistened with water or milk, bread and milk. Tiny pieces of fruit may be tried. If the bird won't eat, hold food above its head and it may automatically drop its beak open. If not, gently force it open and push in small amounts of food with your fingers or tweezers.

MOST BIRDS should be released as soon as they can fly, but a few will adapt to captivity. The crow, for one, likes people, is fearless and intelligent. Of it Henry Ward Beecher remarked that if men wore feathers and wings only a few would be clever enough to be crows. This bird eats insects, worms, raw meat, fruit, vegetables, sprouting grain, mice, carrion, and will raid birds' nests for eggs and young.

Clip the crow's wings if you keep it as a pet. Give it daily baths in warm weather, sand baths in cold. Teach it to come for its meals, perhaps to say a few words. If you tire of it, let its wings grow back before you release it. It probably will visit you frequently, even bring along a flock of crows because crows stand together and help each other.

The sparrow hawk, with its high-pitched "killy-killy" makes a nice pet. It is the prettiest of all falcons and the male when mature wears slate-blue wings, red-brown coat and tail tipped with black and white, yellow legs and buff underparts spotted with black. The female is a bit less dressy.

YOU CAN cage the sparrow hawk in roomy quarters or clip its wings. As with the crow, don't release it until wings grow back. Feed it raw meat, egg yolk, grasshoppers, insects, spiders, worms. In captivity it may need to be hand fed, and it is a pretty good idea to wear gloves when handling it.

One seldom sees a barn owl, since it is nocturnal, but there are some in this area. (I found one in my yard.) It is a small owl but nevertheless should be handled with gloves. Feed it tiny pieces of mealworms (available at pet shops) by dropping them down its throat. A little milk may be given from a medicine dropper. An older owl needs slivers of raw meat.

BEVERLY RIVIERA Kennel Club dog show concludes today at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Obedience Club of San Diego County has a trial May 27 at Balboa Park, San Diego.

Bodie

tobacco plug cutters, soda bottles with glass stoppers, folding keys to fit in thick doors, lanterns, scales, silver-studded hearses and beautiful saddles.

SCATTERED around some of the vacant lots, vehicles of ancient vintage stand in various states of delapidation. They include carts, freight wagons, buggies and many others. Some of them were equipped with sleigh runners instead of wheels.

Bodie's days of glory have long since passed into limbo. But California currently is considering making this wind-whipped, sun-baked relic of another day into a state park. If this should occur "the town with no future" will be preserved for posterity. Otherwise the elements will continue their relentless destruction.

Now—a 2-way treatment helps clear up piles faster

Unlike some leading preparations, Paracin contains a local anesthetic that works in minutes to ease pain and stop itch. Reduces swelling and relieves pressure so piles can heal naturally.

PARACIN's complete home hemorrhoid treatment is the new way to ease the pain and itching of tender, swollen piles. This new special medication contains three ingredients prescribed by many doctors . . . to help nature clear up piles faster. PARACIN has been proved effective in clinical tests. It acts fast to relieve most painful hemorrhoid conditions.

PARACIN starts working fast to ease pain and stop itch. Soothes and cushions the irritation of piles. Makes movement less painful, more natural. Reduces swelling and helps protect against infection.

Now PARACIN gives you this special home treatment with both ointment and suppositories for internal and external application at the same time. By using the ointment externally before using the suppositories, you get the most complete relief. Sold with money-back guarantee.

The Forecast Is for Flowers

For cutting or for garden show, asters rank very high. Nurserymen advise planting them in good drainage areas.

By Joe Littlefield

WHEN showy Pacific hybrid delphiniums nudged other types of delphiniums from the garden spotlight, two true perennial delphiniums, sometimes called perennial larkspur, have become almost forgotten by some gardeners, but not the wholesale growers or the florists.

Wholesale growers haven't forgotten them because these perennials, "bellamossum" a light blue and "belladonna" a dark blue shade, produce four or more crops of flowers, during the summer season.

The flower spikes are not large and showy like the Pacific bybrids, but they yield more flowers.

Plants may not be found at most nurseries unless one specializes in perennials. Seeds may be sown now. They will sprout and grow, but may not bloom. In late fall they'll die down to the ground for the winter. Next year clumps will have formed and there will be crops of blossoms.

Four or five years later, they should be dug up, separated and replanted. I can remember back in the mid-20's we'd sell them bare root for a time at the nursery, the same as perennial phlox, gerbera, shasta daisy, day lilies, and such are still sold during the winter season into spring. Later, these bare-root perennial delphiniums would be potted up or canned, and sold for more money.

HERE ARE some ideas for flower lovers:

Plant dahlia roots now and, come July, there will be blooms for garden color and for cutting.

White marguerites with red geraniums in front of them form an interesting color combination, as well as lots of color for the lazy gardener, or one who's time is limited.

Tulbagha violacea, "phew" plant or society garlic, begins flowering in late May or early June, then continues blooming through October. Its foliage when damp has an onion-garlic odor. Foliage is good when chopped up fine, mixed in salad, that is if you're not going to a party or a movie!

DUST or spray soil with chlordane or DDT before planting or sowing zinnias. Later, as the plants grow, spray them several times before they bloom. This is an insurance act against borers that are becoming troublesome in zinnias.

Asters should be set out in flower bed area where drainage is good.

African marigolds combine well with zinnias.

An edging of colorful petunias finish off the annual sunny flower bed planting.

French marigolds, annual phlox and ageratum are all good edging plants.

Shrubs That Laugh at Drought

In a land of long summer drought, plants and shrubs that seldom get thirsty can come in mighty handy. Lazy gardeners and those with estate-size gardens should pay close attention to planting some of our rough and ready reliables.

If you are one of those who thinks that beauty and drought resistance are incompatible, then the California Association of Nurserymen has news for you. There are many proven tough guys with all the good garden looks of plant world prima donnas.

Our native wild lilacs, for example, maintain their glossy green looks in spite of summer drought. They actually resent too much water and revel in stingy, unimproved soils. You can use wild lilacs widely: the prostrate Point Reyes Ceanothus and Carmel Creepers are excellent ground covers on a neglected hillside; the lovely look-alikes, Mountain Haze and Sierra Blue make compact evergreen, ever-beautiful shrubs. Ceanothus' blue flowers are as lovely as the California spring.

Drought resistant shrubs are often unusual shrubs, too. The red Bottle Brush is structurally intriguing for the summer-dry garden, rigid, unbending and completely individual. The blooms look like nothing if not like a red bottle brush.

The little-known, but highly attractive Hopseed Bush is another of unusual qualities, having all the airy grace of a young willow, the foliage color of a purple plum and the drought resistance of a native. Hopseed Bush is just coming into its own as a decorative horticultural specimen and definitely deserves a place in your garden. Use it as a 10- to 12-foot background shrub and for spot color.

The tortuous Australian tea tree also accents the unusual and makes a strikingly contorted screen plant for rear borders.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week.... Primroses can be divided and should be if it's been two or three years since they were planted.

Weigelia, Spiraea and other spring blooming deciduous shrubs that have already flowered, may be pruned now to shape them or to cut them down in size if they are overgrown.

May is a good month to improve lawns. Use a weed killer of the type that won't injure grass, then feed. Compacted lawns can be helped most by spiking. Consult your nurseryman.

When watering most plants and shrubs avoid frequent sprinklings in favor of long, deep soaking. The same goes for your lawn.

Feed roses again this month. Cut faded blooms before they go to seed.

DOROTHY DIGS in the garden

By Dorothy Jonson

The insect problem has been made simpler for gardeners in recent years by the availability of two-purpose sprays.

One enemy that can now be eliminated with a two-purpose spray is the so-called Wooly Aphis, which is especially bad on Pyracantha and similar shrubs. And when you see that cottony substance accumulating in the crotches of plants, you can be sure that the same infestation also clusters around the roots of the plant underground. These subterranean pests are called root aphis.

Malathion will very effectively destroy the woolly aphis on the body of the plant but you will soon notice a new infestation unless the root aphis are destroyed also. Dieldrin is the material that is deadly to those soil insects.

Fortunately you can buy a spray combining malathion and dieldrin in one bottle and thus with one spray you can eradicate both the woolly aphis and the root aphis. In fact, this is an excellent product to use on all ornamentals to kill both sucking and chewing insects.

The Deceitful Eucalyptus

Stately and graceful, eucalyptus trees have added a treasure of beauty to the Southland. These grew at Recreation Park.

By Clarence Bernard Propes

PEOPLE come to California and the Southland for a variety of reasons. Some want the mad thrill of driving the freeways while others want to breathe and benefit from the therapeutic values of smog. Fifty years ago many came intending to get rich with the wonderful, money-making eucalyptus tree.

At the turn of the century the nation became disturbed by the growing hardwood shortage. At that point authoritative voices rang loud and clear extolling the virtues of the fragrant eucalyptus that has since become so common in California. This native of Australia and Tasmania was declared to be the perfect answer to the hardwood shortage. It was fast growing, yielding fine woods and it produced more wonder drugs than the pharmacopeia of a Chinese herb doctor. Furthermore, it was well adapted to the arid lands of California.

One reputable magazine ran an ad stating in part:

"A judicious investment in eucalyptus timber will make you more money than can be made on the best farm and NO WORK. After ten years you can live on the income for the rest of your life."

This seemed to be a clarion call to investors of all kinds, and even the cagiest saw the wisdom of the investments in this fast growing tree. Then there were the investors such as the Santa Fe Railroad that planted 8,000 acres on a company ranch a few miles east of Del Mar. Santa Fe expected to use the timber for railroad ties. Then railroad men could lay track north toward Santa Barbara and the 40-square-mile forest now known as the Nipoma Mesa Forest. No one could argue with the wisdom of such huge investments.

Sharp promoters got in the act by buying desert land for $15 an acre, planting it with $5 worth of eucalyptus seedlings and unloading for $250 an acre.

These promoters were the only ones who made big money with no work from the eucalyptus trees. The Santa Fe, for instance, found the eucalyptus wood was worthless for ties because it checked and cracked. Lumbermen had much the same experience with lumber and further checking proved that the fine hardwoods came from trees centuries old.

THE FIRST eucalyptus seedlings were imported into this country in 1856 by William Walker who planted 14 trees in his greenhouse in San Francisco. The trees throve and within a short time seedlings and seeds were selling for as much as $10 each. In 1870, the high prices were a thing of the past and one Hayward rancher planted 170,000 seedlings intending the wood to be used for fuel.

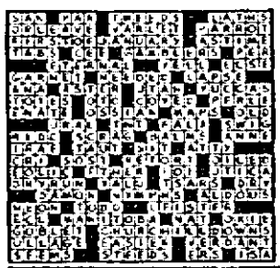

The genus of the tree is firmly established as Myrtiacea but the species are subject to scholarly dispute. Some experts say there are as many as 700 species while others claim there are only 400. The species varies from low-lying shrubs to 480-foot giants, probably the tallest trees in the world.

In the Southland there is another sharp division of opinion when attempt is made to name the oldest eucalyptus in California. One faction claims that the granddaddies of all the California eucalyptus are on the Banning estate in Wilmington. Some of these early blue gums were planted in 1866. The Los Angeles State and County Arboretum points with pride to the Wolfskill tree which, and according to Arboretum records, was planted in 1865.

INVESTORS and speculators lost money with the trees, but California has become richer. In and about Bakersfield there were malaria swamps until the trees were planted and drank up the water. In Orange County, growers suffered losses when winds shook young fruit from the citrus trees. Eucalyptus windbreaks saved the crops. The Palos Verdes hills grow green with the Australian trees.

Majestic and beautiful, the trees have held back the desert, reclaimed land, and perhaps most important of all, they have added a new treasure of green, sweet scented beauty to the Golden State.

Grubbed from the ground and finished into a planter this manzanita root is displayed by Mrs. Louis Lorge.

The Root of a Hobby

By Vera Williams

PURSUIT of hobbies turns up many facets of nature, and the digging and finishing of manzanita roots into interesting decorative articles is a foremost example.

Manzanita is a shrub that grows wild in California, having a hard, beautifully colored and grained wood, and Louis and Ruth Lorge, 410 Bolsa Ave., Seal Beach, have developed a number of attractive items from the roots of manzanita. These they have grubbed out of the ground at their avocado ranch at Rolling Hills, between Escondido and Fallbrook.

The ground is as hard as cement, the Lorges say, and the roots must be dug out with pick and shovel and hard labor.

"FIRST, we turn the hose on the root, washing off the red bark," Lorge says. "Then we clean and sandblast. We take out the dead wood, but usually we leave the imbedded stones because they add to the picturesque appearance.

"Sandblasting brings out the warm beige of the root. The texture is interesting, smooth surfaces and warty surfaces."

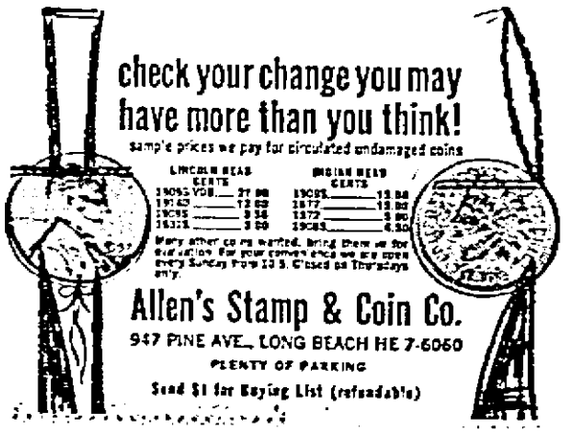

Manzanita grows in a twisted, tortured manner, as though guided by a mind gone mad, and thus assumes weird and imaginative shapes. Some persons see figures in the roots — dancers, animals, etc. The Lorges are content to enjoy the natural appearance of the root without bothering with figures.

Interior decorators use manzanita roots for conversation pieces. They place them on tables, mantels, walls. Sometimes candles are imbedded in them, or ash trays or vases for flowers.

MANZANITA is said to be the second hardest wood in the West, ranking next to ironwood.

There is an old saying that a straight stick of manzanita long enough for a billard cue would be worth a million dollars.

There isn't any such thing. Manzanita always is crooked.

Happy Birthday!

DOES SOMEONE in your family have a birthday coming up soon? Would you like to surprise that someone with a different kind of party?

Then by all means include Clifton's Cafeteria, 5006 Pepperwood Ave., Lakewood Center, in your plans. This extremely large, good-looking restaurant supplies free birthday cakes and specially decorated tables for birthday groups of all sizes, from two to 25 or 30 persons or even larger. To take advantage of this excellent arrangement, all you have to do is notify Clifton's two days in advance, by telephone if you wish, supplying such information as the size of the group and the date of the party.

With seating for 400 persons, Clifton's is one of the biggest and most popular cafeterias in this area. Last Sunday, Mother's Day, more than 3,300 guests were served in good order, with the lines moving smoothly and efficiently past the long, immaculate serving counters. Manager Jim Hammond, now in his 30th year with the Clifton's organization, and his skillful staff do an excellent job of taking care of the needs of all guests in numerous thoughtful ways.

Sundays are always a popular event at Clifton's, largely because of the fabulous seven course dinner served from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. for $1.77. It consists of a choice of any one of three dozen fresh salads, whipped potatoes, vegetable du jour, entree, bread or roll and butter, dessert and beverage. The entree selection can be roast turkey, ham, chicken or one of six other entrees. The dessert selection consists of 15 kinds of pie, puddings and cakes, a beautiful array as colorful as the treasures in Ali Baba's storehouse.

Clifton's is a marvelous place for the youngsters, who enjoy "treasure tray" dinners for 59 cents Sundays and 39 cents daily. Each moppet receives a free gift.

GRANDPA 'DOBIE GILLIS'?

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Durable Dwayne Grows Old With Fans

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Dobie Gillis" has been with us only three years, but patient televiewers have seen him lope through high school, a hitch in the Army and his freshman year in college.

It is not unlikely we will see him progress through marriage, parenthood and eventually grandparenthood and hardening of the arteries.

Dobie, in the person of actor Dwayne Hickman, is all for it.

"The secret of success in show business is to endure," said durable Dwayne on one of his rare days off.

"It's easy these days for young actors to make a lot of noise for a short time and then disappear forever. That isn't going to happen to me. The trick is to work regularly, not make enemies and improve as an actor."

Spoken like a true Dobie Gillis!

AS AN EXAMPLE of the fast rise and equally rapid decline, Dwayne cited Tuesday Weld. She got her start on his show, went on to star in video guest shots and movies, and returned for a one-shot on his series.

"You can't climb too quickly," he said.

"I started as the lowest of the low. For five years I was the half-baked nephew on 'The Bob Cummings Show' for a start. Add that to my three years with 'Dobie' and it turns out to be real steady work.

"Some people I knew at the beginning are not around now. They weren't able to sustain themselves."

Hickman is a clean-cut individual with level eyes, thick brown hair and the look of a clergyman's son. He's 27 years old and portraying a 22-year-old on the screen.

"THE ORIGINAL concept of the series has disappeared," he said. "I was supposed to be 17 years old and looking for a girl friend. They put me in the Army when I outgrew the high-school bit. Actually, I was too old for the role when the show went on the air.

"The producers had tried to get me three or four years earlier, but I was tied up with Cummings.

"Now it won't be long before I outgrow the college kids. But that doesn't mean the show won't go on. Eventually Dobie'll get married and go to work. I guess his buddy Maynard (Bob Denver) will have to go right along with him.

"Sometimes I toy with the possibility that Dobie Gillis will remain on the air for years and years as the fans grow old with me."

HICKMAN'S SERIES is not that popular. But the actor reckons he has between 15 and 25 million viewers a week."

He was asked how he felt about branching into movies.

"I'm not so sure," he answered. "Warren Beatty, you know him, the guy who's doing so well in a lot of big pictures now, started on my show in bit parts. He's zoomed right to the top. But I don't know if he will stay there. He's a bigger name in Hollywood than in the rest of the country.

"There's a tremendous lag between being on the cover of prestige magazines and being seen on the screen by big segments of the public. It can give some young actors a false sense of stardom.

"They are 'stars' in one sense. But if the public doesn't know it there isn't much future in it. No. I'll stay with my TV show."

TUESDAY WELD appears with Dwayne (Dobie Gillis) Hickman. She got her start on his show.

I would very much like to tell your film industry how much trouble their horror films for television is causing us.

Gunplay, holdups and bashing—we are just about full up of them.

Why not give us some educational films such as city life, your industries, your outback life without violence?

We are sick and tired of the fun play films.

I might tell you that these horror films we are getting are getting the Americans a bad name.

Let's have something that will brighten our lives and leave the fun out of it. We don't like your so-called funny men that talk their heads off and bring a laughing record with them.

They can fool the people some of the time but they cant' fool them all the time.

We like your people and your country but please do something about changing your choice of films for television.

Bill Watson, Melbourne, Australia.

American television programs exported overseas have been the highest rated —those viewed by the most —wherever they have been shown.

I'm not quite sure how the television industry could go about brightening lives by leaving the fun out of it.

What has happened to Bill Page and Jimmy Getzoff in the Lawrence Welk band? I miss them.

Mrs. John Stone, Long Beach

Saxophonist Bill Page has been having eye trouble, but is expected back shortly.

First violinist Jimmy Getzoff has resigned to devote more time to concert work. Getzoff stayed on the Welk program for a year.

'Pete and Gladys' Dead as Hula Hoops

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cara Williams, the bouncy red-haired star of the "Pete and Gladys" television show, may win an Emmy award Tuesday but it will come too late to save the series.

Win, lose or draw, "Pete and Gladys" is as dead as hula hoops.

"I think our cancellation made history," the Williams girl said during a lunchtime lull. "I can't figure it out. We had very high ratings, much higher for instance than 'The Dick Van Dyke Show,' but we were thrown out and Van Dyke was renewed.

"As far as I know a network has never canceled a successful series before."

* * * *

CARA WILLIAMS

"1, 2, 3, Go!" nominated the best children's program, was so good it won't be back next year.

Somewhere along the line somebody goofed, either the Academy, the rating systems or the networks.

Cara is beyond caring.

* * * *

"I HAVE mixed emotions about our show going off the air," she said, "like watching your mother-in-law go over a cliff in your new sports car.

"It was sad saying goodbye to all the crew members and the cast. At our farewell party most of us were crying. After two years together you get to be sort of like a family.

"On the other hand, a weekly television show can be brutal. It seems you work from dawn till dark every day."

CBS-TV's low opinion of "Pete and Gladys" did not include Cara who has signed a new contract with the network. In all probability she will star in another situation-comedy series next year.

HERE'S 'EMMY' NOMINATIONS

"Emmy awards will be presented 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 4, to those winners among the following "outstanding performance" nominees:

ACTOR — Milton Berle (Doyle Against the House, Dick Powell Show); James Donald (Victoria Regina, Hallmark Hall of Fame); Peter Falk (The Price of Tomatoes, Dick Powell Show); Lee Marvin (People Need People, Alcoa Premiere); Mickey Rooney (Somebody's Waiting, Dick Powell Show).

ACTRESS—Geraldine Brooks (Call Back Yesterday, Bus Stop); Julie Harris (Victoria Regina, Hallmark Hall of Fame); Suzanne Pleshette (Shining Image, Dr. Kildare); Inger Stevens (The Price of Tomatoes, Dick Powell Show); Ethel Waters (Goodnight Sweet Blues, Route 66).

ACTRESS IN A SERIES —Gertrude Berg (The Gertrude Berg Show); Shirley Booth (Hazel); Donna Reed (The Donna Reed Show); Mary Stuart (Search for Tomorrow); Cara Williams (Pete and Gladys).

SUPPORTING ACTOR — Sam Jaffe (Ben Casey); Barry Jones (Victoria Regina); Don Knotts (Andy Griffith Show); Horace McMahon (Naked City); George C. Scott (I Remember a Lemon Tree, Ben Casey).

SUPPORTING ACTRESS — Pamela Brown (Victoria Regina); Jeanne Cooper (But Linda Only Smiled, Ben Casey); Colleen Dewhurst (Focus); Joan Hackett (A Certain Time, Ben Casey); Mary Wickes (The Gertrude Berg Show).

VARIETY SHOW — Edie Adams (Here's Edie); Carol Burnett (Garry Moore Show); Perry Como (The Perry Como Show); Judy Garland (Judy Garland Show); Yves Montand (Yves Montand on Broadway).

Nominations in other categories include:

PROGRAM OF THE YEAR — Biography of a Bookie Joint (CBS Reports); Judy Garland Show; Victoria Regina (Hallmark Hall of Fame); Vincent Van Gogh: A Self-Portrait; Walk in My Shoes (Bell and Howell Close-Up!).

DRAMA—Ben Casey; The Defenders; The Dick Powell Show; Naked City; People Need People (Alcoa Premiere); Victoria Regina (Hallmark Hall of Fame).

Everybody loves a WARM BATH and a PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE
NOW YOUR WHOLE FAMILY CAN ENJOY BOTH FOR ONLY A FEW CENTS A DAY!

IMAGINE! a Trained Masseur at your beck and call 24 hours a day! That's what you'll have with a

Jacuzzi WHIRLPOOL BATH

Never before could your family enjoy professional whirlpool massage in the home bathtub. Before the development of the portable Jacuzzi, whirlpool massage was available only at clinics and expensive health clubs. Now your entire family can enjoy whirlpool benefits, in your home, for a few cents a day. It offers long lasting relief from daily aches, pains, nervous tension and fatigue.

Water massage is not a new idea. Ancient civilizations — the Romans, the Greeks, the Japanese — used water and water baths for relaxation and for the treatment of many human ills. The healing and curative powers of warm, agitated water were well known.

Today, throughout Europe and America, better hospitals, clinics, health spas, and private clubs provide whirlpool water massage for those who can afford it.

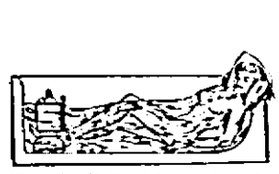

Now you and your entire family can enjoy the same beneficial water massage in your home bathtub — every day, several times a day. You can whirl away sagging tiredness, feel like new again with a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

HOW IT WORKS You simply set the Jacuzzi unit into the bathtub and fill the tub with water. The unit starts automatically.

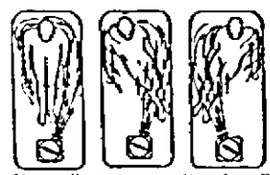

In the morning, use cooler water and full force of the Jacuzzi to wake up the blood stream, the brain and the ambition.

In the evening, use warm water and gentle hydromassage to calm jittery nerves, massage away pain, and prepare you for deep restful sleep.

Use the Jacuzzi 15 to 20 minutes each time. You determine whether you want vigorous massage for stimulation or gentle massage for relaxation.

You relax in the tub of water. Like many tiny fingers, the moving water filled with millions of vibratory air bubbles massages every part of your body.

Change the massage pattern to suit yourself. Adjust the unit for vigorous hydromassage or gentle whirlpool bath. Unit maintains water temperature.

DON'T SUFFER NEEDLESS PAIN

Many everyday aches and pains may be unnecessary. Hydro-massage provides heat and massage at the same time to stimulate local blood circulation. It relaxes and brings temporary relief of minor pains associated with

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The 14th annual "Emmy" award presentations are upcoming 10 p.m. Tuesday on channel 4. Here are my picks for winners in the major categories:

"Victoria Regina," aired last Nov. 30 on "Hallmark Hall of Fame," as "Program of the Year."

"Bob Newhart Show" as best humor program.

"Victoria Regina" as best drama program.

Best variety will be a toss-up between "Here's Edie" and "The Judy Garland Show." I'll take "The Judy Garland Show."

"Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic in Japan," best music show.

"Huntley-Brinkley Report," best news program.

"NBC White Paper," best educational and public affairs programming.

"Captain Kangaroo," best children's program.

For outstanding single performance by an actor in a leading role it's a toss-up between James Donald, who appeared in "Victoria Regina," and Peter Falk, who starred in "The Price of Tomatoes" on the "Dick Powell Show" last Jan. 16. I'll take Donald.

Julie Harris, for her title performance in "Victoria Regina," gets the nod for outstanding single performance by an actress in a leading role.

For outstanding continued lead performance of a series actor, Vincent Edwards of "Ben Casey."

Shirley Booth of "Hazel" for outstanding series lead actress.

Outstanding performance in a supporting role by an actor, Horace McMahon of "Naked City."

Outstanding performance in a supporting role by an actress, Jeanne Cooper, who appeared in the October "Ben Casey" drama "But Linda Only Smiled."

The sentimental favorites for best performance in a variety show should be Edie Adams for "Here's Edie" last April and Judy Garland for her special last February. I'll string along with a dark horse, Yves Montand, for his appearance in "Yves Montand on Broadway" last November.

Outstanding drama writing, Reginald Rose of "The Defenders."

The writers of the "Bob Newhart Show," including Newhart, Roland Kibbee, Don Hinkley, Milt Rosen, Bernie Chambers, Dean Hargrove, Robert Kaufman, Phil Sharpe, Charles Sherman and Howard Snyder, should earn the comedy writing award.

Outstanding documentary writing, Jay McMullen for "Biography of a Bookie Joint" aired by "CBS Reports" last November. There's a chance he could be upset by Lou Hazam for last November's "Vincent Van Gogh: A Self Portrait."

Outstanding drama direction, George Schaefer for "Victoria Regina."

Comedy direction, Nat Hiken for "Car 54, Where Are You?"

ALAN HANDLEY IS THE NBC PRODUCER for the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences "Emmy" awards.

The "Emmy" show, according to Handley, will make an effort to avoid the pitfalls that he feels dull the "Oscar" presentations.

Individuals presenting the awards will be limited to just that. They will not make "cute" speeches.

"Our entertainment will be integrated, not dragged in," Handley said.

"The 'Oscar' show has pop singers doing songs that were sung by other people in the movies. We'll show the actual entertainment that was nominated."

By "actual entertainment," Handley means such things as film clips showing Judy Garland singing a song that was on her special, taped impersonations by Edie Adams, a portion of a "Ben Casey" episode and similar TV offerings.

"We'll start the 90-minute show with a montage of the great moments from the TV season," he said.

"You'll see John Glenn's rocket taking off and Jackie Kennedy conducting her tour of the White House."

As the network "Emmy" producer, Handley is in an experienced position to compete with the "Oscar" show. For his experience includes production of three "Oscar" telecasts.

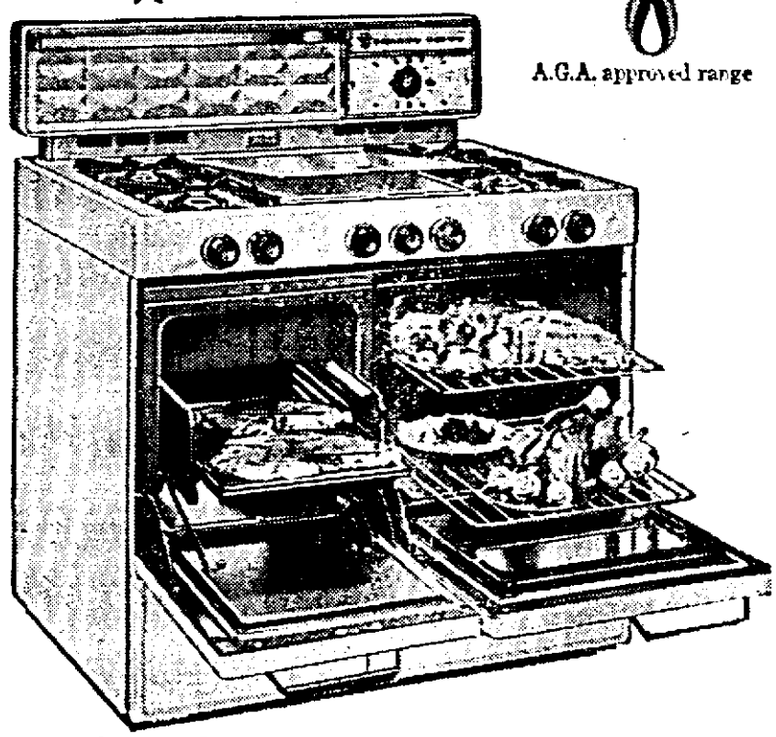

One of the three ran 20 minutes too short.

Mystery Theater

"Mystery Theater" will replace "The Perry Como Show" for the summer, starting June 13.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by GENE BAYLOS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Gene Baylos is a comedian's comic, which means that most of his rivals steal his gags. Baylos has been in show business for 26 years and has played every name club in the U. S. at least twice. Several years ago he was booked into Mother Kelley's in Miami Beach for two weeks and proved so popular that he stayed for four years. Of late, he's been appearing at the Hotel Riviera in Las Vegas where he gives out with jokes such as these.

Working Las Vegas is much different from working Miami Beach. I just finished at the Fontainebleu, and I can tell you it's a fabulous hotel. Sure it's overdone, but where else can you find an 8-piece band in the men's room?

Speaking of Miami Beach, they're now catering to the people on the bus tours. You're entertaining at a club. Suddenly a bus pulls up. All the people come in to see you. Ten minutes later the tour conductor blows his whistle, the whole audience gets up and walks out. Do you know how tough it is, running down after the bus and yelling, "Don't go. Don't go. I've got two more jokes"—and then you find the bus driver doing your act?

Two fellows were discussing their dreams, and one said to the other, "Sam, did I ever dream last night—what a dream! I went to Coney Island, went on the chute-the-chute, had frankfurters and popcorn, took in all the side shows—it was the greatest dream in the world."

The other fellow said, "You're kidding. That's a dream? I had a much better one last night. I dreamed I went to a party, and I had Marilyn Monroe on one arm and Jayne Mansfield on the other."

The first fellow said, "Gee, why didn't you call me?"

"I did," replied the other, "but your wife said you had gone to Coney Island."

Have you heard about the fellow who went to the psychiatrist and said, "Doc, I've got a problem."

"What's your problem?" asked the doctor.

"Well, I'm married, I've got a car, my wife has a car, we have three children, we have a home in the country and a home in the city."

"You don't seem so bad off," replied the doctor. "What's your problem?"

The patient cried out, "I only make $45 a week!"

Then there's the story about the three sons at the bedside of their father who is dying. One says, "When Father dies, we're going to give him the biggest funeral there ever was. We're going to hire 20 cars and get $10,000 worth of flowers. It's going to be the biggest funeral in the country."

The second son says, "What do you want with 20 cars—who needs 20 cars? We'll get two cars for the immediate family, and that's it."

The third son says, "We don't need 20 cars, we don't even need two cars. We'll get a hearse and hop on the running board."

At that point, the old man sat up and said, "If it isn't too much trouble, would you mind going to the closet and getting my pants. I'll walk to the cemetery."

Las Vegas is a very money-conscious town. I know a doctor here who has a really exclusive list of patients, but he's very considerate—if you can't afford the operation, he'll touch up your x-rays ... And everybody gambles, gambles with such a fervor that it frightens you. One fellow walked up to me last week and said, "I'll make a bet with you that you're dead." You know something? I was afraid to bet with him.

Well, I don't need Las Vegas anymore because I'm starting a collection for "Be Kind to Animals Week." And everything I take in during the week will go to the horses the first thing Tuesday afternoon.

17 years ago Claude Eatherly spearheaded the historic atomic attack on Hiroshima. Today he stands at the center of a worldwide controversy.

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Today, with the U.S. forced to resume nuclear testing, the spotlight is on a tall, hollow-eyed, violently controversial ex-Air Force major named Claude Robert Eatherly.

Eatherly was the World War II pilot who gave the go-ahead signal to bomb Hiroshima. Subsequently he spent long periods in mental institutions because of an oppressive sense of guilt. More recently he has been crusading to outlaw nuclear warfare.

In many countries, he is considered a martyr—and a handy club with which to attack U.S. policies. In this country, he is brushed off as a nut, branded a phony or labeled a dupe of the Communists.

He has become a center of international intrigue. Red agents are believed to be trying to lure him behind the Iron Curtain as an anti-bomb symbol. Our government is known to be quietly determined to keep him here. While allowing him to remain free, the government is keeping a discreet watch on him.

Lost in this swirl is the fact that no matter what you think of him Eatherly's is essentially a human story—a tragic story of a callow young man caught up in the vortex of events that were to change history. It is a story measured not in megatons but in terms of one man's life.

PARADE has spent nearly a year tracking down and checking details of this story. Reporters have talked to many of the chief characters—to Eatherly himself, who gives his version here for the first time, to people close to him who flew the fateful mission with him, to doctors and psychiatrists.

Here is the first complete, authentic report on the saga of Claude Eatherly. It is presented not to champion his views, not to arouse sympathy for a troubled man, but because it sheds light on one of the overriding issues of our time.

GALVESTON, TEX.

"HIROSHIMA! How can I ever forget it! Every night for 15 years I have dreamed about it! I see great fires, boiling fires, crimson fires, closing in on me. Buildings fall, children run—living torches with their clothes aflame.

"'Why did you do it?' they scream. 'Why did you do it?'

"I wake up paralyzed with fear, screaming, sweating, because I have no answer. One hundred thousand people died at Hiroshima, and all because of me, all because I gave the order."

As former Air Force major Claude Eatherly tells his story, he buries his face in his hands. He hunches forward on the sagging bed in the out-of-the-way hotel here where he lives quietly.

Seventeen years ago, Eatherly was on top of the world, a crack B-29 pilot, so cool and skilled he was picked to scout the first atomic attack on Hiroshima.

Today, tormented by agonies of guilt, Eatherly lives a nightmare. His nerves are shattered, his skills shot, his personal life in ruins.

Since Hiroshima, he has lost everything—family, career, peace of mind. He has been in jail seven times and in mental hospitals nine times. He has drowned himself in alcohol and dosed himself with drugs. He twice tried to kill himself. He has embarked on a life of crime so bizarre and pointless that the only explanation is a weird desire to be caught and punished.

And recently he has become an ardent pacifist. He

what happens

has publicly called upon the U.S. and other nations to renounce nuclear weapons and warfare.

In many places in Europe and Asia, Eatherly is seen as the foremost psychological casualty of the atomic age. His inability to make peace with his past is considered the reaction of a sane man in a mad world. Lord Bertrand Russell recently charged that Eatherly has been locked up by the U.S. to silence his unpopular views, a refrain echoed in Japan.

At home, opinion about Eatherly splits into diverse camps. Government psychiatrists recently said he is a very sick man—"schizophrenic, paranoid, and dangerous to himself and others." They also declare that he is gullible and a prevaricator. Some long-time acquaintances, like Ken Wey, his wartime bombardier, say he has a hero complex and is seeking acclaim of his own. A doctor familiar with the case feels his troubles trace to conflict between boyhood religious upbringing and his wartime exploits.

Even Claude Eatherly cannot explain Claude Eatherly. He spends a sizable portion of his time trying to do so. Free on a trial visit from a veteran's psychiatric hospital, he lives a solitary existence near the beachfront here, jobless, occupying his time writing letters and visiting his psychiatrist several evenings a week. He reviews endlessly the Hiroshima mission, each detail, worrying over the after-effects.

One out of Hundreds

Who is Claude Eatherly? How did he get this way? Why did he alone, of all the hundreds involved in the first atomic bombing, crumple under the strain? Why Eatherly and not others?

When you look into Eatherly's past, it is hard to find clues to his present. The son of Baptist farmers in Van Alstyne, Tex., he was the star athlete and class hero in high school. Claude went off to study law at North Texas State College, got flying fever in his junior year, and won his wings. At the time of Pearl Harbor, he was a lieutenant and a bomber pilot. Within a month, he was flying patrol missions.

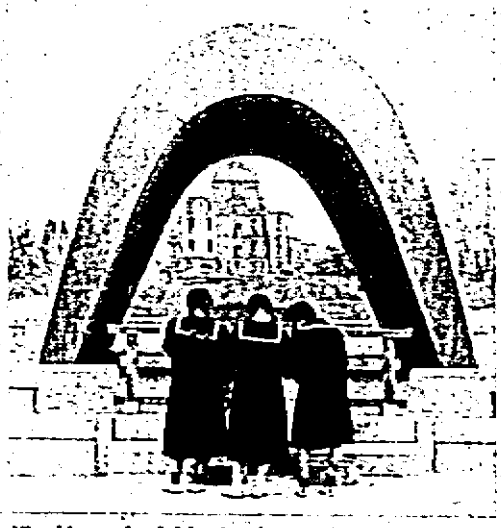

In 1944 he was quickly grabbed for the 509th Composite Bombardment Group, the special unit training for the Hiroshima drop. "You are the men who are going to end the war," the commanding officer, Col. Paul Tibbetts, greeted them.

On August 6, 1945, Special Bombing Mission 13 took off from Tinian on its historic raid. Eatherly flew the lead plane.

A good deal of confusion still exists as to his actual role. Here is how he describes it:

"Six planes were assigned to the mission. Mine, the Straight Flush, was to fly over Hiroshima, which was the primary target, and analyze the weather. If it seemed clear enough for bombing, I was to report to Col. Tibbetts, following in the Enola Gay with Little Boy—the bomb. Two other planes were scouting the alternate targets, Nagasaki and Kokura. If my report had been negative, Tibbetts would have bombed one of the other cities.

"My plane took off about midnight. We were all pretty subdued about what was coming. At 7 a.m., we were over Hiroshima. I could see the city through broken clouds and I knew immediately what my report must be. I remember thinking, 'Well, look what they did at Pearl Harbor.' Then I sent Tibbetts my message: 'Red Dog One: Advise Bomb Primary Target.'

Hiroshima schoolgirls visit shrine to atomic-bomb dead. Gutted building in background is preserved as a memorial.

Those were the words that doomed Hiroshima.

"Thank God, I never saw the damned bomb drop. After the report, I turned and headed back to Tinian. I passed the Enola Gay, flying lead in a three-plane formation. I was maybe 100 miles away when they reached the target."

When the United States announced to a stunned world that an atomic bomb had virtually wiped out Hiroshima, Eatherly, like many other Americans, greeted the news with mixed feelings. He was elated that the secret weapon had succeeded and that the war would be shortened. But he was also horrified that so many human lives could be consumed in a single flash. "My God! What have we done?" he thought.

Jumbled in with these emotions was jealousy. For Eatherly, incredible as it may seem, had yearned to drop the bomb himself! "I thought I had a better crew," he admits. His cheeks burned when he saw the decorations showered on Tibbetts and his men.

Many others of the 509th were badly shaken by the event. There was much silence and introspection around Tinian for the first few days afterwards, Eatherly recalls. But after Nagasaki (in which Eatherly did not participate), and the war's end, the fliers of the 509th began to come out of it. They began to feel that perhaps the bomb was a positive good—that in the face of its horror mankind might be compelled to give up war as a means of settling disputes.

He Volunteers for Bikini

Eatherly, too, seemed as though he might adjust. Because of a morbid curiosity about the bomb and hopes of being a career officer, he stayed in the Air Force and volunteered for the 1946 atomic tests at Bikini. This was the operation in which obsolete fighting ships were blasted to determine the pattern of nuclear damage.

Eatherly flew his plane carrying blast gauges right into the heart of the dense mushroom cloud—an incident that contributed to his later troubles—and saw his first atomic explosion up close.

"I can see it yet," he declares. "Brilliant, brilliant colors, every color you can imagine. Then these ships, huge ships, being tossed 'way, 'way, up in the air, just tossed like a handful of pebbles. Then the shock wave, a dark wall of spray coming right at us like a huge fist, pushing us sideways. Then the B-29, shuddering and tossing like an insignificant leaf. I realized at last what awesome power mankind was trifling with."

In conjunction with this experience came another that brought Eatherly to a fateful decision. The Bikini explosion had no sooner died down than he was called to the bedside of his dying mother. There a startling coincidence occurred.

As he knelt by the bed, holding her hand, he noticed the Bible open on the table. "It was open," he recalls, "to the twentieth chapter of Exodus. The words, 'Thou shalt not kill' leaped out at me. Then and there, for the first time, I realized what I had done."

Six months later Eatherly left the Air Force. But Hiroshima, occupying more and more of his thoughts, came to dominate his entire life. His marriage was affected first. His wife Connie, an aspiring actress who had married him in 1944, now found him moody, tense, insecure. His dreams about the bombing frightened her. He began to drink heavily. Sometimes he would start before breakfast and drink all day. He would brood about Hiroshima and call himself names.

In 1948, Connie Eatherly suffered a miscarriage in which the fetus was found to be malformed. In an attempt to learn the reason, Eatherly was sent to a diagnostic clinic, was found to have a sub-standard sperm count. The specialist told Eatherly radiation exposure was a "possible" explanation for the condition. Other doctors now say this is highly unlikely, but the observation threw Eatherly and his wife into a panic.

"We knew about those little monsters that had been born after Hiroshima," he says. "I thought it would be horrible to bring into the world a child like that. Sure, the doctors had said I was all right after Bikini, but did they really know? I thought to be on the safe side I ought to be sterilized. But the doctor kept reassuring me. 'Keep trying,' he would say, 'the condition probably will correct itself.'

Work Was Too Tame

"In 1950, when Connie became pregnant again, we were terrified, and when our daughter was born healthy, we almost died of relief."

Meanwhile, Eatherly's decline was accelerated by his inability to hold a job. He worked at a gas station, but found this too tame after the Air Force. So he became a gun runner, smuggling weapons to rebels in Latin America. It was lucrative work—until the Treasury cracked down. Eatherly along with others was arrested, but charges against him later were dropped.

But Hiroshima continued to haunt him.

He began to go on big debauches. He would roam for weeks, drinking, gambling and carousing his way around the Southwest with pickup girl friends. "I lived in a sea of booze," he says.

One day, home alone, Eatherly relates, he fell to brooding over the events of his life and decided to expiate his sins by killing himself. He swallowed a bottle of sleeping pills, washed them down with whiskey and lay down on the floor. He was still alive when Connie came home. She phoned an ambulance and Eatherly was revived. A few days later, he entered the VA hospital at Waco for psychiatric treatment.

Crew of 'Straight Flush' gathered for this informal snapshot during World War II. Then-Capt. Eatherly is at far left, standing.

'I'm the greatest slaughterer in history'

Eatherly was to spend the next 10 years shuttling in and out of hospitals. In 1953, the VA concluded he had an "anxiety neurosis" as a result of Hiroshima and gave him a 50 per cent disability pension. Later doctors decided he was psychotic and raised the pension to 100 per cent.

Four years later, her patience exhausted, Connie divorced him, taking the three children. She has since remarried.

When out of the hospital, Eatherly would seek out doctors, theologians, old friends and drinking cronies and belabor them with unanswerable questions about Hiroshima. He also became involved in increasingly bizarre escapades. In 1956, with two men, he broke into two post offices. At one post office, in "casing the joint," his accomplice purchased a legitimate money order naming Eatherly as payee.

"He seemed," says an old friend, Jim Kitching of the Dallas County sheriff's office, "to be asking for it—for us to come and catch him and lock him up."

Weirdest Crime

Eatherly was arrested seven times. Charges were usually dropped because of his mental condition and war record, although he did serve nine months on a bad check charge in New Orleans. In 1959, he perpetrated perhaps the weirdest crime of all. With an unloaded 22-caliber pistol, he embarked on a stickup. Enroute, he stopped and cashed an $800 check and stuffed the money in his pockets. He entered a grocery store and ordered the proprietor at gunpoint to fill a paper bag with money. Eatherly waved him to the back of the store. He then departed without taking the loot. "When I got back to my hotel," he recalls with a smile, "the police were waiting."

This incident, the climax of his long process of deterioration, also was a turning point in Eatherly's life. After his arrest, he told doctors, "I'm the greatest slaughterer in history. My life is worthless. It's a curse on the world." The psychiatrists labeled him suicidal and committed him for 17 months. But the remark, reported at a time when the world was becoming exceedingly conscious of the dangers of nuclear war, attracted notoriety in many countries. Eatherly began to get fan mail.

One of the first to write him was Dr. Gunther Anders, a well-known Viennese pacifist philosopher. The two became fast friends by mail. Anders counseled Eatherly on personal matters and coached him in how he should protest the bomb.

From his hospital ward, Eatherly wrote articles for Japanese newspapers. They became front-page news. Eatherly was swamped with mail.

"One of the kindest letters was from the Hiroshima maidens [girls who had been disfigured by the bombing and brought here for surgery several years ago]," he recalls. "They begged me not to have any 'sick feelings' for what I had done, and told me they had forgiven me and hoped I would get well. They wrote, 'You are as much a victim as any of us.'"

Eatherly, who had been sending money to Japan anonymously for several years, now felt good. Having decided he had found in pacifism a purpose in life, he was ready to leave the hospital.

But meanwhile, as his name was being used by ban-the-bomb and pacifist groups, a controversy sprang up around him. Doctors said he was still a sick man and that in his unstable condition he was being exploited by anti-American forces. The hospital, instead of releasing him, extended Eatherly's commitment on petition of his brother James. Eatherly promptly escaped.

Moment of peace for Eatherly comes as he plays with children of Mariam Treuil, a Galveston friend. He is divorced from his wife

Two months later he was picked up on a minor traffic charge. This time, a full-dress lunacy hearing was held. Although observers described him as "calm, poised, rational, quick-witted and humorous," a jury found him mentally ill and in need of hospitalization. Paradoxically, the same jury found him competent to handle his own financial affairs.

The verdict kicked up a worldwide storm. Anders wrote a long "Open Letter to President Kennedy" in which he charged that a sane man had been locked up because he differed with government views. Hospital authorities again placed Eatherly in the maximum security wing with barred windows and locked doors along with homicidal maniacs and dangerous paranoiacs.

Later, when the hospital eased up and put Eatherly "on privileges" he went over the wall again. This time he went to a private psychiatric clinic, which arranged to free him on a trial visit.

His Formula for Peace

Today, Eatherly devotes full time to his "personal battle." He lives on government payments and royalties from Burning Conscience, a collection of his correspondence with Anders which is a best-seller in 14 languages and is now being published in the U.S. What's his solution to the nuclear threat? Both sides are "caught in a trap," he says. "The only solution is to trust one another."

Washington still takes a dim view of his campaign. Some government officials fear Communists will whisk Eatherly behind the Iron Curtain to build him up as a symbol. Officials feel Eatherly is unwittingly playing the Communists' game.

Eatherly resents slurs on his patriotism. "I love my country and would never want to hurt her," he says. "Pro-Russian? Hell, no! I think their nuclear tests are absolutely criminal and insane. But I have my conscience. I must speak.

"People say to me, 'But it wasn't your fault they bombed Hiroshima. You had your orders.' That's like Eichmann's argument. He said he was just a small cog, following orders. But no matter how small a cog, a man must accept responsibility for his deeds.

"People can say what they want about me. They can say I'm doing this for publicity. What a laugh. They can say I'm doing it for money. That's a bigger laugh. They can put me in jail or lock me up in a hospital or anything but it won't stop me from saying what I believe and why I believe it. It's for my conscience. It's my atonement for Hiroshima. It's that simple. That's what my life is all about."

Meanwhile the controversy around Claude Eatherly—and the issue it represents—continues to rage. ■

"Dad... can I have $20,000 for college?"

Look ahead a few years and imagine your own son in this picture, asking the same important question. Your answer then will probably depend on the financial plans you make now. As the costs of a college education continue to rise, most families realize they cannot afford this expense unless they prepare in advance, following a practical, systematic plan. Here's where your New York Life Agent can be of great service.

He can show you modern plans through which you can be sure your son or daughter will have most or even all the funds needed for college. Two New York Life policies were designed especially for this purpose: The Educational Endowment, and Whole Life with Educational Endowment Benefits. Several other cash-value Nylic policies can also be used to help finance a college education.

Ask your New York Life Agent about such plans. Through his intensive training and experience as a full-time career underwriter, you'll find he's well qualified to advise and serve you. A good man to know! Call him at the office nearest you. Or, for information, mail the coupon.

Free "Milk Money" from Kellogg's

Yours when you breakfast on one of these Kellogg favorites

© 1962 by Kellogg Company

Most folks know that two of the nicest things that ever got together at breakfast are Kellogg's and milk. Could be you put 'em together yourself this morning, using one of the favorite cereals in this picture. If you did, and you happen to have an extra package or so in the cupboard—fine! Because you can collect your "milk money" from Kellogg's right away. But if you haven't enjoyed one of these Kellogg's-and-milk "get togethers" lately, there's plenty of time to qualify for your quarter. When you send us any two box tops from Kellogg's Corn Flakes—or Rice Krispies—or Special K—we'll reward you with a 25¢ piece.

Spend it however you like—but what better way than for milk?

HOW TO COLLECT YOUR QUARTER

Just mail us the tops with the blue star from any two family size packages of Kellogg's Corn Flakes—Rice Krispies—or Special K. We'll send back a 25¢ piece. Address your two box tops to Milk & Cereal, P.O. Box B, Marion, Ohio, and be sure to print your name and address plainly. (Offer expires October 31, 1962. Offer limited one to a family. Each request must be mailed separately. All others will be returned. Sorry we cannot honor multiple requests.)

Fun in a WATER BUBBLE

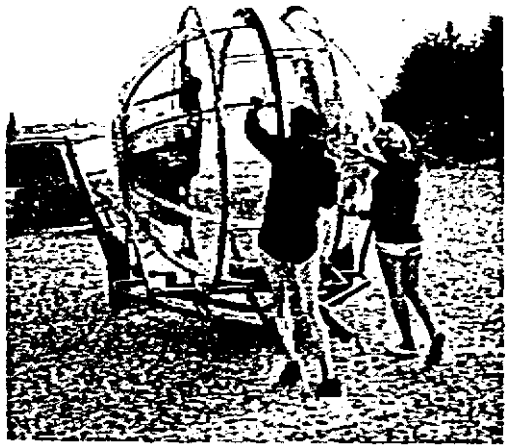

THE SAFEST VEHICLE ever made for use on water is the "Water Trotter" shown here.

That's the claim of its inventor, Wayne Wilson of York, Pa., a mechanical engineer who says he has a phobia about drowning, spent years avoiding water before he thought up his weird invention.

The Water Trotter is a big plastic ball that floats like a bubble on the surface. Passengers get in or out through round openings at opposite poles, propel the Trotter simply by walking forward, which makes the ball roll. Its plastic skin is as tough as shoe leather, enabling the Trotter to ride the most turbulent water in safety.

Inventor Wilson thinks his brainchild—not yet in production—should be useful for rescue work, observing underwater life and safe, easy travel among reefs or swamps. But its main value, he says, is for Nervous Nellies like himself who want to have fun afloat—and still be just as safe as in their own living rooms.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

CHECK CHIANG. Because conditions inside mainland China are disastrous and millions of Chinese are desperate, now would be an excellent time for Chiang Kai-shek to invade the mainland from Formosa. Reportedly Chiang is anxious to do so, but the U.S. has declined to sanction a massive Nationalist assault. Reason: such an action would bring Soviet Russia to China's side. Instead of the breach between these two countries widening as it now is, it would narrow, and China and the U.S.S.R. would once again become the common enemy against the U.S.
There is a slight risk that Chiang, 75, might defy Washington, however, and launch an attack. He has enough landing craft to land two divisions on the mainland but desperately needs U.S. air and fleet cover.

SEE THE U.S. The U.S. Travel Service is currently advertising for European tourists to visit America. The ads, carried in British newspapers, say: "For £35 per week ($98) you can see New York, Washington, San Francisco."

CHANGE SHORTAGE. The U.S. Mint and its branches frequently can't supply enough coins to meet the demand, especially in peak business periods. Reason: vending machines are becoming more numerous. There are now 4,000,000 of these devices in America, and money in vending machines and parking meters remains out of circulation longer than coins in cash registers. This year the Denver and Philadelphia Mints will stamp out more than 3,000,000,000 coins, twice the number turned out in 1959. The only coin they won't mint is the silver dollar; the last one was turned out in 1935. There are 74,000,000 silver dollars in circulation, most of them in the West.

RETURNING BELGIANS. Although many of their women were raped, their homes looted, their men murdered, the Belgians are returning to the Congo in mounting numbers. Their reason: "We understand this country and the Congolese, and there is money to be made here." In Leopoldville there are now more than 2,000 Belgians in the Congo Civil Service. Belgians still run the hotels, banks, supermarkets, cinemas, restaurants, railroads, and communications. Why? Because the Congolese don't know how.

ISRAELI DIPLOMACY. To win friends overseas, many countries export surplus food. The Israelis, who have no surplus products to export, are offering an even more valuable commodity: brains. Because Israel is well-stocked with well-educated European refugees, the Foreign Office in Tel Aviv has been sending out many of these experts to the underdeveloped countries of Africa. So far, more than 200 medical, agricultural, and scientific men have gone, winning friends and influencing people — the Israeli version of the American Peace Corps.

GO EAST, YOUNG MAN. That's the motto in Russia today. The Soviets are promoting Siberia as their land of the future. This relatively unexploited frontier, one and a half times as large as the U.S., is a vast storehouse of natural resources. One of its boom cities is Sverdlovsk, the city behind the Urals over which U-2 pilot Gary Powers was shot down.
In the past ten years Sverdlovsk has mushroomed into an industrial center of 1,000,000 people, producing missiles, textiles, heavy machinery and aircraft motors. Prior to the revolution, Sverdlovsk was a mining city, called Yekaterinburg. Enemies of the Czar were sent into its mines to serve their exile. In 1918 Czar Nicholas II, his wife and children were executed in a Yekaterinburg cellar which the Soviets now preserve as a museum. The city was later re-named Sverdlovsk in honor of Jacob Sverdlov, a hero of the Russian Revolution.

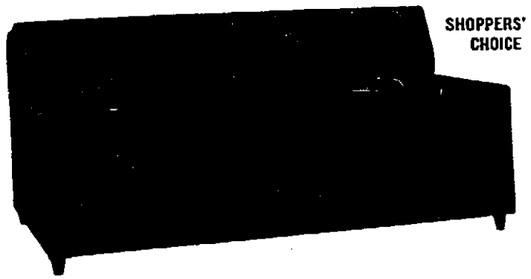

Siberian boys from village near Irkutsk ride bicycles to school. They symbolize transformation of mineral-rich Siberia from virtual wasteland into booming new industrial frontier.

HOW TO FACE

THE SUN

NOW'S THE TIME to start spring training for that great summer ritual—the sun tan.

Get out the creams, the ointments, the lotions and spring-clean your skin before the first sign of peeling.

While dermatologists agree that the sun is beneficial for clearing up most cases of acne, there are other types of skin blemishes, due to clogged pores, that flare up in the sun.

Start your do-it-yourself home facial program with a nightly routine. Wash your face with a sponge and a good skin soap, and follow this with application of a lotion to dry out blemishes.

Women whose complexions are free of blemishes but excessively dry can go on to the next step in skin care—the massage. Nobody will claim that creaming the face and neck will banish wrinkles forever, but cosmeticians agree that nightly lubrication will keep your face soft and smooth-looking. This is especially true in the summertime. While sun rays provide healthy Vitamin-D, they also age and dry skin.

Exercises shown here help break down fatty deposits and stimulate your circulation. One should never apply too much pressure on facial tissues during massage, since overstretching can make the skin sag. The idea is to stimulate and give tone to the skin.

In working around the eyes, where lines are most likely to appear, always start massage from the inside corner of the eye. Work middle finger gently over the lid to the temple, then gently draw finger under the eye back to starting point. Always use a lubricant.

Sunshine Courtship

When you and the sun are ready for each other, begin your courtship slowly and cautiously. There are special sun-tan lotions on the market which actually filter out harmful rays. Use them; there's nothing really pretty about a girl who has a lobster-red complexion. Skin specialists suggest you take the sun in small doses. The first day allow three to five minutes of direct exposure, increasing the time daily. Sun-tan lotions are carried off by swimming and perspiring, so make sure you reapply the ointments frequently.

Some people are allergic to the sun. They should consult a physician about this problem. There's no reason why they should deprive themselves of outdoor living when there are specific medications for sun sensitive people.

—ROSALEND MASSOW.

◄ Home facials lubricate and tone skin for summer. Cyclax of London recommends these exercises with well-creamed face. To firm jowls (left) place fingertips at temples and thumbs under chin. With gentle pressure bring thumbs up to meet other fingers.

A body oil on shoulders and arms, especially during the summer months, will keep skin soft and supple through the tanning period. A few drops in bath water also smooths skin.

One-finger exercise to stimulate circulation is this massage done with tip of third finger. Start from the middle of jawbone and work up to nostril; then draw finger up to temple.

With flats of both third fingers, begin this exercise from chin. Move fingers in arc motion to sides of nostrils and then upwards in wider sweep to temples. It smooths lines.

Shrimp dish for a special occasion

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Here's a shrimp specialty for a lovely spring luncheon. It's a nice change of pace to entertain your friends or to announce an engagement or to plan a bridal shower.

For the main course use our recipe for Shrimp Rolls with Mushroom Sauce, easy to make and pretty as a picture. Add canned baby carrots heated in parsley butter and a bowl of crisp raw vegetables.

Forget the calories, it's a special occasion, and have strawberry sundaes and hot coffee or tea.

SHRIMP ROLLS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 18 slices very fresh bread, cut ½-inch thick
- 2 cans (5 oz. each) shrimp
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Dash bottled hot pepper sauce
- 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 18 cooked asparagus spears
- Melted butter or margarine
- Paprika
- Mushroom Sauce

Trim crusts from bread slices. Roll bread slices with rolling pin until very thin. Mash shrimp; add next 4 ingredients; mix well. Spread on bread slices. Place 1 spear asparagus on end of each bread slice; roll up; secure with wooden picks. Brush lavishly with melted butter; sprinkle with paprika. Arrange on baking sheet. Bake in very hot oven, 450°, about 15 minutes or until deep golden brown. Remove picks. Serve with mushroom sauce. Makes 18.

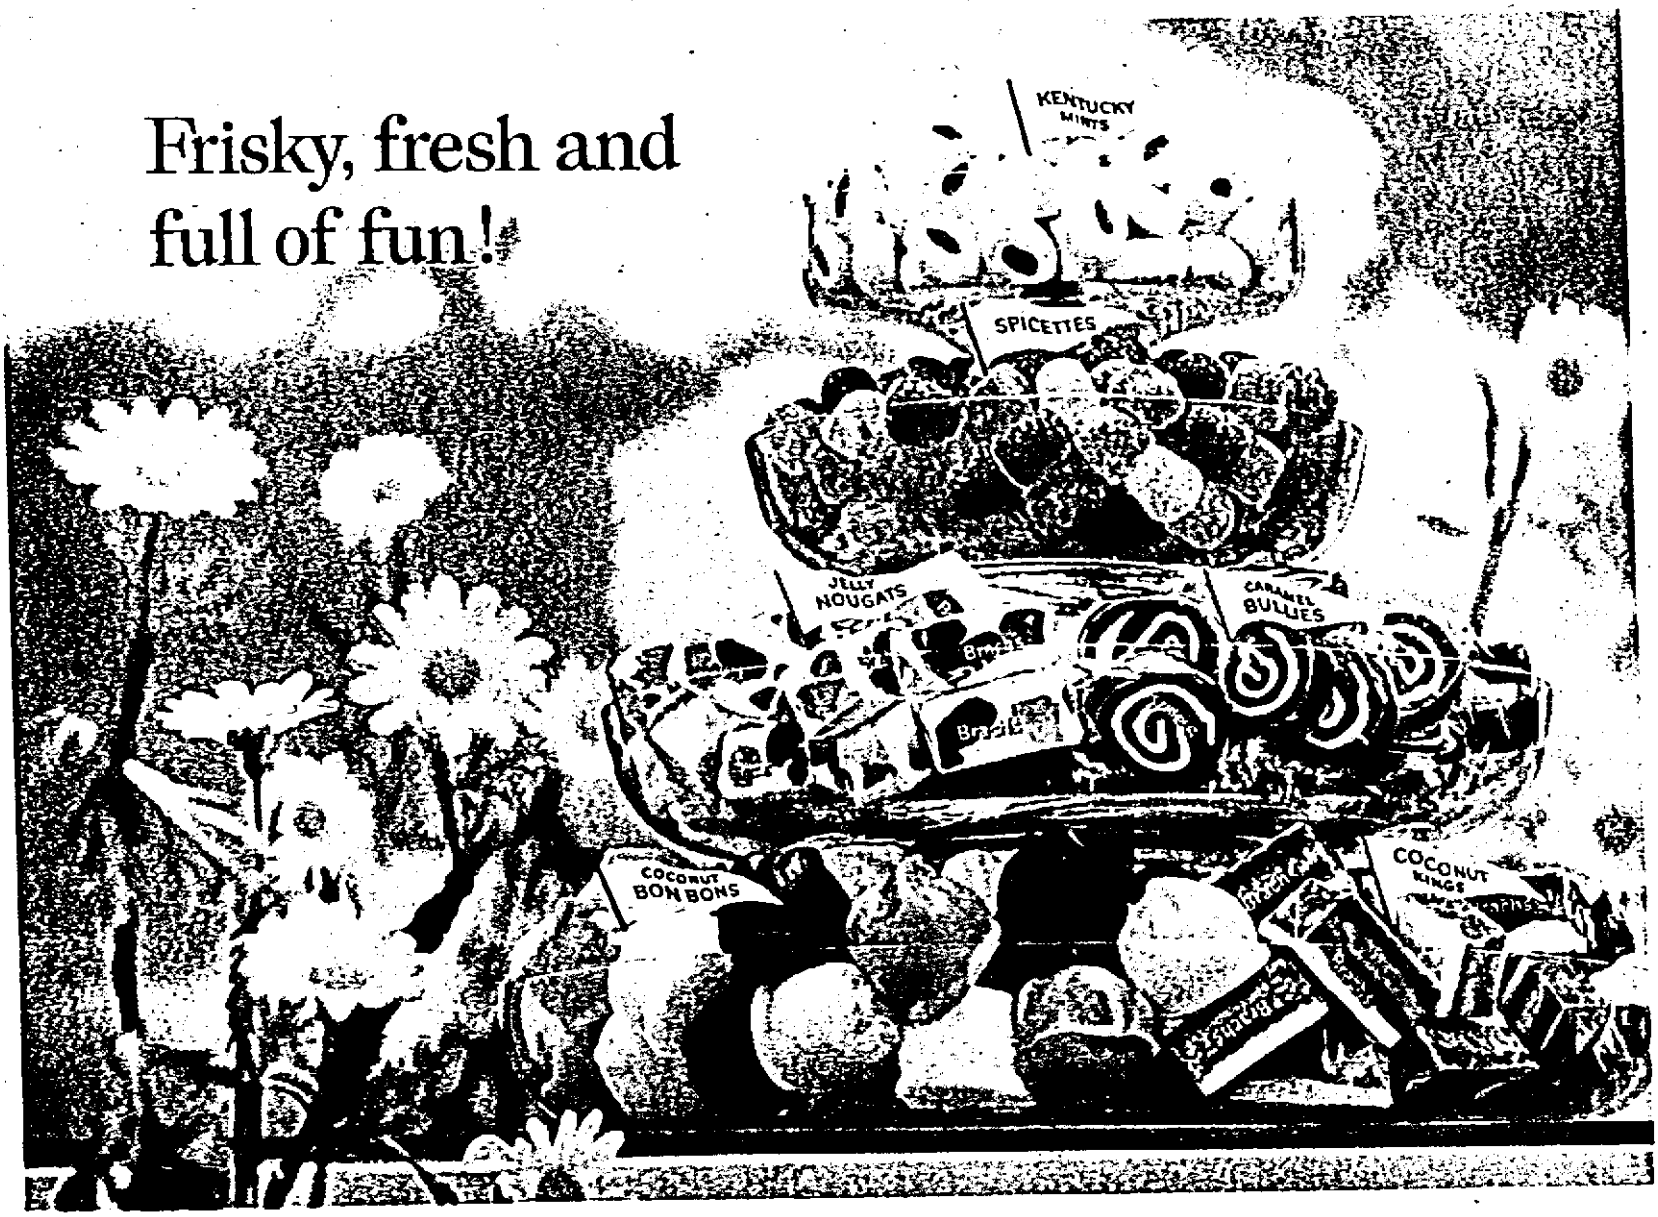

MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 1 envelope (2 oz.) cream of mushroom soup mix
- 1½ cups water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 cup light cream

Empty soup mix into saucepan. Add water slowly, while stirring. Bring to boil. Simmer 5 minutes. Blend cornstarch with ¾ cup of the cream; stir in remaining cream; add to soup. Stir over low heat until thickened to sauce consistency.

PARADE OF PROGRESS

Seeking new ideas for your home or yourself? Take a look at these by PETER DRYDEN

Kite bird: Here's something to intrigue kids—a kite (above) that acts like a bird, fluttering its wings continuously, climbing, zooming and gliding. It can be launched without running, flies in any weather, is made of tearproof acetate cloth. 33" long, 48" wing spread, 250' cord: $2.98. Large, 47" long, 66" wing, 500' cord: $6.95. Gay Gift, Dept. PP, 430 Teaneck Rd., Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Sewing aid: No more need for tedious hand hemming with a new blind stitch hemmer that fits on your regular sewing machine. It quickly produces invisibly stitched hems on dresses, skirts, children's clothes, draperies, curtains, etc. Simple to use, it comes with instructions for making several different types of hems. $6.98. When ordering, state make and model of your machine. Four Sisters, Dept. PP, 31 Chesley Road, White Plains, N. Y.

New help for your lawn: Staple this new knit fabric (above) over a freshly seeded lawn, and it helps assure good grass growth by preventing rainfall erosion. Water flows over it, leaving soil and seed in place—and grass grows through openings in the fabric which eventually deteriorates and serves as mulch. Roll of 100 sq. ft., complete with staples and directions: $3.98. Strandex, Inc., Dept. PP, 1001 Maclellan Bldg., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Portable vise: Almost anywhere you have a job to do—in your home or on your boat—a new vise can go. It weighs only 4½ lbs. and anchors onto non porous surfaces—such as linoleum, metal, porcelain—or any smooth painted surface. Vacuum power holds it fast when you flip a lever in the base. Jaws grip any material up to 2" thick. $6.95. General Slicing Machine Co., Dept. PP, Walden, N. Y.

Built-in beverage center: Installed in a kitchen or recreation room wall cabinet, this new appliance (above) doubles as automatic coffeemaker and hot beverage center. It heats and stores water in its own 1⅛ gal. tank, automatically brews 2 to 12 cups of coffee in 4 minutes—and provides immediate hot water for tea, instant coffee, hot chocolate, soup or bouillon. Details: Cory Corp., Dept. PP, 3200 W. Peterson, Chicago 45, Ill.

Golfer's aid: Hit a new practice ball in your backyard and a calibrated pin pops up as the club strikes—to show distance a real ball would have traveled. 4 for $1. K.G.S. Inc., Dept. PP, 9016 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles 35, Calif.

A lion is Hollywood's

Zamba proves gentle —and earns $75,000 in his first film role

by LLOYD SHEARER

Zamba the lion rests his 550 pounds next to Pamela Franklin, his 78-pound co-star.

HOLLYWOOD.

THREE YEARS AGO when 20th Century-Fox purchased the screen rights to a novel, The Lion, people here were convinced that the combined Intelligence Quotient of the studio's top echelon was 25 which puts it in the imbecile classification.

The reason for this opinion is that the two leading characters in The Lion are: (1) A 10-year-old girl named Patricia whose only friends are the wild beasts of the African bush, and (2) King, a lion brought to her as a cub who develops into her best friend and over whom she holds incredible power. Cradled between his savage paws, asleep against his massive chest, riding on his back, Patricia completely dominates this ferocious lion. One command from the child and he releases his prey or rushes to the attack.

In some cases when a motion picture script calls for the incidental use of a lion, a large dog (German shepherd or Great Dane) can be used, especially in long shots. A lion's mask is thrown over the dog and no one in the audience is any the wiser. For close shots, an old tame circus lion is used, or even a mechanical lion.

No recent fictional film has had a lion playing the major role until The Lion came along, starring Zamba—that's the beast's name—little Pamela Franklin, Bill Holden, Trevor Howard, and Capucine.

A Film 'First'

The film, which was shot in Kenya last year, will be released this summer. Never in the history of the screen has so potentially dangerous a beast as Zamba, a 5 year old, 550-pound, black-maned lion, worked so continuously and intimately with a group of motion picture stars, especially with a 12-year old like Pamela Franklin, who weighs 78 pounds.

Here is the inside story of how The Lion was made. When producer Sam Engel was assigned the story last year, he knew he had a casting problem on his hands. Who was going to play the lion? Engel had the studio check on all the possibilities. It was decided that the best man to contact was Carr Hartley, the noted East African animal exporter.

When Hartley read the script and saw what the lion was assigned to do—romp, play, sleep, and wrestle with a little girl—he said, "You're kidding. There's no lion in the world who can play that part. You're going to have to use a mechanical lion. Either that, or throw your script away."

The studio then contacted a zoo in Hamburg, Germany, which reputedly owned three tame lions. From one of the zoo officials came the words, "We couldn't let a 10 year-old girl within 10 yards of our lions."

After exhausting all the foreign possibilities, the studio finally phoned Ralph Helfer who runs an animal farm, Nature's Haven, 30 miles from Hollywood. Helfer let his favorite lion, Zamba, out of his cage, ordered him into the station wagon and drove him to the studio. When the station wagon arrived at the gates Harry Fink, the studio gateman, took one look at the lion and said to Helfer, "Drive in or drive out. I don't care which. Just don't stay around me." Helfer drove in and invited producer Sam Engel to meet Zamba. When Engel saw how playfully Helfer jostled with the lion, when he heard the history of the beast and was assured Zamba could meet all the demands of the script, he asked Helfer, "How much?"

Helfer: "Seventy-five thousand."

Engel: "Too much."

Helfer: "Get yourself another lion."

Engel: "You've got yourself a deal."

In addition to Zamba, Helfer flew two of his other lions to Africa for the picture. These lions play Zamba's wives in the film, but the truth is that Zamba has no wife. Ralph Helfer will not permit him a sex life. Why? "Because," says Helfer, "I would lose some degree of control over him. I would lose some of his confidence, some of his love, and most important, some of his dependence upon me."

No Guns, But a Bed

Born in the Zambesi basin of Africa, Zamba was transported to Hollywood when he was a few weeks old. Ralph Helfer bought him for $35, then took him to bed. "I take all the cubs to bed with me," he explained. "One at a time, of course. That's the basis of physical familiarization. I believe in emotional training. I never use a whip or a gun or any brutality whatever. My primary training principle is based on love and understanding. With Zamba, it's worked beautifully. He slept with me until he was seven months old and weighed 240 pounds. After that he learned rapidly and was most obedient to commands.

"When I flew him to Africa for the picture, I wasn't worried about his being ferocious one bit. What did worry me was the odd chance that something would happen which would startle the animal. You know, a light falling, or someone stepping on his tail. Even then I knew his reaction would be one of protest. But let's face it, even the slightest protest by an animal of his size, one strike of his paw, and someone could be dead. I wasn't too worried, however."

The studio did not share Helfer's high degree of confidence, largely because no insurance company would insure the production unless 20th Century-Fox came up with a premium of $500,000. The insurance companies, believe it or not, know a good deal about lions. Their agents realize that Zamba is a most remarkable beast. They realize, too, that lion cubs are quite commonly raised as pets—especially in Africa—but the law there requires them to be released into game preserves or placed in zoos by their third birthday.

newest star

Anyway, no insurance company would take the risk for less than half a million, so the studio decided to go ahead without insurance. If Bill Holden were clawed to death, they would settle with his widow.

To play it safe, however, Tony Archer, one of the most respected white hunters in Africa, was hired for the production. He squatted out of camera range just as close to Zamba's great head as he could get. Archer wore—or more often carried in his hand—a .357 Magnum revolver, but told director Jack Cardiff at the start of the picture: "I am making no promises, you understand. If anything happens I will be careful and I won't run. I will do the best I can, but we will have to be very lucky to prevent anyone getting hurt should Zamba suddenly turn angry."

But Zamba never turned angry. Why? According to Helfer, "Zamba is not temperamental to begin with. Secondly, we had a perfect cast for this type of picture. Take an actor like Bill Holden. He owns the Safari Club in Kenya. He has been on safari a good deal. He knows a lot about animals. By nature he is controlled and courageous. Trevor Howard who plays the game warden in the film is a sincere lover of animals and would never do anything foolhardy. He would have made a great animal trainer.

"Little Pamela Franklin, like most children, has a great affinity for animals. She took to Zamba immediately. Never for one moment did she imagine that Zamba was capable of harming her. To Pamela he was just a big shaggy dog. She was the one who worried me the most because I had to watch her for overconfidence. But she showed absolutely no signs of it, also absolutely no signs of fear. Animals sense fear and are most difficult to handle in its presence."

A New Interest

Zamba performed so beautifully in The Lion—the picture has received such raves and pleasing notices—that Ralph Helfer has been toying with the idea of relenting as regards Zamba's sex life.

"I have a lioness on the farm," he explained, "named Tammy. She is beautiful. I was thinking of mating her with Zamba. Their cubs would be photogenic and intelligent. I would be providing myself with replacements and, of course, I would be showing Zamba my gratitude. I am just afraid, however, that lions are very much like men. Once you bring women into their lives, they are just not interested in reading the sports pages any longer." ■

Bringing Up Baby®
Hints Collected by
Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 5

wanderlust, anyone?

Of course! Babies, like everyone else, want to see the world. What better reason for trying to creep? And those first attempts at creeping are adorably awkward, wonderful to behold. Some try it forward, others backward. Still others fancy crabwise creeping. No matter what style your baby selects, the important thing is that he's learning the 3 big C's: Confidence, Co-ordination, Control. Happy new horizons!

Girl or boy creepers, sit-abouts or gadabouts, every darling one of them needs protein . . . to help develop strong muscles. Tasty way to give baby extra protein: Gerber High Meat Dinners. These baby-style "casseroles" have 3 times as much meat (and therefore much more protein) as regular combination baby dinners. And all this savory meat is subtly blended with garden-good vegetables for bright flavor . . . hearty nourishment. 5 varieties, strained or junior.

Roaming routine. When baby becomes a "four-walker" you'll really have to keep an eye on your traveler. Good idea to schedule his roaming times when you have some watching time. Say, when you're taking a "breather" or doing some sit-down chores. When you return baby to his play pen, a favorite toy, a snack of Gerber Fruit Juice or a Teething Biscuit will help overcome possible resentment at the confinement.

Lip-smacking sipping with nutritional leanings. Gerber Strained Fruit Juices leave nothing to be desired in the way of flavor delight . . . and they're high in vitamin C. Has baby tried the new Orange-Apricot or Apple-Cherry Juices yet?

Reminder division. Rooms where baby has crawl privileges should be checked constantly for safety. Household hazards which may not occur to you: floor-drooping plants, dangling appliance cords, rocking chairs, dropped pins or buttons.

A word from Dan Gerber. "Our agricultural experts work on a year-in, year-out basis to improve the quality of your baby's food. Take Gerber Green Beans, for example. Over a period of years, our Agricultural Research Department experimented with several green bean varieties to develop a superior strain. As a result of these efforts, the beans we use are tender, succulent and extra-flavorful . . . have less fiber, more flesh . . . and most important, they have a deeper color which indicates a higher nutritive value."

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods — cereals, strained and junior—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say: "Babies are our business . . . our only business!"

Parade's second Annual Award AMERICA'S

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO drive from coast to coast across a beautiful, landscaped highway, manicured with blooming shrubs and wildflowers, carefully designed and tailored to sweep past the most interesting sights and scenic vistas—yet providing the ultimate in motoring speed, efficiency and safety?

Sounds like a dream in this day of conveyor-belt highways, doesn't it? Yet this dream may be closer to reality than you think.

Here in California, for the first time, a state is planning a complete statewide network of scenic highways. This pioneering effort is being closely watched by state highway officials across the U.S., for highway builders everywhere have concluded that what a motorist sees may be just as important as what he drives upon.

In line with this trend, PARADE today observes the beginning of National Highway Week by announcing its second annual scenic highway contest.

This contest—in which you are urged to participate—was inaugurated last year to commemorate the new highway which best advances the principles of beauty and efficiency. Given last year to the Maine Highway Commission for a 24-mile stretch of interstate Route 95 between Augusta and Fairfield, the award has been widely acclaimed by the highway industry.

What makes a scenic highway? I have just driven more than 1,000 of the 5,000 miles so designated in California's new plan. This web stretches from the desert to the redwoods, from rocky coasts to the high Sierras. Included are new roads and old roads, freeways, narrow farm-to-market roads. One, the so-called Mother Lode Highway, is so tortuous that you can't take your eyes off the road to enjoy the spectacular views; another, the shoreline highway, is in places an invitation to car-sickness. And some of the scenic routes are not even built yet.

Vistas of the Future

Yet, along this route, you can see mile upon mile of potential beauty. Eventually motorists will get wonderful views of the Sierras, drive coastal highways that leap from one breathtaking vantage point to another, sail along roads deliberately routed through vast orchards, cross the desert at places where the colors and the scenery are best.

In some places, signs of the future are already at hand. Near Cisco in Placer County, U.S. 40 is a narrow, dangerous, two-lane road, threading its way along the lip of the south fork of the Yuba River. In this steep-walled gorge the Yuba is wildly beautiful, gushing its way toward the Sacramento Valley in a series of foamy cascades. One way to build a new and badly-needed highway in this region might be with giant cuts and mighty fills high up the mountainside. Another way was outlined to me by Alan S. Hart, the district highway engineer.

"We're going to split the roadway and let the river run right between," Hart says. "We're even going to let people fish between the lanes. This kind of country, you ought to let people see it up close and really appreciate it, feel a part of it. Motorists on this road will be able to look a trout right in the eye."

As for California's system of scenic highways, only basic steps have so far been taken. A preliminary report, drawn up by experts from four state departments, makes 19 recommendations for setting up the system and lists the 5,000 miles which should be incorporated in it. The legislature received this report at its most recent session here, and, at the planners' request, gave them an additional year for a final report. Sacramento observers foresee little trouble for the project next year.

If the final report is adopted, it will introduce several innovations. Most revolutionary is the proposal for "scenic easements"—in which, literally, the state would buy the view. Under this proposal, property owners would agree, in return for a yearly sum, not to change the character of their property without the state's consent. A farmer, for example, might get a yearly stipend not to sell out to a housing development.

Needed Reforms

In addition, the report calls for better billboard controls, for a statewide chain of roadside parks and scenic overlooks and for new methods of condemning land for conservation purposes.

As you drive around California, you see the need for this kind of protection. The state's exploding population is rapidly intruding on the very landscape that attracted many residents here in the first place. Along the redwood highway, billboards and motels sprout among the trees. Housing tracts inch out into the most scenic parts of the desert. Even the remote Sierras are not free from creeping civilization.

That is the way it seems, too, to Governor Edmund G. Brown, a third-generation Californian who as a small boy covered many of today's scenic highways 45 years ago in a 1914 Cadillac. "We must preserve the beauty of California. It is the inspiration and the joy of the state that will soon be the biggest in the Union," says the governor.

It all adds up to a new age of beauty in California. The day when you can drive with pleasure across the entire country may not be far off. The rest of the U.S. is watching California to see if that state will lead the way. ■

HOW YOU CAN ENTER THE CONTEST

As you drive this summer, look for candidates for PARADE's scenic highway award. To be eligible, a highway must meet these standards:

1. It must be a new or rebuilt highway at least five miles long, opened to traffic after September 1, 1961, but before September 1, 1962.
2. It must be a highway for general use, not a highway for sightseers only like the Skyline Drive.
3. It must "drive well," with gentle curves, easy grades and wide lanes, although it need not be a superhighway.
4. It must be well-planned—with good use of land, minimum destruction of property and neighborhood.
5. It must look good, and be designed to take advantage of natural terrain and scenic beauty.

For the award-winning road, a bronze plaque will be given to the state highway commissioner. A citation will be presented to the engineer responsible for the highway's design. Parchment certificates will go to other highways considered worthy of special mention. To the person or group who submits the winning entry will go a $500 savings bond and a scroll. In case of duplicate nominations, the Board of Judges will decide the winner.

Judges will be representatives of the American Planning and Civic Association, the American Automobile Association, the Better Highways Information Foundation, the American Society of Landscape Architects, and Engineering News-Record, the bible of the construction industry.

So pick your favorite highway now. List name or route number, location, approximate length. Tell why you consider it worthy of the award. Send photographs if possible. Clubs and civic groups as well as individuals may enter. Send entries by August 31, 1961, to Parade Scenic Highway Contest, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N.Y.

DOES GOING to church really offer something you can find nowhere else? It must! Millions of intelligent people seldom miss a Sunday. How come, then, millions of others never go?

CHURCH? WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

For centuries people have found the church a source of tremendous strength. Here, as nowhere else, they've found a closeness to God that has carried them through extreme trials and peril. They've found real purpose to life and courage to meet their problems. Yet many live a lifetime without this very real help . . . simply because they don't know how to start finding it.

It's worth finding! Convince yourself. Take the first step NOW by sending for this free 40 page booklet: "CHURCH? WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?"

THE RICHEST ORANGE FLAVOR IS SKIN DEEP . . . AND THAT'S WHERE TANG GETS ITS NEW NATURAL FLAVOR

Amazing but true: The richest orange flavor is not in the juice, not in the pulp, but locked in the rind of tree-ripened oranges. And that's where TANG gets its new natural flavor.

So, no matter how much you might have liked TANG before, you'll like new Natural Orange Flavor TANG even more.

Not a juice—not a soft-drink, TANG is the instant breakfast drink that gives you more vitamin C than fresh or frozen orange juice... plus important vitamin A, too.

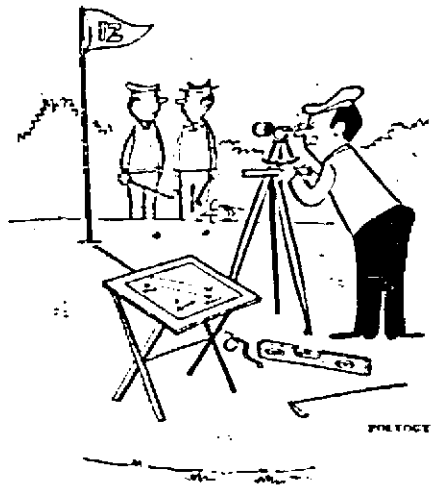

For breakfast tomorrow, mix a decanterful of New Natural Orange Flavor TANG tonight. Serve ice cold in the morning.

GET THE ORIGINAL INSTANT BREAKFAST DRINK! TANG is not a juice or a soft-drink mix but a nutritious food drink from General Foods.

ANECDOTE of the WEEK

An apocryphal story currently making the rounds in Paris concerns the celebrated painter, Pablo Picasso, who caught a burglar in his studio. After a small scuffle, the burglar escaped. Picasso volunteered to the police that he could do a rough sketch of what the man looked like.

With Picasso's drawing as a guide, the Paris police arrested the Eiffel Tower and the tomb of Napoleon. ■
